TO

THE HONOURABLE THE CHAIRMAN,

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN,

AND

COURT OF DIRECTORS

For Affairs of the East-India Company,

THIS attempt to facilitate the knowledge of the laws, customs and religious opinions, of a large portion of the inhabitants of that Empire which is placed under their controul, is most respectfully dedicated,

By their most obedient humble Servant,

THE TRANSLATOR.

PREFACE.

It may naturally be expected, that the translator of the following work should assign the motives which induced him to undertake a task so little connected with his professional pursuits, and to offer the fruit of his labours to the public. To such inquiries he has only to reply, that having devoted to the study of the Arabic language a considerable share of the leisure which he could spare from the duties of his profession, this work was begun and completed, as an amusement and an exercise, with a view to further improvement in that nervous and copious tongue; without the smallest intention of submitting it to public view. But the opinion which some friends, who had perused the work, expressed, concerning the curiosity and utility of the matters it contains, gradually overcame his reluctance to appear before the tribunal of the learned; and determined him to make application to Government and the public, for a subscription, to defray the expense of the publication.

The knowledge of the opinions entertained by various nations, regarding the Deity, his nature and attributes, the manner in which he has revealed his will to mankind, the modes of worship acceptable to him, and the duty incumbent on man, towards God, his fellow creatures and himself, forms a most interesting part of the history of the human mind. But, as far as regards the followers of Muh'ammed, who form a considerable portion of the people whom the course of events has rendered subject to the British Government in India, these are not objects of pure curiosity and speculation. For the wisdom of our legislature having decreed, that the administration of civil justice to those people shall be, in a great measure, regulated by their own laws, and made those laws the standard of criminal jurisprudence for all the native inhabitants of our Indian empire, it is of essential importance that those laws be well and thoroughly understood. Now, although a knowledge of their practical application may be obtained from treatises which have been composed expressly with that view; yet he who desires thoroughly to comprehend their spirit, must trace them to the fountain head. And the two sources, from which the whole body of Muh'ammedan law is derived, are, on one hand, the Korà n; and, on the other, the sayings and actions of MUH'AMMED, handed down at first by oral tradition, but afterwards collected in writing, by several learned and industrious compilers. Regarding the first of these, the translations by the learned MARACCI, and our countryman SALE, leave nothing to be desired. But hitherto, as far as the translator has been able to learn, no complete body of Muh'ammedan traditions has appeared, in any European language; although numerous extracts from them are given by Dr. POCOCKE, MARACCI and SALE. The collections of this kind, extant in the Arabic language, are very numerous, the most considerable and authentic of which the reader will find enumerated in the original preface of the author of the *Mishcà t. The reason which determined the translator's selection of this work, in preference to others, was its containing the most important and authentic traditions, compiled from all the preceding collections, as related in the passage above referred to.

But the utility of this knowledge is not confined to those gentlemen to whose hands the administration of justice is entrusted. In the ordinary intercourse of life, he that is desirous of gaining the esteem, the regard, or the affection of those with whom he converses, or indeed who regards his own safety, will be careful, not to offend against their religious prejudices, or their notions of right and wrong; with which prejudices and notions, he can become acquainted, only by consulting their own records.

Above all, it behoves those ministers of our holy religion, whose zeal may lead them to labour in the propagation of its sacred truths, and in refuting the errors of unbelievers, or schismatics, of whatever description, to be well acquainted with the tenets of those sects, whose dogmas they undertake to impugn. And with regard to the Muh'ammedans in particular, the learned RELAND† has shewn, that Christian writers, of no small eminence in point of learning and reputation, have egregiously misrepresented the doctrines of their faith; and bestowed much useless labour, in confuting opinions, which the followers of the Arabian prophet never maintained; thus exposing themselves to the charge of ignorance, and the contempt of their adversaries; and injuring the cause which they had undertaken to defend, by making it appear to stand in need of false allegations for its support.

With regard to the present translation, the author, whose life has been spent in the exercise of an active profession, lays no claim to the art of elegant composition. But farther, he conceives, that if within his reach, it would have been misplaced in a work of this nature, the principal merit of which is fidelity. That merit he trusts a comparison with the original will prove this translation to possess; but it must in a great degree have been sacrificed, by any attempt to render the Arabic expressions into an elegant English style. In one particular, it may be thought, that the translator has carried a scrupulous adherence to the words of the original too far; and on that head he deems it incumbent on himself to offer some apology and explanation. The language, in some parts, especially in the book which treats of religious purification, may be thought offensive to the delicacy of the public eye. To avoid this, only two expedients offered themselves to the translator's election; and both were liable to objections, which determined him, on mature consideration, to reject them. He must either have used terms of circuitous and somewhat ambiguous allusion, which would have rendered the translation an unfaithful picture of its original; or veiled whole clauses, and even sentences, in the mysterious garb of a learned language: which would have given a motley and grotesque appearance to the whole. He considered the work of his author as a book of science, deemed, by that author, and the people for whom he wrote, to convey instruction of the most important nature; and in such a book, the object being to convey truth in the most intelligible phrase, so that he that runs may read and understand, it cannot be indecent or improper to give to any work of the creator its direct and appropriate name. In this view of the matter, he was confirmed, by the example of the English translators of the Bible, and by the practice of our Courts of Law, which, in matters of weighty concern, where any ambiguity of expression might be of fatal consequence, will not allow a regard to delicacy to excuse a witness from hearing questions, and giving replies, in the most direct and unequivocal terms.

For the orthogaphy of proper names, and other Asiatick words, the translator is acquainted with only two systems, which can be deemed at all complete or consistent; those proposed by Sir William Jones and by Dr. Gilchrist; and of these he has preferred the former, as being better known in Europe, more pleasing to the eye, and not requiring types made on purpose, which are indispensable in Dr. GILCHRIST's last improved notation. Though a full delineation of Sir WILLIAM JONES's method is to be found in the Asiatick Researches, the translator thinks a short scheme of it will not be unacceptable to such of his readers, as may not have access to that work, or leisure to study it.

MISHCÁT UL-MAŚÁBÌH.

THE AUTHOR's PREFACE.

In the name of God the Compassionate and the Merciful:

ALL praise to God! We praise him and ask him for assistance, and implore him for grace, and to defend us from the wickedness of our natures, and from the guilt of our actions. He whom God guideth no one can lead astray, and he whom God causeth to err can find no one to direct his steps. I bear witness that verily there is no God but God, which testimony will be the means of my redemption, and a security of my exaltation; and I bear witness that verily MUH'AMMED is the servant and messenger of God, he whom God sent when the impressions of the paths of faith were nearly effaced, and the lights of belief hidden, the pillars thereof weak, and its dwelling places unknown. He strengthened the tottering remains, and by teaching the unity of God, cured the diseased, and those who were on the brink of destruction. He made clear the road of direction for those who desired to travel therein, and pointed out the treasures of virtue to those who desired to possess them. But after praise to God and grace to his Apostle; verily the walking in the paths of the Prophet cannot be accomplished without following the precepts that proceed from his enlightened mind: neither can the religion of God and the Koran be accepted without the Prophet's explanation thereof. The book entitled Mas'ábíh' was compiled by (the reviver of the laws of Muh'ammed, the subverter of innovation)* Im'am Abu' Muh'ammed-al-H'usain ibn Masu'ud-al-Fera'i' of Baghdád,† and it contained all the traditions which had been dispersed. Where the compiler, for the sake of brevity, omitted the asánid (authorities) he incurred the censure of the learned; yet his narrative is of authority equal to theirs, and is not without traces of reference to them.

Then I called on God for capacity, and arranged every tradition in its

* Imam, a guide ecclesiastic, a priest, prelate, who says the prayers which are repeated by the congregation.

† The following account of the Mas'ábíh' and its commentary the Mishcát, is taken from the Cashf-ul-dhunún.

"The work entitled Mas'ábíh'-ul-sunnat, (or the lamp of religious observances) was compiled by Ima'm H'usain, the son of Masû'ud Fera' of Baghdád, who died in the year 516 of the Hijra. It is said that the author did not avowedly entitle his book Mas'ábíh'; but in the preface, after the praises of God and the prophet, he says, "now the traditions in this book are lamps (Mas'ábíh');" and for this reason the book is commonly known by this name. The number of traditions contained in it is 4484, of which 2434 are Sah'íh' (authentick) and 2050 are Hasan (delivered on respectable authority.) As all these are handed down from the primitive fathers of the faith, he omitted to assign the particular authorities. By Sah'íh' is meant those which are extracted from the two Shaikhs (viz. Abu' Abdullah Muhammed of Bokhára and Abu'l-Husain Muslim) and by Hasan those extracted from Abu' Da'ud, from Tirmid'hí and other compilers of traditions. He has also indicated the traditions denominated Zâ'if (of slender authority) and Gharíb (resting on the evidence of a single narrator) but has declined the mention of those termed Munkir (related by an author of slender credit, in opposition to one whose testimony, though of no great weight, is better than his own) and Mauzûù (of which the narrator is suspected of falsehood.)

"There are many commentaries on the Mas'ábíh'; thus Talsír, by Shahab-ul-di'n Fad'l-ullah, the son of H'usain Tori'fi' Hanafi'; Tanwír, by Shems-ul-di'n Muh'ammed, son of Mudhaffer Khalkha'li'. Afterwards Shaikh Walí-ul-di'n, Abu' Abdullah Mahmu'd, son of Shaikh Abhari' Muhammed son of Abdi Ahadi Khati'b, illustrated the Mas'ábíh'. He finished this task on the last Friday of Ramda'n in the year 737. He also particularly enumerated its chapters, and quoted the authorities of those who related the traditions, and the books from which they were taken. He also added to the Sáh'íh' and Hasan of each chapter, a third section. This he has not omitted except in a few rare instances. This book he entitled Mishcát ul Mas'ábíh', (the niche for holding the lamps). His brother Husain wrote, with his concurrence, a commentary on the Mishcát, entitled Tíbí. Afterwards, in the time of the Emperor Akber, Shaikh Abd-ul-Hak of Dihlí, undertook, at the same time, a translation of the Mishcát into Persian, and a commentary on the same in Arabic."

In imitation of the compiler of the Mas'ábíh' I have arranged this work in books and chapters, and have divided generally each chapter into three parts. The first part of each chapter is either from BUKHA'RI or MUSLIM, or both; and I have contented myself with their traditions (although there were others associated with them) because they were men of the greatest note and ability. The second part of each chapter contains the traditions of others, and the third tends to explain the sense of the chapter, stating whether the traditions in it have been extracted from antient or modern writers. If, therefore, in any chapter of this book, you should find any tradition omitted which is to be met with in the Mas'ábíh', I have left it out in order to avoid repetition; and if you find some abbreviations, or in other places additions, it has not been done without sufficient reason. And if you should observe a contradiction in the two parts of any chapter; for instance, if any tradition occur in the second part, which, not being mentioned by BUKHA'RI and MUSLIM, was omitted in the first, be

You will discover a very few passages in which I say "I have not found such tradition in the original books," or "I find it differently stated;" and when you are acquainted with this circumstance, impute the defect to me, from my imperfect knowledge, not to the compiler of the Mas'ábìh' (God exalt him in this world and the next). He is free from any deficiency (God have compassion on him who shall obtain information thereof, and inform me, and point out to me the right road, as I have committed no neglect in inquiry and investigation to the utmost of my ability and power.) I have extracted this matter just as I found it, and whichever tradition the compiler has hinted at as Zâïf or Gharíb, I have in general remarked it; and whatever he has not pointed out as being in the original books I have followed him in omitting it, unless in a few places for certain motives. You will see few instances where the names of the traditionists are omitted; for wherever I had not information of the traditionists I have left it blank: therefore if you obtain information thereof, insert his name. My God is sufficient for me and is the best dependence, and there is no separation from sins, and no power for adoration, unless from the all powerful and wise God.

It is related of Omer ibn al Khatta'b* (God be pleased with him) that he said, the Prophet of God† (the blessing of God and peace be upon him and upon his family) said, the acceptation of actions depends upon the design with which they are performed, and man shall only be rewarded according to his intention. Then that person who shall quit his habitation for the purpose of pleasing God and his Prophet, will meet with its reward; but if for worldly considerations, will meet with worldly rewards: and that person who shall leave his house with the intention of marriage will meet with that towards which he directed himself.‡

† This benediction recurring invariably with the name of Muh'ammed, will be omitted in future, to avoid repetition.

‡ The commentators say that the Prophet in this passage, after mentioning worldly considerations in general, particularly specifies marriage, which is included among them, for this reason, that the passion which leads towards it is the most powerful of all, and more than any other diverts the mind from the exercise of religion. The occasion of this tradition is said to have been Muh'ammed's being informed of a person who had left his home and come to Medínah in quest of a female singer named Om-Kais. In allusion to Muh'ammed's remark, that person was afterwards called the Muhajir (or voluntary exile) of Om-Kais. Abd-ul-hak.

Tradition by ÔMER-IBN-IL KHATT'AB.

ÔMER-IBN IL-KHATT'AB said, one day myself and several of the companions were near the Prophet; when, on a sudden, a man appeared to us, whose clothes were extremely white, and the hair of whose head was very black, on whom we could discover no marks of travelling, nor was he recognized by any one of us; at length he sat himself down near the Prophet, and advanced his knees close to the knees of the Prophet, and placed the palms of both his hands upon MUH'AMMED's: and

* I'man, or faith, the first of the two great branches into which Religion is divided, consists in the belief of whatever was delivered by the prophet (MUH'AMMED) as a revelation from GOD. Its articles, according to the Muslemân doctors, are six; viz. Belief: 1st, in GOD; 2dly, in his angels; 3dly, in his books; 4thly, in his apostles; 5thly, in the last day; 6thly, in the decrees of GOD regarding all things good and evil; that is, that no event of either description can occur without having been predetermined by him. MUH'AMMED said, "verily it was GABRIEL, he came for the purpose of instructing you in your faith." This tradition is related by MUSLIM, as having descended from OMER. BOKHA'RI and MUSLIM both agree in this tradition.

the prayers with strict propriety, to be charitable and perform pilgrimage, and to observe the fast of the month Ramd'àn." BOKHA'RÍ and MUSLIM also accord in this.

ABU'HURAÍRA says, that the Prophet of GOD said, "the branches of Ímàn are more than seventy, and the most excellent of them is to repeat there is no GOD but GOD, and the least of them is to remove any thing that may be inconvenient to man; a regard for character is the medium branch." Both are agreed in this. There is a tradition by ABDULLAH-IBN ÔMER which says, that the Prophet of GOD said, "a perfect Muslemàn is he from the tongue and hands of whom mankind are safe, and a Muhájir is he who flies what GOD has forbidden." This is agreeable to BOKHA'RÍ. And MUSLIM says that a man asked the Prophet of GOD which was the best kind of Muslemàn, he said, "he from the tongue and hands of whom mankind are safe." There is a tradition by ANAS BIN MA'LIC* that the Prophet of GOD said, "not one of you can be a Muslemàn until I am more beloved by you than your fathers or sons or all mankind." The Prophet of GOD said, "there are three qualifications, which, whoever shall possess, he will taste the sweetness of Ímàn. He who shall love GOD and his Prophet above all, and shall love a creature solely for the sake of GOD: and he who shall abhor a relapse into infidelity after having been redeemed therefrom by GOD, as he would the being cast into fire." ABB'AS-BIN ABDUL MU'TALLEB says,† that the Prophet of GOD said, "that person has tasted the sweets of Ímàn, who is pleased with GOD as his cherisher, with Islàm as his religion, and with MUHAMMED as the Prophet of GOD." The prophet said, "this then is your defect in religion."

Mankind have belied & blasphemed GOD.

A'B'U HURAIRA. The Prophet of GOD said, that the Almighty said; "the sons of ADAM have belied me, which is not right for them to do; and they have blasphemed me, which is a crime. Their belying me consists in this, that they deny the resurrection, which is easier to me than creation in the first instance; and their blasphemy is this, that they said GOD has got a son: whereas I am single in nature and in attributes; and I am in need of nothing, but every thing is in need of me. I was not born, neither will any one be born of me, nor is there any one like unto me." A'B'U HURAIRA said that the Prophet of GOD related these words of GOD, "The sons of ADAM vex me, and abuse time; whereas I am time itself; in my hands are all events, I have made the day and night." A'B'U MUS'A AL ASHARI related that the Prophet of GOD said, "There is no one more patient than GOD at the sins which he hears: they say he has got a son; yet after this GOD keeps them in safety and bestows on them daily bread."

Mu'ad'h-ibn-Jabal* said, "I was riding with the Prophet on an ass, and there was nothing between us except the back of the saddle; and the Prophet said O! Mu'ad'h, do you know what debt God has charged against his servants, and what he owes them?" I replied, "God and his Prophet know best." Muh'ammed then said, "verily the debt of God on his servants is, that they worship him and do not associate any thing with him; and what God owes them is, that he will not punish those who do not associate any thing with him." And I said, "O! Prophet of God, may I give these joyful tidings to mankind? He said no; for then they will rest on this alone. Anas has related that the Prophet and Mu'ad'h were riding together, when the Prophet said, "O! Mu'ad'h!" He said, "I am ready to serve you and obey you. This Muh'ammed exclaimed three times, and Mu'ad'h answered each time in the same manner. His highness then said, "there is not one who shall bear witness, from the sincerity of his heart, that there is no God but one God, and that Muh'ammed is his messenger, who will not be preserved from the fire. Mu'ad'h said, "shall I not acquaint mankind of this which will make them happy?" The Prophet said, "at this time they will depend upon it alone." But Mu'ad'h revealed it just before his death, to avoid sinning. Ab'ud'har Ghaffa'ri said, "I came to the Prophet when he was asleep with a white cloth over him, and returned to him when he awoke; and he said "there is no creature who shall say there is no God but God, and shall die on it, but will enter into paradise:" I said, "although he may have committed adultery and theft?" The Prophet replied, "although he may have committed both." I repeated my question three times, and received similar answers, and he added, "contrary to the supposition of AB'UD'HAR." And whenever AB'UD'HAR related this tradition, he would say (from the greatness of his own mind) "contrary to the supposition of AB'UD'HAR." UBA'DAH-BIN 'SAM'IT related that the Prophet of GOD said, "whoever shall bear witness that there is one GOD, and that MUH'AMMED is his servant and messenger, and that JESUS CHRIST is his servant and messenger, and that he is the son of the handmaid of GOD, and that he is the word of GOD, that word which was sent to MARY; and spirit from GOD; and [shall bear witness] that there is truth in heaven and hell, will enter into paradise, whatever sins he may be chargeable with." ÂMER-IBN-IL-ÂA'S* said, I came to the Prophet, and said to him, "hold out your arm that I may confess to you;" and he held out his right hand. I drew back my own. The Prophet said, "why is this O! ÂMER?" I said, "to make an agreement with you." MUH'AMMED said, "what agreement?" I replied, "that you ask for me remission of my sins." He said "do you not know, O! ÂMER, that Islàm does away every thing which happened previous to it, and that Islàm and Hajrat and Haj overthrow the habitations of former faults."

Part Second.

On the merit of faith, prayers, alms, fasting and pilgrimage.

MÂ'AD'H. I said to the Prophet, "Tell me an act by which I may reach paradise, and keep far from hell." He said, "truly thou hast asked me concerning a very great matter; but it is easy to him to whom GOD has made it so; worship then, GOD, and do not associate any thing with him; say your prayers and be charitable, fast the month Ram'dán, and go on pilgrimage to the Câaba." After that he said, "do I not point out to you the doors of virtue? To fast is a shield, alms do away sins, as water extinguishes fire, and to say prayers, at midnight, is one of the doors of virtue." Then the Prophet read this commandment, "The Creator of the universe praises the wakeful at night, who keep their sides from the bed of rest." Then he said, "do I not shew you the root of every thing and the pillars of religion and its exalted cushion?" I said, "yes O! Prophet of GOD." He said, "the root of religion is Islàm, and its pillars are prayers, and its exalted cushion, is to fight with infidels." Again he said, "shall I not inform you of those things which are regulated and restrained by it?" I said, "yes O! Prophet of GOD." Then he took hold of his tongue and said, "restrain this;" and I said, "O! Prophet of GOD, shall I be entangled by what I may have uttered?" He said, "O! MU'AD'H, (your mother weep over you!) * men are not thrown into the fire upon their faces and noses, unless from their tongue."

I said "yes:" he said "wherefore have you come?" I said, "you were amongst us when you stood up and walked away, and delayed returning; at which I was alarmed lest any accident should happen to you without us, and I lamented it, and was the first person who did so: then I came to this garden and contracted myself, like a fox when entering his hole, and the rest are following me." The Prophet said, "O! ABU'HURAIRAH!" and giving me his shoes, said "take them away, and whoever shall present himself to you behind this garden, and shall be a witness to GOD and his Prophet, from his heart, give him glad tidings of paradise." The first person I met was ÔMER, who said, "what shoes are these, O! ABU'HURAIRAH?" I said "they belong to the Prophet of GOD, and were sent by me for the purpose that whoever I met who should give evidence with a sincerity of heart, I should give him joy of paradise." Then ÔMER struck me on the breast, and I fell on my back: he then said return, and I returned to the Prophet, and took protection with him in tears; and ÔMER arrived, following me. I said, "I met ÔMER, and told him your errand; when he struck me on the breast, and I fell on my back to the ground, and he told me to return." ABU'HURAIRAH with your shoes; that he should give assurance of paradise to any one he met who might from his heart give evidence to the unity of GOD? The Prophet said yes: Â'OMER said do not so, for I am fearful that mankind will depend on this alone, and abandon the other duties; therefore leave them alone to act as at present. The Prophet told ABU'-HURAIRAH not to mention it to any one.

Its propagation delayed, lest it should cause a neglect of practical duties.

MUA'DH-IBN-JABAL. The Prophet of GOD said to me, the keys of paradise are the bearing witness that there is no other GOD but GOD.

Â'OTHMA'N said, that when the Prophet died, his companions grieved much, to such a degree that some of them were disposed to doubt its possibility, and I was also of that number, at that time. Â'OMER passed by me and saluted me, but I was ignorant of both. Then Â'OMER went and complained to AB'UBACR, when they came and hailed me, and AB'U-BACR said, "what was the reason of your not returning the compliment which your brother Â'OMER paid?" I replied, "I am ignorant of the charge." Then Â'OMER said, "by GOD I went towards you, and paid you the compliment of a salam, and you did not return it; Â'OTHMA'N said, "I swear by GOD that I know nothing of your being near me." AB'UBACR said, "Â'OTHMA'N has spoken true, the calamity of the Prophet's death must have prevented you;" to which I answered, "yes." AB'UBACR said, "how did that so operate upon you?" I replied, "the death of the Prophet happened before I had asked how I was to be freed from the love of the world and deceit of the devil." He said, "I asked him about that affair." Then I stood near him, and said to him, "(may my father and mother be sacrificed for you) you are the most worthy of it."* AB'UBACR said, "I asked the Prophet what was the redemption from it. The Prophet said, "whoever receives from me this maxim, 'There is no GOD but GOD,' he will be freed."

MUH'AMMED predicts the universal prevalence of his religion.

MEKDA'D* said, "I heard the Prophet of GOD say, 'There will not be a city, town, village or inhabitant of the wilds, but will enter into Islàm. Some will be conquered, others ruined: the conquered will be brought over to the Imàn, and the rest made to pay a poll tax'." I then said, that the religion of all will be for GOD. WAHAB-BIN-MUNABBIH.† People asked him if to say, "there is no GOD but GOD," was not the key of paradise? He said, "yes, but it is a key which has wards, and if ye come with a key of that description, paradise will be opened to you, otherwise it will not."‡

Faith without works like a key without wards.

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet of GOD said, "when any one of you shall have believed truly and sincerely, whatever good that person may do, will be rewarded from ten to seven hundred fold, and every evil will be retaliated one for one until he dies."

The reward of good works enhanced by faith.

The marks of true faith.

AB'U-UMA'MAH said, "a man asked the Prophet what was the mark whereby a man might know the reality of his faith." He said, "if thou derive pleasure from the good which thou hast performed; and be grieved for the evil which thou hast committed, thou art a true believer." The man said, "what does a fault really consist in?" He said, "when any thing pricks your conscience, forsake it."

I then asked him, "what is Islàm?" He said, "purity of speech and charity:" "and what is Imàn?" He said, "abstinence and obedience;" I then asked the Prophet which was the most excellent: he said, "he from the tongue and hands of whom Muslemàns remain safe." Which is the most excellent Hijrat: He said, "abandoning that which God disapproves of," and which Jehàd * is the most excellent?" He said, "that in which the legs of thy horse shall be cut off, and thy own blood spilt" (i. e. so to fight in the field of battle, on account of religion, that both man and horse fall therein). I said, "and which is the best time for standing up in prayer?" The Prophet said, "in the middle of the latter part of the night."

The most excellent religious duties defined.

Mua'dh-Ibn-Jabal. I heard the Prophet of God say, "he who dies without associating any thing with God, and shall have constantly said the five prayers and fasted the month Ramd'àn, will be pardoned." I said, "O Prophet! shall I not rejoice mankind with this circumstance?" He said, "let them alone until they practise it." Mua'dh-Ibn-Jabal asked the Prophet of the most excellent Imàn. He said, "to love him who loves God, and hate him who hateth God, and to keep your tongue employed in repeating the name of God." What else, O Prophet? He said, "to do unto all men as you would wish to have done unto you, and to reject for others what you would reject for yourself."

The golden rule of reciprocal benevolence inculcated.

The greatest crimes, polytheism, infanticide, & adultery.

ABDULLAH-IBN-MASU'UD.* A man said to the Prophet, "O! Messenger of GOD, which is the greatest of all crimes before GOD?" He said, "that you call any other like unto GOD who created you:" the man said, "and next to it?" He said, "that you murder your child from an idea that it will eat your victuals:" "and what after this?" He said, "that you commit adultery with your neighbour's wife."

Disrespect towards parents, murder, suicide, false swearing.

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. The Prophet of GOD said, "the greatest crime is to associate another with GOD, and to vex your father and mother, and to murder your own species, or commit suicide, to swear to a lie."

Magick, usury, robbing of orphans, running away from the holy war; falsely accusing women of adultery.

AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "abstain ye from seven ruinous destructive things:" The companions said, "O Prophet! what are they?" He said, "associating any thing with GOD, and magick, and killing any one without reason, and taking interest on money, and taking the property of the orphan, and running away on the day of battle for the faith; and taxing with adultery good women who may be ignorant of sin."

Theft, drinking wine, embezzling of plunder.

AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "he is not a Momin who commits adultery, or who steals, or who drinks liquor, or who plunders, or who embezzles, when charged with the plunder of the infidel. Beware, beware."

Signs of hypocrisy.

AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "the signs of hypocrisy are three: speaking falsely, promising and not performing, and when trusted being perfidious."

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. The Prophet said, "there are four qualities, which being possessed by any one, constitute a complete hypocrite; and whoever has one of the four, has one hypocritical quality till he discards it; perfidy when trusted, the breaking of agreements, speaking falsely, and prosecuting hostility by treachery."

IBN-OMER. The Prophet said, "hypocrisy is like unto a sheep between two flocks, which wants the ram, and at one time turns to one side, at another time to the other.

'SAFW'AN says, that the Jews kissed the hands and feet of the Prophet, and said, "we bear witness that you are a Prophet:" he said, "what prevented you from being my disciples?" Never drink wine; for it is the root of all evil; abstain from vice, for from it descends the anger of GOD; refrain from running away in battle, although ye be destroyed; and when a pestilence shall pervade mankind, and you shall be amongst them, remain with them; cherish your children, and beat them in order to teach them good behaviour; and instruct them in the fear of GOD."

CHAP. III.---PART I.

ON THE MACHINATIONS OF THE DEVIL.

ABU HURAIRAH. The Prophet of GOD said, "it is most certain that GOD has passed over the wicked desire of the hearts of my sect until they practise them, or utter that they will do so."

It is a proof of true faith when a man abhors and is ashamed of his wicked propensities.

AB'U HURAIRAH. Some of the Prophet's friends came to him and said, "verily we find in our minds such wicked propensities, as we think it even bad to mention," the Prophet said, "do you find them really bad?" They said, "yes!" He said, "this is purely Imàn." AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "does the devil come to any one of you; and say who created this, and who created that, even to say who created your creator? When it comes to this, then tell him to take protection with GOD (by saying, GOD defend us from the cast out devil) and tell him to keep on one side from the attempts of the devil." AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "men are constantly asking one another; even to say GOD has created the creation, but who has created GOD? Whoever is found in this state, tell him to say, I believe in GOD and his Prophets." IBN-MASU'UD. The Prophet said,

"there is not one amongst you, but has an angel and a devil appointed over him." The companions said, "do you include yourself in this?" He said, "yes for me also, but GOD has given me victory over the devil, and he does not order me except in what is good." ANAS. The Prophet said, "verily the devil enters into man as the blood into his body." AB'U HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "there is not of the sons of ADAM, except MARY and her son, one born but is touched by the devil at the time of his birth, and the child makes a loud noise from the touch."

Every man is attended through life by a good and an evil angel. The crying of children at their birth caused by the touch of the devil.

ABUHURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "the noise which a child makes at its birth is from the devil's touch."

JA'BIR. 'The Prophet said, "verily the devil rests his throne upon the waters, and sends his armies to excite contention and strife amongst mankind; and those, in his armies, who are nearest to him in power and rank, are those who do the most mischief. One of them returns to the devil and says I have done so and so, and he says you have done nothing; after that another comes, and says I did not quit him till I made a division between him and his wife; then the devil appoints him a place near himself, and says you are a good assistant." JABIR. The Prophet said, "verily the devil is hopeful in his endeavours to secure the worship of those of the land of Arabia, who say their prayers; but he is employed in working them on to quarrel."

The devil promotes his officers in proportion to the mischief which they do.

Then the Prophet read this revelation of the Koràn "The devil threatens you with poverty if ye bestow in charity; and orders ye to pursue avarice; but GOD promises you grace and abundance from charity."

ADAM said, "thou art that MOSES whom GOD elected for his prophecy, and to converse with, and he gave to thee twelve tables, in which are explained every thing, and GOD made thee his confident, and the bearer of his secrets: then how long was the Bible written before I was created?" He said "yes." ADAM said, "dost thou reproach me on a matter which GOD wrote in the Bible forty years before creating me?"

The progress of the embryo in the womb, when it is vivified, & when its fate determined.

IBN-MASU'UD said. 'The Prophet of GOD related this tradition to me, "verily the root of creation of every one is semen, which is collected in his mother's womb forty days in embryo; after that it is like a clot of blood, and in forty days after it assumes the appearance of a piece of flesh; and then GOD sends an Angel to it to write four things in its fortune; when its actions, its life, and its portion are specified; and whether fortunate or unfortunate: after that he breathes a spirit into it. Therefore I swear by GOD that some of you will be appropriated to paradise, and some of you to hell." SAHAL-IBN SAD.* The Prophet of GOD said, "verily there is no reliance on actions but at the latter end."

AA'YESHAH.† 'The Prophet was called to say prayers over the bier of one of the children of the companions, and I said to him, "O! Prophet of GOD, be happy; for this child is a bird of the birds of paradise, for it hath committed no sin." Then the Prophet said, "peradventure it may be otherwise, because GOD hath created those who are fit for paradise when in their father's loins, and those for hell at the same time.

The place of all mankind in paradise or hell is predestined by GOD.

ALI. The Prophet said, "There is not one amongst you whose sitting place is not written by GOD whether in the fire or in paradise." The companions said "O! Prophet! since GOD hath appointed our places, may we confide in this and abandon our religious and moral duties?"

* SAHAL-IBN-SAD-IBN-MA'LIC; was originally named H'AZAN which signifies hard or rocky ground. The Prophet gave him that of SAHAL, (soft or good soil.) He was fifteen years of age at the time of MUH'AMMED's death. He died A. H. 91, and was the last of the Sahábah who died at Medínah.

He said "no, because the happy will do good works, and those who are of the miserable will do bad works." After which the Prophet read this revelation from the Koràn: "He who hath given to the needy, and abstained from sin, and known as a truth that GOD is but one and MUH'AMMED his servant and messenger, I will speedy appoint him to a matter by which he will easily enter into paradise."

Yet morality is not to be neglected on that account.

Crimes predordained by GOD.

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "Verily GOD hath written it in the destiny of those who will commit adultery; and they certainly and by necessity must do so: then the adultery of the eye is to look with an eye of desire on the wife of another: and the adultery of the tongue is to utter what is forbidden. The heart of man may desire, and sometimes the parts of man and woman fall into adultery and sometimes reject it." AB'UHURAIRAH. "I said to the Prophet of GOD, "truly I am a youth; and fear my desires may lead me to commit adultery, and I have not the means of marriage," (By which words it is supposed that AB'UHURAIRAH requested permission to become an eunuch.) "The Prophet remained silent. Then I spoke again in the like manner, but he was silent; and again a third time, when the Prophet of GOD said, O! AB'UHURAIRAH, the pen of thy actions is already dry,* then be an eunuch or not as thou likest."

Adultery of the eye. Of the tongue.

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. The Prophet of GOD said, "The hearts of men are at the disposal of GOD like unto one heart, and he turneth them about in any way that he pleaseth." After that the Prophet said, "O! Thou director of hearts, turn our hearts to obey thee." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "There is not one born but is created to Islàm, then it is their fathers and mothers who make them Jews and Christians and Gabrs;† in like manner as beasts produce their young with all their members perfect; do you see any thing deficient in them?"

AB'U MU'SA-AL-ASHAR'I said, "The Prophet of GOD warned us of five things; one of them, GOD sleepeth not, it is impossible that he should do so; he circumscribeth the portions of some and maketh abundant those of others; the actions of the night are carried up by the angels before the actions happen of the next day, and so likewise those committed in the day before the performance of those of the night. The splendor of GOD is his veil, and if it were lifted up it would burn every thing."

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet of GOD said, "the hand of GOD's gifts is full, and does not diminish from giving; it is the bestower of the day and of the night, and it hath been constantly supplying our wants, since the beginning of the creation of the heavens and earth without a deficiency. In his hand is the scale of daily bread, he augmenteth to some and curtaileth from others according to his pleasure." AB'UHURAIRAH. "The Prophet of GOD was asked about the children of polytheists who might die in their infancy, whether they would go to heaven or hell. He said, "GOD knoweth best what their actions would have been had they lived; it depends on this."

The fate of those who die in infancy determined by GOD's knowledge of the acts they would have performed had they lived.

Part Second.

UBA'DAH-BIN-'SA'MIT said, The Prophet said, "The first thing which GOD created was a pen, and he said to it write: it said what shall I write? And GOD said, write down the quantity of every individual thing to be created, and it wrote all that was, and that will be, to eternity."

BOOK I.

The eternal happiness or misery of all ADAM's offspring determined from the beginning.

MUSLIM BIN YES'AR.* The Prophet said, "Verily GOD created ADAM, and touched his back with his right hand, and brought forth from it a family: and God said to ADAM I have created this family for paradise, and their actions will be like unto those of the people of paradise. Then GOD touched the back of ADAM, and brought forth another family, and said I have created this for hell, and their actions will be like unto those of the people of hell." Then a man said to the Prophet, "Of what use will deeds of any kind be?" He said, "when GOD createth his servant for paradise, his actions will be deserving of it until he die, when he will enter therein, and when GOD createth one for the fire, his actions will be like those of the people of hell till he die, when he will enter therein."

The elect & the reprobates written down & numbered.

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. The Prophet came out of his house with two books in his hands, and said, "do you know what books these are?" We said "no, but do thou tell us." Then he said of the book which was in his right hand, "this is from GOD; in it are the names of the people of paradise, of their fathers and tribes; and their numbers were cast up at the bottom of the book; and of them there cannot be more or less:" and he said of the book that was in his left hand, "this is from GOD, in it are the names of the people of hell, their fathers and tribes cast up at the bottom, and neither will there be more or less." Then his companions said "O Prophet! of what use are actions to works that are already finished?" He said, "do your duty towards GOD in the straight road, and seek to approach him, because the people of paradise end their lives with deeds becoming paradise, whatever their actions may have been during their lives: and the people for hell will seal their lives as inhabitants of hell, whatever their actions may have been during their lives." Then the Prophet threw the books from his hands and said, "GOD hath finally determined respecting his servants, a tribe in heaven and a tribe in hell."

AB'U KHIZA'MAH.* I said, "O Prophet of GOD! inform me respecting charms, and the medicines which I swallow, and shields which I make use of for protection, whether they prevent any of the orders of GOD?" MUH'AMMED said "these also are by the order of GOD."

It is impious to debate on the decrees of GOD.

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet of GOD came out of his house when we were debating about fate, and he was angry, and became red in the face; to such a degree that you would say the seeds of a pomegranate had been bruised on it. And he said, "hath GOD ordered you to debate of fate, or was I sent to you for this? Your forefathers were destroyed for debating about fate and destiny, I adjure you not to argue on those points."

AB'U-MU'SA-AL-ASHAR'I said, I heard the Prophet of GOD say, "verily GOD created ADAM from a handful of earth, taken from all parts, and the children of ADAM became different, like the earth; some of them red, some white and some black, some between red white and black, some gentle and some severe, some impure and some pure."

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, "I heard the Prophet of GOD say "verily GOD created his creation in darkness, and reflected upon it his own light; and those whom this light reached found the right road, and those whom it did not reach were lost. On this account I say that the pen became dry on the wisdom of GOD." ANAS said, the Prophet of GOD used to say frequently, "O thou director of hearts from one condition to another, fix my heart on thy own religion." Then I said "O Prophet, I put faith in thee and in thy religion; therefore dost thou fear from me the decay of religion and

AL'I* (with whom GOD be pleased) The Prophet of GOD said, "no creature believeth, till he believeth in four things; the first of them is this, that he bear witness there is no other GOD but GOD, and bear witness that MUH'AMMED the elect is the messenger of GOD truly sent, and that he believe in death as ordered by GOD, and life after death, and in fate as ordained by GOD."

The sects Murjiah & Kaderiah condemned.

IBN ÂBB'AS. The Prophet of GOD said, "there are two sects among my followers that will not benefit by Islàm, one of them Murjiah and the other Kaderiah."† IBN ÔMER said, I heard the Prophet of GOD say, "there will be in my sect some who will sink under the earth, and others that will change their likeness for the worse; and these things will happen to those who deny fate." IBN ÔMER. The Prophet said "a denier of fate is like a Gabr who when sick ask not about him, and if he dies, be not present at his funeral." ÔMER-IBN AL-KHATT'AB. The Prophet of GOD said, "sit not with a disputer about fate, nor begin a conversation with him." ÂA'YESHAH (with whom GOD be pleased) The Prophet said, "there are six persons whom I have cursed, and who are cursed by GOD; and whatever the Prophet doth will be approved of by GOD; one who shall add any thing to the book of GOD, the second who shall belie GOD's fate, the third who shall dishonour him whom GOD hath honoured, or shall dignify him whom GOD hath disgraced; the fourth who shall wish to make lawful

He said "they also are as their fathers;" I said "without bad actions?" He said "God knows best the things which they would have done." ‡ This tradition is related by ABÀ DA'ÜD. The practice here reproved was frequent among the women of that time. The mother is deservedly condemned to hell for her impious act. But the commentators are puzzled to account for the severe sentence here pronounced against the innocent sufferer. 1. Some say it is condemned as being the offspring of infidels, and its place in hell is predestined from the beginning. On this account the author of the Masâbih' has introduced the tradition into this chapter. 2. Those who maintain that the children of infidels may be saved, understand by the word Wâïdah not the mother but the nurse; and by Mawùdah (translated in the text the child so buried) the mother, by whose order the nurse buries it. 3. Another opinion is that this sentence being pronounced by the Almighty, at whose absolute disposal are all events, the reasons are only known to him, and mortals are not permitted to inquire into them. It is like the slaughter by the Prophet KHI'DR of a child, who had he lived would have been impious (See Korân) It must however be confessed that this tradition rests on doubtful authority. ALI said, "KHADIJAH asked the Prophet of GOD concerning two of her children, which were not by the Prophet, and who died in the days of ignorance, saying, what are their conditions, are they are in heaven or in hell?" He said "they are both in hell." ALI said that when MUHAMMED perceived symptoms of displeasure in the face of KHADIJAH he said to her "if you saw the place they are in, you would be displeased with both of them." She said "O! The Prophet of GOD said, that when the age of ADAM had elapsed, except forty years, the angel of death came to him. ADAM said, "do not forty years of my life still remain?" ON THE PUNISHMENTS OF THE GRAVE.

BAR'A-IBN-ÂA'ZIB.* The Prophet of God said, when a Muslemàn is interrogated in his grave, about his God, his Prophet and religion, he will give evidence to the unity of God, and the mission of his Prophet, and will say my religion is Islàm. ANAS. The Prophet of God said, "when a servant is put into the grave and mankind leave him; verily he heareth the noise they make in walking away; when two angels come to the dead man, and make him sit up in his grave; and say, what was your opinion about MUH'AMMED? Then that person who is a Muslemàn will say, I bore witness that he was the servant of God and his Prophet. AA'YESHAH said, a Jew came to me, and mentioned the punishments of the grave, and said "may GOD protect thee from the sufferings of the grave." Then I interrogated the Prophet about them, he said "yes, punishments in the grave are true:" and I always observed the Prophet, at the end of every prayer, implore GOD to defend him from the sufferings of the grave.

ABUHURAIRAH said, The Prophet of GOD said "When a dead body is placed in its grave, two black angels come to it, with blue eyes, the name of one MUNKIR, and the other NAK'IR, and they ask about the Prophet of GOD. If the dead person be a Muslemàn he will bear witness to the unity of GOD and the mission of MUH'AMMED; when the angels will say, "we knew thou wouldest say so;" after which the grave will be expanded seven thousand yards in length and seven thousand in breadth. After that a light will be given for the grave, and it will be said, sleep. Then the dead body will say, "shall I return to my brethren and inform them of this?" When the angels will say, "sleep like the bridegroom, till GOD shall raise thee up from this grave on the day of the resurrection." But if the corpse be that of a hypocrite; it will be asked, "what sayest thou about MUH'AMMED?" It will answer, "I know him not." And the angels will reply, "we knew thou wouldest say so:" Then the ground will be ordered to close upon it, and it will break its sides, and turn its right side to its left, and its left to its right; and it will suffer perpetual punishment in the grave till GOD raise it therefrom.

It will say "I read the book of GOD, and put faith in it." Then a voice will come from heaven saying, "My servant hath spoken true." And a bed shall be prepared and clothes provided for it from paradise; and a door shall be opened for it towards paradise, when a fragrant gale will breathe upon it from above, and a place will be opened for it in the grave to see out of. But the soul of an infidel will be replaced in its body in the grave. Two angels will come to it and say "who is thy cherisher?" it will say "alas! alas! I know not." And it will be asked its religion; it will answer "alas! alas! I know not." Then the angels will ask about MUHAMMED. It will reply "alas! I know him not." A voice will then come from heaven saying "this servant hath lied; then give it a bed from hell and clothes also, and open for it a door towards hell." Then a hot wind will come to it, and its grave will be contracted so as to break the bones of each side, after which an angel will come to it, deaf and dumb, with a mace of iron, with which if a mountain were struck it would turn it to dust. Then the angel will strike the body with the mace, the noise of which will be heard by every thing between the east and west excepting the genii and man; and it will turn to dust: after which a soul will be returned to it, and it will be tormented to the day of resurrection.

I came out with the Prophet of GOD towards the bier of SAD-BIN-MU'A'DH and he read prayers over it, and put it into the grave, and dust was thrown over it, and the Prophet repeated Subhàn Allàh:† we also did the same. Then he said Allàh Acber‡ and we did the same: and the Prophet was asked why he said Subhàn Allàh and Allàh Acber. He said "verily the grave of this servant was tight upon him, but it is now expanded from what we have repeated." ASM'A-BINT-AB'IBACR. says, "allow me to say my prayers." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, verily a dead body sits up in its grave without fear or noise, after which it is asked its religion in the world; it will reply "I was in Islàm;" "and what dost thou say concerning MUHA'MMED?" It will say "he is the messenger of GOD, who brought wonders to us from GOD, and I considered him a teller of truth." And didst thou see GOD?" It will say "it is not possible for any one to see GOD." Then an opening will be made for it towards hell, to see some tearing others to pieces in flames; then it will be told, "look towards that from which GOD hath guarded thee;" after which an opening will be made for it towards paradise, and it will see its beauties and pleasures; and it will be told, "this is the place of thy abode, because thou livedst in the truth, and diedst in it: and GOD will raise thee up in it." And a bad man will sit in his grave in lamentation and wailing. Then he will be asked what he did; he will say "I know not:" "but what dost thou say concerning MUHA'MMED?" He will say "I heard something about him:" for him will be opened a crevice towards paradise, and he will look at its beauties, and will be told, "look at those things which GOD hath withheld from thee:" then a hole will be opened for him towards hell, and he will see its wailing and gnashing of teeth: and will be told "this is thy abode, because thou livedst in doubt, diedst in doubt, and wilt be raised up in doubt, GOD willing."

The faithful in their graves have a prospect of hell from which they have been delivered, & of paradise which they are to enjoy forever.

The infidels are shewn paradise from which they are excluded and hell which is to be their everlasting abode.

CHAP. VI.---PART I.

ON HOLDING FAST THE KOR'AN AND THE LAWS OF MUH'AMMED.

A'AYESHAH. The Prophet said "whosoever fabricateth any thing new in my religion, that person and that thing will be rejected. JA'BIR. The Prophet of GOD said, "verily the best word is the word of GOD, and the best rule of conduct is that delivered by MUH'AMMED; and the worst of all acts are those which are innovations; every thing newly introduced being so, and every innovation is abandoning the right road." IBN ABB'AS. The Prophet said, "the greatest enemies of GOD are three persons; the first is he who shall abandon the respect for the Cábah, the second that person who is entered into Islàm and does acts of infidelity, the third who shall, without cause, shed the blood of man."

Disobedience is equivalent to infidelity.

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "the whole of my sect will enter into paradise excepting he who shall deny me." He was asked "who would deny him?" He said "he who obeys me will go to heaven, and he who has disobeyed me has denied me."

JA'BIR said, that a party of angels came towards the Prophet, when he was sleeping, and they said to each other, "verily there is a parable for your friend, then let us explain it." Some of them observed, "he certainly is asleep:" others said "his eyes are sleeping but his heart is wakeful;" and they said "the parable is that of a man who hath built a house and dressed victuals therein, and sent invitations; therefore those who accept them have entered the house and eaten thereof, and those who have not accepted the invitations have not entered the house and have not eaten of the food." Then the angels said, "explain clearly, that he may understand:" some said "he verily is asleep;" and others said "his eyes are asleep, but his heart waketh." Then the angels said "the house is paradise, and the invitor MUH'AMMED, and the builder GOD: therefore, those who obey MUH'AMMED, verily obey GOD; and those who disobey MUH'AMMED verily disobey GOD; and MUH'AMMED is the seperator between the true and the false."

Parable of a man who has sent invitations to a feast.

ANAS said, three persons came to the wives of the Prophet and asked about his acts of worship: and when the wives explained his adorations they thought them trifling: and the three persons said, "what relation is there between our worshipping and his? For certainly GOD has forgiven him his former sins; as well as all that he may fall into in future." Then one of them said, "I will ever pray during the night;" another said "I will always fast during the day;" the third said "I will never have any thing to do with woman." Then the Prophet of GOD came to them and said, "are you the Prophet that say so? I swear by GOD that I fear him more than you do, and am more abstinent than you, but I fast and eat also; say my prayers and sleep, and marry likewise; then those who turn from my ways are not of me."

Âa'yeshah said, "the Prophet did an act and permitted others to do the same. But one tribe refused, which reached the ears of the Prophet, who said "what is the matter with them that they should refuse to do what I do? I swear by God I know better than they, and fear God more."

Ra'fî-Ibn-Khad'ij* said, "the Prophet came to Medínah when the people were inserting the male bud of the date tree into the female, in order to produce a greater abundance of fruit, and he said to them, "Why do you do this?" They said "it is an ancient custom." The Prophet replied "perhaps it would be better were you not to do so;" and they left it off, and the tree produced but little fruit. The people then complained to Muh'ammed, who said "I am no more than man; when I order you any thing respecting religion, receive it, and when I order you about the affairs of the world, then I am nothing more than man."

The Prophet avows that concerning matters unconnected with religion his opinion is not better than that of any other man.

Ab'u Mu'sa. The Prophet of God said, "I and my religion are like unto a man who came to a tribe and said "O people verily I have seen with my own eyes, an army which is coming to plunder you; therefore hasten away. Some of them ran away and escaped: others disbelieved him, when they were seized by the army in the morning and destroyed. Then this is the simile, those who obey me and follow my religion, will be redeemed; and those who do the reverse will be punished." Ab'u Mu'sa said, the Prophet said "my religion is like clouds dropping much rain, some of them falling on pure, favourable soil, cause fresh grass to grow; some of them fall in hollows from which mankind are benefited, some fall on high lands from which no benefit is derived; then the two first are like the person acquainted with the religion of GOD and instructing others; and the last like the person not regarding it nor accepting the right road."

It is unlawful to dispute about the meaning of the Koràn.

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, "I went before the Prophet one day, when he heard the voices of two persons maintaining opposite opinions concerning the meaning of a revelation of the Koràn: and he came out of his house in anger, and said our ancestors were ruined for differing about the meaning of the book of GOD."

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said "men will be liars towards the end of the world; and will relate such stories as neither you nor your fathers ever heard. Then avoid them, that they may not lead you astray and throw you into contention and strife."

AB'UHURAIRAH said, there were people of the book who read the Bible in Hebrew, and translated it into Arabic for the people of Islàm, and the Prophet said "do not consider them liars or tellers of truth, but say to them we believe in GOD and that which is sent to us, and what was sent to MOSES and JESUS." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "the sign of a liar is that he relateth every thing that he heareth." IBN MASU'UD. The Prophet said, there was not any Prophet sent before me by GOD to his sect but found friends and companions, who embraced his maxims and became his disciples; after which were born those who gave out precepts which they did not practise, and did what they were not ordered to do: therefore those who oppose them with the hand, the tongue and the heart, are Mómins. MEKDAM-BIN-MÂDIKERIB.* The Prophet said "Know for certain that the Koràn was given to me; and with it, that which is like unto it. † It is near that the affluent will arrogantly say, hold fast the Koràn and know what you find there as lawful, to be lawful; and what is there stated as unlawful, to be unlawful. And whoever shall alight at your house give him to eat; and if you do not voluntarily give him, it is lawful that he take some by force." for verily I swear by GOD that I have ordered, advised and prohibited things, which are like the Korân or more than it: and GOD hath not made it lawful for you to enter the houses of the people of the book without their permission, or that you beat their women, or eat their fruits; when they shall have agreed to give you what is established as a poll tax." ÎRB'AD said, the Prophet read prayers with us one day, after which he directed himself towards us, and admonished us till we shed tears and our hearts were affected, and a man said, "O! Prophet of God! we may say you are taking your leave of us, then advise us." He said "I admonish you to fear GOD, and yield obedience to my successor, although he may be a black slave, for this reason that those amongst you who may live after me, will soon see great schisms. Therefore hold fast my ways, and those of my successors, who may be directors of the straight road, having found it themselves; and ardently seize my laws and be firm thereto, and fear any thing newly introduced; because every thing new is heresy, and every heresy leads astray.

People of the book (i. e. Jews and Christians) who have consented to pay a tribute are not to be molested.

ÂBDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD, said, the Prophet drew a straight line for us, and said "this is the path of GOD," after which he drew several other lines on the right and left side of it, and said "these are roads, upon every one of which is a devil who calls mankind towards his own way; verily this road of mine is straight, then follow it." ÂBDULLAH-IBN-ÔMER. The Prophet said, "not one of you is a Mômin till his wishes are bent on following what I have brought." BILL'AL-BIN-H'A'RITH.* The Prophet of GOD said, "he who shall revive any one of my laws which shall have died away after my time, for him there is a reward equal to that of him who shall practice it; and he who shall give rise to a heresy displeasing to God and his Prophet, his sin will be equal to that of the person who followeth such heretical practices." Abdullah-ibn-Omer. The Prophet said, "verily there will happen to my sect like unto that of the children of Israel, if any one amongst them shall have been guilty of incest with his mother, such will happen in my tribe. Verily the children of Israel were separated into seventy-two tribes, and mine will be divided into seventy-three; every one of them will go to hell excepting one class." The companions said "O! Prophet of God! which is that one?" He said "the religion which is professed by me and my friends."

The corruptions among Muslemans will resemble those among the children of Israel.

They will be divided into 73 sects, of which only one will be saved.

Ibn Omer. The Prophet of God said "verily God doth not assemble people together of my sect to mislead them; but he aideth them in their councils, and he who dissenteth will enter singly into the fire." Ibn Omer. The Prophet said "follow my learned men; for whoever shall turn from them is in the fire." Anas. The Prophet of God said to me, "son, if you are able, keep your heart from morning till night and from night till morning, free from malice towards any one." Then he said, "O! my son, this is one of my laws, and he who loveth my laws verily loveth me, and he who loveth me will be with me in paradise."

The Prophet denounces punishment against those who originate schisms in the faith.

He exhorts his followers to harbour no malice.

Paradise the reward of obedience.

Ab'uhuraira. The Prophet said, "whoever holdeth fast my laws at the time when wickedness prevaileth in my sect, his reward will be equal to that of one hundred martyrs." Ja'bir. When Omer came before the Prophet, he said "verily I hear stories from the Jews which are very pleasing to me; wilt thou allow me to write down some of them?" The Prophet said, "dost thou waver in the faith, as the Jews and Christians waver in theirs? Verily I swear by God I have brought you a faith bright and pure: if Moses were alive he would follow no religion but mine."

ABUSA'ID-AL-KHUDR'I. The Prophet said, "whoever hath eaten of pure food and practised my laws, and mankind have lived in security from him, will enter into paradise." Then a man said "O! Prophet of GOD, verily in these times there are many of that description." The Prophet said "yes, and many such will also be found after me." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said "verily ye are in an age in which if ye abandon one tenth of what is ordered, ye will be ruined. After this a time will come, when he who shall observe one tenth of what is now ordered will be redeemed." AB'U-UMA'MAH. The Prophet said, "mankind will not go astray after having found the right road, unless from disputation:" after which the Prophet read this revelation: "Mankind dispute not with you but for the purpose of quarrelling; but they are a sect at enmity with you." ANAS. The Prophet said "torment not yourselves, lest GOD should punish you; because a tribe tormented themselves and GOD treated them with severity for it." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said "the Koràn consisteth of five heads; things lawful, things unlawful, clear and positive precepts, mysteries, and examples. Then consider that lawful which is there declared to be so, and that which is forbidden as unlawful; obey the precepts, believe in the mysteries and take warning from the examples."

A stricter obedience necessary to salvation in the time of the Prophet than afterwards.

The Prophet said "that person who separateth himself a hand's breadth from what is generally established, verily hath withdrawn himself from the collar of Islâm." Ma'lic-bin-Anas. The Prophet of God said "I have left two things amongst you, and you will not stray as long as you hold them fast, one is the book of God, the other the laws of the Prophet." Gnud'aif-bin-H'a'rith al-Thuma'li. The Prophet said "whatever heresy is newly invented suspends proportionally my law: then it is better to hold fast my laws than innovations."

Ibrahim-bin-Maisarah.* The Prophet of God said, "that person who respecteth an innovator, hath certainly assisted in sapping the foundation of Islâm." Ibn Abbas said, "that person who hath learnt the book of God, and followed its contents, God will direct from straying in the world, and will protect on the day of resurrection from the punishment of account." Ibn-Masu'ud. The Prophet said, "God hath made a straight road, and two walls, one on each side of it, in which are doors open, and over them curtains are thrown; and at the top of the road is an admonisher who saith "go straight on the road and not crooked;" and above this admonisher is another who saith (whenever a creature is trying to open these doors) "open them not; because if you do you will fall into them." After this the Prophet explained and told them, "verily the road is Islâm; and the doors which are open, are those things which God hath forbidden; and the curtains dropped are the bounds of God; and the admonisher the Korân, and the upper admonisher is God in the heart of every Mómin."

Then ÔMER looked; and said, "GOD protect me from the anger of GOD and his Prophet; I am satisfied with this, that GOD is my cherisher, and Islàm my religion, and MUH'AMMED my Prophet." Then MUH'AMMED said, "if MOSES were alive and found my prophecy he would follow me." JA'BIR. the good in ignorance are the good in Islàm, when they attain the knowledge of religion." IBN-MASU'UD. The Prophet said, "if envy were proper, two persons would be the most proper objects of it; one a man to whom GOD hath given riches, and appointed to bestow in charity; the other, to whom GOD hath granted the knowledge of religion, acting thereon himself and instructing others." AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "When man dies, the rewards of his actions cease, except from three acts; one of them charity, which is continued after his death; the second knowledge, which shall have been spoken for GOD, and benefited others; the third children, who pray to GOD for their parents."

The rich who are charitable & the learned in religion who instruct others, are of all men the most to be envied.

AB'UHURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "that person who shall relieve a Mómin from distress in this world, GOD will in like manner relieve him on the day of the resurrection; and he who shall do good to the indigent, GOD will do good to him in the world and in futurity; and that person who shall conceal the fault of a Muslemàn, GOD will conceal his faults in the world and in futurity. GOD assisteth his servant as long as his servant assisteth his brother Muslemàn, and that person who shall pursue a road that leadeth to knowledge, GOD will make easy for him the road to paradise. People are not assembled together in mosques to read the book of GOD, without light and comfort descending upon them: the favour of GOD covereth them, and angels encompass round about, and GOD reckoneth them among the angels. And that person who is neglectful in good works, however high his degree, it will not avail him."

Future rewards promised to those who are benefactors to the poor, who hide the faults of the faithful, who assist their fellow-believers, & who diligently search after knowledge.

The third, a man to whom God shall have given abundant wealth; and he shall be called into the presence of God and will be reminded of the benefits which he received, and he will acknowledge and confess them: and God will say, "what return didst thou make for them?" He will say "I expended my wealth, to please thee, in all those ways which thou hast approved." God will say "thou liest, but thou didst it that people might extol thy liberality;" after which he will be drawn upon his face and thrown into the fire.

God involves a nation in ignorance by taking away the learned.

Abdullah-ibn-Omer said, the Prophet of God said, "verily God doth not take away knowledge from the hands of his servants; but taketh it by taking away the learned; so that when no learned men remain, the ignorant will be placed at the head of affairs. ANAS said, "When the Prophet spoke, he would repeat it three times, in order that it might be understood; and when he came to people he would salam to them three times."

The Prophet said, "abstain ye from tradition, unless ye certainly know it as from me; and that person who shall falsify me will find his place in the fire." Ibn-Abbas. The Prophet said "that person who shall explain the meaning of the Koràn from his own understanding will find his place in the fire."

It is forbidden to dispute about the meaning of the Koràn.

Ab'uhurairah. The Prophet said "to quarrel and dispute about the Koràn is to disbelieve." Amer-bin-Shuaib ‡ said, the Prophet of God heard a tribe of people quarrelling about the Koràn, and he said "the men of former times were not destroyed but for disputing about the word of God, which did not come down unless for the purpose of some commandments supporting the veracity of others; then set not up the authority of some texts against that of others; and whatever you know of it to be true, tell to mankind; and what you do not understand, resign it to those who know, which are God and his Prophet." Ibn Masu'ud. The Prophet said "the Koràn was sent down in seven dialects;§ and in every one of its sentences there is an external and an internal meaning: for each of them is a high place, from the top of which may be seen its bottom."

Ab'uhurairah. The Prophet said, "whenever any person shall give decisions without knowledge, the fault will be upon the head of the per-

§ The word here translated dialect (h'erf) may admit of different interpretations. Those who give it the meaning assigned in the text say that the Koràn was at first delivered entirely in the dialect of the Koraish, which was the Prophet's native tongue. But when his religion spread more extensively, he requested of God permission to extend its currency by allowing it to be read in all the dialects that are esteemed elegant among the Arabs, which are these seven: Koraish, T'ai, Hawázan, Tin, Thakif, Hudhail, Tamim. Every one of those tribes accordingly read it in its own dialect, till the time of Othman, who ordered several copies to be written after that which was made by Zaid-bin-Tha'bit, by order of Abu-bacr. The use of all other copies was then prohibited, to prevent the origin of discordant opinions and schisms. Another interpretation is that h'erf signifies matters or things, and that the Koràn contains seven of these, viz. commands, prohibitions, histories, parables, admonitions, promises and threatenings. CHAPTER III.

HASAN-BA'SRI.* The Prophet said, "that person who shall die whilst he is studying knowledge, in order to revive the knowledge of religion, will be only one degree inferior to the Prophets. The Prophet of GOD was asked respecting two men of the children of ISRAEL, which of them was the most excellent; one a learned man, who performed the divine prayers, after which he would sit down and teach people the knowledge of religion; the other a worshipper, who fasted the whole of every day, and prayed all night. He said the difference between them is, the former is by comparison to the latter in eminence as I am to you." ALI-IBN-AB'U-TA'LIB. The Prophet said, "he is a good man who is learned in the religion; for if men have need of his services he will benefit them, and if they have no occasion for him he will have no need of them."

The superiority of knowledge over ignorant devotion.

He was born at Medinah two years before the death of OMER (i. e. A. H. 21.) His mother RABIAH was an attendant of OMM SALMAH, one of the Prophet's widows. It is said that when his mother happened to be out of the way, OMM SALMAH used to give him her own breast, to keep him quiet, in her absence. OMER also was wont with his own hand to apply honey or chewed dates to the infant's palate, a practice used among the Arabs to make children suck who refuse the breast. It is supposed that to the influence of these marks of favor, received in his infancy from such distinguished personages, he owed that superiority of intellect by which he was distinguished. He was the greatest man of his age in all arts and sciences, in piety and abstinence. He went to Basrah after the murder of OTHM'AN, and died there A. H. 110.

Religious admonition not to be too often repeated, nor administered at improper seasons, nor delivered in rhyme.

IKRIMAH.* "Verily IBN-ABB'AS told me to give advice to men once a week; if you consider that bad, then twice, and if you wish more, then three times; but do not vex them; nor do I wish you to come amongst them when they are conversing, to give your advice and stop their conversation and displease them: but remain silent till they apply to you for advice, when you may give it freely: and abandon rhyme in your discourses, because I never heard the Prophet or his companions rhyme at such times." WA'THILAH-BIN-AL-ASKA† said, the Prophet of GOD said, "whoever seeketh knowledge and findeth it, will get two rewards; one of them the reward for desiring it, and the other for attaining it; therefore if he do not attain it, for him is one reward."

The actions which merit rewards in a future state.

ABU'HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "the rewards which Muslemàns receive after their deaths from their actions, are one for knowledge which they learnt themselves and taught to others, the second from the prayers of virtuous children, the third for him who leaves the Koràn as a legacy for all; the fourth for him who shall have built a mosque, and a house for travellers, or shall have dug a canal, or shall have set aside a proportion of his wealth in his life time to be given in charity, after his death." AA'YESHAH. "They were poor strangers, without friends or place of abode, who claimed the promise of the Apostle of GOD and implored his protection. Thus the bench of the temple became their mansion, and thence they obtained the name. When the apostle of GOD went to meals he used to call some of them to partake with him; and he selected others to eat with his companions." WA'THILAH afterwards dwelt at Basrah. person whom I make blind in the world, I will give paradise in exchange for his eyes; and excessive knowledge is better than excessive praying; and the support of religion is abstinence." IBN ABBAS said, "it is better to teach knowledge one hour* in the night, than to pray the whole night."

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. "Verily the Prophet of GOD came to two parties that were assembled in his Musjid, one of them employed in prayer, the other discoursing on science; and he said both are virtuously employed, but the people of knowledge are more excellent than those who pray, because these persons hope to obtain by prayer the things which they want; if GOD pleases he grants it them; if not, he withholds it: but the people of knowledge learn, and instruct the ignorant, therefore they are the most excellent: and I was not sent but as an instructor. After this the Prophet sat down in the assembly of knowledge." ABU DARDAA. The Prophet was asked, "what is the degree of knowledge, which having reached, constitutes a learned man in religion?" He said, "that person who remembers and carries to my sect forty traditions in the matter of religion, GOD will raise up on the day of the resurrection amongst the class of the learned in religion, and I will be the forgiver of his sins, and will give evidence as to his obedience."

The search after knowledge more meritorious than prayer.

What degree of knowledge constitutes a learned man?

ANAS-IBN-MA'LIC. The Prophet said to his companions "do you know who is the most beneficent?" They said "GOD and his Prophet know best." The Prophet said "GOD is the greatest giver of all; after him I am the most liberal of the children of ADAM, and after me the most beneficent is he who attains knowledge and instructs others; and he will come at the day of resurrection like a man of elevated rank." ANAS-BIN-MA'LIC. The Prophet said, "There are two avaricious persons that are never satisfied; one of them in knowledge, the more he attains the more he desires; the other of the world, with the things of which he is never satisfied." Âun-bin-Âbdullah * said Âbdullah-bin-Masu'ud said, "there are two avaricious persons that are never content; one of them the learned, the other the worldly; and these two kinds of avarice are not equal, because the man of knowledge pleases God most, and the man of the world is refractory and arrogant. After which he read this revelation "creatures fear not God, except the learned." Ibn Âbbas. The Prophet said "verily some of the people of my sect learn the knowledge of religion and read the Koràn; and say, we will go to the great, and take something of the world from them, and retire from them with our own religion. But such things cannot be; like as the tree of thorns from which nothing can be gathered but thorns, in such manner nothing can be gathered from the society of the great but sin and vice."

The desire of knowledge and of worldly things are both insatiable.

To court the society of the great for the sake of worldly advantage is incompatible with true religion.

Âbdullah-ibn Masu'ud said, "verily the people of knowledge, if they preserve it and instruct others worthy of it, most certainly will be chiefs in knowledge of their day. But the people of knowledge teach the people of the world, for worldly goods; from which they are despised in the eyes of worldly folks." I heard the Prophet say "whoever centres all his views in one object; God will supply him with a sufficiency of worldly necessaries; and whoever directs his views otherwise than to the latter end, God will not care in what wild he is destroyed."

He who teaches religious knowledge for the sake of worldly gain incurs the contempt of mankind.

SU'FIA'N. Verily OMER-IBN-AL-KHATT'AB, said to CAB, "who are the learned?" He said "that person who practises what he knows." OMER said "what is the cause of the learned instructing the unworthy?" He said "avarice." AN'WAS'-BIN-HAC'IM* said, the Prophet of GOD was asked, "what is the greatest vice of man?" He said "you must not ask me about vice, but ask about virtue:" and he repeated this three times; after which he said, "know ye! the worst of men is a bad learned man, and a good learned man is the best."

He only deserves to be esteemed learned who reduces his knowledge to practice.

Z'IAD-IBN-'HUDAIR † said, "OMER-IBN-AL-KHATT'AB said to me "do you know what saps the foundation of Islàm and ruins it?" He said "I do not know." OMER said, "the errors of the learned destroy it, and the disputations of the hypocrite about the book of GOD, and the orders of kings who have lost the road." HASAN BA'SR'I said "knowledge is of two kinds, one of which is in the heart; this benefits mankind, and the other on the tongue, which is a proof in GOD's hands against the children of ADAM." AB'UHURAIRAH said "I remember from the Prophet of God, two kinds of knowledge, one of them I taught to others, and if I had taught them the other it would have broken their throats." ABDULLAH said, "O! men! whoever knows any thing tell it, and whoever does not, let him say GOD knows best, because that person who knows nothing, and says GOD knows, that is knowledge."

The errors of the learned and captious disputations ruin the faith.

ALI-IBN-ABUT'A'LIB. ON PURIFICATIONS.

CHAPTER I.

Half the merit and efficacy of prayer depends on purification.

ABU MA'LIC ASHÂRI.* The Prophet of GOD said "Wad'ù† is half the prayers; and from repeating al h'amdo-lilláhi‡ the scale of rewards will be full: and repeating subhàn allah and al hamdo-lillah, will fill every thing between the heavens and the earth with rewards. And prayers lighten the heart, and charity is a proof of Imàn, and abstinence from sin is perfect splendor, and the Koràn is a proof of gain to you, if you do good, and it is a detriment to you if you do wrong: and every man who rises in the morning either does that which will be the means of his redemption or his ruin." of God." He said "the completing of the Wa'dù in the winter and in indisposition, and going far to a Masjid, and longing for the time of saying prayers; these are a barrier against the devil and his army." ÂOTHM'AN.

The great efficacy of Wa'dù when duly performed.

The Prophet said "that person who uses Wa'dù thoroughly will extract the faults from his body; even to those that may be lurking under his finger nails."

AB'UHIRAIRAH. The Prophet said "when a Muslemàn uses Wa'dù, it washes from his face those faults which he may have cast his eyes upon; and when he washes his hands, it removes the faults they may have committed; and when he washes his feet, it dispels the faults towards which they may have carried him; so that he will rise up in purity from the place of ablution." ÂOTHM'AN. The Prophet said "there is no Muslemàn who when the time of divine prayers comes, performs his Wa'dù properly, and fears in his heart and looks on the place of adoration, but they will hide and raze the faults which he may have committed before, as long as they are not of a heinous nature."

The manner of performing it.

ÂOTHM'AN. I performed the Wa'dù in this manner: I washed my hands three times; and then my mouth three times; and then threw water into my nose three times; after that I washed my face three times; then I washed my right arm three times, from the tips of my fingers to my elbow bone, and then my left arm the same number of times: then I drew my right hand wet over my head; after that I washed my right foot three times; then my left in the same manner. I saw the Prophet of God perform the Wa'dù like mine as above. JA'BIR. The Prophet said, "the key of paradise is prayer, and the key of prayer is ablution." SHABIB-IBN-ABIRAUH said, a man of the companions of the Prophet said "verily the Prophet read the morning prayers, and with the Sùra-i Rùm,* when some little doubt occurred to him; and when he had finished he said, what is the reason that people read prayers with me and do not perform their ablutions properly? These are the people who cast doubt into my mind."

ABDULLAH. The Prophet said, "when Muslemàns perform Wa'dù and wash their mouths, their faults will go therefrom; and when they throw water into their noses the faults that may be there will go away; and when they wash their faces the faults there will remove, even to the faults that may be under their two eyelids; and when a Muslemàn washes his hands, his faults there will be removed, even to those under the nails of his fingers; and when he touches his head, the faults from it will move away, even to the faults of his ears; and when he washes his feet, the faults there will be removed, even to the nails of his toes; after that he will go to the Masjid and read prayers, for which will be more rewards."

Ablution effectually removes the traces of sin from every part of the body.

AB'UHURAIRAH. Verily the Prophet came into the burying ground at Medinah, to ask pardon for the dead; and said, "peace be with you, O! ye Muslemàns, and please GOD I also will come to you, and I wish to see my brothers." The companions said "are not we your brothers O! Prophet of GOD?" He said "Ye are my friends and companions, and those are my brothers who are not come into the world as yet." Then the companions said, "you must know your own tribe at the resurrection, and how will you know those that are not yet come?" He said "inform me, if a man had a horse with white feet, and the horse was amongst others of various colours, would he not know his own horse?" They said "yes O! Prophet, he would know him." The Prophet said "verily my sects will come on the day of resurrection with bright hands and feet because of Wa'dù, contrary to other tribes, and from these signs I shall discriminate my own sects from the others; and I am going on before to the river Cauther." *

Then a man said "O! Prophet of GOD, how will you know your sects from amongst others, after such a length of time?" He said "my sects will be of bright hands and feet from the impressions of Wa'dù, and there will not be one amongst the other tribe of this description, and I shall know them from this, that the book of their actions will be given into their right hands, and shall know them also from their children appearing in front of them."

IN EXPLANATION OF ACTS, REQUIRING WAD'U AND SUCH AS ANNUL WAD'U.

ABUHURAIRAH. The Prophet said "the prayers of a person will not be accepted, or proper, who has broken his Wad'ù, until he completes another Wad'ù." This is applicable to a person who has access to water; and if he has not access to water, he must go through the ceremony with clean earth. IBN OMER. The Prophet of GOD said "prayers are not accepted without Wat'ù; nor charity from forbidden money; or from money which shall have been stolen from plunder." ALI-IBN AB'I-TA'LIB said, "I was a man very subject to Ma'dhi,* and I was ashamed to ask the Prophet the rules to be observed for it, whether Wad'ù or bathing; because I had married his daughter FA'TIMAH ZAHRA; and I requested MEKD'AD-BIN-ASWAD who was one of my friends to ask the orders concerning it; and MEKD'AD asked his highness, who said "let him who perceives Ma'dhi wash his penis and use Wad'ù, as Ma'dhi does not require bathing."

Ibn Abbas said, 'verily the Prophet of God eat of a shoulder of mutton, after that said his prayers and did not use Wad'ù.' Ja'bir-bin-Samurah. † 'Verily a man asked the Prophet of God, saying, "must I use Wad'ù from eating mutton?" He said "if you like it do so." The man then said "must I use Wad'ù from eating the flesh of a camel?" His highness said "yes, you must use Wad'ù." The man said "may I say my prayers in a sheep fold?" He said "yes." The man said "may I say my prayers in a camel-house?" He said "no."

Wad'ù optional after eating mutton, but necessary after camel's flesh.

ABU RAFI* said, "verily I swear by GOD I roasted the heart, liver and lights of a sheep for the Prophet, and he eat thereof and then said his prayers without performing Wadu." I said "O Prophet it is a sheep that was given me in a present." Then I dressed it, and the Prophet said "give me the shoulder that I may eat;" for his highness was fond of that part. And I gave it to him; and he eat it and said "give me the other shoulder:" he eat that also, and then said, "give me another." And I said "has any sheep more than two shoulders?" MUHAMMED said "know that if you had remained silent, and had not said that a sheep has only two shoulders, you would have continued giving them to me as long as you had remained silent." After that his majesty called for water, and washed his mouth, and washed the ends of his fingers, and then stood up and said prayers, and then went towards the children and connexions of AB'U RA'FI, and found cold meat, eat, and went into the Masjid, and read prayers, but did not touch water."

CHAP. V.—PART I.

ON DECENCY WITH RESPECT TO NATURAL EVACUATIONS.

ABU-AYUB-AL-ANSARI said 'the Prophet of God said "when you go to ease yourselves turn not your faces or your backs towards the Kibla: either turn your faces to the east or west." The compiler of Másábìh' says this tradition is applicable to a plain; but in a building it is of no consequence, because ABDULLAH IBN OMER has related thus: 'I went to the house of HAFS'AH* on some business of my own, and saw the Prophet easing himself with his back towards the Kibla and his face towards Syria.' SALM'AN† said 'the Prophet forbade me to turn my face to the Kibla when easing myself or making water; or to perform my ablutions with my right hand, or with less than three handfuls of water; or with the excrement of man or dung of animals which might be dry, or with bones, because it would be impossible to clean with these.'

ANAS. 'The Prophet said when any one goes to the necessary, he must say "O! Lord, I seek protection with thee from the male and female devil." IBN-ABBAS said, "the Prophet passed by two graves, and said "verily the people of these graves are punished, but not on account of great crimes; one of them who did not conceal himself when making water, and did not care about its falling upon himself; and the other who went about collecting scandalous stories, with an intention of exciting quarrels." After the Prophet had informed us respecting these two people, he took hold of a branch of a date tree which was green, and split it in two, and then stuck the parts on the two graves. They said, "O Prophet! why did you do that?" He said "I have done so with the hope of mitigating the punishments in these two graves, as long as these branches remain moist."

The neglect of decency in evacuation punished in the graves.

ABU HURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "abstain from two things which are the cause of curse and abuse." They said, "what are they, O Prophet?" His majesty said "pissing on people's roads; or under the shade of trees where people are accustomed to sit." ABU KUTADA.* 'The Prophet said, "when any one of you drinks water, let him not breathe till he take his mouth therefrom; so that nothing may fall from his nose into the water; and when any one of you shall go to the privy, he must not take hold of his penis with his right hand, because that hand is reserved for eating with, and other clean uses; neither let him use the right hand for abstersion of the penis after passing urine."

The right hand reserved for clean uses.

BOOK II. AB'UHURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "that person who performs Wa-dù let him blow his nose; and that person who uses stones or earth, for abstersion after stool, must not employ less than three." ANAS. 'The Prophet of GOD was going into a privy; and myself and IBN MASU'UD carried an ewer full of water for him, and a short spear for digging hard ground; and he washed with water.'

Part Second.

ANAS said, 'the Prophet was accustomed, when entering a privy, to take off the ring from his finger; on account of the name of GOD and his Prophet being cut on it: therefore you must not take any thing with you to the necessary which may have on it the name of GOD, his Prophet or the Koràn.' JA'BIR said, 'whenever the Prophet was about to perform his needs, he would go to a place where no one could see him.'

AB'U MU'SA said, 'I was with the Prophet one day, and he wished to make water; and he found a soft spot of ground under a wall; after which he said "when any one of you wishes to make water, let him look out for a soft and even spot, that it may not run on others." ANAS said, 'when the Prophet wanted to ease himself, he did not tuck up his clothes till he sat down.' ABU'HURAIRAH. 'The Prophet of GOD said, "I am not for you an adviser and well-wisher, otherwise than like a father to his children; I teach you, that when you have occasion to ease yourselves or make water, turn not your faces or backs on the Kibla:" and he ordered the parts to be cleaned first with three balls of earth and afterwards with water; and forbade doing it with the dry excrement of men, dung of animals, or rotten bones, or with the right hand.' That person who shall use balls of earth, for abstersion, must use an odd number; and whoever eats food, and uses a tooth-pick, let him spit out any thing that may come from between his teeth; but any thing which is brought out by the tongue, let him swallow that: whoever does this, does well, and if not, no fault is on him. Whoever goes to the necessary, must hide himself; but if not able so to do, let him collect a heap of earth and sit behind it; because the devil makes game at the backsides of the sons of Adam: and whoever does this, does well; but if not there is no fault."

'The Prophet of God saw me making water, standing, and said "O! Omer, do not piss standing;" and I never made water standing after this prohibition.'

Part Third.

Á'AYESHAH said, 'whoever shall tell you that the Prophet pissed standing, do not consider him a teller of truth, because he never did so but when sitting.' ZAID IBN H'A'RITHAH,* relates from the Prophet, that the angel GABRIEL came to the Prophet, at the commencement of bringing instructions from God, and taught him Wad'ù and prayer; and whenever the Prophet had finished Wad'ù he would take a handful of water and sprinkle it upon that part of his trowsers which covered his private parts.

They said "we perform Wad'ù for prayer, and we bathe after connexion with women, in such manner as all Muslemàns do, and we wash our posteriors with water after having used stones." The Prophet said "the praise bestowed on you by GOD is on account of this; therefore persevere in it."

SALM'AN said that some polytheists said, at a time when they were ridiculing and laughing at the Prophet, "verily we see your friend teaching you trifling things; even to the mode of sitting in a privy." SALM'AN said "yes, he teaches us so, and has ordered us not to turn our faces on the Kibla when performing our needs; and not to wash with our right hands; also not use less than three stones; and has forbidden us to use the excrement of man or animals."

ABDUL-RAH'M'AN BIN 'HASANAH said, 'the Prophet came out to us and he had a shield of leather in his hands in which was neither wood or thongs; and he held it before him as a cover, and then made water towards it; and a hypocrite who was present said, "look at that man who makes water with a covering before him like women." The Prophet heard this and said, "alas for thee! dost thou not know, what happened to a friend of the children of ISRAEL? When any filth fell upon the clothes of the children of ISRAEL; they used, (agreeably to their religion and laws) to cut it off with knives: and the friend forbade them and hindered them; and he was punished for it in his grave." He said, "it is not forbidden to piss towards the Kibla, excepting in plains and open places, where there is nothing intervening; then, when there is any thing between you and the Kibla, there is no fault."

ANAS said, 'when the Prophet came out of the privy, he used to say "thanks be to GOD; who hath taken out from me, that which is impure; and hath given me health and freed me from it."

IBN MASU'UD. When the ambassadors of the Genii came to the Prophet, they said "O Prophet, forbid your sects from using bones, or dung of animals or coals, for abstersion after natural evacuations, because GOD ALMIGHTY hath given to us those things for food; and bones are our victuals, the dung of animals is the provender for our cattle, and coals serve for us and our animals likewise." *ON USING THE MISW'AC.

ABU'HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "if I were disposed to trouble my sect, verily I would order them to continue saying the nocturnal prayers till two thirds of the night had passed, and would order them to clean their teeth at the time of every prayer." SHURAI'H BIN-HA'NI † said, I asked Â'YESHAH what the Prophet began to do when he came into his house; she said, "the first thing he did was to clean his teeth, and this was a matter he most particularly attended to." HUD'HAIFAH. When the Prophet stood up to prayer in the night he rubbed and washed his mouth with the Miswàc.

MUH'AMMED's great attention to the cleaning of his teeth.

Â'AYESHAH. The Prophet said, "there are ten qualities of the Prophets: thinning the whiskers, letting the beard grow the breadth of a hand below the chin, cleaning the teeth, throwing water into the nose, cutting the nails of hands and feet, washing the lines on the fingers,

Ten practices incumbent on all Prophets.

Part Third.

IBN OMER said, that 'verily the Prophet said "I dreamt I was cleaning my teeth, and two people came before me, one of them older than the other, and I gave the Miswàc to the youngest: when it was said to me, give it to the elder, and I did so: from this it is known that precedence is for the elder." The Prophet said, "that prayer preparatory to which the teeth shall have been cleaned with the Miswàc, is more excellent than the prayer without Miswác, by one hundred and forty times." AB'U SALMAH * has told from ZAID-BIN KHA'LID JAHAN'I,† who said, I heard the Prophet say, "if I was not apprehensive of putting my sects to inconvenience, verily I would appoint it for them to use the Miswàc at the time of every prayer; and would order them to continue at the nocturnal prayers till the third part of the night." ABU SALMAH said "ZAID-BIN-KHA'LID was present in the Masjid to say his prayers, and his Miswàc was put upon his ear like as the pen of scribes, and he did not rise up to repeat a prayer without using the Miswàc; after which he put it upon his ear."

ON THE LAWS OF MUHAMMED REGARDING WADÙ.

ABU'HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "when any one of you awakes from sleep let him not put his hands into a dish of water; until he have washed his right hand three times and his left; because you cannot know where your hands may have been in the night." ABU'HURAIRAH. The Prophet said, "when any one of you awakes, and after that performs the Wad'ù, he must blow his nose, after throwing water into it, because verily the devil takes his post in the nose at night.

Wad'ù and cleaning of the nose requisite after sleep.

It was said to ABDULLAH-BIN ZAID-BIN-AA'S'IM,* "how did the Prophet perform Wad'ù?" And he called for water with which Wad'ù could be performed, to shew them the way of doing it. Then he washed both his hands as far as the wrist, each twice; after that he put water into his mouth, and blew his nose, after throwing water into it, thrice; then washed his face thrice, then washed both his arms, from the tips of the fingers up to the elbow bone; then drew both his hands, wet, from his forehead to the back of his head, and then back again. ABDULLAH-IBN-ABB'AS said, 'the Prophet performed the Wad'ù, and washed each member once and no more, for the instruction of his sects.' ABDULLAH-IBN-ZAID said, 'verily the Prophet performed Wad'ù, and washed each member twice.'

A diversity in opinion, or in practice, at different times, regarding the repeated application of water in Wad'ù.

It is related of OTHM'AN that he was performing Wad'ù on the makáid,* and he said, "I will shew you the manner of the Prophet's Wad'ù." Then he washed each member thrice. Hence we must understand that Wad'ù was sometimes performed once, sometimes twice and sometimes thrice. ABDULLAH IBN OMER said, 'I returned with the Prophet from Mecca to Medínah; when we arrived at some water which was in the Mecca road, a party hastened to perform Wad'ù for the afternoon prayers: and they did so, in a hurry; and we came up to them, and found that they had not wetted the under part of their feet. The Prophet said "alas on the soles of the feet, for they will be in hell fire;" and he ordered them to perform the Wad'ù thoroughly, without the least deviation, so that not even the breadth of a finger nail be dry.'

The prescribed parts to be thoroughly wetted.

In all things that regarded his person, the Prophet used to begin on the right side.

MUGHAIRAH† BIN SHABAH said, 'verily the Prophet performed the Wad'ù, and then touched his forehead and his turban and his two boots.' A'A'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet was fond of beginning on the right side, whenever he could do it, in every thing; thus he would, in Wad'ù, wash his right hand and right foot first; and in combing the hair of his head

IBN ABBAS. 'The Prophet said, "when you perform Wad'ù, draw the fingers of both hands through each other, and also through your toes." MUSTAWRID-BIN SHEDD'AD‡ said, 'I saw the Prophet, when performing Wad'ù, draw his little finger between the toes.' ANAS said,' when the Prophet performed Wa'dû, he took a handful of water and raised it to the under part of his chin, and combed his beard with his hand, and said "in this way has my Lord ordered me:"'

Abd Khair† said, I was sitting down and looking towards Ali, when he was performing his Wad'ù; and he put his right hand into a bason of water, and then filled his mouth with water, and gargled with it; then put water into his nose, and blew his nose with his left hand: this he did thrice and after that said, "whoever is pleased at looking at the way in which the Prophet used to Wad'ù, let him attend to the manner in which I have done it." Abdullah-ibn-Zaid said, 'I saw the Prophet put water into his mouth and nose, with one handful of water; and he did so thrice.' Ibn Abb'as said, 'verily the Prophet touched his head and both ears, the internal parts of them with his two fore-fingers, and the back part of his ears with his thumbs.'

Rubaiyya-bint-Muawwiz§ said, 'I saw the Prophet performing his Wad'ù; and he passed both his hands over his head from the forehead to the back part of it, and touched the parts between the ears and the eyes; and both ears once, and then put the ends of his two fore-fingers

OMM SALMAH said, that OMM SAL'IM† said, "O Prophet! verily GOD has not made it a matter of shame to ask about Islàm and the religion: therefore I ask, is it indispensable for a woman to bathe who dreams of having connexion with man?" He said, "yes, when she perceives any moisture upon her clothes." Then OMM SALMAH hid her face from shame, and said, "O! Prophet, do women dream in that kind of way so as to emit?" Verily the semen of man is white and glutinous, and that of woman is thin and yellow: therefore that of the two which enters the womb first, the resemblance will be from it; if the semen of man falls into the womb first, the child will be like the father; and if that of the woman be first, the child will resemble the mother."

How the resemblance of the offspring to father or mother is determined.

A'AYESHAH said, 'the Prophet was accustomed, after connexion with women, to begin bathing, by washing his hands first, after that to Wad'ù in the manner he would do for prayer; after which he used to put his finger into water; and then rub his hands, when wet, about the roots of the hair of his head, and sprinkle three handfuls of water upon his head with each hand; and then used to throw a great quantity of water over his whole body. After that he threw some water upon his right side, and then upon his left.' IBN ABBAS said, that MAIM'UNAH † said, 'I put water for the Prophet to bathe with, and covered it with a cloth; and drew a curtain between myself and the Prophet, when he sprinkled water on both his hands and washed them; then twice upon his right hand and twice on the left; then on the right side, and after it on the left; and then washed his private parts both before and behind, then struck his left hand on the ground and rubbed it, then washed it, then took water in his mouth; and threw water into his nose, and washed his face and his two arms from the fingers to the elbow bone; then sprinkled water upon his head, and threw water over his whole body; and then he went on one side from the bathing place.' MAIM'UNAH said, 'I presented the Prophet after he had done bathing a cloth to wipe his body with, but he took it not, and walked away shaking the water off himself.'

How women are to be purified after menstruation.

Â'AYESHAH said, 'verily a woman belonging to one of the assistants, asked the Prophet about the nature of bathing for the menses: when the Prophet ordered her to bathe, she said "in what manner?" He said, "take a cloth perfumed with musk, and by it be pure." She said, "how shall I be clean by it?" And she repeated the question three times and received the same answer, the Prophet saying, the third time "immaculate GOD! be clean by it." Â'AYESHAH said 'then I drew her towards myself to explain to her the meaning of purity and said to her: "clean the marks of blood with the cloth."

OMM SALMAH said 'I said "O! Prophet verily I am wont to plait my hair very much as is the custom of the Arabian women; must I therefore open it for the purpose of bathing after connexion?" He said "no, there is no occasion for you to do more than sprinkle water upon your head thrice with both hands; after that throw water over your whole body, after which you will be clean." ANAS said 'the Prophet used to Wa'dû with one *Mudd of water, and bathed with one *Sâ'; and sometimes with five Mudds. MUA'DHAH† said, Â'AYESHAH said 'myself and the Prophet bathed from one vessel of water, which was between us; and he took the water quick; and I repeated "O! Prophet leave the water for me." He said; "there is no bathing for him.* When OMM SA-L'IM heard this tradition, she said, 'must a woman bathe when she discovers moisture?' The Prophet said "yes, verily woman is a part of ADAM." Â'A'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet said "when the parts of a man come in contact with those of a woman they must both bathe."

The hair to be well cleaned in bathing.

ABU'HURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "when a person is unclean, there is uncleanness under every hair on the body: then wash the hair well, and clean your skin thoroughly." ÂLI-IBN-AB'U-T'A'LIB. The Prophet said, "that person who leaves even one hair without washing after uncleanness, will be punished in hell accordingly: on this account I hate the hair of my head, and shave off the whole of it." ÂLÌ repeated this twice.

Decency to be observed in bathing.

Â'A'YESHAH. 'The Prophet did not perform Wa'dù, after bathing; and went through his prayers from the first Wad'ù.' Â'A'YESHAH said 'the Prophet used to wash his head with the root of a flower called khátmì;† when he was unclean: the water issuing therefrom he considered as sufficient, without sprinkling any water upon his head.' UBAI BIN CAB. Bathing is for that person who perceives semen. This was the order at the commencement of Islàm; but now it is obsolete, for whether the man or woman emits or not, they must both bathe. ALI IBN ABU TALIB said, 'a man came to the Prophet and said, "verily I have bathed from uncleanness and have said my morning prayers; after which I saw upon my body a part equal to the breadth of my nail, where the water had not reached." The Prophet said to him, "if you had rubbed your hand wet, over that part, it would have been sufficient."

Variations in the precept at different times.

IBN OMER said, 'GOD told the Prophet on the night of his journey to heaven, to order his sects fifty prayers daily; and seven bathings for man or woman, after connexion with each other; and to wash clothes on which urine had fallen seven times: and the Prophet supplicated always to have it lessened, till the prayers were reduced to five, and the bathing for uncleanness to once, and the washing of the clothes stained with urine to once.'

The Prophet by intercession with GOD obtains a remission of religious austerities for his people.

ON INTERCOURSE* WITH THE UNCLEAN.†

ABUHURAIRAH said, I went to visit the Prophet when I was unclean, and he took me by the hand, and I went along with him till he sat down; then I left the assembly slowly, and came to my own house, and bathed, and then returned whilst the Prophet continued sitting; and he said to me "where were you O! ABUHURAIRAH?" And I said to him, "I came to visit you when I was unclean, and I considered it very bad to sit with you till I bathed." He said, "Immaculate GOD! a Momin cannot be impure." IBN OMER. "My father said to the Prophet, "verily I am unclean at nights." He said to him, "perform the Wad'u and wash your penis, after that go to sleep: this proportion of purification is enough after sleeping." AAYESHAH said, "when the Prophet was un-

Casual or temporary uncleanness does not disqualify for the common intercourse of society.

The original meaning is separation, retirement from society: and hence, in the Muslemán law, it is applied to that state, from pollution, in which people are enjoined to keep away from religious assemblies, and from acts of worship. Yet we see, from this chapter, that they are not in that state excluded from the common intercourse of society.

Part Second.

The Prophet performs Wad'ù with water which had been used by a woman for purification.

Ibn-Abbas said, 'one of the Prophet's women bathed with water that was in a large tub; and the Prophet had a desire of performing Wad'ù with the water which remained, and the woman said, "O Prophet! verily I was unclean, and this is water which remains from my purifying myself." He said, "verily water is not filthy from having been used in bathing for Janábat." Â'yeshah said, 'the Prophet bathed for Janábat, after which he embraced me to get warm before I had bathed.' He then performed Wad'u as for prayer, and then threw water over his whole body; and said, "this is the way the Prophet used to bathe."

IN EXPLANATION OF RULES FOR DIFFERENT KINDS OF WATER.

ABU HURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "do not piss in stagnant water and bathe in it afterwards; nor go into stagnant water to bathe when you are Junub." The companions said, "what are we to do then, if not to go into the water?" AB'UHURAIRAH said, "take water and bathe outside." JA'BIR. 'The Prophet forbade pissing in still water.' AB'U-SA'ID-AL-KHUD'HRÌ said, 'the Prophet was asked, "may we Wad'ù with the water of the well called Búdàa, in which the rags of menses are thrown, and the flesh of dogs, and stinking things?" He said, "verily its waters are pure, and nothing makes it unclean; because it is large, has a spring, and flows like a rivulet." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'a man asked the Prophet, saying, "verily I go on the river and carry but little water along with me; and if I Wad'ù with it I shall remain thirsty: may I then Wad'ù with river water?" The Prophet said, "a river is in itself clean, and a purifier of others, and its fishes are lawful."

Water which is in large quantity, or which flows, is not defiled by the discharge of impurities into it.

AB'U ZAID relates from ABDULLAH IBN MASU'UD, that his majesty said to him, in a night when the Genii came to him, and he taught them Islàm, and said to IBN MASU'UD, "what is that in the dish you have got?" IBN MASU'UD said, "it is the liquor of dates." The Prophet said "that is pure and a purifier: it is right to Wad'ù with it, without doubt or hesitation."

CABSHAH-BINT-CAB-BIN-MA'LIK, wife of AB'U KUTA'DAH, said, "verily ABU KUTA'DAH came into his house, and I put water for him to Wad'ù, and a cat came and drank of it, and AB'U KUTA'DAH tilted the pot of water, that the cat might drink of it with ease: and AB'U KUTA'DAH saw me looking at the cat, and said, "O CABSHAH! do you wonder that the cat should drink of the water which was put for Wad'ù? DA'UD-BIN 'SA'LIH'-BIN DÍN'AR relates, that his mother sent a woman to ÂA'YESHAH with victuals, and she found ÂA'YESHAH at her prayers. She made a sign to put down the victuals, when a cat came and ate some of it: and when she finished her prayers she ate the victuals from the place where the cat had eaten; and said, "the Prophet of GOD said, cats are not impure; they are as a watch upon you; and verily I saw the Prophet Wad'ù with water from which a cat had drank."

Water not defiled by the drinking of asses, or beasts of prey.

JA'BIR said, the Prophet was asked "may we Wad'ù with water of which an ass may have drank?" He said, "yes; Wad'ù with this and with water left by animals of prey." OMM HA'NÌ said, 'the Prophet and MAIMU'NAH bathed, with water which was in a large vessel; and the marks of wheat flour were upon it.'

YAHI'A-BIN-ABDUL-RAHMA'N said, 'verily ÔMER came out with a cavalcade, in which was ÂMER IBN-AL-Â'AS, till they came to a tank of water; and ÂMER-IBN-AL-Â'AS said, "O! master of the tank, do carnivorous animals come to your tank?" ÔMER said, "do not tell us; for sometimes we come, and other times carnivorous animals: for verily I heard the Prophet say; whatever carnivorous animals drink, is for themselves, and what they leave is clean for us." AB'U-SA'ÏD-AL-KHUDHRÌ. 'Verily the Prophet was asked about the tanks between Mecca and Medínah, to which carnivorous animals, dogs and asses, go to drink, whether that water is pure or not. The Prophet said, "whatever goes into the bellies of those animals is for them; and what remains is pure for us." ABUHURAIRAH said, 'a peasant was standing in the Prophet's Masjid, and made water in it; when he was immediately taken hold of; and the Prophet said "let him alone that he may piss, and throw a bag of water upon the spot: because ye were not created but as comforters, and not sent to create hardships." ANAS said, 'we were with the Prophet in the Masjid; when behold a peasant came in and stood pissing in the Masjid: and the companions said, "don't." The Prophet said "let him piss, because stopping him will do him harm." And they let him alone till he had done, and then the Prophet called the peasant to him, and said, "this Masjid is not a proper place for piss, or any kind of filth; Masjids are only for the mention of GOD, saying prayers and reading the Koràn." And the Prophet ordered one of his companions to fetch water, and throw it upon the spot where the peasant had pissed; and it was done."

*ON TOUCHING THE BOOTS.

A traveller may touch his boots three days; and a man who is stationary for one day.

SHURAIH-BIN-HA'NI said, I asked ALI-IBN-ABU TA'LIB, about the orders for touching boots: and he said, "the Prophet made it lawful for a traveller to touch his boots three days and nights; and for a fixed person one day and one night." MOGHI'RAH-BIN-SHI'BAH said, "I accompanied the Prophet in the expedition to Tabùc; and he went into a plain to ease himself; and I carried water for him in a pot called Idávah; and when he returned from the plain, I sprinkled water upon his blessed hands, and he washed his hands and face: and he was dressed in a shirt, and he wished to uncover his arms, but found the sleeve of the shirt tight, and he drew his arms back; and threw the shirt over his two blessed shoulders, and washed his arms to the elbow bone; then touched his forehead, then his turban, for completing the touching of the head. And I bent myself down in order to take off his boots; but he said let me alone, don't draw off my boots, because I put my feet into these boots, when they were in a pure state. Then the Prophet touched both boots; after which he mounted his horse, and I mine also, and we reached a party, when they were standing up for prayer: and they repeated their prayers after ÂBDUL-RAHM'AN-BIN-AUF: and they had said one prayer: and when ÂBDUL-RAH'M'AN saw the Prophet, he retired, for his majesty to take his place: but the Prophet made a sign to him to continue; and repeated the second prayer after ÂBDUL-RAH'M'AN: and when the Imàm had said the salàm, the Prophet and myself stood up, and we repeated the other prayer."

AB'U-BACRAH relates from the Prophet, that he permitted a traveller merely to touch his boots three days and nights: and a person stationary had the same indulgence for one day and night, if they put their boots on when their feet were clean. S'AFW'AN-BIN-ÂSS'AL said, 'the Prophet ordered me, when travelling, not to take off my boots for three days and nights; unless from Jánabet; but not for making water or easing myself.' MOGH'IRAH-BIN-SHÎBAH said, 'I waited on the Prophet for him to Wad'ù, during the war of Tabùc; and he touched the top and bottom of his boots.' CHAP. XIII.---PART I.

ON TAYÂMMUM (OR USING EARTH FOR PURIFICATIONS WHERE WATER IS NOT PROCURABLE.)

HUDHAIFAH. The Prophet said, "God has made me greater than all the Prophets who have preceded me, by three things; one is, my ranks and files are equal in number to those of the angels; and the whole earth is fit for me to worship on; and the dust of the earth is made fit for me to purify with, when I cannot get water." ÎMR'AN-BIN-HUS'AIN* said, "I was travelling with the Prophet, and he read prayers with the people; and when he had finished, he saw a man sitting in a corner, who had not said his prayers with the rest: and the Prophet said to him, "what prevented you from repeating your prayers with the crowd?" He said, "I am in a state of Janâbet, and there is no water with which to bathe myself." The Prophet said, "substitute clean earth; for verily it is enough for thee."

Muh'ammed enjoyed pre-eminence in three particulars over all the other Prophets.

Earth ordered as a substitute for water in purification.

ÂMM'AR-BIN YA'SIR said, "a man came to ÔMER IBN AL KHATT'AB, and said "I am Junub, and could not meet with water; what am I to do?" He remained silent: and AMMAR said to OMER, "do not you remember when we were travelling together and you were Junub and did not say your prayers; and I was so likewise; and rolled myself upon the dust, with an idea that as the whole body is bathed for Junubi with water, Tayammum also should be general. And I read prayers, and mentioned this circumstance to the Prophet, who said, "nothing suffices for you less than this." Then his majesty, in order to explain Tayammum, struck his hands flat upon the ground; and blew the dust off of them, and then touched his face with them.'

ABUL-JUHAIM-BIN-HA'RITH* said, 'I passed by the Prophet whilst he was pissing, and saluted him; but he did not return it, till he stood by the side of a wall, which he dug with a stick which was in his hand, and then put his hands upon the wall, and touched his blessed face and two arms up to the elbow bone, and then answered my salutation.' ABU-D'HAR GHAFFA'RI, 'The Prophet said, "verily clean earth is Wad'u for a Muslemàn, if he does not meet with water for ten years; but when he finds water and throws it over him, it is better for purification."

Part Second.

JÁBIR-BIN-ABDULLAH ANSA'RI. 'We came out on a journey, and one of our friends was struck with a stone, which made a wound in his head; and he had an emission in his sleep, and asked his friends, "can you find out whether Tayammum is lawful in this case or not?" They said "we cannot; while you have it in your power to get water." And the man bathed and died. And when we came before the Prophet, and acquainted him with the business, he said, "people killed him, may GOD kill them. Why did not they ask of the learned the rules for it? There is no remedy for want of knowledge, but asking the learned. It would have been sufficient for him to have performed Tayammum, and to have tied a cloth over his wound, and then touched it, and washed his whole body with water."

When earth has been used for purification and water is afterwards found, ablution with it is not necessary; yet it is meritorious.

AB'U-SA'ID-AL-KHUD'HR'I said, 'two men came out to travel; and the time for prayer came, and they had no water, and they performed Tayammum with clean earth, and went through their prayers; after which they found water: one of them performed Wadú, and said his prayers again; the other thought it sufficient, and did not: and they both came before the Prophet; and mentioned this case. He said to the person who did not repeat his prayers, "you have found one of the ways of religion: what you did is enough." And he said to the person who had repeated his prayers, "for thee are two rewards; one for saying the divine prayers from Tayammum; and the other after getting water."

Part Third.

The manner of performing Tayammum by the Prophet's companions.

AB'UL-JUHAIM-BIN-H'A'RITH said, 'the Prophet returned from a place called Bir Jamal,* and met a man, who saluted him; which his majesty did not return, till he turned his face towards a wall; and he touched his face and both hands, after which he returned the man's salutation. AMM'AR-BIN-YA'SIR related that the companions performed Tayammum, when they were with the Prophet, for the morning prayers; and struck the palms of their hands upon earth; and then touched their faces once, then put their hands upon clean earth again; and touched their arms up to the shoulder; and from the under part of the side.

I will soon tell you, how the Friday bathing began: men were used to daily labour, and dressed in blankets, and took loads upon their backs; and their Masjid was confined; its roof being low, and it was only like a place made for shade: and the Prophet came out on a holiday; and the people sweated to such a degree as to cause a disagreeable smell: and when the Prophet perceived it, he said "O! men! bathe on Friday; and put some scent upon your clothes." ON THE MENSES.

ANAS said, 'when a woman amongst the Jews had the menses, they would not eat with her, or bring her into the house, or sit with her. And the friends of the Prophet asked him, if this custom of the Jews was right or wrong; and GOD sent down this revelation to contradict the Jews. "They ask you the rules for the menses; say, O MUH'AMMED! the menses are filthy and loathsome, therefore avoid women in that condition, and go not near them till they are pure." Then MUH'AMMED said, in explanation of this revelation, "do every thing with women in the menses, except having connexion with them." And the Jews heard of this, and said, "this man opposes our customs in every thing. Then USAID IBN HU'DAIR* and ABB'AD IBN BISHR† came to the Prophet and said, "O Prophet of GOD! verily the Jews say so and so: then must we not sit with our women in that state?" 'I was drinking water when in the menses, after which I gave the cup to the Prophet; and he put his mouth to the place I had drank from, and drank: and I gnawed meat from a bone when I was in the menses, and then gave the bone to the Prophet; and he put his mouth on the place where mine had been.' OMM SALMAH said, 'there was a woman in the time of the Prophet, who had a bloody discharge exclusive of the menses, and I asked the Prophet what she ought to do; he said "she must count the days and nights, during which, in every month, before this complaint, she was accustomed to have the menses, and then leave off her prayers in that proportion every month: and when she has finished that period of time, she must bathe, and tie a cloth between her thighs, till the running of the blood stops; and then perform Wadù for every prayer." ÂDÌ-IBN-THA'BIT,* relates, on the authority of his grandfather, from the Prophet, that he said, concerning a woman with a constant discharge of blood, "she must leave off her prayers for the number of days in every month usual for the menses, and then bathe and perform Wadù for every prayer, and fast."

Prayer and other religious observances lawful during the latter; but not in the former.

HAMNAH-BINT JAHASH† said, 'I had a great discharge of blood, and went to the Prophet to ask him the orders for it, and inform him of my condition: and I found him in the house of my sister ZAINAB, and I said, "verily I have much discharge of blood: what am I to do? for it has prevented me from keeping fast and saying my prayers." The Prophet said, "I will explain to you its rules; you must put a little cotton in the place from whence the blood issues; because that will remove it, and prevent its flowing." I said, "it is more than cotton can stop." He said, "lay a cloth over the cotton, like the bridle on a horse." I said, "it is more than that can stop." And he who does not observe the forementioned forms; God has made no promise for his pardon: if it be his pleasure he will forgive him, if not he will punish him." ABU-UMA'MAH-BA'HALI. 'The Prophet said, "perform your five prayers every day; and fast the month Ram'dàn, and give of your property in charity; and obey the king, so long as he does not act contrary to the orders of God and his messenger; and God will admit thee into paradise."

Prayers to be repeated five times a day; these with fasting and charity will secure admission into Paradise.

AMER BIN SHUAIB. 'The Prophet said, "order your children to say their prayers, when they are seven years of age; and beat them if they do not do so, when they are ten years old; and when they reach ten years, divide their beds."

Children to be early instructed in religious duties.

BURAIDAH. 'The Prophet said, "the promise and agreement which is between me and the prevaricator, is prayer; that is to say, the reason why I do not put to death the prevaricators, and why I give them the rules of Islàm, is because they resemble Muslemàns apparently, in obeying the orders of the religion: therefore he of the prevaricators who does not perform the prayers, verily is an infidel, who has left Islàm."

Part Third.

ABDULLAH BIN MASUUD said, 'a man came to the Prophet and said, "I found a woman in the environs of Medínah, and played with her, and did every thing but connect myself with her; and I am ready: order any thing for me that you wish." OMER said to the man, "verily GOD has concealed from men this circumstance, and if you had kept it to yourself it would have been better." The Prophet gave no answer; and the man got up and went away: and the Prophet sent a man after him to call him back; when the Prophet read this revelation to him: "be constant in the day-break, noon and afternoon prayers, for the day; and the sunset and nocturnal, for the night; for verily virtues do away vices; and this is advice for those who remember me." Then ÂOMER said, "is this for him only, or for all?" The Prophet said, "it is for all."

The remission of sins, not deadly, obtained by constancy in prayer.

AB'UZAR GHAFFA'RÌ said, 'his majesty came out in the winter, when the leaves of the trees had been falling since autumn; and he took two branches from a tree, and the leaves that were on it began falling off; and he said, "O AB'UZAR!" I said, "here am I." He said, "verily Muslemàns say their prayers, for the satisfaction of GOD; and their faults drop therefrom, like the leaves from these branches." ZAID IBN KHA'LID-JUHANÌ. "The Prophet said, whoever shall say two prayers without forgetting or making a mistake, with an attentive heart, and contrite mind, GOD will forgive him all his small faults." ABDULLAH-BIN-ÂMER IBN-AL-Â'AS said, 'The Prophet mentioned the excellence and nobleness of prayer, and said, "whoever attends to the prayers always, they will be a light for him, and a proof for him, and the cause of redemption for him on the day of resurrection: and whoever does not attend to the prayers, not one of those three things will be for him; and he will be with PHAROAH, and HAMAN, and UBAI IBN KHALF * on the day of resurrection, in hell."

Ab'u-Dard'aa said, "The Prophet of God advised me not to associate any one thing with God; or become an infidel; even if I was cut to pieces or burnt; and never to abandon the divine prayers; and said, "whoever abandons the divine prayers intentionally, verily God will be angry with him; and he will not be in God's asylum; also drink not wine, because it is the key of every evil."

CHAP. II.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF THE TIMES OF PRAYER.

Definition of the times appropriated to the five diurnal prayers.

ABDULLAH IBN OMER. 'The Prophet said, "the time for the Dhuhr prayers begins from the inclination of the sun towards the west;* and its latter part is, when the shadow of a person shall be twice his own stature, which marks the time called Ás'r. And the time of the prayer called Ás'r is from that time, till the sun assume a yellow appearance: and the time of the prayer called Maghrib is from sunset, as long as the red appearance in the horizon remains: and the time of the prayer Ishà is from that time till midnight: and the time of morning prayer is from the break of day till the sun rise: therefore, when the sun has risen, you must not read the morning prayer."

BURAIDAH said, 'verily a man asked the Prophet, what the stated times of prayer were: he said, "repeat your prayers with me two days, that I may shew you the times for prayer." And when the sun had declined a little, BILL'AL was ordered to call to prayer; after which he was ordered to repeat the Tacbir for Dhuhr; and then for Ásr, while the sun continued high and bright; and the Prophet afterwards ordered BILL'AL to repeat the Tacbir for Maghrib; and then for Ishà, at the disappearance of the red in the horizon; and then, the Tacbir for morning prayer, at break of day. And when the second day came, he ordered BILL'AL, to delay calling for the prayers called Dhuhr; and said the Ásr prayers whilst the sun was high, but a little later than the first day; and he repeated the prayer of Maghrib before the disappearance of the red in the horizon, and said the Ishà prayers after the lapse of the third part of the night, and the morning prayers when it was clear day light. Then the Prophet said, "where is the questioner about the times of prayer?" The man said, "I am he, O Prophet." He said, "the time for your prayers is between the two which you have seen."

Part Second.

IBN ABBÀS. The Prophet said, "GABRIEL presented himself in the Cábah before me twice, and said Namàzi Dhuhr with me, at a very little declination of the sun; and he read the Namàzi Ásr with me, when the shadow of every thing was double itself; and he read the Namàzi Maghrib with me at the time when people keeping fast begin to eat; and he read the Namàzi Ishà with me after the disappearance of the red in the horizon: and he read the Namàzi Fajr, at that time when it is not right for a person fasting to drink water or eat food; and that time is at the full break of day. On this day, GABRIEL read all the prayers in the first parts of the times; and when the second day came, GABRIEL read the prayers with me, the Namàzi Dhuhr when the shadow of every thing was equal to itself, and the Namàzi Ásr when the sun became yellow, and the shadow of every thing double itself; and the Namàzi Maghrib when people fasting begin to eat, and the Namàzi Ishà when one third of the night had passed; and the Namàzi Fajr when the morning was bright. Then GABRIEL turned his face towards me and said, "O MUHAMMED! these were the times of the Prophets that preceded you, and the time of prayer is between these two."

Part Third.

ÒMER-IBN-UL-KHATTAB said, 'I wrote a letter to my collectors saying, "yerily, the most noble of your actions, in my sight, are prayers. That person who remembers them and attends to them, protects his own religion; and that person who leaves them off, will be the greatest loser in every thing, besides prayers." After that I wrote to them to read Namàzi Dhuhr, in the first part, and the Às'r when the sun was so high, that a horseman might go two or three Farsangs before sunset; and Namàzi Maghrib after sunset, and Ishà when the red in the horizon disappeared: and he who goes to sleep before saying the Namàz Ishà may he not sleep.'

Punctuality in prayer distinguishes the religious man; and the want of it is productive of great misfortunes.

ON EARLY PRAYERS.

SAYY'AR-BIN-SALA'MAH* said, 'I and my father went to ABU-BARZAH-ASLAM'I;† and my father said to him, "how did the Prophet perform the divine prayers?" He said, 'he used to say the Dhuhr prayers, which you call the first prayers, when the sun began to decline from the meridian,‡ and the Âs'r, when one of us could reach the entrance into Medínah from his Masjid while the sunshine remained: and I have forgot what he said about the Nāmàzi Maghrib: and the Prophet used to like delaying a little in the performance of Namàzi Ishā, which you call Âtamah:§ and he considered it very culpable to go to sleep before saying the Ishà prayers, and also to talk after it: and he returned from the morning prayers when people could discriminate one another; and he read, in his morning prayers, from sixty to a hundred commandments of the Koràn." MUH'AMMED-BIN-ÂMER-BIN-HASAN-BIN-ÂL'I said,

BOOK IV. 'I asked JA'BIR, about the times of the Prophet's saying his prayers; and he said, "the Prophet read the Namàzi Dhuhr just about mid-day, and the Namàzi Âs'r whilst the sun continued bright, and the Namàzi Maghrib at sunset, and the Namàzi Ishà early, when many people were present; and when they were but few, he would delay saying the prayers, in expectation of more; and he said the Namàzi Fajr while it was yet dark."

Indulgence in time of great heat.

ANAS said, 'when we said our prayers with the Prophet in the middle of the day, we bowed down our heads upon our clothes, in order to avoid the heat of the ground, which affected our foreheads.' AB'UHURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "when the heat is excessive at the time of Namàzi Dhuhr, procrastinate; because the excess of heat is from the boiling of hell, and the scattering of its fires."

Caution against delaying the duty of prayer to the last, and then hurrying it over.

ANAS. 'The Prophet said, "whoever shall delay the Namàzi Âs'r without excuse, that person is a hypocrite: and so is that person who shall remain in expectation of the sun's being yellow, and then stand up for prayer and hurry himself in his worship, like a fowl pecking its grain, and only mention GOD sparingly." IBN ÔMER. 'The Prophet said, "that person who passes by Namàzi Âs'r, you say of him that he will lose his family or property." BURAIDAH. 'The Prophet said, "that person who omits Namàzi Âs'r intentionally, verily the rewards of his actions for the whole of that day will be vain."

RA'FÎ BIN-KHADÎJ said, 'we read the Namàzi Maghrib with the Prophet, and we finished them when the range of an arrow could be seen from a bow.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'his majesty and his companions said the Namàzi Ishà in the time between the disappearance of the red in the horizon and the expiration of one third part of the night.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'verily his highness said the Namàzi Fajr, and the women, wrapped up in their cloaks, could not be distinguished on account of the darkness.'*

KUTA'DAH said, 'that the Prophet and ZAID IBN THA'BIT ate the 'Tàami Sah'er,† and when they had finished, the Prophet stood up to perform the Namàzi Fajr, and they did so together; and I asked ANAS what time intervened between the 'Tàami Sah'er and the performance of the prayers: he said the time that a man takes in reading fifty commandments of the Koràn.' AB'UDHAR. 'The Prophet said to me, "what will your condition be, and what will you do, when kings rule you, such as will not attend to the laws or prayers, and neglect saying their prayers at the proper times?" I said, "what are your orders for me at that time?" His highness said, "say your prayers at the times appointed, and if you say your prayers with them also, you will be rewarded in addition."

A Muslemàn living under princes who do not observe the stated times of prayer is to say his own at the regular period; but it will be meritorious in him to join in those of the ruler also.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "any person who makes one prostration for the Às'r prayers, before sunset, let him complete his prayer; and whoever makes one prostration for the Namàzi Fajr before the sun rise, let him complete it."‡

ANAS. 'The Prophet said, "whoever forgets a prayer, or goes to sleep in neglect thereof, must say it when it comes to his recollection." AB'U-KUTA'DAH-BIN-NUM'AN-AN'SA'R'I. 'The Prophet said, "no neglect of duty is imputable during sleep; for neglect can only take place when a person is awake: therefore when any one of you forgets your prayers, say them when you recollect."

Prayers if forgotten at the regular time, are to be said when the omission is recollected.

ALI-IBN-AB'UT'A'LIB said, 'verily the Prophet said, "O ALI! there are three things which you must not delay in performing; one is prayer, when its time comes; another the prayers for a bier as soon as it is brought; the third to place in marriage a widow or virgin whenever you meet with a husband for her." RA'FI-BIN-KHADIJ said, 'I used to say the Namàzi Asr with the Prophet; after which a camel was slaughtered, and divided into ten parts, then dressed, and we ate thereof before sunset." ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'we waited one night in expectation of the Prophet to say Namàzi Ishà, and he came out of his house when a third part of the night had elapsed, and then ordered the Muadh'hin† to call to prayer, and then performed them.'

ON THE CALL TO PRAYER.*

ANAS. 'When the Muslemàns came from Mecca to Medinah with the Prophet, they wished to have times appointed for the prayers, in order that all might take care to be present. Some of them said it would be a good plan to light a fire on a high place and assemble on seeing it; or blow a trumpet; others said that lighting fires at the times for prayers was a Jewish custom, and blowing a trumpet the custom of the Christians. Then BILL'AL was ordered to repeat the Tacbir twice with a loud voice, as a signal for prayer.†' and allow a difference of time between Adhàn and standing up to prayer, that people may finish their meals."

Part Third.

WHEN the Prophet ordered a trumpet to be made and blow to assemble people to prayer; ABDULLAH-BIN-ZAID says, 'I saw a person in my sleep who had a trumpet in his hand, and I said to him, "will you sell it?" He said, "what will you do with it?" I replied, "I will use it to call people to prayer." The person said, "shall I shew you a better way than this?" I said, "yes." He said, "repeat the Adhàn twice over." And when I rose in the morning I informed the Prophet of what I had seen. Then the Prophet said, "truly thy dream is true, then stand up with BILL'AL, and tell him what you saw; and repeat the Adhàn along with him, because BILL'AL's voice is stronger than yours." Then I stood up with BILL'AL and told him what I had seen in my sleep. And OMER-IBN-AL-KHATTAB heard what passed, whilst he was in his own house; and he came out quickly, and said, "O Prophet of GOD! I swear by GOD I have had the same dream as ABDULLAH-IBN-ZAID." He said, "praise be to GOD." AB'UBACRAH. Then BILL'AL said prayers, agreeably to the divine commandments; and the Prophet and his companions went to sleep; and when it was near day-break, he laid himself down on the side of his camel and fell asleep, neither did any one of them awake till sun-rise: and the Prophet was the first who awoke, and he was in fear from having slept and neglected the prayers, and he said, "O BILL'AL! what occurred, and why did you go to sleep?" He said, "I was seized in the same manner that you were." His majesty said, "drive your camels hence:" and they led them a short distance away, after which the Prophet performed Wad'ù, and ordered BILL'AL to call to prayer; when he read prayers, and after performing them said, "he who has forgot his prayers let him say them when he recollects them, because GOD says, be steadfast in prayer to remember me."

Part Second.

TALAK-BIN-ALI. 'We came out with an intention of going towards the Prophet, and confessed to him, and said prayers with him, and told him that there was a pagan temple on our ground; and we requested the favor of him to give us the water which remained after he had performed his Wad'ù. And the Prophet called for water, performed Wad'ù, and washed out his mouth; after which he poured water for us into a vessel and ordered us to return, saying, "when you arrive, break your temple and pour this water upon the spot; and build a Masjid there." We said, "verily our towns are distant, and the heat excessive, and the water will evaporate." Then the Prophet said, "add more water to it; because this water will confer a blessing on any other."

The water in which the Prophet had performed his ablutions was sanctified, and conferred like virtue on other water which might be mixed with it.

AA'YESHAH. 'The Prophet ordered Masjids to be built in houses, and to keep them clean and perfumed,' IBN ABB'AS. 'A. G. S. "I was not ordered to built lofty Masjids, and ornament them with sculpture and

"When you shall see a man who is security for keeping a Masjid in repair, be you a witness that he is a Mómin; because GOD says none but those build Masjids, who believe in GOD and the resurrection."

Hypocritical ostentation in worship condemned.

OTHM'AN BIN MADHU'UN. 'I said, "O! Prophet! permit me to become an eunuch."† He said, "that person is not of me who makes another an eunuch, or becomes so himself; because the manner in which my followers become eunuchs is to fast." I then said, "permit me to travel." The Prophet said, "verily the excursions befitting my followers are to fight in the cause of GOD." I then said, "permit me to retire from society, and to abandon the delights of the world." He said, "the retirement that becomes my followers is to sit in a corner of a Masjid in expectation of prayers."

Temptation to be resisted by fasting and prayer.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'The Prophet said, "when you pass through the gardens of paradise, feed there." It was said, "O! Prophet! what are the gardens of paradise?" He said, "Masjids." "And what is there to feed on, O! Prophet?" He said, "these ejaculations, O! holy GOD! Praise be to GOD! There is no GOD but GOD! And GOD is very great!" AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S.' He was among the most noble of the Koraish. He was converted to the Muslemán faith after the capture of Mecca; and, as he was highly esteemed for wisdom and piety, his conversion was a cause of great joy and exultation to the friends of that religion. After which he remained silent, and GABRIEL came; and the Prophet asked GABRIEL, who said, "he to whom this question is put knows no more than the questioner; but I will inquire of my blessed and exalted LORD." Then he added, "O MUH'AMMED! I was nearer to my LORD than I ever had been before." The Prophet said, "how far off wast thou, O GABRIEL?" He said, "there were seventy thousand curtains of light between him and me, and GOD said the worst of all places are bazars, and the best of all, Masjids."

GABRIEL declares that in the sight of GOD Masjids are the best and Bazars the worst of all places.

Idle conversation in a Masjid forbidden.

I perceived at one glance that it was, ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'AB, who said, "go and bring those two persons who are speaking aloud." And I brought them to him; and he asked them what place they belonged to: they replied; "from T'ayef!" ÔMER said, "if ye were of Medinah I certainly would punish you, because you have made a noise in the Prophet's Masjid." MA'LIC. 'ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'AB made an area apart from the Prophet's Masjid, which was called *But'ahà and said, "whoever wishes to read poetry or make a noise, let him go to that place."

It is forbidden to spit in a Masjid.

ANAS. 'The Prophet saw some phlegm in the Kiblah, and he appeared displeased, and stood up and removed it with his own hands, and said, "when any one of you stands up to prayer he must know that GOD is between him and the Kiblah: therefore he must not spit in front of himself, but either on his left side or under his feet," after which the Prophet took hold of the hem of his garment and spit into it, and said, "this is the way you must do in a Masjid." SA'IB-BIN-KHAL'AD said, 'verily a man acted as Imám to a tribe, and spit towards the Kiblah whilst the Prophet was looking on: and he said to the people who had appointed that person their Imám, "let him not act for you in that capacity henceforth." But the man wished to act as Imám to them again, and they forbade him: and when he asked the reason, they told him what the Prophet had said: he then asked the Prophet if he had forbid him: he said, "yes, I did, for verily you vex GOD and his messenger."

MU'AD'H-BIN-JABAL. 'The Prophet, on one occasion, hindered our saying the morning prayers till we were near seeing the sun: then he hastened out of his house, and the Tacbir was called aloud: then the Prophet said prayers in haste; and when he had repeated the Salàm, he said, " sit in your places; and I will inform you the cause of my being so late this morning. I got up early, and performed the Wadù, and said prayers, agreeably to the wishes of GOD; and I felt drowsy in my prayers; after which I awoke, and all on a sudden I beheld my Creator in a most lovely form, and he said " O! MUH'AMMED!" I said, " what do you command?" He said, " what do the angels argue about?" I said, " I do not know." Then I saw my GOD put the palm of his hand between my two shoulders till I felt my breast cold; when every thing in the world appeared clear before me, and I knew the whole. Again he asked about the disputations of the angels. I replied, " they dispute about deeds which cover sins." GOD said, " what actions are they?" I replied, " going on foot to Masjids, and completing Wadù, and giving food to the needy, and speaking mildly to people, and saying prayers at night whilst people are asleep." A small stake is sufficient to guard against intrusion on one's devotions.

ON THE MODES AND CONDITIONS OF PRAYER.

ABÙHURAIRAH. 'A man entered the Masjid when the Prophet was sitting in a corner of it, and he said his prayers: after which he came in front of the Prophet and made a Salàm to him; and after a return of the compliment, the Prophet told him to go back and say his prayers over again, because he had not performed them as he ought to have done, and the man returned and repeated his prayers as the first time; after which he went to the Prophet, who said to him as on the former time; and on the third time the man said, "instruct me, O messenger of GOD." Then his highness instructed him in Wad'ù and prayers, and how to stand in regard to the Kiblah; and said, "when you wish to rise up for prayer, perform Wad'ù, and turn your face towards the Kiblah; after that repeat the Tacbìr, and then repeat of the Koràn what is easy to you; and then bend yourself deliberately; then raise up your head and stand upright; after that bow down your head to the ground, deliberately; then raise up your head and sit at ease; again bow down, and rise up."

And when he had raised his head after inflection, he did not prostrate himself till after having stood quite erect: and after he had raised his head from one prostration, he did not make a second without sitting up in the interval. And he used to lay his left leg down, and his right leg he kept up: and he forbade sitting with the buttocks resting on both heels at prayers, and forbade resting both arms on the ground; and finished his prayers with the Salàm.' MA'LIC-BIN-HUAIRITH. FAD'L BIN ABB'AS.* 'A. G. S.

MUHA'MMED describes the proper mode of praying.

Say not the stated prayers, with less than two or four Racâts at a time; never so little as one: and after two Racâts repeat the Tashahhud,† weep, and humble yourself; after which hold up both your hands, and put the palms of them opposite your face and say, "O my LORD! approve my supplication:" and that person who does not so will lose."

Part Third.

SA'ÏD-IBN-AL-HA'RITH‡ said, 'AB'U-SA'ÏD-KHUDH'RÌ acted as Imàm to me and repeated aloud Allaho Acber! after rising from prostration; and again, ~~when~~ he prostrated a second time; and repeated Allaho Acber! aloud a third time, when he stood up for the third Racât; and said "thus did I see the Prophet do." ~~ABÌ~~ IBN-AL-HUSAIN. The Prophet repeated the Tacbìr in his prayers whenever he bowed his head and raised it up; and never ceased doing so until he died." AB'U 'HUMAID AL SA'ADI. The Prophet reproves a man who had prayed improperly.

Allaho acber! AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet said the Dhuhr prayers with us; and there was a man in the rear rank who said his prayers badly: and when he repeated the Salàm the Prophet called him and said, "fear you not GOD and abstain you not from his punishments? Do not you see how I say prayers? Verily you suppose what you do is concealed from me. I swear by GOD, that I see behind me as well as before me."

CHAP. XII.---PART I.

EXPLANATION OF WHAT SHOULD BE REPEATED IN PRAYER, AFTER THE TACBIR.

ABUHURAIRAH said, 'The Prophet used to repeat slowly what he said between the Tacbir and any Sūrah; and I said, "O Prophet of GOD (may my father and mother be sacrificed for you) what is it that you say between the Tacbir and the Sūrah?" He said, "I repeat, O GOD! separate me far from my sins; like as you have made the east distant from the west; and O LORD! purify me from my offences, as a cloth is cleaned from dirt; O LORD! wash away my sins with water, snow, and hail."

Ejaculations to be used after the Tacbir.

ALI IBN-ABU'TALIB said, 'when the Prophet stood up to prayer he repeated the Tacbir, and said, "I have turned my face towards him who created the heavens and the earths, as I am a Mōmin, and am not of the polytheists; verily my prayers, adorations, life and death, are for GOD; that GOD who is the cherisher of creations: he has no partner; and I was ordered so to do; and I am of the number of the Muslemāns, and the first of them. O LORD! thou art king, and there is no other GOD but thee, thou art my creator and I am they servant; I have oppressed my soul and I confess my sins; therefore pardon all my offences; because no one forgives faults but thee; and shew me the road to the best qualities and dispositions; for no one can direct to them but thee: and turn from me all bad propensities; for none can do so but thee. I am ready to serve thee; and I always assist thy religion: every good is in the hand of thy power, and nothing bad is ascribable to thee. My existence is from thee, and my wish is to return to thee. Thy omnipotence and exaltation exceed my understanding; I ask thee forgiveness and repent." And when he performed Rucùû he would say; "O! LORD! I have bent my back to please thee and to obey thee; and I believe in thee, and worship thee. My ears, my eyes, my brains, my bones and my veins, humble themselves before thee." And when he raised up his head, he would say, "O! my GOD! all praise is for thee, to the full of the heavens and the earths." And when he prostrated himself, he would say, "O! LORD! I have prostrated myself to thee and to no other; and I believe in thee and worship thee. My face is prostrated to its creator, and to him who gave it a form, and to him who gave hearing to my ears and sight to my eyes. GOD is almighty, and the best of creators; O LORD! pardon the sins which I have committed, and those I may be guilty of, those I have secreted and those I have disclosed, and forgive me the faults which thou knowest. For thou knowest them better than I do. Thou art the beginning and thou art the end, there is no other GOD but thee."

The extemporaneous ejaculation of a man in haste,

ANAS said, 'verily a man came into the ranks of people standing up for prayer, when he was out of breath from running; and said, "GOD is very great! Praise be to GOD, the greatest and purest praise! he is the source of every blessing." And when the Prophet finished his prayers, he said, "which of you repeated this?" They all remained silent; and he asked again, but they were silent. He asked a third time: "say, have no anxiety about it, for there is no fault in having repeated those words." Then the man said, "I arrived when I was out of breath and repeated them." Then the Prophet said, "verily I saw twelve angels hastening to try which could first carry them up to heaven."

approved by the Prophet.

Part Second.

ÂYESHAH. 'When the Prophet began his prayers he would say, "immaculate GOD! we praise thee: thy name is great and thy dominion mighty; there is no GOD but thee." ABU HURAIRAH said, 'when the Prophet got up from the second Raçât, he would begin by repeating the Sûrah Fâtihah and did not stop.'

ON READING THE KORAN IN PRAYER.

UBADAH-BIN-SAMIT. ' A. G. S. " The prayers of that person will not be perfect who neglects repeating the Súrah Fátihah." ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " That person who does not say the Omm-al-Korán (i. e. Súrah Fátihah) his prayers will be defective." Then it was said to ABUHURAIRAH, " we stay behind the Imám; must we also say it?" He said, " yes; because I heard the Prophet of GOD say, that GOD said, " I have divided the prayers into two parts; half for myself and half for my servants; praise and thanksgiving for me and prayer and supplication for my servants." Then when a servant says ' all praise to GOD, the cherisher of the universe;' GOD says, ' my servant has praised me:' and when a servant says ' GOD is compassionate and merciful,' GOD says, ' my servant has praised me,' and when a servant says, ' GOD is king of the resurrection;' GOD says, ' my servant has honoured me:' and when a servant says, ' I worship thee and call on thee for support,' GOD says, ' this is the covenant between me and my servant:' and when a servant says, ' shew me the right road, that road which you gave the Prophets and the virtuous, not the road of them with whom thou wert angry, nor the road of those who have strayed;' GOD says, 'this is for my servant, and any thing he may supplicate.'' ANAS. "Verily the Prophet, AB'UBACR and OMER, always commenced their prayers with the introductory chapter,* not with these words, "in the name of GOD the compassionate and merciful."

The congregation to repeat Amen after the Imàm.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When the Imàm says Amen, do you say it also; because the angels say it, and that person who repeats Amen with them, will be forgiven his former faults." AB'U-MU'SA-ASHARÌ. 'A. G. S. "When you say your prayers assembled together, dress your ranks: then one of the number must act as Imàm; and when he repeats Allaho Acber, do you do the same; and when he says, "shew me not the way of those who strayed, and against whom thou art incensed," do you say, "Amen! may GOD accept thy supplications;" and when the Imàm says the Tacbìr and performs Rucùú, do ye the same; because he bows his head before you, and raises it up before you: and when the Imàm says, "hear, O GOD! him who praiseth thee," do you say, "may GOD hear thee."

Proportions observed by the Prophet in his readings at the different times of prayer.

AB'U-KUTA'DAH said, 'the Prophet used to repeat at the noon† prayers, in the two first Racâts, the introductory chapter, and another; and in the two last Racâts, the introductory chapter only: and in the two first Racâts he repeated another chapter in such a manner that we heard him: and he was more prolix in the first Racât than in the second. And he followed the same practice in the afternoon‡ and morning§ prayers." AB'U-SA'ÌD KHUDHRÌ said, 'we noted the space of time of the Prophet's standing up in the noon and afternoon prayers; and we found that in the two first Racâts of the noon-day prayer, it was equal to the time required in repeating thirty verses of the Koràn; and the time he took in the two last Racâts of the noon-day prayer, was equal to half the first. we found the space of time he took in repeating the two first Racâts of the afternoon prayer, equal to the time he took in the two last Racâts of noon-prayer, and in the two last Racâts of the afternoon prayer equal to the half of the two first."

JA'BIR-BIN SAMURAH* said, 'the Prophet used to repeat in the noon-day prayers the chapter entitled "the night"† and in the afternoon prayers, one about the same length; and in the morning prayers, a chapter longer than that." OMM AL FAD'L‡ BINT HA'RITH said, 'I heard the Prophet repeat in the sunset-prayers, the chapter entitled "those who are sent."§ JA'BIR said, 'MU'AD'H BIN JABAL said prayers with the Prophet; after which he came and acted as Imàm to his family: and one night he said the evening prayer‖ with the Prophet, then returned and acted as Imàm to his family, and begun by repeating the chapter entitled "the Cow."¶ And one of the men present stopped, and then repeated his prayers alone: and the people said to him, "are you a hypocrite, that you should leave the rest and say prayers alone?" He said, "by GOD! I am no hypocrite; but separated myself on account of weakness; for I had not strength to bear its length: and I really will go to the Prophet and inform him." And he did so, and said, "O Prophet of GOD! I am the proprietor of camels which I use in carrying water about for sale: this I do during the day, and feel myself tired at night; and verily MU'AD'H said evening prayers with you, then came and acted as Imàm to his family, and began by repeating the chapter of the Cow." Then the Prophet turned to MU'AD'H and said, "O MU'AD'H! do you distress people? Repeat the chapter of the Sun and such like." BAR'A IBN A'AZIB said,

The Prophet commenced prayers with invocation of the name of GOD.

IBN-ÂBBÀS said, ' the Prophet commenced his prayers with these words; " In the name of GOD the compassionate and merciful."†† WA'ÏL-BIN-HUJAR said, ' I heard the Prophet repeat these words: " not of those against whom thou art incensed nor of those who go astray;"‡‡ and then say Amen, prolonging the sound of this last word."§§ Âa'YESHAH said, ' verily the Prophet repeated in the sun-set prayers the chapter entitled Iâràf ‖‖‖ in two Racâts; that is, part of it in the first Racât, and the remainder in the second."

The Prophet forbids the congregation to repeat after the Imàm any part of the Koràn except the introductory chapter.

UBA'DAH BIN 'SA'MIT said, 'we were behind the Prophet at morning prayer, and he found a difficulty in repeating the chapter which he had chosen. The Prophet said, say "O! most pure GOD;" and "praise be to GOD;" and "there is no other GOD but GOD;" and "GOD is very great;" and there is no strength nor power except from GOD." The man said, "O Prophet! these words are for the praise and glory of GOD: then what are for me?" ON RUCUU.

ANAS. 'A. G. S. "Perform the Rucùú and prostrations properly, for I swear by GOD that I see you as well behind me as before me." BAR'A-IBN-AA'ZIB said, 'the Rucùú and prostrations of the Prophet, and his sittings in the intervals of two prostrations; and raising up his head from Rucùú, were nearly equal in point of time; except that his standings up and sittings were undoubtedly longer than the other postures." ANAS said, 'when the Prophet repeated these words: "Hear, O GOD! him who praiseth thee," he stood up a long time; so much so, that we used to imagine he had forgot something: then he would prostrate himself and sit for some time between the two prostrations." AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet frequently repeated, in his Rucùú and prostrations, these words: "We adore thee O our GOD, our LORD, we praise thee O our GOD; pardon us." AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet was used to say in Rùcùú and prostration "The most pure and most holy one is the LORD of the angels and of the spirit."*

Attitudes used by the Prophet in prayer.

* By the word SPIRIT, some understand GABRIEL, who is called the faithful Spirit. Others are of opinion that it means an angel who presides over all Spirits. Some think that under this term are comprised the species of human souls; and lastly, others that it denotes a distinct order of spiritual beings, superior to the angels. ABD-UL-HAK.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When the Imàm repeats, "Hear, O GOD! him who praiseth thee;" do you say, "O GOD! for thee is all praise;" because your words will accord with the words of the angels, and you will be forgiven former faults, and your supplications will be approved." ABDULLAH-IBN-AB'I-AWF'I* said, 'when the Prophet rose up from Rucùú he would say, "Hear, O GOD! him who praiseth thee; our LORD, all praise to thee!"

Part Second.

Ejaculations to be used in those postures.

ABU-MASUUD-ANSARI. A. G. S. "The prayers of a person will not be accepted till he keep his back even in Rucùú and prostration." AWN-BIN-ABDULLAH. 'A. G. S. HUDHAIFAH. 'The Prophet used to say in his Rucùú, "O mighty, immaculate LORD!" and in prostration, "O most high immaculate GOD!" and when he came to any verse which holds forth mercy, he would stop and supplicate the compassion of GOD; and when he came to a verse denouncing indignation, he would stop and say, "GOD defend me from punishments."

AWF-BIN-MÀLIC* said, 'I recited prayers with the Prophet, and when he performed Rucùû he continued in that posture about the time that would be required to repeat the chapter of the cow.' IBN-JUBAIR. 'I heard ANAS-BIN-MA'LIC say, that he never heard any one after the Prophet resemble him so much in reciting prayers as OMER-BIN-ABDUL-AZÌZ.' And IBN-JUBAIR said, that 'ANAS-BIN-MA'LIC reckoned the time of his Rucùû, and found it equal to the time of repeating 'Subhàn Allah!' ten times; and his prostration the same.'

Estimate of the time during which the Prophet used to continue in the various attitudes of prayer.

SHAKÌK said, 'verily HUD'HAIFAH saw a man who did not complete his Rucùû and prostration; and when HUD'HAIFAH had performed his own prayers, he called him, and said to him, "you have not performed your prayers agreeably to the law." SHAKÌK said, 'I imagine that 'HUD'HAIFAH mentioned these words also, "if you die without repenting of such prayers, you will die in a state of rebellion against Islàm and the religion, which GOD created MUH'AMMED to reveal." AB'U KUTA'DAH said, 'the Prophet of GOD said, "he is the worst of all thieves who steals from his own prayers." The companions said, "O Prophet! how is that done." He said, "stealth in prayers is, not completing Rucùû and prostration; which is like a person stealing the property of another."

" what are your opinions of the merits of that person, who drinks liquor, commits adultery, and steals? What should his punishment be?" (This question of the Prophet's was before the precepts, in which those things are forbidden, descended.) They said, " God and his messenger know best." He said, " those are great sins, and the punishments for them very severe."

CHAP. XV.---PART I.

ON THE NATURE OF PROSTRATION AND ITS EXCELLELCE.

IBN ABBÀS said, ' A. G. S. " I was ordered to prostrate on seven members; on my forehead, my two hands, my two knees, and the toes of both my feet, and I was ordered not to tuck up my clothes, or put up my hair under my cap at prayer."

Seven parts are to touch the ground in prostration.

ANAS. ' A. G. S. " Keep up your elbows from the ground, and your belly from your thighs, in prostration; and do not spread your arms like a dog." BAR'A-BIN-ÁA'ZIB. ' A. G. S. " When you prostrate yourselves, put both your hands upon the ground, and keep your elbows up. This order is for men; but women must put their elbows on the ground." MA'IMU'NAH said, ' when the Prophet prostrated himself he kept both his arms away from his sides, and his belly from his thighs: his arms were so far from his sides, that a lamb might have passed through." ABDULLAH-BIN-MA'LIC said, ' when the Prophet prostrated himself, he kept his arms separate, so that the whiteness of his sides was seen.'

Ejaculations to be used in prostration.

AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet said in his prostration; "O LORD! forgive me all my faults, the many and the few, the great and the small, the first and the last, the secret, and the disclosed." AA'YESHAH said, 'I missed the Prophet one night, and could not find him; and I got up and looked for him; when my hands fell upon the soles of his feet whilst he was in prostration, and his feet were erect. And he said, "O GOD! verily, I seek protection in thy good pleasure against thy indignation; and in thy beneficence against thy vengeance: I cannot recount thy praises, like as thou hast glorified thyself." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "A creature is nearest his GOD at the time of prostration; therefore pour out your supplications at that time." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S.

The worship of GOD in prostration is rewarded with paradise.

"When man repeats the chapter of adoration* he prostrates himself, and the devil flies away and weeps, and says, "Alas! alas! the son of ADAM was ordered to prostrate himself, and he has done so; and for him is paradise: and I was ordered to prostrate myself, but I refused, and did not; and for me is hell."

RA'BI'A-BIN-CA'B† said, 'I was frequently attendant on the Prophet at night; and used to fetch him water, for Wa'dù and other purposes: and he said to me one day, "ask any thing you wish for, of worldly goods and of the world to come." Then I said, "I wish to be with you in paradise." He said, "ask something else; because this eminence which you request is infinitely great." I replied, "my desire is that which I have petitioned you for." Then the Prophet said, "I will use my endeavours towards the attainment of your wishes, but you must also strive." MA'D'AN-BIN-TALH'AH‡ said, 'I met THAWB'AN, who had been emancipated by the Prophet, and said to him, "teach me an act, by the performance of which GOD will receive me into paradise:" and THAWB'AN gave no answer. Again I asked him, but he was silent: and again, when he said, "I asked the Prophet about the act which you require to know; and he said, "prostrate thyself much, and say many prayers; because thou dost never prostrate thyself once for GOD's sake, that he doth not exalt thy dignity on account thereof, and diminish thy sins." MAD'AN said, 'after this I met AB'U-DARD'AA, and asked him likewise about an act which would give entrance into paradise; and he told me as THAWB'AN had said.'

Part Second.

The Prophet's method of prostration described.

WÁÏL-BIN-HÚJR said, 'I saw the Prophet when he prostrated himself, kneel down, before putting his hands upon the ground: and when he rose up from prostration, he raised up his hands before his knees. AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When any one of you prostrates himself, let him not do it like the sitting of a camel; but let him place his hands on the ground before his knees."* IBN-ÁBB'AS said, 'the Prophet used to pronounce this prayer between two prostrations: "O LORD! pardon my offences, and have mercy upon me, and shew me the straight road, and give me daily bread." H'UD'HAIFAH said, 'the Prophet used to say between the two prostrations; "forgive me, O my LORD!"

* This tradition is in contradiction to the former; and a similar diversity exists in the practice of the different sects. AB'U 'HANI'FAH, SHA'FI'I and AH'MED-BIN-'HANBAL follow the tradition of WA'IL, and kneel before touching the ground with their hands. Whereas MA'LIC, AWZA'I and AH'MED, adhering to the tradition of AB'UHURAIRAH, put their hands on the ground before their knees. ABD-UL-HAK.

'ABD-UL-RAHÍMÁN-BIN-SHIBL* said, 'the Prophet prohibited hurry in prostration, like a cock pecking grain; and forbade spreading the arms like dogs and tigers; and forbade any one taking a particular place for himself in a Masjid, like the sitting of a camel.' ALÌ-IBN-AB'UT'A'LIB. 'A. G. S. "I love for you what I love for myself, and I dislike for you that which I dislike for myself. Sit not at prayer-time upon the ground, with legs drawn up between two prostrations." T'ALAK-IBN-ALI-H'ANAFÌ. 'A. G. S. "GOD approves not the prayers of a servant who does not perform Rucùû and prostration agreeably to law." NA'FÎ said, 'verily ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER said, whoever puts his forehead upon the ground must place the palms of his hands also upon the ground, (i. e. the ends of the fingers towards the Kibla:) and when he raises his forehead from the ground, he must raise his hands also: because the hands join in prostration like unto the forehead.'

ON THE PROFESSION OF FAITH.

IBN OMER said, 'when the Prophet sat in the act of declaring his creed, he would put his left hand upon his left knee and his right hand upon his right knee; and afterwards would hold up his fore-finger as a token of the unity of GOD.' ABDULLAH BIN ZUBAIR said, 'when the Prophet sat in prayer, he would supplicate GOD, and put his right hand upon his right thigh, and his left upon his left; and he held his left knee with his left hand as food is seized by the mouth.' ABDULLAH BIN MASU'UD said, 'when we said prayers with the Prophet we used to say, "peace be to GOD!" (before pronouncing benediction on his servants) "peace be to GABRIEL! peace be to MICHAEL! and the angels." And when the Prophet finished prayers, he turned towards us, and said, "do not say peace be to GOD; for GOD is peace himself; and keeps his servants in safety from all vices and defects, and is himself secure from all calamities and defects." Therefore when any one of you sits in prayer, you must say, "adoration to GOD! the adoration of the tongue, the adoration of the body, and the adoration of alms-giving." These are all for GOD; and "peace be with thee O Prophet! the compassion and blessings of GOD! peace be WÁÏL BIN HUJR said, "verily the Prophet sat after the prostration of the second Racât and spread his left foot, and put his left hand upon his left thigh; and rested his right elbow on his right thigh, and he closed two fingers of that hand,* and formed a ring†; then he extended the fore-finger; and I saw him move that finger during his supplications.'‡ ABDULLAH-BIN-ZUBAIR said, 'when the Prophet supplicated, he held up his fore-finger but did not shake it.' ABU HURAIRAH. 'A man made signs with both his fore-fingers, and shook them, and the Prophet said, " do it with one, because there is but one GOD." ABDULLAH IBN OMER said, 'the Prophet prohibited a man sitting in prayer, and leaning upon his hands, and also from placing his hands upon the ground when rising from prayer.' ABDULLAH BIN MASU'UD said, 'you might say the sitting of the Prophet, after the two first Racâts, in profession of faith, was like sitting upon a red hot stone.'§

JÁBIR said, 'the Prophet taught me the profession of faith in the same way he taught me a chapter of the Koràn, in this way: "In the name of GOD, and by the support of GOD, the adoration of the tongue and of the body, and of alms-giving, are all for GOD: peace be with thee, O Prophet! the compassion and blessings of GOD; and peace be with us and all the virtuous creatures of GOD. I bear witness that there is no GOD but GOD; and I bear witness that MUHAMMED is his servant and messenger. I supplicate GOD for paradise, and GOD defend me from the fire." NA'FI said, 'when ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER sat in prayer, he put both his hands upon his thighs, and made a sign of the unity of GOD with his fore-finger, and continued looking upon it at the same time. After that ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'that the Prophet said, "O LORD! the making a sign of thy unity with the fore-finger is more cutting to the ambition of the devil than an iron instrument." ABU-MASUUD said, "repeating the profession of faith softly is agreeable to the precept of the Prophet."

The extension of one fore-finger during the profession of faith, expresses belief in the unity of the Godhead.

ABD-UL-RAHMAN-BIN-ABI-LAILA* said, "CAB-BIN-UJRAH,† met me and said, "shall I send you a present of a saying which I heard from the Prophet?" I said to him, "yes, send it to me." He said, I asked the Prophet saying, "O messenger of GOD! how must I send blessings on thee? For verily GOD hath ordered me to do so." He said, "thou must say, O LORD! peace be with MUH'AMMED and his family, in the manner that thou didst send blessings on IBRAHIM, and his family: for verily thou art praised and glorified. O LORD! increase thy compassion on MUH'AMMED as thou didst on IBRAHIM and his family: for verily thou art praised and glorified." AB'U-HUMAID-AL-SA'IDI said, 'the companions said, "O Prophet, how shall we send up blessings on thee?" He said, say "O LORD! have mercy on MUH'AMMED, his wives and children; like unto that which thou hadst on IBRAHIM: and increase thy grace on MUH'AMMED, his wives and children; as thou didst on IBRAHIM; for verily thou art praised and glorified." Then I said, "I will give up my whole time in sending up blessings on thee." Then the Prophet said, "in these times thou wilt obtain all thy wishes, both worldly and in futurity, and all thy faults will be hidden, external and internal, first and last."

FAD'A'LAH-BIN-U'BAID* said, 'whilst the Prophet was sitting down, a man came in, and said his prayers; after which he said, "O LORD! have mercy upon me, and forgive me my sins." Then the Prophet said, "thou wast in haste, for thou didst prefer thy supplications, before pronouncing the praises of GOD and imploring his grace for me. When thou shalt have performed prayers, sit; and praise GOD in the manner he is worthy of, and send peace on me; then ask of GOD any thing that thou wantest." Abdullah-bin-Masu'ud said, 'I was saying my prayers in presence of the Prophet; and Ab'ubacr and Omer were also with his highness: and when I sat down after having finished my prayers, I commenced with the praise and glory of God, and grace upon his Prophet; after which I supplicated for myself; when the Prophet said, "ask whatever thou desirest, it will be granted thee." ON SUPPLICATIONS AFTER THE PROFESSION OF FAITH.

ÂAYESHAH. 'The Prophet would supplicate after the profession of faith in these words: "O LORD! I seek protection with thee, from the punishments of the grave; and from the strife of DAJJ'AL, who will come at the end of time, and pretend to be GOD: and I seek for an asylum with thee, from the calamities of life and death. O LORD! defend me from sins, and from those deeds which might cause me to fall into sins; and defend me from debt, which might be difficult for me to discharge." Then a person said to his highness, "it is very extraordinary that you should ask protection from debt." Then his majesty explained the mischief of debt, and said, "verily when a man is in debt, he talks about his situation, tells lies, makes promises, and acts contrary to them." AB'U-HURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet of GOD said, "when any one of you hath finished the last profession of faith, he must ask defence from four things; from the punishment of hell and the punishment of the grave; the afflictions of life and death; and the wickedness of DAJJ'AL." ABU BACR said, I said, "O Prophet! teach me a supplication to make after the last profession of faith." And the Prophet said, "say O LORD! verily I have tyrannized over my own soul, and no one can pardon the faults of thy servants but thou; then forgive me from thy kindness, and have mercy on me; for verily thou art the forgiver of offences and bestower of favours on thy servants."

Âa'mir-bin-Sad-bin-Abi-Wakkas* said, that Sad said, 'I saw the Prophet repeat the Salàm to the right and to the left, so that I saw the whiteness of his cheeks.' Samurah-bin-Jundub said, 'when the Prophet finished prayers he would turn his face towards us.' Anas said, 'the Prophet used, after prayers, to go away from the right.' Abdullah-bin-Masu'ud said, 'let not the devil enter into your prayers,' and he explained it thus: not to walk away from prayers except from the right. Bar'a Ibn Âa'zib said, 'when we said our prayers behind the Prophet, we liked to stand on his right side, that he might turn to us at the time of the Salàm (i. e. turn his blessed face towards us to behold our condition, before he turned it to the left.) I heard the Prophet say after giving the Salàm, "O Lord! defend me from thy punishments on that day when thou wilt raise up thy servants." Omm Salmah said, 'when women repeated the Salàm in the divine prayers, in the time of the Prophet, they used to rise up and go away before the men; and the Prophet remained sitting, as also the men: and the Prophet would say, "O Lord! thou art secure from vices and defects, and from thee is the safety of thy servants:" and when the Prophet stood up, the men did so likewise.

ABDULLAH BIN MASU'UD said, 'verily the Prophet used to give the Salàm from his right, and said, "peace be with you and the compassion of GOD;" so that we saw the whiteness of his right cheek, and then gave the Salàm on his left, and said, "peace be with you and the compassion of GOD;" so that we saw the whiteness of his left cheek.' Á'T'A KHORASA'NÌ* relates, from MUGHAIRAH, that the Prophet said, "an Imàm must not pray in the same place that he shall have prayed before, till he move from that place to some other."† ANAS said, 'verily the Prophet excited men to say their prayers in multitudes, and prohibited them finishing their prayers and retiring before him.'

The voluntary prayers are not to be said immediately after those which are obligatory without moving to another place.

Part Third.

SHEDDÀD said, 'the Prophet used, after making the profession of faith, to say, "O LORD! I supplicate thee for firmness in faith and inclination towards the straight way, and to aid me in being grateful to thee, and in worshipping thee in every good way; and I supplicate thee for an innocent heart, which shall not incline to wickedness; and I supplicate thee for a true tongue, and for that virtue, which thou knowest to be so, and to defend me from that vice, which thou knowest to be so; and for forgiveness of those faults which thou knowest." ON WHAT SHOULD BE REPEATED AFTER PRAYERS.

IBN-ÂBBÂS. 'I used to know the conclusion of the Prophet's prayers by his repeating the Tacbîr, with a loud voice.' Â'A'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet gave the Salâm he did not sit longer than just to say these words, "O LORD! thou art secure from all defects, and from thee proceeds the safety of thy servants from all calamities and fears: thou art mighty, O LORD of glory and of beneficence." MUGHAIRAH-BIN-SHÎBAH said, 'verily the Prophet used to say, after every one of those prayers which are prescribed in the Korân,* "there is no GOD but one GOD, who hath no partner: for him is dominion, and for him praise; he is powerful over all things. O LORD! there is no one to withhold what thou hast given, nor one to give what thou hast withheld." Â'BDULLAH-BIN-ZU'BAIR said, 'when the Prophet gave the Salâm after his prayers, he would say with a loud voice, "there is no GOD except one GOD, who hath no partner: for him is dominion and praise; and he is powerful over all things. Sad-bin-Abi-Wakka's used to teach his children these words; and would say, 'verily the Prophet of God used to seek protection with God by repeating these words, after every prayer: "O Lord! The advantage in point of religious duty possessed by the rich over the poor, Ab'uhurairah said, 'the poor people of the *Muhájirín came to the Prophet and said, "verily the rich have obtained great rewards and the pleasure of God;" and the Prophet said, "what is this?" They said, "they say their prayers like unto us, and fast as we do, and give alms; but that which we have not in our power, they free their slaves, and we have none to set free." Then the Prophet said, "shall I not teach you an act by which you may attain the greatness of those who have gone before you; and, by which you will precede your posterity; and not one will be more excellent than you, excepting those who do as you may do." Then they said, "instruct us, O Prophet of God." He said, "repeat after every prayer Subha'n Alláh!† eleven times, and Alláho acber,‡ eleven times, and Alh'amdo lilláhi,§ eleven times." Ab'u Sa'lih‖ said, 'the poor refugees returned again to the Prophet, and said, "our rich brethren heard us repeat what you ordered, and did the like, therefore their excellence is greater than ours." ARZAK BIN-KAIS* said, 'ABU RIMTHAH† said prayers with us as Imàm, and said, "I repeated the noon-day prayers with the Prophet, and ABUBACR and ÔMER stood in the front rank,‡ on the right of the Prophet; and there was a man present at prayer: and the Prophet finished his prayers, after which he gave the Salàm to his right and left, so that we saw the whiteness of both his cheeks: after which he changed his place: and the man rose up also with an intention of saying the Sunnat prayers where he was: and ÔMER took him by the shoulder, and shook him, and said, "sit down; verily GOD ruined the people of the book because they did not change their place during their prayers." Then the Prophet lifted up his eyes and said, "O ÔMER! may GOD always keep you in the straight road."

A man reproved for not changing his place between the obligatory and voluntary prayers.

ZAID-IBN-THABIT said, 'the Prophet ordered me to repeat Subhàn-allah thirty-three times after every prayer, and Allàho acber thirty-four times, and Alhamdo lillàhi thirty-three times. 'And a man of the assistants saw an angel in his sleep, who said, "did the Prophet order you to say Subhàn-allah after every prayer so many times?" He said, "yes." And the angel said, "make each twenty-five times, and "there is no GOD but GOD," twenty-five times, that the number of one hundred be ALI-IBN ABU TA'LIB said, "I heard the Prophet say in the pulpit, "that person who repeats *A'yat al Cursi after every prayer, nothing prevents him entering into paradise but life; and whoever says A'yat-al-Cursi when he goes to his bed-chamber, GOD will keep him in safety, his house, and the house of his neighbour." ABDUL-RAH'MAN-BIN-GHANM† relates from the Prophet, who said, "that person who, before rising up from the sun-set and the morning prayers, shall ten times repeat the following words: "There is no GOD but one GOD, to whom there is no partner, to whom is dominion and praise, in whose hand is every good; he gives life and death; and he is powerful over all things," there will be written in the book of his actions, an atonement for every one of these; he will receive ten rewards; and ten faults will be blotted out, and he will gain ten steps; and there will be for him an asylum from every bad deed; and he will be defended from the wickedness of the devil."

CHAP. XX.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF WHAT IS NOT TO BE DONE IN PRAYER; AND OF THOSE THINGS WHICH ARE PERMITTED THEREIN.

MUAWIAH-BIN-HACAM* said, 'whilst I was saying prayers with the Prophet, a man sneezed; and I said, "GOD have mercy on thee!" and the people looked sharply at me: then I said, "what is come to you all that you should look at me thus?" Then they struck their hands upon their thighs: and when I observed these signs thrown out for the purpose of silencing me, I changed countenance and became angry, and wished to say something, and revenge myself on them; but I remained silent, and did not act as my displeasure stimulated. And when the Prophet had finished prayers, he said, "in these prayers which ye and I have been ordered to perform, it is not right to speak to any one; because prayers are nothing but saying Subhan Allah! Allaho acber! and repeating the Koràn." And truly (be my father and mother sacrificed for him) I never saw nor heard of any instructor, either before or after him, better at instruction; and I swear by God, that he neither struck nor shewed me any resentment. Then I said, "O Prophet, I am but newly converted from ignorance, and there are men who practise magick." The Prophet said, "as you have put faith in Islàm, believe not in magick." I said, "I am one from amongst people who consult omens." He said, "have no faith in these either."

In the early part of the Prophet's mission he returned the salutations of those who paid him that compliment during prayer; but not afterwards.

Abdullah-bin-Masu'ud said, 'we repeated the Salàm on the Prophet, whilst he was saying his prayers; which he answered: and when we returned from the king of Abyssinia, we repeated the Salàm on the Prophet, as in the old way; and we said, "O Prophet! we repeated the Salàm to you in prayers, and you answered us; but now you have not done so: what is the reason?" Then the Prophet said, "verily it was right to answer the Salàm formerly; but now it is forbidden." Muaik'ib* said, 'the Prophet forbade a man from levelling the dust where he prostrated himself; therefore if you do it at all, do it with your hands once, not every time you prostrate yourselves.' Ab'uhurairah said, 'the Prophet forbade Khasr† in prayer.' Aa'yeshah. The meaning assigned to it in dictionaries is a man's middle, or waist; and some allege that the act here forbidden is holding the waist with the hands, to relieve the sensation of fatigue experienced in the positions of standing and of inflexion. Others say that the prohibition alludes to leaning on a staff (Makhs'arat) in prayer. The tradition is thus related by NASA'I; but instead of the latter words AB'U DA'UD says, "there proceeded a noise from his breast, of weeping, like the noise of a mill." And the purport is to prove, that weeping, even aloud, during prayer, does not render the prayer null. The doctrine is thus stated in the Hidáyah, that if one weep and sob aloud in prayer, from thinking on heaven and hell, the prayer is not invalidated; but that it is, if the weeping proceed from worldly considerations. CHAP. XXI.---PART I.

ON FORGETTING IN PRAYER.

ABUHURAIRAH said, "A. G. S. "Verily when any one of you stands up to prayer, the devil comes to him and casts doubt and perplexity into him, so that he does not know how many Racâts he has said: therefore when any one of you has doubt in his prayers, he must prostrate himself twice in his sitting time." A'TA-BIN-YES'AR* said, A. G. S. "When any one of you doubts in his prayers, and does not know how many Racâts he has said; whether three or four; he must leave the Racât on which the doubt occurs, and build upon that which is certain; after which prostrate twice (which is called the prostration of forgetfulness) before giving the Salâm: and if the person who prays has performed five Racâts, he must go through two prostrations for forgetfulness."

Rules to be observed when a person through forgetfulness has performed less or more than the requisite number of Racâts in prayer.

ABDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD said, 'verily the Prophet performed, in morning prayer, five Racâts; and it was said, "O Prophet, have the morning prayers encreased, which were four Racâts, and are now five?" He said, "why do you ask? Perhaps I have performed more than four Racâts." They said, "you have performed five." Then he prostrated himself

IBN-SARÌN relates, from AB'UHURAIRAH, who said, 'the Prophet acted as Imàm to us, either in morning or afternoon prayer, (which AB'UHURAIRAH mentioned, but I have forgotten,) then the Prophet perfomed two Racâts, then gave the Salàm, and then stood towards a piece of wood which was put in the Masjid, and then leant upon it, and appeared angry, and put his right hand upon his left, and put his fingers through each other, and put his right cheek upon the back part of his left hand, and the people hastened out at the doors of the Masjid.' Then the companions said to one another, "have the prayers been curtailed?" And AB'UBACR and ÔMER were also present, but were afraid to ask the truth of the case. And there was a man amongst the companions whose arms were long, on which account he was called D'H'U'L-YEDAIN,* and he said, "O Prophet! have you forgot, or have the prayers been shortened?" He said, "I neither forgot nor have the prayers been curtailed." Then he said (to the companions) "is it as D'H'U'L-YEDAIN has said?" They answered, "yes." Then the Prophet went in front and performed the two Racâts which had been omitted; after which he gave the Salàm and pronounced the Tacbìr; then supplicated as usual. Then he raised up his head and repeated the Tacbìr.' Then several asked IBN-SARÌN if the Prophet performed the prostration of forgetfulness before the Salàm, or after it? He said, 'verily IMR'AN-BIN-HUS'AÌN said, after it.' ABDULLAH BIN BUH'AINAH said,† 'Verily the Prophet said the noon-day prayers with the companions, and IMRÀN said, 'verily the Prophet said, in afternoon prayer, three Racâts, and then went home: and there came to him a man named KHIZB'AK,* who had long arms: and he said, "O Prophet! you said three Racâts in the afternoon prayer." IN EXPLANATION OF THE TIMES WHEREIN PRAYERS ARE FORBIDDEN.

IBN-ÔMER. The Prophet said, "Ye must not say your prayers at the rising or the setting of the sun: then when a limb of the sun appeareth, leave your prayers, until his whole orb is up; and when the sun beginneth to set, quit your prayers until the whole orb have disappeared; for verily he riseth between the two horns of the devil."* ÛKBAH BIN ÂAMIR said, 'there are three times in which the Prophet forbade us to say prayers, and also to bury our dead in those times. One of them is from the beginning of the sun's rising, till he be completely up; the second at midday, till he begin to decline; the third from the commencement of setting, till the sun be completely set.' ABU SAÎD AL KHUDHRÌ said, 'the Prophet of God said, "there are no prayers, after those of the morning, till the sun be high; and there are no prayers, after those of the afternoon, until the sun be set."

Prayers not to be said at the time of the sun's rising or setting;

nor exactly at noon;

* It is related that the devil takes his post in the air near the sun, and puts his head close to that luminary at the time of his rising and setting; so as to front those who worship the sun at those times, and receive their prostrations. Therefore MUHAMMED forbade his disciples to pray at those times, that their prayers might not be confounded with those of the Gabrs who adored the sun. ABD-UL-HAK.

He said, "repeat the morning prayer, but stop from the beginning of sunrise till he be high; because the sun riseth between the devil's two horns, and at this time infidels worship him: after which say any of the Sunnat prayers that you like, because angels are then present and write your actions until mid-day; at which time leave them; for verily at this time hell is heated: and when the sun hath declined, then say the noon-day prayers, and any of the Sunnat prayers that you wish, until you say afternoon prayers; after which quit your prayers till the sun go down; because verily the sun setteth between the devil's horns, and at this time the infidels worship." ÂMER IBN ÂBASATAH continued, 'then I said, "O Prophet, explain to me the excellence of Wad'u." He said, "there is no man who keeps water near him for Wad'u, and washes out his mouth and nose, and blows his nose, but that the faults of the internal parts of his face, his mouth and nose, are done away; therefore, when you have washed your face, agreeably to the order of GOD, the faults of it fall down with the water from the sides of your beard; after which wash your hands up to the elbow bones, the faults of them will fall with the water from the ends of your fingers; after which draw your hand wet over your head, when the faults of it will fall with the water from the sides of your hair: and when you wash your feet to your heels, the faults of them will fall with the water from the toes: and if you then stand up and say your prayers, and glorify GOD, in the way which he is worthy of, and empty your heart of every thing but GOD, you will be cleansed from your sins, as on the day of your birth."

and ABDULRAH'MAN-BIN-UL-AZ'HAR, sent me to AA'YESHAH, and told me to deliver their Salàm to her, and to ask about two Racâts after the afternoon prayers, whether they were to be performed or not. And I went to her and delivered the message of the three; when she said, "OMM SALMAH is more learned than I: ask her." Then I left AA'YESHAH and returned to those who had sent me; and they directed me to go to OMM SALMAH, who said, "I heard the Prophet prohibit those two Racâts, after the afternoon prayer; after that I saw the Prophet perform them; and I sent a female slave to him, and told her to tell the Prophet, saying; OMM SALMAH says, "O Prophet! I heard you forbid performing two Racâts after the afternoon prayers, and now I see you perform them." The Prophet said, "O daughter of AB'U UMAIAH!* you have asked about two Racâts after the afternoon prayer: verily, men of the tribe of ABDUL KAIS came to me to learn the rules of religion, and prevented me from performing the two Racâts after the noon-day prayers; and the two Racâts which I performed after the afternoon prayer, were those two Racâts."

It is forbidden to perform two Racâts after the afternoon prayer;

MUHAMMED-IBN-IBRAHÌM† relates, from KAIS-BIN-AMER,‡ who said, "the Prophet saw a man who was performing two Racâts after the morning prayer, and he said to him, "the morning prayers are two Racâts: do you perform after them two Sunnat prayers when you know that there are no prayers after them?" JUBAIR-BIN-MU'TAM* said, 'verily the Prophet ordered, saying, "O children of ABD MEN'AF; do not prevent any walking around the Câbah: let them say their prayers any time of the day or night they like; whether at the rising or the setting sun." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'verily the Prophet prohibited saying prayers at mid-day, till after the sun had begun to fall, except on Friday.' ABU'L KHAL'IL† relates, from ABU' KUTA'DAH, who said, 'the Prophet considered prayers unlawful at mid-day, till after the sun had begun to fall, except on Friday; because hell is heated at this time, excepting on Friday.'

Prayers forbidden at other times and places are lawful on Friday and at Mecca.

ABDULLAH said, 'A. G. S. "Verily the sun riseth along with the horns of the devil; therefore when he is high, they separate from each other: and at mid-day the devil is near the sun, but is distant after the sun hath begun to fall; and when the sun is nearly set, the devil is near him again, but after sun-set is again separate: and the Prophet forbade saying prayers at those times." AB'U BASRAH GHAFFA'RI‡ said, 'the Prophet said afternoon prayer with us in Mukhammas,§ and said, "these prayers are such as were ordered for other former Prophets, but they did not execute the orders of GOD, and were not constant in saying them: therefore any one who performs them constantly, will receive two-fold rewards; and there are no prayers after those of the afternoon until

ON JOINING WITH A CONGREGATION IN PRAYER, AND ITS EXCELLENCE.

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'A. G. S. "The prayers which are said in multitudes increase the rewards of those said alone by twenty-seven degrees." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'A. G. S. "I swear by him in whose hand is my life, that I intended that I should have given an order to collect wood, and it might be collected; and that I might order to warn for prayer, and it might be done; then that a man might act as Imàm to others, and he might do so; then that I might punish such as were not present at prayer, and burn their houses upon them. I swear by GOD, if either of them knew that by being present he would get a bone with meat upon it, or two feet of a cow or a sheep, he would be present at evening prayer." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'a blind man came to the Prophet and said, "O Prophet of GOD! there is no one to take me by the hand and lead me to the Masjid:" and he asked the Prophet permission to say his prayers at home, which the Prophet granted. And when the man had turned his back, the Prophet called him and said, "do you hear the voice of the call to prayer?" He said, "yes." And the Prophet said, "do you ABDULLAH IBN OMER said, 'verily the Adhàn for prayer was given in the Masjid, in a cold and windy night, and I said to the Muadhdhin, "beware, say your prayers in your house:" after that I said, "verily the Prophet ordered the Muadhdhin (in a cold and rainy night) saying, "beware, say your prayers at home." If a man be about to eat when the hour of prayer arrives, he is not to join in prayer till he have finished eating.

ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When the Tacbìr is said for divine prayers, there are no other prayers but them." ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER. 'A. G. S. "Every eye is an adulterer;* and whatever woman perfumeth herself, and goeth to an assembly where men are, wishing to shew herself to them, with a look of lasciviousness, is an adulteress." UBAI-BIN-CAB said, 'one day the Prophet said morning prayer with us, and when he had given the Salàm, he said, "is such an one present?" The companions said, "he is not present?" He said, "is such an one?" They said, "no." The Prophet said, "The morning and evening prayers are hardest upon the hypocrites; but if they knew the rewards of them, verily they would come crowding upon their hands and knees; and if they did but know that the rewards for the first rank are as those of a rank of the angels, they would hasten to be present in it; for verily one man saying his prayers with another, is better than alone; and one man with two men is better than that; and the greater the multitude, the greater the reward, and the more liked by GOD."

Women attending public prayers are not to come perfumed.

Prayers with a congregation are better than in private; and the larger the congregation the better.

Part Third.

ABDULLAH-BIN-MASÛÛD said, 'verily I know that no one would abstain from saying his prayers with the congregation, except an hypocrite, whose hypocrisy was known; or a sick person, not being able to go to the Masjid: and if a sick person can go, by resting upon two others, he must do so: verily the Prophet taught me ways of direction; and verily it is one of the ways of GOD to say prayers in Masjids.' AB'U-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "If men and women were not in their houses, verily I would burn their houses for not being present to say prayers with the multitude." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet ordered me, saying, "when you are standing up in a Masjid, and the A'dhân is given for prayer, not one of you must quit the Masjid till he have said his prayers." AB'U SHÂTH'AA* said, 'a man came out of the Masjid after the A'dhân had been called, and AB'UHURAIRAH said, "what! has this man disobeyed the Prophet?" OTHM'AN-BIN-ÂFF'AN said, 'the Prophet said, "he who shall hear the call to prayer in a Masjid, and comes out without an urgent occasion, and does not want to return, is an hypocrite." IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet ordered, saying, "whoever hears the A'dhân, and does not answer it, or come to the Masjid, no prayers are for him, unless he is deterred from coming through fear or indisposition."

The danger which a blind man may incur from noxious animals in the way cannot excuse him from attending public prayers.

Â'BDULLAH-IBN-OMM MACT'UM* said, 'verily, O Prophet! there are a great many stinging, biting animals, in Medínah, and I am blind: will you therefore give me permission to say my prayers at home?" He said, "do you hear hasten to prayer, hasten to prayer, hasten to redemption?" He said, "yes." The Prophet said, "then come hastily." And he did not give him leave to say his prayers at home.' OMM-AL-DARD'AA† said, 'AB'U-DARD'AA came into my house when he was angry; and I said, "what makes you angry?" He said, "I have seen a thing in MUH'AMMED's sects which displeased me; and that is abandoning the prayers in congregation." AB'UBACR-BIN-SULAIM'AN-BIN-AB'U-'HATHMAH said, 'verily Â'MER-BIN-KHATT'AB did not find SULAIM'AN-BIN-AB'U-HATHMAH‡ at morning prayer, and after prayer Â'MER went towards the bazar; and SULAIM'AN's house was between the Masjid and the bazar: and Â'MER went to SHIF'A,‖ the mother of SULAIM'AN, and said, "I did not see SULAIM'AN to-day at morning prayer." She said, "verily he was the whole night at prayer, and sleep overcame him." "A blind man, named ABDULLAH the son of OMM-MACTUM, came to MUH'AMMED and interrupted him, while he was employed with some of the chiefs of the Koraish, whom he was endeavouring to convert. MUH'AMMED, entirely occupied with what he was about, paid no attention to the blind man; who called out to him, "teach me some of those things which GOD hath taught thee." MUH'AMMED turned away and went to his own house, for which he is reproved in this chapter. ON DRESSING RANKS.

NÁUMAN-BIN BASHÍR* said, 'the Prophet used to dress our ranks at prayer, till they were as straight as arrows. This he continued to do till he was convinced that we were masters of it. After this, he came out one day, and stood up till it was near the time for calling the Tacbír for prayer. And he saw a man whose breast projected from the rank; and he said, "O servants of GOD, you must keep your ranks even." Yet the prople of Iràk receive traditions as given by him from his own recollection of the Prophet. He dwelt at Cúfah, and was governor there in the time of MUAWIAH, and of YEZÍD, who removed him from that government for not acting with sufficient vigour when MUSLIM came there to raise up partizans for 'HUSAIN. ON THE RESPECTIVE STATIONS OF THE IMÀM AND CONGREGATION AT PRAYER.

ABDULLAH-IBN-ABBAS said, 'I slept one night in MAIMU'NAH's house; and the Prophet rose up to say the night prayers, and I got up also, and did Wadù, and brought water for the Prophet's Wadù, which he performed. Rules for the choice of an Imàm.

ABÙ-MASÙÙD-ANSÀRÌ said, 'The Prophet of GOD said, "let him act as Imàm to a congregation who knows the Koràn thoroughly: and if all present should be equal in that respect, then let him perform who is best informed in the rules of prayer: and if they are equal in this respect also, let him act as Imàm who is most abstemious: and if equal in this likewise, let that person act who is oldest; but the governed must not act as Imàm to the governor; nor must any person sit in the house of another upon a bed or chair which he shall have prepared for himself without his leave." AB'U-SA'ÌD-KHUD'HRÌ said, 'A. G. S. must act as Imàm." ABU ATIYAN-UKAILI* said, MALIC-BIN-HUAIRITH was accustomed to come to my Masjid now and then, and would enter into conversation with his friends: when one day the time for prayer arrived, and I said to MALIC, "come in front, and act as Imàm." He said, "make a man from amongst yourselves advance and act as Imàm, and I will soon tell you why I do not say my prayers and act as Imàm to you: verily I heard the Prophet say, any person who may go to visit a congregation, must not act as Imàm to it: one from amongst themselves must perform." ANAS said, 'the Prophet appointed IBN-OMM-MACTUM to act as Imàm to a congregation; and he was a blind man.'

A stranger is not to act as Imàm to a congregation.

A blind man may be Imàm.

ABU-UMAMAH said, 'A. G. S. "There are three persons whose prayers do not go beyond their ears; one of them, a run-away slave till he returns to his master; the second, a woman who shall have passed a whole night under the displeasure of her husband; the third, an Imàm, who acts as such to a congregation, and is generally disapproved of and displeasing to them." IBN-OMER, 'A. G. S. "There are three persons whose prayers are not accepted; one of them, who acts as Imàm to a congregation, and is generally disliked by them; the second, a man who says his prayers after the time has passed; the third, a man who sells a free man, claiming him as his slave."

A person who is disagreeable to a congregation must not act as their Imàm.

AMER BIN SALIMAH* said, 'we dwelt near water over which people used to pass, and some mounted and on foot passed by me, and I asked them, saying, "what hath been produced for mankind?† And what kind of man is this?"‡ And they said, "it is said that GOD hath sent him, hath instructed him from above, and that GOD sent him the Koràn." And I took care to remember what they had said, so that you might say their words had fixed themselves in my breast. And there was an Arab tribe that waited the fate of Mecca to determine them about Islàm, and said, "leave that man to his own tribe, which is Koraish; for verily, if he conquer it and take Mecca, he is a prophet and speaker of truth." And when Mecca was taken, every tribe hastened to receive Islàm, and my father hastened, and was the first of our tribe who embraced it: and when he returned to his tribe, he said, "by GOD I am come to you from the true Prophet." And he said that the Prophet of GOD had said, "say such and such prayers at such and such times; that is to say, the way of saying prayers and the stated times for doing so: and when the time of prayer comes, one of you must call the A'dhàn, and he who knows the Koràn best, must act as Imàm. And he looked on all present, and there was not one amongst them that knew the Koràn better than I, because

A child may act as Imàm to adults, if he be better able to repeat the Koràn than any of them.

I had remembered it from the aforementioned people repeating it: then they advanced me and made me their Imàm. At that time I was about six or seven years of age, and had a cloth over me, which, when I prostrated myself, came over my back, so as to expose my posteriors. And a woman present said, "do not Imàms and repeaters of the Koràn cover their posteriors from us?" And cloth was purchased, and a shirt cut out for me. And I never was so much pleased with any thing as with that shirt."

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'when the refugees came to Medínah before the Prophet, SA'LIM,* a freed man of AB'U-HU'DHAIFAH, acted as Imàm to them; when OMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'AB, and AB'U-SALMAH-BIN-ABDULASAD, were of the number.' CHAPTER XXVIII.

IN EXPLANATION OF WHAT IS INDISPENSABLE FOR AN IMÀM.

ANAS said, 'I never said prayers after any one, that repeated them with so much ease and perfection as the Prophet; for verily he attended to the crying of a child; and was concise, that its mother might not be moved." AB'U-KUTA'DAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily I enter into prayer expressly to continue a long time at them; then I hear the noise of a child crying; and I shorten my prayers, because I am well aware of the child's cries making the mother sad." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'A. G. S. "When any of you acts as Imàm to others, he must be concise in his prayers; because there are decrepid, aged and sick persons amongst them: and when any one of you says his prayers alone, he may be as prolix as he pleases." KAIS-IBN-ABU-H'A'ZIM* said, 'AB'U MASU'UD ANS'A'RÌ informed me that a man said, "I swear by GOD, O Prophet! that verily I am not present at morning prayer, and do not join with the congregation on account of

And I never saw the Prophet so angry at any lecture as on that day: and he said, "some of you make others run away from prayer; therefore any one acting as Imàm to a congregation must be easy, and not so tedious as to vex people, and to prevent their assembling together; for verily there are amongst them some who are weak or aged; and others of urgent necessities." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The Imàm says prayers for you, and if he says them right, it benefits him and you also; and, if he blunders, the reward is for you who have said yours rightly, and the punishment rests with him."

Part Third.

OTHMÀN-BIN-ABI'L-AÀS-THAKFÌ said, 'the last word that the Prophet said to me was this: "when you act as Imàm to a congregation, be easy in your prayers." I said, "O Prophet of GOD! verily I find in my nature pride and haughtiness." And the Prophet said, "come near;" which I did; and he made me sit down before him, and put his hand flat upon my breast, and then said, "turn your back to me;" then he put the palm of his hand between my shoulders, and the motive which operated against my acting as Imàm was dispelled. Then he said, "be Imàm to your tribe; and any body who does so must be concise, because there be amongst them decrepid, aged, sick and necessitous: and when any of you prays alone, let him be as long about it as he pleases." IBN OMER said, 'the Prophet ordered me to be easy in my prayers; and he acted as Imàm and repeated the chapter entitled, "they who rank themselves in order."*

The Prophet expels from one of his disciples the pride which rendered him unfit for an Imàm.

IN EXPLANATION OF WHAT SHOULD BE ATTENDED TO BY THE CONGREGATION.

BARÁA-BIN ÂÁZIB said, 'we were saying our prayers behind the Prophet, and when he said, "hear O GOD! him who praiseth thee;" not one of us bent our backs or prostrated ourselves, until he put his forehead on the ground.' ANAS said, 'one day the Prophet acted as Imàm to us; and when he had finished prayers, he turned his face towards us and sat, and said, "take heed, men! that I am your Imàm and guide; therefore you must not perform Rucùû, nor prostrate yourselves before me, nor raise yourselves up from those postures, nor return from prayers before me, for verily I see you from before and behind." ABU-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Do not precede the Imâm in prayer; when he repeats the Tacbir, do ye the same, and when he says, "nor of those who go astray,"* do ye say Amen; and when he performs Rucùû, do ye so likewise; and when he says, "hear O GOD! him who praiseth thee," do ye say, "O LORD, thou art our defender, and for thee is every praise."

The congregation are not to precede the Imàm in any of the attitudes prescribed for prayer.

CHAP. XXIX. Part I. The Prophet prayed in public sitting, when hurt by a fall; and the congregation continued in the same posture.

ANAS said, 'verily the Prophet was riding a horse, and got a fall, and hurt his right side; and he said prayers sitting, and we did the same. And when prayers were over, the Prophet said, "an Imâm was not otherwise established than that you should obey him: therefore, when he says prayers standing, do ye the same; and when he performs Rucùú, do ye the same; and when he rises up, do ye the same: and when he says, "hear O GOD! him who praiseth thee," do ye say, "O our LORD! to thee is all praise;" and when he prostrates himself, do ye so likewise; and when the Imâm says prayers sitting, do ye so also." AAYESHAH said, "when the Prophet's disease became oppressive to him, and he was extremely weak, BILL'AL came, saying, 'the time for prayer is come, and the people are assembled in the Masjid.' The Prophet said, 'order from me ABUBACR to act as Imâm.' And ABUBACR performed prayers on those days. And afterwards the Prophet got a little strength, and he stood up and came to the Masjid, resting upon the shoulders of two men, his feet dragging upon the ground. And when ABUBACR heard the approach of the Prophet, he attempted to go into the rear, for his highness to be in front as Imâm: and the Prophet made a sign to him to stand where he was, and he came and sat himself down on ABU'BACR'S right: and ABU'BACR said the prayers standing, and the Prophet sitting; but ABU'BACR followed the Prophet, and the congregation ABU'BACR." ABUHURAIRAH. "A. G. S. "Are not people afraid to raise up their heads before the Imâm, lest GOD should make them like unto the heads of asses?"

"He who says prayers entirely to please GOD forty days in a congregation, from the beginning; two redemptions will be written for him, one from hell, the other from hypocrisy." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "He who performs Wad'ù agreeably to law, and then goes to a Masjid and finds that people have done prayers; GOD will reward him in the same manner as those who were present and said their prayers; neither will either of their rewards be inferior." AB'U-SA'ÎD-AL-KHUDHRÌ said, 'a man came when the Prophet had finished prayers, and he said, "is there no body to do good to this man, who is desirous of saying his prayers alone, by saying prayers with him, that he may obtain the rewards of the congregation?" Then a man rose up and said prayers with him.'

History of the Prophet's public devotions during his last illness.

ÛBAIDULLAH-BIN-ÂBDULLAH* said, 'I went to ÂA'YESHAH and said to her, "will not you inform me how it was that the Prophet was able to come to prayers during his indisposition?" She said, "yes, I will tell you: the Prophet was ill and said, have the people said their prayers? and said, have the people said their prayers? I said, they are waiting for you, O Prophet: he said, put water for me; which I did: then he sat down and performed Wad'ù, and attempted to get up, but became senseless: after which he recovered, and asked, saying, have the people said their prayers? I replied no, they are waiting for you, O Prophet, to say the evening prayer. Then he sent a person to ABU'BACR, desiring him to act as Imàm: and the person went to ABU'BACR, and said, verily the Prophet orders you to act as Imàm and perform the prayers. And ABU'BACR said to OMER, do you do it: but OMER said, you are the fittest. ABU'BACR executed the office on those days. And the Prophet got a little ease, and came out, resting upon two men, (one of whom was ÂBB'AS;) for noon-day prayer, while ABU'BACR was saying the prayers to the people. And when ABU'BACR saw the Prophet coming, he attempted to go behind. Then the Prophet made a sign to him to remain in his place, and said to the two men (on whose shoulders he was leaning) place me on ABU'BACR's side." Then (ÛBAÌDULLAH says) I went to ÂBDULLAH BIN ABBA'S, and said to him, "shall I tell you a narrative, which was related to me by ÂA'YESHAH of the Prophet's illness?" He said "yes; inform me." And I told him ÂA'YESHAH's account of it. And he did not interrupt any part of it, except that he asked, "did ÂA'YESHAH tell you the person who was with ÂBB'AS?" I said, "no." He said, "the name of the person not mentioned by ÂA'YESHAH was ALÌ." ABU' HURAIRAH said, 'whoever shall arrive when the Imàm is in Rucùú, verily has gained the whole Racât; and whoever has lost the repeating of the introductory chapter, by delay, has lost a great deal of good." ABU'-HURAIRAH said, 'whoever raises up his head or bows it down before the Imàm, the hair of his forehead is in the hands of the devil, who makes him to act contrary to law."

CHAP. XXX.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF THOSE WHO SAY PRAYERS TWICE OVER.

If a man pray in public after an Imàm and afterwards at home with his family; such prayers are Sunnat for him but Farà for the family.

JÁBIR said, 'MUA'DH BIN JABAL said prayers with the Prophet; after which he came to his own family and repeated the same prayers to them.' JA'BIR said, 'MUA'DH said evening prayer with the Prophet, and then returned to his family and repeated the same to them: and the prayers which MUA'DH said to his own family, were Sunnat for himself, but divine for his family.'

one side of the ranks, who had not said their prayers with him; and the Prophet said, "bring those two people to me:" and they were brought, while the flesh of their shoulders trembled through fear: and the Prophet said, "what hindered you from saying prayers with me?" They said, "O Prophet of GOD! we said our prayers at home." His majesty said, "when you shall have said your prayers at home come not here; but when you do so, and then go to a Masjid where people are assembled, say your prayers along with the rest; for verily such will be as Sunnat prayers to you." BUSR-BIN-MIH'JAN* relates from his father, who was in an assembly with the Prophet, and the Ad'ha'n was given for prayer, when the Prophet stood up, and said prayers: and MIH'JAN sat in his place and did not say prayers with the Prophet; who said to him, "what prevented you from saying prayers with the rest? Are not you a Musleman?" He said, "I am a Musleman, O Prophet! but had said my prayers at home." And the Prophet said to him, "when you come to a Masjid, and may have said your prayers at home, and the Tacbir is repeated in the Masjid for prayer, you must say your prayers with the rest."

A man who has prayed at home need not attend public prayers at the Masjid; but if he go there, he must join with the congregation.

A man of the tribe of ASAD the son of KHUZAIMAH† relates, saying, 'I asked AB'U AY'UB ANS'A'R'I, saying, "we say our prayers at home, and then go to the Masjid, and the Tacbir is called there for prayer, and we have some little doubt about saying them twice." He said, "I asked this of the Prophet; who said, in answer to my question; "say them a second time with the multitude, obtaining the like rewards as it." YEZID BIN-AA'MIR,‡ said, 'I came to the Prophet when he was in prayer, and sat down, but did not engage with the rest: and when the Prophet finished his prayers, he found me sitting, and said, "O YEZ'ID! have you not

CHAP. XXXII.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF NIGHT PRAYERS.

Another account of the same.

AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to perform eleven Racâts Sunnat, after evening prayer, till that of the morning; and after every two Racâts, he would give Salâm: and he performed one Racât Witr, then prostrated himself, and remained in that posture as long as any one of you would be in repeating fifty verses of the Korân: and when the crier gave the Adhân for morning prayer, and his highness perceived day-break clearly, he would stand up and perform two Racâts Sunnat, then fall down upon his right side, till the crier came to inform him of the people having assembled, when he would come out of his house.'

The Prophet's mode of praying in the night.

AA'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet said two Racâts Sunnat in the morning, he would (if I was awake) speak to me; and if not, go to sleep.'

AA'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet performed two Racâts Sunnat of the morning, he would sleep upon his right side.' AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet would, in the course of the night, go through thirteen Racâts Sunnat, one of which was a Racât Witr, and two morning Racâts Sunnat.'

MASR'UK.* 'I asked AA'YESHAH about the Prophet's prayers at night; she said, " he used, some nights, to say seven Sunnat prayers; at others ten, and at others eleven, besides two morning Racâts." Âa'yeshah said, 'the Prophet used to get up in the night to perform prayers, and begin them with two easy Racâts.' Ab'uhurairah. 'A. G. S. " When any one of you gets up in the night to prayers, he must begin with two short Racâts."

Another account of the same.

Ibn-Âbb'as said, 'I was one night near Maimu'nah, and the Prophet there also; and he talked with her one hour; then went to sleep: and when a third part of the night remained, or a sixth, he awoke and sat up, and looked up to heaven, and repeated this revelation: " verily in the creation of the heavens and the earths, and the vicissitude of day and night, are signs to those of understanding of the existence of God;" after which he got up and went towards a bag of water, opened it, and poured some into a cup, and performed Wad'ù well, by putting water upon every part necessary; then stood and began prayers: and I got up from sleep also, performed Wad'ù, and stood to prayers on his majesty's left: when he took me by the ear and put me to his right: then he performed thirteen Racâts Sunnat, then slept upon his right side, till he snored, which he always did when asleep: then Bil'al acquainted him of the arrival of prayer-time; and he got up and performed them, but did not Wad'ù. And this was a supplication of his between the Sunnat and divine prayers of the morning; " O Lord! create light in my heart, and in my eyes, and in my ears; in my right side and my left; light above me and under me; before me and behind me; and make for me a light in my tongue, in my veins, my flesh, my hair, my breath, my skin."

Ibn-Abb'as said, 'I slept near the Prophet in Maimu'nah's house, and he awoke and cleaned his teeth, and performed Wad'ù, and said, "verily in the creation of the heavens and the earths, the vicissitude of day and night, are signs to the wise of the existence of GOD." Then he stood up to prayers, and performed two Sunnat Racâts: and in these two Racâts, the standing up, Rucùû and prostrations, were long. Then he finished and went to sleep, till he snored. And he repeated all this three times; so that all together there were six Racâts; and every time that he awoke, he performed Wad'ù and cleaned his teeth; then performed three Racâts Witr." ZAID-BIN-KHA'LID-JUHANI said, 'verily I looked attentively at the Prophet's prayers one night; and having gone expressly for this purpose, saw the Prophet perform two easy Racâts; then two long Racâts; then two somewhat shorter; then two a little shorter, and two shorter than them, and two more a little shorter than the preceding; after which one Racât Witr; in all thirteen Racâts.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet had grown old, and his disease oppressed him, his night prayers in general were sitting.'

Part Second.

HUDHAIFAH said, 'I saw the Prophet saying his prayers in the night; and he would repeat Alláho-acber thrice, and "O LORD of kingdoms, of omnipotence, and of pomp and greatness!" after which he began his prayers and repeated the chapter of the cow; then performed Rucùû; which was in length of time equal to his standing up; and he said, in his Rucùû, "O my immaculate defender!" then he raised up his head; and his standing after it was like his Rucùû in length; and he said, "all praise is for my cherisher:" after that he prostrated himself; which was like his standing up in point of time; and he said in his prostra-

ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÂMER-BIN-AL-ÂA's' said, 'A. G. s. "Whoever repeats ten revelations, in two night Racâts, will not be included in the neglectful; and whoever repeats one hundred revelations, will be written with the obedient: and whoever repeats one thousand, will be included amongst those entitled to great rewards." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet used sometimes to say his night prayers loud; sometimes in a low tone of voice." IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'The Prophet said his night prayers in such a tone of voice, as that any person standing in the court of the house could hear.'

Prayers are not to be repeated in a very low, nor in a very loud tone of voice.

AB'U-KUTA'DAH said, 'verily the Prophet came out of his house one night, and heard ABU'BACR saying his prayers, in a low tone of voice; and, passing by ÔMER, heard him repeating his in a loud tone of voice. And when ABU'BACR and ÔMER came before the Prophet, he said, "O ABU'BACR, I passed by you, when you were saying your prayers in a low tone of voice; what was the reason of it?" He said, "merely for GOD to hear." And he said to ÔMER, "I passed by you when you were saying your prayers aloud; what was the cause of it?" He said, "O Prophet of GOD, I awake the sleepy and drive the devil away." Then the Prophet said, "O ABU'BACR, raise your voice a little;" and to ÔMER he said, "lower your voice a little." ABU'DHAR GHAFFA'RÌ said, 'the Prophet stood up one night till day-break, in repeating one revelation: "if thou punish them, they are thy servants, and if thou pardon and forgive them, verily thou art wise and all powerful." ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When any one of you shall have said two Racâts Sunnat of morning prayer, then let him lie down upon his right side."

Part Third.

MASRÙK said, 'I asked Âa'YESHAH, what act the Prophet loved best; she said, "that which is continual." And I said, "when did the Prophet rise in the night?" She said, "when he heard the cock crow." ANAS. 'Whenever I wished to see the Prophet at prayer, in the night, I was sure to find him; and whenever I wished to find him asleep, I always did so.' 'HUMAID-BIN-ÂBDUL-RAHM'AN* said, 'verily a man of the companions of the Prophet said, I said to myself, when I was travelling with the Prophet, now I will see how the Prophet performs his prayers. Then, when he had performed evening prayer, he went to sleep on his right side, till late in the night; after which he awoke, and looked up to heaven, and said, "O my LORD! thou hast not created all this in vain:" after which he inclined towards his bed, and took up his tooth brush, threw it into water, and then cleaned his teeth; then stood up and said prayers; so that I just fancied he prayed about the time he had slept. Then he slept just about the time he had been in prayer; after which he awoke, and did as he had done the first time; and said like the first time: and this he did three times before morning prayer.'

CHAP. XXXIII.---PART I.

ON SUPPLICATIONS TO BE MADE AT NIGHT.

The forms of adoration used by the Prophet at night.

IBN-ÂBBÂS said, 'when the Prophet got up to prayer in the night, he repeated this supplication: "O LORD! praise be to thee; thou art the fixer of the heavens and the earth, and every thing which is between them; the angels, Genii and man: thou art the maker of light, of the heavens and earth, and every thing between them: and thou art king of the heavens and earth, and of every thing therein; and thou art the truth, and thy promise of rewards and punishments to thy servants is right, and the sight of thee at the resurrection is true. Thy word is true, heaven is true, and hell is true, all the Prophets are true, and MUH'AMMED is true, and the resurrection is true. O LORD! I worship thee, and believe in thee, and put my whole trust in thee; and my return is to thee, and I fight by thy strength with the enemies of religion. Then pardon my faults which I have been guilty of, and which I may commit henceforward; and forgive the sins I have concealed and disclosed, and those which thou knowest better than I. Thou art the beginning and thou art the end: there is no GOD but thee."

Â'YESHAH said, 'when his highness got up at night, he began with prayer, and then said; "O GOD! thou art the cherisher of GABRIEL, of MICHAEL, and ISRAFI'L,* the creator of the heavens and the earth; thou knowest the hidden and the revealed; and thou orderest, between thy servants, in that which they vary in worship: verily thou directest those thou willest to the straight way." Û'BA'DAH-BIN-SA'MIT said, A. G. S. 'Whoever awakes in the night, and says, "there is no GOD but one GOD; to whom there is no partner; for him is dominion and praise; and he is powerful over all things: immaculate GOD! and all praise to GOD! there is no GOD but GOD; great GOD! there is no power or strength except in GOD:" after which says, "O my defender, pardon my faults;" his supplication will be approved. Then if he perform Wadù, and say prayers, they will be accepted.'

The advantages of nocturnal adoration.

Part Second.

Â'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet awoke in the night, he would say, "there is no GOD but thee immaculate. O LORD! I praise thee and ask thee forgiveness of my sins, and ask thy mercy. O LORD! encrease my knowledge, and incline me not from Islàm to infidelity, after thou hast shewn me the right road. Grant me thy compassion; verily thou art the giver of favours." MU'AD'H-BIN-JABAL. 'A. G. S. "There is not a Muslemàn who goes to sleep on the remembrance of GOD, and awakes in the night and asks a good of GOD, but GOD will grant it him." SHARÌK-HAWZANÌ† said, 'I went to Â'YESHAH, and asked her what the Prophet began doing when he awoke in the night. She said, you have asked

When the Prophet awoke in the night, he would say, "GOD is very great," ten times; and, "praise be to GOD," ten times; then, "GOD is most pure," and "praise be to him," ten times; and would say, "pure is the most holy king," ten times; and, "I ask pardon of GOD," ten times; and, "there is no GOD but GOD," ten times: after which, "I look to thee for protection from the punishments of the world and the resurrection," ten times; after which he began his prayers.'

Part Third.

ABÙ-SÀÏD-AL-KHUDHRÌ said, 'when the Prophet got up in the night, he said the Tacbìr; then "pure art thou, our GOD, and praise be to thee, and great is thy name; and there is no GOD besides thee;" after which he would say, "thou great and mighty GOD;" then would say, "I take protection with GOD, the heaven and the wise from the cast-out devil, from his craft, his pride, and his enchantment."

RABÍA-BIN-CAB said, 'I slept one night near the Prophet's room, and heard him say, when he rose in the night, "pure is the LORD of the worlds." This he repeated a long time; then repeated, "pure is GOD, praise to him," a long time.'

CHAP. XXXIV.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF THINGS, WHICH UNDERSTOOD, WILL CAUSE A WISH TO RISE AND BE AWAKE IN THE NIGHT.

ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " When any one of you goes to sleep, the devil ties three knots upon his neck; and says, upon every knot, ' the night is long, sleep:' therefore, if a servant awakes and remembers GOD, it opens one knot; and, if he performs Wadù, it opens another; and, if he says prayers, it opens the other; and he rises in the morning in gladness and purity: otherwise, he rises in a lethargick state." MUGHAIRAH-BIN-SHÎBAH said, ' the Prophet stood up so long, in his night prayers, as to swell his feet; and it was said to him, " why do you perform all this devotion, now that all your sins are forgiven, first and last?" He said, " what! shall not I be a grateful servant of GOD?" MASU'UD said, ' a person was mentioned to the Prophet that always slept till the morning, and never got up to prayer: he said, " that is a man in whose ear the devil has pissed." AB'UHURAIRAH said, ' A. G. S. " The mercy of our GOD descends every night to the lowest region (i. e. the one nearest the world,) when the third part of the night remains; and God says, "who is it that supplicates, that I may accept his requests? And who is it that asks of me, that I may grant his desires? And who is it that calls on me for pardon, that I may grant it him?" Ja'bir said, 'I heard the Prophet of God say, "verily there is a time of the night, in which, if a Muslemàn supplicates a good from God, he gives it him; and this time comes in every night." Abdullah-bin-Omer. 'A. G. S. "The best prayers for God, are those of David the Prophet; and the best fast days are his also. David used to sleep half the night, and would be awake and in prayer a third part of the night; and would fast one day, and eat another." Aa'yeshah said, 'the Prophet used to sleep the first part of the night, and to be awake the latter part; after which, if he had occasion to go to his women, he would perform his wishes, then would sleep; and if he was Junub at the first warning for prayer, he would get up and bathe: but if he was not Junub, he would get up, perform Wad'ù, and repeat two morning Racáts Sunnat.'

Part Second.

Abù-Umámah said, 'A. G. S. "Rise for the night prayers; because such was the business of the virtuous that have preceded you; and it is a means of your approaching of your God; and it hides your faults, and prevents sins."

Three acts peculiarly acceptable to God.

Ab'u-Sa'id-al-Khud'hrì. 'A. G. S. "There are three persons with whom God is pleased; one of them who gets up for prayers at night; the second, those who dress their ranks for prayer; the third, those who fall into ranks for the purpose of fighting the enemies of the religion." Amer-bin-Atabah. 'A. G. S. "The time of God's being near his servants, is in the latter part, after the middle of the night; and the time of his servants approaching near to him, is when they prostrate themselves; therefore, if you are able to be of the number of those who remember GOD at that time, be so."

A benediction on those who are diligent in nocturnal prayers, & exhort their families to the same.

ABU'HURAIRAH said, 'A. G. S. "May GOD have compassion on that servant who gets up in the night to prayer, and performs them, and awakes his wife, and she says her prayers also; and, if she delays rising, throws water in her face: and may GOD have mercy on that woman who gets up for night prayers, performs them, and awakes her husband, who says prayers also; and, if he refuses getting up, throws water in his face." ABU-UMA'MAH said, 'It was asked, "O Prophet of GOD! at what time are supplications approved?" He said, "towards the latter part of the night, and after divine prayers." ABU-MA'LIC-AL-ASHARI. 'A. G. S. "Verily there are houses in paradise, in which the external parts are seen from the internal, and the internal from the external; and GOD has prepared them for persons that speak gently, and not with anger or violence; and who feed the hungry, and follow up fasting, and say prayers at night, when others are sleeping."

Part Third.

ABDULLAH-BIN-AMER-BIN-AAS'. 'A. G. S. "O ABDULLAH! do not you be like such a one, who used to get up for night prayers, but has now left it off." OTHM'AN-BIN-ABIL-AA'S' said, 'I heard the Prophet say, that "there was a time in the night in which DAVID the Prophet used to be awake, and to call up his family; and would say, 'O people of DAVID! rise to prayer; because verily this is a time in which GOD accepts supplications; except those of magicians and those who exact unjustly." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "the most excellent prayers, after the divine prayers, are those which are said in the middle of the night." AB'UHURAIRAH said, "a man came to the Prophet, and said, "verily such an one says prayers at night, and steals in the morning." Then his highness said, "verily his prayers will soon deter him from stealing; because prayers prevent wickedness." AB'UHURAIRAH and ABU-SA'ID said, 'A. G. S. "When a man awakes his wife in the latter part of the night; both of them will be included among the rememberers of GOD." IBN-ABB'AS. 'A. G. S. "The most illustrious of my sects are those who can repeat the Koràn by heart; and those who say prayers in the night." ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'verily my father OMER-IBN-AL KHA'T'T'AB performed night prayers as much as GOD wished; till the latter part of the night; when he would awake his family and say, "perform your prayers:" after which he repeated this revelation: "O MUH'AMMED! order your family to prayers."

Prayers effectual in reforming the lives of those who persevere in them.

ON MEDIOCRITY IN RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES.

ANAS said, 'sometimes the Prophet did so fast in a month, that I supposed he did not mean to break it during the whole month; and sometimes would delay it so long, that I supposed he would not fast in the whole month; that is to say, he did not always fast, nor always the reverse; but, in every month, sometimes fasted, and at other times ate: and any night that I wished to see him at prayers, I was sure to find him; and any night that I wished to find him asleep, he would be so: that is to say, he both slept and prayed in the night; neither prayed nor slept all night.' AA'YESHAH said, "A. G. S. "The best act in GOD's sight is that which is constantly attended to, although in a small degree." AA'YESHAH. 'A. G. S. "Do what you are able to do, conveniently; because GOD will not be tired of rewarding, as long as you are not tired of acting." ANAS. "A. G. S. "You must continue at your Sunnat prayers as long as it is agreeable to you; and when you are tired, sit down." AA'YESHAH. "A. G. S. "When any one of you gets sleepy, when saying his Sunnat prayers; let him go to sleep till the drowsiness leaves him: and verily when any one of you performs prayers, and gets sleepy, he is not sensible of what he says:

probably he would blunder; and in the place of asking pardon, abuse himself." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily the Muslemàn religion is easy; therefore hold it firm: but that person will not do so who is not overcome by it; then, when you have understood its nature, then chuse the straight road, and desire to approach GOD; and be joyful, and ask GOD's assistance in your late and early walkings, and the latter part of the night." A person omitting prayer at the regular time may supply the omission afterwards. A'OMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB. 'A. G. S. "If a person sleeps, neglectful of his night supplications, and makes them between the morning and noon-day prayers; that will be equal to his having repeated them at night." A'IMR'AN-BIN-H'US'AIN. 'A. G. S. "say your prayers standing; but if you are not able, do it sitting; and if not sitting, on your side." A'IMR'AN-BIN-H'US'AIN said, 'I asked the Prophet if a man could say his Sunnat prayers sitting.' He said, "if he says them standing, his rewards are greater; and the person who says them sitting, will get half the rewards annexed to the performance of them standing."

Part Second.

A'BU'-UMÁMAH said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "whoever inclines towards his bed when in a pure state, and remembers GOD until he falls asleep; and does not turn about in the night, except from one side to the other; and supplicates GOD for temporal and eternal good, it will be granted him." Perseverance in prayer and fighting to death against infidels are highly acceptable in the sight of GOD. A'BDULLAH-IBN-MASU'UD. 'A. G. S. My defender is pleased with two persons; one, a man who rises quickly from his soft bed, and the warm covering over him, from his beloved, and family, to prayers: then GOD says to his angels, "look at my servant, who has got up from his bed, his beloved, and family, to prayers, wishing to obtain from me good things, and to avoid the fear of my punishments:"

the second, him who fights with infidels in the road of God, and is defeated with his associates, and knows the fault of running away, and the rewards of returning to the charge; and returns and fights till his blood is spilt; then God says to his angels, "look at my servant; who returned to the charge on account of rewards and the fear of punishments, so that his blood was spilt."

Part Third.

ABDULLAH-BIN-AMER said, "I was informed that the Prophet of God said, "the rewards for a man's prayers, when repeated sitting, are half of those said standing:" and I went to the Prophet, and found him saying his prayers sitting; and I put my hand upon his highness' blessed head; and he said, "O ABDULLAH-BIN-AMER! what has happened to you? What are you about?" I said, "I was told, O Prophet of God! that you mentioned the prayers of a man sitting were half of those of a man standing; and now you are saying yours sitting." He said, "yes, it is as mentioned, but I am not like you: (i. e. what I have ordered is for others) my cherisher approves my prayers as well sitting as standing." SA'LIM-BIN-ABU'L-JAD* said, "a man of the companions, who was of the tribe of KHUZ'AA, said, "would to God I had said my prayers! then I should be at ease." And people found fault with him for this expression; and the man said, "why do you find fault with me? because I heard his highness say, O BILL'AL! comfort me with prayer, and call the Tacbir; in order that we may pray and be at ease."

ON WITR,

The Prophet's manner of performing the Witr prayers,

Â'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to perform thirteen Racâts Sunnat in the night; and of them five Witr Racâts successively: and did not sit in any one of them for the profession of faith, except in the last.' SA'D-IBN-HUSH'AM* said, 'I went to Â'YESHAH and said, "O mother of the faithful! inform me of the Prophet's disposition." She said, "do not you read the Koràn?" I replied, "yes, I do." She said, "verily the Prophet's disposition is mentioned and explained in the glorious Koràn." I said, "O mother of the faithful! inform me of the nature and number of the Prophet's night prayers." She said, I always kept a Miswàc and water, ready for him to perform Wad'ù every night; and GOD kept him awake as long as he wished; and he cleaned his teeth, performed Wad'ù, and then nine Racâts Sunnat prayers; and did not sit down during the whole time, except in the eighth Racât. Then he called on GOD, praising him, and repeated the creed; then got up, but gave no Salàm; then performed the ninth Racât; after which he sat down to repeat the creed; and called on GOD, and praised him; then gave the Salàm, so that we heard him; and after the Salàm repeated two Racâts sitting." Then Â'A'YESHAH said to me, "O my son! they are all together eleven Racâts: and when the Prophet became aged and weak, he would perform Witr on seven Racâts; and, after giving the Salàm, would say two Racâts sitting. And those, O my son! were altogether nine Racâts. And when the Prophet did pray, he was fond of saying the same prayers frequently; and when he was overcome by sleep, or pain, preventing his getting up to prayers, he would perform twelve Racâts in some part of the day: but I do not recollect ever hearing the Prophet repeat the whole of the Koràn in one night; or that he continued in prayer the whole night; or that he ever fasted a complete month, excepting Ram'dàn."

IBN Â'MER said, 'verily the Prophet said, "perform Witr in the latter part of the night." Â'BDULLAH-IBN-Â'MER said, 'A. G. S. "Perform Witr before day-break." JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. "Any one that is not able to get up in the latter part of the night, must perform Witr in the beginning of the night; and any one who depends on rising in the latter part of the night, let him perform Witr at that time; because the angels of grace are present at this time; on which account Witr is then more excellent than at the beginning of the night." Â'A'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet has ordained Witr sometimes for the beginning of the night, sometimes at mid-night, and sometimes at the latter part, and has confined it to day-break." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet advised me on three things; one of them, to fast three days of every month; another, to perform two Racâts after sunrise till he was high; another, to perform Witr before going to sleep."

Witr ought to be performed towards the end of the night; but if any person cannot depend on awaking at that time, he may perform it in the beginning;

but it must not be after day-break.

The religious observances prescribed by MUH'AMMED admit of considerable latitude, & are not oppressive.

GHUDAIF-IBN-AL-HARITH* said, 'I said to AA'YESHAH, "did you remark when the Prophet bathed for Janábet, whether was it in the beginning or in the latter part of the night?" She said, "sometimes in the first part of the night, at others the latter part." I said, "Alláho Acber! praise be to GOD, who has ordained such latitude and freedom in the religion." Then I said, "when did the Prophet perform Witr; in the first or latter part of the night?" She said, "sometimes at one time, sometimes at the other." And I said, "Alláho Acber! praised be GOD, who has made religion so open and expanded." Then I said, "did the Prophet repeat the Korán at nights, loud or low?" She said, "sometimes loud, at other times in a low tone of voice." I said, "Alláho Acber! praise be to GOD, who made the matter of religion so spacious and unconfined." ABDULLAH-BIN AB'UKAIS† said, 'I asked AA'YESHAH, how many Racáts Witr the Prophet used to perform." She said, "he used to do it by four and three, viz. he would perform four Racáts, and then three Racáts Witr; total seven; and he would perform Witr by six and three; total nine; and again by eight and three; total eleven: and again by ten and three, total thirteen: and he never performed Witr under less than seven, which are four and three; and he never did more than thirteen, which are ten and three."

O my defender! thou art great and sublime." UBAI IBN-CAB said, 'when the Prophet gave the Salàm in Witr, he would exclaim "Pure is the most holy king!" ALI-IBN-ABUTALIB said, 'verily the Prophet would say, in his last Witr, before the Salàm, "O LORD! verily I seek for refuge in thy pleasure, from thine anger; and in thy pardon from thy punishments, and from thy resentment: I cannot count up thy praises in such manner as thou hast praised thyself."‡‡

IN EXPLANATION OF KUNÙT, OR FIXED MODES OF SUPPLICATION.

ABÙHURAIRAH. 'Verily, whenever the Prophet wished to supplicate, to either the detriment or advantage of any person, he would do it after Rucùû: and he often prayed in this way: "hear, O GOD! him who praiseth thee: LORD! to thee all praise is due:" he would then supplicate for the liberation of some of his companions that were in the infidels' prisons, and say, "O my LORD! free WALÌD-BIN-WALÌD,* and SALMAH-BIN-HUSH'AM† and Âyy'ash-bin-Abì-Rabìa."‡ And he would say for the

His brothers, KHA'LID and HUSH'AM, ransomed him for four thousand direms, and carried him with them to Mecca, where he soon after embraced the Muh'ammedan faith. His brothers asked him why he had not declared his conversion while he was among the Muslemàns, and before his ransom; that so they might have saved their money. He replied, that his conversion might not appear to be merely for the purpose of procuring his liberty. His brothers then confined him at Mecca, and persecuted him severely on account of his religion; and MUH'AMMED prayed for his deliverance from this oppression.

† SALMAH-BIN HUSH'AM-BIN-MUGHÌRAH-MAKHZU'MÌ, the brother of AB'U-JIHAL, embraced Islàm at an early period, and was one of the most learned and most virtuous of the companions. ON THE TARAWÌH* OF RAMDÀN; OR PARTICULAR PRAYERS TO BE SAID DURING THE NIGHTS OF THAT MONTH.

ZAID-IBN-THÁBIT said, ' verily the Prophet made a room in the Masjid, with branches of the date tree, and said prayers in it several nights; until a great many people assembled and followed him in prayers. But one night they did not hear his highness' voice, and supposed that he had gone to sleep: then some of them hemmed; that the Prophet might come out. And he said, " ye always be ambitious to assemble at nights to prayers; so that I am afraid, that they will at last become divine prayers to you: but if they were divine prayers, then you would not again assemble to them: therefore, O men! say your prayers at home: because the most excellent way of your saying Sunnat prayers is at home;

AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet used to encourage people to say night prayers in Ram'dàn; without ordering them positively, or investigating strictly; and would say, "any one that stands up to prayer in the night, wishing rewards, all his previous offences, not of a heinous nature, will be pardoned." Then the Prophet died, leaving the Taráwìh' of Ram'dàn in this way: and those who wished to ask rewards did it in their own way, and there was no assembling for it established. After which, this was the way in the time of AB'UBACR, and in the beginning of the reign of ÒMER.' JA'BIR said, 'A. G. S. "When any of you say the divine prayers in the Masjid, you must say your supererogatory prayers at home; because, verily GOD sends good to your houses on account of your prayers."

Part Second.

ABÚDHAR GHAFFÁRÌ said, 'we kept fast with the Prophet; but some nights in Ram'dàn we did not say prayers, until seven nights of the month remained; during which time we prayed, assembled together, until a third part of the night had passed; i. e. we prayed the first of the seven nights; but not the second, but did in the third, until midnight. And I said, "O Prophet of GOD! it would have been better had you continued repeating prayers more than half the night." He said, "verily when a man says prayers with an Imàm till finished, his account will be taken as having been up all night." And on the fourth night, the Prophet did not pray with us, till three nights remained: on the fifth night he assembled his relations, and women and people, and said prayers with us, till we were afraid that the time for eating our early meal would never come: after which he did not pray with us the remainder of the night.'

Âa'yeshah said, 'one night I did not find the Prophet in my bed,* when I discovered him in Bakìâ.† And he said, "were you afraid that God would do you an injustice; and would you suppose that I would give your turn to another?" She said, "verily, O Prophet! I certainly did imagine that you had gone to some other of your women." He said, "my reason for going out is this; verily God sends down his mercy to the lowest heaven in the fifteenth night of Shâbàn,‡ and forgives sins numerous as the hairs of goats; therefore I was desirous to remain up all this night, to go to Bakìâ, and ask pardon for man." Then I said, "O Prophet! do none enter paradise excepting by GOD's mercy?" He said, "No: none enter but through GOD's favour." This he repeated thrice. Ab'u-hurairah said, 'I heard the Prophet of God say, "verily the first thing which man will be called to give an account of at the resurrection, will be his prayers; and, if they be found good, verily he will find redemption; and, if bad, he will most certainly be forlorn; and if any deficiency be found in his divine prayers, God will say, "Had my servant repeated any of the *Nafl prayers; then the divine would have been completed from the Nafl prayers; then all his actions will be regulated in this manner." Ab'u-Umamah said, 'A. G. S. IN EXPLANATION OF TRAVELLING PRAYERS.

ANAS said, 'verily the Prophet, when at Medínah, performed four Racáts, in noon-day prayer; and said afternoon prayer, at *Dhu'l-Hulaifah with two Racáts.' HA'RITHAH-BIN-WAHB† said, 'the Prophet performed two Racáts with us at Minà when we were very numerous; we had never been in such numbers, and had no fear from the infidels.' YALÍ-BIN UMAIYAH‡ said, 'I said to OMER-IBN-AL-KHATTAB, "GOD hath curtailed the prayers when travelling, when there is fear of alarm from the infidels: now verily we are safe in this journey; how then can we curtail them?" OMER said, 'I wondered in the time of the Prophet, at the thing, which you now wonder at; and asked the Prophet, saying, "as there is no fear existing, why should I shorten my prayers?" He said, "GOD hath done you a benefit in curtailing them, therefore accept it."§

An abatement of the usual prayers is allowed on a journey; & especially when in danger from enemies.

BOOK IV.

ANAS said, 'we went with the Prophet from Medínah to Mecca, and he performed two Racâts in the place of four, on account of travelling; till we returned to Medínah. It was said to me, "how long did you stay at Mecca?" I replied, "ten days." IBN ÂBBAS said, 'I travelled with the Prophet, and he halted nineteen days, and performed two Racâts in the place of four: therefore we perform now, (when halting at any place between Mecca and Medínah nineteen days) two Racâts; and when we halt more than that, we perform four Racâts.'

'HAFS-BIN-ÂA'SIM* said, 'I accompanied IBN-ÔMER on the road to Mecca; and he performed noon-day prayer with me, two Racâts, after which came to his halting place and sat down. He saw people standing up in prayer, and said, "what are those people about?" I replied, "they are saying voluntary prayers." He said, "if I had said them at all, I would have gone through the whole of them." IBN-ÔMER says, 'I accompanied the Prophet in travelling, and he did not say more than two Racâts; and ABUBACR, ÔMER and ÔTHM'AN did the same.' IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'the Prophet would say the noon-day and afternoon prayers at one time; and also those of sun-set and evening, when travelling.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'the Prophet used, when travelling upon his camel, to say prayers fronting any quarter towards which the camel might turn; first repeating his intention to be fronting the Kibla; and he used to make signs for Rucùû and prostrations: and he used also to perform the night prayers in the same manner, excepting the divine prayers. And he would do Witr likewise on his camel.'

AÁYESHAH said, 'the Prophet has done all these things: he both curtailed the prayers, and performed them completely.' IMR'AN-BIN-H'USAÍN said, 'I was with the Prophet in battle, and with him at the conquest of Mecca; and he halted there eighteen nights, but did not perform more than two Racâts; and would say, "O people of Mecca! do ye perform four Racâts, because we are travellers." IBN ÔMER said, 'I said noon-day prayer, with the Prophet, in travelling, two divine Racâts; and after that two Racâts Sunnat; and, in afternoon prayers, two Racâts: but the Prophet did not perform any Sunnat prayers after it: and he performed sun-set prayers, both travelling and stationary, three Racâts; and never curtailed them, whether stationary or travelling. And sun-set prayer is Witr for the day, as night prayer is Witr for the night; and after sun-set prayer he performed two Racâts Sunnat.' MUA'DH-BIN-JABAL said, 'the Prophet was on the expedition to Tabûc; and, when the sun declined before marching, he would say the noon and afternoon prayers together; and if he marched before the sun began to fall, he would delay saying the noon prayers till the afternoon, and then perform both at that time: and so at sun-set; that is to say, when the sun set before marching, he would repeat the sun-set and evening prayers at sun-set; and if he marched before sun-set, he would delay the sun-set prayers until he alighted for evening prayer, and perform both at the latter time.' ANAS said, 'when the Prophet travelled, and wished to perform supererogatory prayers, he would turn his female camel towards the Kiblah and say the Tachbir; after which he would say his prayers in any direction.' JABIR said, 'the Prophet sent me on business, and I returned when he was

IBN ÓMER. 'The Prophet said prayer with us in Minà, two Racâts; and ABU BACR two Raçâts after him; and ÓMER two, after him; and ÓTHM'AN also performed two Racâts in Minà, from the beginning of his reign, during the space of six years: after that he performed four Racâts at Minà.' IBN ÓMER says, that 'when I performed with ÓTHM'AN, at Minà, it was four Racâts; but when alone, two.' ÁA'YESHAH said, 'in the beginning of the prophecy, the divine prayers were two Racâts at each time of prayer, whether stationary or travelling; after which, the Prophet departed from Mecca to Medínah, and the divine prayers were four Raçâts when stationary, and they remained two when travelling.' IBN ÁBB'AS said, 'GOD ordered the divine prayers for the Prophet, four Raçâts stationary, and two when travelling, and one Racât when fearful of being attacked by the infidels.' IBN ÁBB'AS and IBN ÓMER. 'The Prophet ordered two Raçâts of prayer when travelling; and these two are complete ones; and Witr, in travelling, is Sunnat prayer.' MA'LIC said, 'IBN ÁBB'AS used to curtail his prayers, when travelling any distance equal to that between Mecca and Táyef; and also shortened, in travelling to any distance equal to that between Mecca and Usfàn;* and also in any distance equal to that between Mecca and Judda: and MA'LIC said, "this journey is four Barids."† BAR'A IBN ÁA'ZIB said, 'I was in com-

CHAP. XLIII.---PART I.

ON FRIDAY PRAYERS.

ABÙHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " We are last in the world as to our creation, and first in futurity, in rank and honour; besides this, other Prophets received books before us, and we have received a book after them; therefore Friday was ordered as a divine day of worship, for the Christian and Jew; but they have acted contrary to it: then the Jew fixed Saturday as his day of worship; saying, that this was the day on which GOD finished the world, and therefore it is proper for us to refrain from worldly works on this day, and worship him: and the Christian has established the (first day) Sunday, for his worship, because GOD commenced creation on that day; therefore worshipping on that day is in testimony of gratitude to GOD: and he hath fixed Friday for us; so that the Jew and Christian follow us; the Jew on the day immediately following; and the Christian at the interval of two days." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " The best day on which the sun appears is Friday; for in this day ADAM was created; and in this day ADAM was taken into paradise, and turned out from it also on this day; and the day of resurrection will not be on any day but Friday." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " Verily there is a certain hour on

AB'U-BURDAH-IBN-ABU-MU'SA* said, "I heard my father say, that he heard the Prophet of God say, in regard to that hour on Friday, that it is from the time when the Imàm takes his seat in the pulpit, till he finishu the prayers."

Part Second.

ABUHURAIRAH said, "I went towards the mountain of Tar;† and met CAB-AL-AH'AR, who was one of the most learned men of the Jews. I sat down with him, and he related to me passages from the bible, and I related to him the sayings of the Prophet of God. And part of what I said to him was this, that the Prophet said, 'the best day which the sun shines upon is Friday; that ADAM was created on this day, and brought out of paradise also on it; and on this day ADAM repented, and he died on a Friday; and on it will be the resurrection. And there is no one moving thing upon the earth, that does not anxiously expect, on Friday, from day-break till sun-rise, the fear of the resurrection, except the Genii and man, whom God hath made indifferent about it. And there is a time on Friday, in which, should a Muslemàn ask any thing lawful, God will grant it him.'" CAB said, "there is one day in every year, in which that time occurs." I told CAB it was not so; but on every Friday. Then CAB repeated from the bible, and said, "yes, it is on every Friday;" and added, "the Prophet of God spoke true." Jews; and I mentioned to him the argument which I had had with CAB, and told him every thing that had been mentioned about Friday, and that CAB had said at first, "this time happens once in every year." ABDULLAH-BIN-SALAM said, "CAB lied." After this I told him that CAB repeated from the bible, and then said it was on every Friday. Then ABDULLAH said, "CAB spoke true;" and added, "O ABUHURAIRAH! I certainly know when that time is." I said, "do you explain it to me, and be not avaricious." Then he said, "that time is in the latter part of the day Friday." And I said to him, "how can it be so, since the Prophet said it was during the time of prayer?" And ABDULLAH replied, "did not the Prophet say, "any person who having ended his prayers, sits in expectation for others, is as in prayer till he performs them?" to which I said, "yes." And ABDULLAH-BIN-SALAM said, "and this is in the latter part of the day; therefore any one making a request at this time, will have it granted."

The period, on Friday, favorable to the efficacy of prayer, is towards the close of the afternoon.

ANAS. 'A. G. S. "Wish for that time, on Friday, in which there is hope that your requests will be granted; after the afternoon prayer till sun-set." AWS-BIN-AWS* said, 'A. G. S. The companions said, "O Prophet of GOD! how will our blessings on you be made known to you after your death, when your bones will be rotten?" He said, "I verily, GOD hath forbidden to the earth the bodies of Prophets." ABUHURAIRAH said, 'A. G. S. AB'UDARD'AA. ' A. G. S. " Pronounce ye many blessings on me on Friday; because the angels are present; and verily none of you will send blessings on me, that will not be delivered more or less." I said, " what after death?" The Prophet said, " verily God hath forbidden the earth from eating the bodies of Prophets: therefore the Prophet of God is alive." ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER. ' A. G. S. " There is not a Muslemàn that dies in the day or night of Friday, that God doth not preserve from the punishments of the grave." IBN-ABB'AS said, ' I repeated this revelation in the day Arfa: " this day I have completed your religion." ON PRAYERS OF ALARM.

SÁLIM-BIN-ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÔMER* relates from his grand-father, who said, 'I was along with the Prophet in the war with the infidels at Najd; and we fronted the enemy, and drew up our ranks to fight them. And the Prophet stood up to act as our Imàm; when one body of our people stood behind the Prophet for prayers, and another fronted the enemy. The Prophet performed prayers with those near him, and prostrated twice, viz. performed one Racât. Then the body which had said prayers with the Prophet moved away, and relieved the other that was fronting the enemy; when that body came, and his highness performed one Racât with it, and prostrated twice; then gave the Salàm; and all the people stood up, and each person repeated one Racât for himself, and prostrated twice: that is to say, each body followed the Prophet in one Racât, and

IM'AM MA'LIC said of him, that no person in his time so much resembled the primitive fathers of the Muh'ammedan faith, in knowledge, piety and austerity of life. The Khalifah SULAIM'AN the son of ABD-UL-MALIC, saw him in the temple at Mecca, and desired him to make any request that he wished, and it should be granted. And NA'FÎ has related, from IBN-ÔMER, a tradition similar to this; and, in addition, says, that if there is more to apprehend from the enemy than this, prayers are to be said separately, on foot, or on horseback, if not adviseable to alight; but fronting the Kiblah if possible; or, if that is impossible, in any other direction.' NA'FÎ says, 'I do not imagine that IBN ÔMER mentioned all this but from the Prophet himself.'

YEZÌD-BIN-RU'M'AN* relates, from 'SA'LIH-BIN-KHAWW'AT,† who mentions it from people that accompanied the Prophet, and said the prayers of alarm with him, on the day Dhât-al-Rikââ;‡ that 'verily, one body of them drew up in rank with the Prophet, and the other fronted the enemy: and the Prophet performed one Racât with the body near him: after which the Prophet remained standing in his place, and the people finished their prayers by themselves; after which they fell in and fronted the enemy. Then the other body, that had fronted the enemy, came; and the Prophet performed one Racât with them, and remained sitting in his place; and this body finished their prayers by themselves. Then the Prophet gave the Salàm with them.' JA'BIR said, 'we fronted the Prophet, till we came to Dhât-al Rikââ: and when we came under a very shady tree, we left it for the Prophet; and a polytheist came, when

The name in the text, which signifies ragged or patched, is accounted for in two ways: One is, that the Muslemáns, being barefooted, their feet were much galled; on which account they had wrapped about them pieces of their garments. The second is, that there is a mountain there, composed of patches of various colours, red, white, black and yellow. ABD-UL-HAK.

ABULFEDA gives an account differing from both; namely, that the enemy carried standards repaired with patches. His words are لانهم رقعوا رايا تهم quia illi ea loco resarcierunt vexilla sua. The learned GAGNIER has committed a singular oversight in his translation of this passage; (ABULFED. p. 72.) which he renders, quia illi membris suis ibi infatuati sunt; misled by the double meaning of the verb رقع which, with the vowel D'amma to the middle letter, signifies to be mad or foolish.

the Prophet's sword was hanging upon the tree,* and he took hold of it, and drew it out of the scabbard, and said to the Prophet, " are you afraid of me?" He said, " no." And the man said, " who prevents you from fearing me?" The Prophet said, " GOD." Then the companions frightened the man, and he returned the sword into the scabbard, and hung it up on the tree as it was before. Then the call was given for prayers; and the Prophet performed two Racâts with one body; after which they went into the rear, and he performed two Racâts with the other body; so that the Prophet performed four Racâts; two Racâts for each body.'

JA'BIR said, 'the Prophet performed the alarm prayers with us, and we drew up in two ranks in his rear; and the enemy were between us and the Kiblah: then the Prophet said the Tatbir, and both ranks repeated it; then the Prophet did Rucùû, and we the same: then he raised up his head, and we did the same. Then the Prophet went to a low place, to prostrate himself; and the front rank accompanied him, and the rear rank remained standing, fronting the enemy. And when the Prophet had finished the prostration, and the rank also, and stood up; then the other rank went to prostrate themselves, and then stood up; after which, the rear rank went to the front, and the front to the rear. Then the Prophet did Rucùû for the second Racât; and we all did the same. Then the Prophet raised up his head from the second Rucûû, and we did so likewise. Then the Prophet went down, to prostrate himself; and the rank which was nearest his majesty did the same; and the rear rank remained standing in front of the enemy. And when the Prophet and the rank near him had performed their prostration, then the rear rank went down to prostrate themselves; and did it. Then the Prophet gave the Salàm, and so did we all.'

ON PRAYERS AT THE TWO GRAND FESTIVALS.

ABU-SAID-AL-KHUDHRI said, 'the Prophet used to come out on the days *Fitr and Duhá,† to the place of prayer; and the first thing he began to do, after his arrival there, was prayers. Then he finished them, and stood up fronting the people, while they were sitting in their places. Then he gave them advice, and ordered them to pursue good; and if he wished to send out an army, he did so at this time, and ordered any thing else that he wished; after which he returned home.' JABIR BIN SAMURAH said, 'I performed prayers, with the Prophet, at both festivals, frequently, without the Adhàn or Ikámat.'‡ IBN OMER said, 'the Prophet, ABUBACR and OMER, used to say the festival prayers before the Khutbah.' IBN ABBAS was asked, 'were you present with the Prophet at the festival prayers?' IBN ABB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet performed two Racâts on the day of the festival Fi'tr; but performed nothing before them or after them.' OMM A'TIYAH* said, 'we were all ordered, on the days of both festivals, to bring out the menstruous women, and those who remained concealed behind curtains;† and that they should be present with the men: but the menstruous women were to sit on one side, and not say prayers with the rest. And a woman said, "O Prophet! there is a woman who has not a cloth to cover herself with, how is she to come out?" Aʼu-Saïd-al-Khudhrì said, 'verily the Prophet would come out for the two festivals, and begin with prayers; and when finished, he would stand up, and turn his face to the people whilst they were sitting in their places of prayer; and if the Prophet had occasion to send an army to any place, he would mention it to the people, and send it; or if he had any other occasion besides this, he would give his orders: and he used to say, "give alms, give alms, give alms:" and those who gave most alms were the women. Then he would return home. Then the prayers always preceded the Khu'tbah: and during the time of the four Khalifahs; until Merwʼan-bin-Hacam* became governor of Medínah.' Aʼu-Saïd says, 'I came out hand in hand with Merwʼan, till we arrived at the Idgah, when behold! Cathìr-bin-Sult† had made a pulpit there of unburnt bricks and clay; and Merwʼan pulled me by the hand, as if he were pulling me towards the pulpit, to say the Khu'tbah before prayers: and I was pulling him towards the place of prayer, that they might be performed before the Khu'tbah, agreeably to the Sunnat. And when I perceived his design, I said, "what is become of the beginning with the prayers and performing them before the Khu'tbah, which was the practice of the Prophet and his successors?" And Merwʼan said, "O Aʼu-Saïd! dispute not about this matter; verily that which you know is left off: viz. I have abandoned it, seeing it advisable, which is this, if I commenced the prayers before the Khu'tbah, the people would not wait for it." I said, "it is not so, I swear by God, in whose power is my life, you cannot advance any thing better than what I know." This I said thrice; then I returned, and was not present at the meeting.'

months old." UKBAH-BIN-AAMIR relates, that 'the Prophet gave me some goats to divide amongst his companions; which I did, and there remained one yearling, (some say one of six months, others more than one year): and I mentioned it to the Prophet, who said, "sacrifice it." And in one tradition it is said, that I mentioned, "O Prophet! I have obtained a goat:" and he said, "sacrifice it." JABIR relates, that 'verily the Prophet said, "a bullock is a sacrifice for seven people, and a camel also." IBN ABBAS. 'A. G. s. "There are no days in which actions are more liked by GOD, than the ten days of Dhu'l-Hajjah." And the companions said, "O Prophet! are not any days, in which we fight with the infidels, equal to these?" He said, "no fighting in the cause of GOD is equal to the actions of these days: excepting a man who goes out himself with his whole property, to fight in the cause of GOD, and neither one or the other returns."

Exception to this rule.

Part Second.

Forms of worship to accompany sacrifices.

JABIR said, 'the Prophet sacrificed two rams, on the day of the festival of sacrifice, which were black and white, and had horns: and, when he turned their heads towards the Kiblah, he said, "verily I have turned my face to him who brought the heavens and the earth into existence, from nothing; according to the practice of ABRAHAM; and I am not of the polytheists. great GOD," and then killed them.' HANASH* said, 'I saw ALI sacrificing two rams; and I said to him, "what is the reason that you are sacrificing two rams?" He said, "verily the Prophet made a bequest to me to sacrifice for him, and I am doing so; one for myself, and one for him."

An animal for sacrifice must be without blemish.

ALI-IBN-ABU'TA'LIB said, 'the Prophet has ordered me to consider well, that there be no blemish in the animal to be sacrificed: not to sacrifice one with the ears cut, either at top or bottom, or split length-ways, or with holes made in them.' ALI-IBN-ABU'TA'LIB. 'The Prophet prohibited sacrificing a ram with broken horns, or cut ears.' BAR'AA-IBN-AA'ZIB said, 'verily the Prophet was asked, what could not be sacrificed; and he made a sign with his fingers, and said, "abstain from four things; one, a thing born lame, and another blind of one or both eyes; another, a deceased animal; another, being thin, and not having any marrow in its bones."' AB'U-SA'ID said, 'the Prophet sacrificed a ram with horns, high of stature, that looked in blackness, ate in blackness,† and walked in blackness.' MUJA'SHI‡ said, 'verily the Prophet was used to say, "a lamb is sufficient in place of a full grown animal."' AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "a lamb is a good sacrifice."' IBN ABB'AS said, 'we were travelling with the Prophet; and the festival of sacrifice arrived; and seven of us joined in sacrificing a cow, and ten in a camel.'

A cow is a sufficient offering from seven people, & a camel from ten.

AA'YESHAH. 'A. G. S. "Man hath not done any thing, on the day of sacrifice, more pleasing to GOD, than spilling blood: I mean sacrifice: for verily the animal sacrificed will come, on the day of resurrection, with its horns, its hair, its hoofs, and will make the scales of his actions heavy: and verily its blood reacheth the acceptance of GOD, before it falleth upon the ground: therefore be joyful in it." are no days on which God liketh better to be worshipped than the ten days of Dhu'l-Hajjah. To fast either of those days, is equal to a whole year's fast; and getting up in the nights of those days to prayer, is equal to the prayers of the night of power."

Part Third.

JUNDUB-BIN-ÂBDULLAH said, 'I was present with the Prophet, on the day of the festival of sacrifice, and he had not finished prayers and the Salàm, when he unexpectedly saw the flesh of victims, which certainly had been slain before finishing the prayers: and he said, "whoever has slain them before saying prayers, must slay others in their stead." And, in another tradition, it is said, that JUNDUB says, 'the Prophet was saying prayers on the festival of sacrifice, then repeated the Khu'tbah, after which slew the victims, and said, "whoever hath slain previous to our having said prayers, must slay others in their room; but those who have not, before prayers, must slay in the name of God." NA'FÎ-IBN-ÂMER said, 'there are two days for sacrifices, after the first.' IBN ÂMER said, 'the Prophet dwelt ten years in Medínah, and sacrificed every year.* ZAID-BIN-ARKUM said, 'the Prophet's companions said, "O messenger of God! what are these sacrifices, and whence is their origin?" He said, "these sacrifices are conformable to the laws of your father ABRAHAM." They said, "O Prophet! what are our rewards therefrom." He said, "there is a reward annexed to every hair."† The companions said, "and O Prophet! what are the rewards from the sacrifices of camels and sheep, that have wool?" He said, "there is a good also for every hair of their wool."

Victims slain before prayer are unavailing; and the sacrifice must be repeated.

There are three days in Dhu'l-Hajjah in which sacrifices may be performed.

* From hence it may be inferred that the Prophet sacrificed ten years; but chronologists have mentioned that the orders for sacrifices were given in the second year of the Hijra. ABD-UL-HAK.

ABÙHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Let there not be Farâ nor Âtírah." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'Farâ was the first born either of camels, sheep or goats, which the pagans used to slay for their idols; and Âtírah what they slew in Rajab.' The heathen sacrifices abolished.

Part Second.

MIKHNAF IBN-AL-SULAIM† said, 'we were standing with the Prophet on the day Ârfah, and we heard his highness say, "O men! verily there is, for the people of every house, once in every year, a day of sacrifice and Âtírah. Do you understand what Âtírah is? It is that which you call Rajabíyah, which are slain in the month Rajab." This tradition is of slight authority, and AB'U DA'UD says, 'Âtírah is abolished.'

CHAP. LI.---PART I.

ON PRAYERS AT ECLIPSES.

ÂÁYESHAH. 'Verily there was an eclipse of the sun, in the time of the Prophet, after the flight to Medínah; and the Prophet sent out a crier, to call the people to prayers, for the eclipse. And they assembled to prayer, and the Prophet advanced in front to act as Imàm; and he performed four Rucùús, in two Racáts; two Rucùús in each Racát, and four prostrations.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'I never did any Rucùú or prostrations that were longer than these Rucùús and prostrations, which were performed in the eclipse prayers?' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet said his prayers aloud, in an eclipse of the moon.' ÂBDULLAH BIN ÂBB'AS said, 'there was an eclipse of the sun, in the time of the Prophet; and he said prayers: and the people followed him; and he stood up a long time, as long as any one would be repeating the chapter of the cow:* then he performed a long Rucùú; after which he raised up his head, and stood a long time; which was under the first standing; after which he did the second Rucùú, which was under the first in point of time: then he raised his head up from the second Rucùú; and did two prostrations, as is customary. Then he stood up a long time, in the second Racât; and this was shorter than the first standing, in the first Racât; after which he did a long Rucùú in the second Racât, and this was under the first Rucùú, in the first Racât. After this, he raised up his head, and stood a long time; and this was shorter than the first, in the second Racât. Then he did a long Rucùú; and this was inferior to the first, in the second Racât. Then he rose up, and performed two prostrations; and after repeating the creed, and giving the Salàm, he concluded his prayers. And now the sun was bright. Then the Prophet said, "verily the sun and moon are two signs, amongst those which prove the existence of GOD, and are not eclipsed on account of the life or death of any person; and when ye see this, remember GOD." The companions said, "O Prophet! we saw you take something in the place where you stood in prayer; after which we saw you draw back a little." And the Prophet said, "I saw paradise, and gathered a bunch of grapes from it; and if I had taken it for, and given it to you, verily you would have eaten of it as long as the world lasts: and I also saw hell, and never saw such a horrid sight till this day; and I saw that they were mostly women there." And the companions said, "O Prophet, why are the people of hell women in general?" He said "on account of their infidelity; that on account of their disobedience to GOD he said they are ungrateful to their husbands; and hide the good things done them, by all: and if you do good to one of them perpetually, after that, if they see the least fault in you, they will say, I never saw any thing good from you."

Eclipses are manifestations of the power of GOD; but do not occur on account of the death of any one.

The majority of the damned are women; & the reason.

ÂA'YESHAH. There is a tradition from ÂA'YESHAH like that of IBN-ÂBB'AS; and she said, 'then he prostrated himself, a long time, then finished, when the sun was bright; and he said the Khu'tbah, praised and glorified GOD; then said, "verily the sun and moon are amongst GOD's signs; and a proof of his existence, and they are neither eclipsed for the life or death of any person; therefore when you see them, magnify and supplicate

GOD, say prayers and give alms." Then the Prophet said, "O sects of MUH'AMMED! I swear by GOD, there is not any thing which GOD is so jealous of, as his male or female servants committing adultery." And "O sects of MUH'AMMED, I swear by GOD, if you did but know what I know of the future state, verily you would laugh little and cry much." AB'U MU'SA-AL-ASHÀRÌ said, 'the sun was eclipsed, and the Prophet got up in fear of the resurrection; and he went into the Masjid, and said very long prayers, so much so as I never saw him do before; and said, "these signs which GOD sends are neither on account of the life or death of any one; but GOD frightens his servants with them: therefore, when you see any thing of this kind, fear GOD, and take refuge with him, by remembering him and asking pardon." JA'BIR. 'There was an eclipse of the sun, in the days of the Prophet, on the day on which his son IBRAHÌM* died; and he performed six Rucùûs, with the people, in two Racâts; viz. in each Racât three Rucùûs, and four prostrations, two in each Racât, as established.' IBN-ABB'AS said, 'when the sun was eclipsed, his highness performed eight Rucùûs, viz. in each Racât four Rucùûs; and four prostrations, two in each Racât.' ABDUL-RAH'M'AN-BIN-SAMURAH† said, 'I was shooting with a bow and arrows, at Medínah, in the life time of the Prophet; when, all on a sudden, the sun became eclipsed, and I threw down the bow and arrows, and said, "I swear by GOD, verily I will look at An eclipse of the sun on the day that the Prophet's son IBRAHIM died.

* This was MUH'AMMED's son, by MARY, the Egyptian, whom he received in a present from MUKAWKAS, the governor of Egypt. He was born in D'hu'l-Hajjah, A. H. 8; and died on Tuesday, the 10th of Rabì-ul-awwal, A. H. 10, which, according to the table published by GRAVIUS, corresponds to the 15th June, 631. See ABULFEDA p. 95, 120, 147.

There must be some inaccuracy in the dates; for the only solar eclipse which occurred in that year was on the 3d of August. (See PINGRE's Table of Eclipses, in PLAYFAIR's Chronology, p. 197.)

The commentator on the Mishcàt has himself observed one astronomical inconsistency; viz. that a solar eclipse never occurs but in one of the three last days of the lunar month; i. e. at the conjunction of sun and moon; but he gets rid of it by saying that this was a preternatural darkness.

† He is of the descendants of ABD-UL-SHEMS-ABD-MEN'AF. His patronymic appellation is ABU-SA'ID-GHANAMÌ. His original name was ABD-UL-CABAH, and the Prophet gave him that of ABD-UL-RAH'M'AN. He embraced Islàm on the day of the conquest of Mecca.

what the Prophet may do in this new event, of the sun's eclipse; and in what state he now is." And I went to his highness, when he was standing up in prayers, holding up both his hands: and he began with "most holy God!" and, "there is no God but God," "God is very great," and "praise be to God," and supplications; till the eclipse was over: and then he repeated two chapters, and performed two Racâts." Asm'aa-bint-Abu'-bacr* said, 'verily the Prophet ordered to free a slave, at an eclipse of the sun.'

The manumission of slaves recommended in an eclipse.

Part Second.

Samurah-bin-jundub said, 'the Prophet said prayers to us, during an eclipse of the sun, in a low voice.' Acrimah said, 'it was said to Ibn-Abbas "such a woman is dead, which was of the pure wives of the Prophet." And he fell upon his face in prostration; and it was said to him, "do you prostrate yourself at this time?" He said, "the Prophet of God said when you see any token of calamity, then prostrate yourselves; and what can be a greater sign of calamity than a wife of the Prophet's departing from the world?"

She was a woman of a masculine courage; and the brave defence, made by her son, against the troops of Abdulmalic, is ascribed, in a great measure, to her exhortations. NUMAN-BIN-BASHIR said, 'the sun was eclipsed in the time of the Prophet; and he began, in performing the prayers, two Racâts, two Racâts; (i. e. he performed two Racâts whilst the sun remained eclipsed, and two afterwards,) and would ask the people how the sun was, until he became bright. And in a tradition by NASAÏ is this, 'verily the Prophet said prayers, at an eclipse of the sun, like our common prayers: he did Rucùû and prostration.' And another tradition by NASAÏ is this, 'one day the Prophet came out of his house, hastily, towards the Masjid; when the sun was eclipsed; and he continued at prayers till the sun became bright: after which said, "verily, the people in ignorance used to say, that an eclipse of the sun or moon, is on no other account than foreboding the death of a great man; and verily they are neither for the life or death of any one, but are amongst the other creations of GOD: he creates any thing new that he likes; therefore, when either of them are eclipsed, say prayers, till they become light; or till GOD orders some thing else."

CHAPTER LII.*---PART II.

ON PROSTRATIONS FOR GRATITUDE.

Mode of prostration for thanksgiving.

ABÚBACRAH said, 'when the Prophet received a pleasing order, he would fall upon his face in gratitude to GOD.' AB'U-JAFIR said, 'verily the Prophet saw a man, who was very short, weak and defective in his birth; and he fell upon his face, in gratitude to GOD, for not having made him so.'

SAD-IBN-ABÌ-WAKK'AS said, 'we came out of Mecca with the Prophet, intending to go to Medínah; and when we came near Azwazà,† he alighted, and raised up both his hands, and supplicated GOD one Sáât; then fell upon his face in prostration, and remained so a long time; then rose up, and raised up both his hands one Sáât; then fell upon his face, prostrating, and continued so a long time; after which he got up, and raised up both his hands one Sáât, then fell upon his face prostrating. It appears that the companions asked, "what is all this?" The Prophet said, "verily I asked of my LORD, and called upon him to pardon my sects; and he forgave a third of them; therefore I fell down in gratitude, CHAP. LIII.---PART I.

ON PRAYERS IN TIME OF FAMINE.

ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ZAID said, 'the Prophet came out, with people, towards the place of prayer, supplicating GOD for rain, and performed two Racâts; which he repeated aloud, with his face turned to the Kiblah, at the time of supplication: and he raised up both his hands, and wrapped his garment around himself at the time.' ANAS said, 'the Prophet did not use to raise up both his hands very fervently, except in supplications for rain, i. e. did not raise them higher than his breast or face, upon any other occasions; and verily he would raise up both his hands so high, in supplicating for rain, that we could see the whiteness of his arm-pits.' ANAS said, 'verily the Prophet supplicated for rain, and turned up the backs of his hands towards heaven.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet saw rain, after dearth, he used to say, "O LORD! send much rain, and profitable." ANAS said, 'we were caught in the rain whilst along with his highness, and he took off his garment, till he got wet, and we said, "O Prophet of GOD! why have you done this? Is there any art in your taking off your clothes and letting your body get wet?" He said, "there is fresh rain arrived from my LORD."

Part Second.

ABDULLAH-BIN-ZAID said, 'the Prophet came to the place of prayer, and asked for rain, and wrapped his garment around himself, when fronting the Kiblah, i. e. he threw the left end of it over his right shoulder, and right end of it over his left shoulder; then supplicated.' ABDULLAH-BIN-ZAID said, 'the Prophet supplicated for rain; and he had a black blanket over him, and attempted to take the bottom of it and throw it over his shoulders; but finding it heavy and difficult to do, he kept it as it was.' UMAIR said, 'I saw the Prophet calling for rain, near Ahjár-ul-Zait,* near Zawarà; standing up and supplicating, with both his hands opposite his face, but he did not raise them above his blessed head.' IBN-ABBAS said, 'the Prophet came out to supplicate for rain, leaving his best clothes at home, in an humble and lowly manner, and weeping.' AMER-BIN-SHUAIB related, from his forefathers, that 'when the Prophet asked for rain, he would say, "O LORD! grant rain to thy servants, and thy quadrupeds, and scatter thy compassion, and revive thy dead land." JABIR said, 'I saw the Prophet with his hands raised up, and stretched out; and he said, "O LORD! give us rain, and replenish us with water to our fill, to free us from hardships, and not to hurt us; bring forth the fruits of the earth, profitable, without damage, quickly and without delay:" then it began to rain.'

Part Third.

ÂÁYESHAH said, 'the people complained to the Prophet of want of rain; and he ordered the pulpit to be placed; which was done in the Îidgàh. And he ordered the people to come out on such a day. Then the Prophet came out, when a limb of the sun appeared; and he sat upon the pulpit, repeated the Tacbìr, and praised GOD, and said, "verily ye have complained of a scarcity in your lands, and have complained of the rains' not falling in their season: and verily GOD has ordered you to ask and make your supplications to him; and has promised to accept them." After that, the Prophet said, "praise be to GOD, the cherisher of the universe, compassionate in the world and in futurity, king of the day of account, there is no GOD but GOD: he doth what he willeth. O LORD! thou art GOD, there is no GOD but thee, the self sufficient, and we are the poor. Send rain upon us, and make that which thou causest to descend, a means of strength to us; and satisfy us, to a length of time; (i. e. that we may obtain our desire, and our advantage be complete therefrom) after which his highness raised up both his hands, and so that the whiteness of his armpits appeared; then turned his back upon the people, and wrapped on his garment, while standing with both his hands up: then he fronted the people, and descended, and performed two Racâts. Then GOD created a cloud, which thundered and lightened, then rained by the permission of GOD. And the Prophet did not return, from the Îidgàh to his own Masjid, until the waters flowed. And when he perceived people hastening to their houses, he laughed, so as to shew his grinders; and said, "I bear witness that GOD is powerful over all things; and I am witness to my being his servant, and sent by him." ANAS said, 'verily ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB was used, in times of scarcity, to supplicate for rain, by the means of ABB'AS, the Prophet's uncle, and would say, "O LORD! we used to supplicate thee for rain through the means of our Prophet; and thou didst give it us; verily we seek it now through the means of the Prophet's uncle; therefore give us rain." ANAS said, 'then they were given rain.' It is related, that when OMER and his companions used to beg of ABB'AS to intercede for rain, he would say, "O LORD! the sects of thy Prophet have begged my aid; do not therefore cause reproach upon my years, and make me ashamed." Then it would rain. AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "that one of the Prophets came out to supplicate for rain, and behold he passed by an ant, which was sitting with its feet raised up to heaven; and he said to the people, "return ye: for verily your supplication is approved on account of this ant."

CHAP. LIV.---PART I.

ON WINDS.

IBN ÂBBÀS said, ' A. G. s. " I have been assisted with an eastern breeze;* and the tribe of Âád were destroyed by a west wind." ÂA'YESHAH said, ' I never in my life saw the Prophet laugh so that I could see the roof of his mouth: he always used to smile; and when the Prophet saw clouds or wind, he would be melancholy, fearful that peradventure it might be detrimental to the people; its effects were easily perceived in his blessed face." ÂA'YESHAH said, ' when the wind blew, the Prophet would say, " O LORD! verily I supplicate thee, for good from this wind; and good from its nature; and good for that thing for which it is sent; and I seek protection with thee from the bad effects of this wind, and its baneful influence, and from the harm which it was sent to do." And when clouds appeared, he used to change colour: and he would come out, go in, walk forwards and backwards, and when it rained, and passed away without doing harm, his alarm would cease. And this state of the Prophet's mind was well known to ÂA'YESHAH; and ÂA'YESHAH asked him the reason of it. He said, "O Aayeshah! peradventure these clouds and winds might be like those which are mentioned in the history of the tribe of Aád.* For, when they saw a cloud appear in the side of the heavens, they said, this is a cloud bringing rain for us; but it was not so, but a punishment to them, in calling for it in such a hurry; and in it was a grievous wind." Ibn Abbas. IBN ÂBBAS said, 'a wind never blew, that the Prophet did not sit upon his two knees, and would say "O LORD: grant that this wind may be a cause of mercy and not of punishment;" and, "O LORD! make this salutary gales and not a destructive blast."* IBN ÂBBAS says, 'it is in the book of GOD, that "verily we sent a violent hurricane upon the tribe of Âád; and we sent on them a barren wind† and we sent winds producing fruits, and we sent winds giving the joyful tidings of the approach of rains." ÂA'YESHAH said, 'when the Prophet saw a cloud appear in the sky, he would leave any thing that he was doing, through fear; and would turn his face toward it, and say "O LORD! defend me from any thing bad that may be in that cloud;" and if GOD dispelled it, he would praise him: but if it rained, he would say, "O LORD! give profitable rain." GOD will say "such a one of my servants asked you for water, and you did not give it him: did you not know that had you given it him, you would have received its reward from me?"* IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet came to an Áárábì, to visit him. And it was the custom of his highness, when he came to a sick person, to say to him: "grieve not from your pain and sickness, because it is a purifier of your sins to you, if GOD willeth." And thus he spoke to the Áárábì. And the Áárábì said, "it is not so; but it is a fever, which boils like a kettle upon an old man; and that fever which will make the old man visit his grave." In this way I repeated the Mudwwidhàt, blowing upon his hands; and he then rubbed his hands over his body.' OTHM'AN-IBN ABU'L-ÂA'S relates, saying,

The Prophet instructs a sick man how to pray.

'I complained to the Prophet of a pain, which I felt in my body; and the Prophet said to me, put your hand upon the place where you feel it, and say thrice, "in the name of GOD," and seven times, "I seek protection with the power of GOD, from the evil thing from which I now feel pain, and from an increase of it in futurity." Then I did as the Prophet ordered me; and GOD took away my pain.' AB'U SA'ÏD-AL-KHUD'HRÌ. 'Verily GABRIEL came to the Prophet and said, "O MUHAMMED! are you ill?" And he said. "yes I am sick." Then

GABRIEL repeated this supplication, as a remedy for his highness, "in the name of GOD, I exorcise thee against every thing that hurteth thee, and against all bad affections, and from the eyes of envy. May GOD give thee health; in the name of GOD, I exorcise thee." IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'the Prophet made over HASAN and HUSAIN to the protection of GOD, by this supplication, "I take you under the protection of the word of GOD, which is perfect and without defect, from every devil; and from every poisonous animal; and from every bad eye:" and he would say to them "verily your fore-father ABRAHAM used to protect ISMAEL and ISAAC with these words." God intendeth to bestow a blessing, him he casteth into misfortune." ABU-SAID. 'Verily the Prophet said, "there does not happen to any Muslemân, a distress, pain, affliction, sorrow, trouble, or misfortune; even to thorns which run into his feet; but on account of it God covereth some of his small faults." ABDULLAH-BIN-MASUUD said, 'I went into the Prophet, when he was in a fever, and rubbed him with my hand, and said, "O Prophet! verily whenever you get a fever it is most severe." He said, "yes, I get a fever equal to that of two other men." And I said, "your fever being like that of two others is for this, that you get two rewards for every act." Then he said, "yes, it is on this account." After that his highness said, "there is not any Muslemân affected with any illness, or any thing besides it, but God lessens his faults from it; like as a tree sheddeth its leaves." AAYESHAH said, 'I never saw any one suffer so much pain as the Prophet." AAYESHAH said, 'the Prophet expired, his head lying upon my bosom; that is he was resting upon me: and I was sensible of his excessive pain: therefore I shall not consider the pain of death severe, in any instance, after that endured by the Prophet." CAB-BIN-MALIC. 'A. G. S. "The condition of a Muslemân is similar to green corn, which winds cause to incline to the ground, and then return; they throw them down once, and again they become straight and erect: such is a Muslemân; sometimes he is thrown down by the misfortune of sickness and weakness; and sometimes health and strength make him straight and right, until his time of death comes. And the state of the hypocrite is like that of the pine tree, which is fixed firm in the ground, and not affected by winds or calamities, until it falls to the ground all at once; such is the hypocrite, always in health and vigour, without weakness or sickness; all on a sudden he falls and dies." ABU-HURAIRAH repeats the preceding tradition. JABIR said, 'the Prophet

AA'YESHAH said, 'I asked the Prophet about a pestilence, what it was; and he informed me, that it was a punishment sent by GOD, on whomsoever he willed; and told me that GOD had made it as a mercy for Muslemàns, that they might be patient and not run away: and he said, "there is not any one on whom a pestilence happens, that remains in his town patiently, looking for rewards, and is sensible, and assured, that no calamity has happened but what was ordained by GOD, but his rewards will be as those

ABU-DARD'AA said, 'I heard the Prophet say, whoever complains to you of any pain, or sickness; or for his brother; let him say, "our cherisher is GOD who is in heaven: thy name is holy, and thy orders are in heaven and earth, by which thou managest the existence of all things therein. ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÔMER. 'A. G. S. When a person comes to visit the sick, let him say, "O GOD! give health to thy servant, that he may wound and kill, for thy satisfaction, the enemies of thy religion; or that he may go on foot with the bier of any one." ÂLÌ-IBN-ZAID* relates, from UMAIYAH, that she asked of ÂA'YESHAH the meaning of this word of GOD. "If ye publish any thing which is in your natures, or conceal it, GOD will account with you for it:" and she asked the meaning of this word, "Whoever does a bad action will be rewarded." And the motive of asking the meaning of these two revelations was this, that the first alludes to this, that GOD will account with his servants for every bad imagination that may have passed into their hearts; and the second has an allusion to this, that man will be rewarded for every act, great or small; therefore it is difficult for them, and they are at a loss what to do; because it is not possible to abstain from all. And ÂA'YESHAH said, "no one ever asked me the meaning of these two revelations, since the time of my asking the Prophet about them;" and the Prophet said, "this taking account, and rewarding, which is mentioned in these revelations, is GOD's reprimand to his servant, in what happens to him of fever, and affliction; even unto this, that he puts a part of his property in his sleeve and loses it; then complains of its loss; all this is that the servant may come out of his faults, like as pure gold out of the crucible." AB'U-MU'SA. 'Verily the Prophet said, "no misfortune or vexation befalls a servant, small or great, but on account of his faults committed; and most of which GOD forgives." Then the Prophet repeated this revelation, "whatever mishap may befall you, it is on account of some thing which your hands have done; and he pardons a great many of them." ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER. 'A. G. S. "Verily when a servant is in a good way of worship and falls sick, it is said to the angel appointed for him, write for him the same action as he would have performed before being confined from sickness, in order that I may free him from this sickness, and give him health, or bring him towards myself (that is, cause him to die.") ANAS. 'A. G. S. When a Muslemàn is afflicted with a pain in his body, it is said to his angel, "write for him his good deeds, which he did before being afflicted." And if GOD gives him health, he washes him and makes him pure; but if he causes him to die, he pardons him, and has mercy upon him."

SAD-BIN-AB'I-WAKKAS' relates, that 'the Prophet was asked who are the most unfortunate of men. heard the Prophet say, sickness covers faults; and I only weep on account of sickness having befallen me in age; and that it did not visit me in my days of youth and strength; because rewards are written for a servant when sick, as they are for his good actions before being so, as sickness prevents a servant from acting;* would to GOD I had been ill in my youth, for then they would have written many actions for me." IN EXPLANATION OF WISHING FOR DEATH, ON ACCOUNT OF DESIRE AND LOVE TO MEET GOD.

ABÙHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " Wish not or supplicate for death, before its time comes; for verily when you die, hope is cut, and ambition for reward; and verily, the increase of a Mómin's life increases his good works." ANAS. ' A. G. S. " Not one of you must wish for death, from any worldly affliction: but if there certainly is any one wishing for death, he must say, " O LORD! keep me alive so long as life may be good for me, and cause me to die when it is better for me so to do." UBA'DAH-BIN-SA'MIT. ' A. G. S. "verily we dislike death, and consider it a misfortune." The Prophet said, "the allusion is not as you have understood it, that to meet GOD is death; but that whoever is desirous of his satisfaction, will always love death; but when a Mómin is near death, GOD gives him the joyful tidings that he is satisfied with him, and holds him in esteem; therefore, there is nothing more liked by a Mómin, that presents itself to him, than death; therefore, GOD is pleased to meet the Mómin, and the Mómin to meet with GOD. But surely, when death is present with an infidel, GOD's punishments and severities are announced to him; therefore nothing is so bad to him as the thing before him: (i. e. death.) Then an infidel dislikes to meet GOD, and GOD dislikes to meet him."

yet death has nothing formidable to a true believer.

But it is truly dreadful to an infidel.

AB'U KUTA'DAH. There is a tradition by him, that 'verily a bier passed by the Prophet, and he said, "this dead body has either got rest itself, or others have got rest from it." And the companions said, "O Prophet! what saying is this?" He said, "a Mómin servant gets rest in death, from the vexations of the world and the troubles of the people of it, and arrives at GOD's mercy; and others get rest from the death of a wicked servant, towns, trees and beasts." ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER said, 'the Prophet took me by the shoulder, and said, "be in the world like a stranger far removed from your dwelling; or a constant traveller;" and IBN-OMER says, "when you reach the evening, expect not the morning, that you will live till then; and when you reach the morning, expect not the evening, that you will live till then, but take necessaries in your health for your sickness (i. e. seize or count as plunder) the season of your vigour, and act therein; and take in your life necessaries for your death." JA'BIR. 'I heard the Prophet say, (three days before his death) "not one of you must die, but with resignation to the will of GOD, and hope for his beneficence and pardon."

The good obtain rest in death; & the wicked, by their death, give rest to others.

Men while in health should prepare themselves for death.

"If you wish me, I will inform you what the first thing is which GOD will say to true believers, on the day of the resurrection, and what the first thing will be which they will say to him." We said, "yes, we wish you to inform us." His highness said, "verily GOD will say to believers, are you contented with that which is my will?" They will say, "yes, we love it, O our defender." Then GOD will say, "since you loved my satisfaction, why did you commit faults?" They will say, "we hoped in your passing over our faults and hiding our sins." Then GOD will say, "verily my pardon is necessary for you." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Remember very much the destroyer and cutter of delights; which is death." IBN-MASU'UD. There is a tradition from him, that the Prophet one day said to his companions, "reverence GOD as becometh you." They said, "verily, O Prophet! we do reverence GOD; and praise be to GOD who has endued us with it." The Prophet said, "it is not so; but whoever reverenceth GOD, as it is suitable for him to do, must guard his head from humbling itself to others, and from pride and arrogance towards GOD and GOD's creatures; and guard his senses from whatever is wrong; and he must guard his belly from eating forbidden things; and his heart from receiving what is prohibited; and he must keep death in mind, and the rotting of his bones. And whoever wishes for future rewards must abandon the ornaments of the world. Therefore, any one attending to the aforementioned points has verily reverenced GOD as it is his duty to do."

CHAP. III.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF WHAT SHOULD BE SAID TO A PERSON NEAR DEATH.

ABU-SAID and AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet of GOD said, "repeat, there is no GOD but GOD, in the presence of any one near death, without giving him the trouble to say it." OMM-SALMAH. 'A. G. S. "When you are present with a sick person, or one near death, then supplicate a blessing for yourself and the sick, because the angels say amen to what you repeat and supplicate." OMM-SALMAH. 'A. G. S. There is not any Muslemàn on whom a misfortune falls, and who says, what GOD has ordered at such time, as, "verily our existence, and our property and families, are for GOD; and we are returners towards GOD. O LORD! reward me in my calamity, and exchange good for me in its room;" but GOD will cause him to receive in exchange, better than what shall have been lost.* When AB'U-SALMAH, who was my husband, died before the Prophet, I wished to say this: again I considered, what Muslemàn was better than AB'U-SALMAH, that GOD would cause to come to me in exchange for him; for he was the first person who fled with the Prophet. however, its impropriety, I repeated the words abovementioned; and GOD gave me, in exchange for him, the Prophet of GOD, to whom I was married, and entered into the number of his pure wives.' OMM-SALMAH said, 'the Prophet came to AB'U-SALMAH when his eyes were fixed, and he closed them; and then said, "when the soul is taken, its eyes follow it and look towards it; on this account the eyes remain open." When they heard this from his highness, they understood he had died; and the people of the house bewailed. Then the Prophet said, "do not supplicate for yourselves, but with propriety; because the angels say amen, on that you utter." Afterwards he said, "O LORD! pardon AB'U-SALMAH, and exalt his dignity amongst those who were conducted into the straight road; and make an exchange for him in the remainder of his family; and O cherisher of the universe! forgive us and him; and make his grave spacious, and give it light." ABDULLAH BIN-JÁFER. 'A. G. S. "Mention to those near death, there is no GOD but GOD, the clement and beneficent: immaculate GOD! lord of the magnificent throne; and all praise to GOD; lord of the universe." The companions said, "O Prophet! how is this word; must we repeat it for the living?" He said, "it is better and most proper." AB'U-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. Then for such a soul it is always said, until it comes out from the body. After that, it is raised up to the first region of heaven; and the door of it opened for it, and the door-keepers say, "who is this?" And the angels conducting it say, "it is such an one, the son of such a one" viz. they mention his name, and describe him, in such manner as he is known. worthy with GOD, and his creatures; and be happy with the rest and sustenance of thy cherisher, not in anger." Then such is always said for such a soul, and it is carried from one region to another, until it arrives at the one in which GOD is. But when it is a bad man, one of the angels present says, "come out, O impure soul! which wast in an impure body; and come out, O execrable! and be pleased with hot water and the yellow matter which drops from the bodies of the people of hell, and with other punishments similar to the above mentioned." And this is always said to such a soul till it comes out; then it is carried upwards: and when the door of the first region is opened for it, the door-keepers say, "who is this?" Then it is said, "it is such an one, the son of such a one;" and they say, "thou art unwelcome, a vile soul, in a vile body, return execrated, because the doors of the regions will not be opened for thee." Then he is thrown down upon the earth, and returns into his grave.

The angels denounce vengeance against the souls of the wicked at the hour of death.

The gates of heaven shut against such a soul.

ABU'HURAIRAH said, "verily the Prophet said "when the soul of a Musleman comes out, two angels come to it, who carry it upwards." HAMAD, who relates the tradition from ABU'HURAIRAH, says that ABU'HURAIRAH mentioned to the Prophet about the fragrance of a Musleman's soul, and mentioned musk, viz. that a smell of musk issues from it. And the Prophet said, "the people of the heavenly regions say it is a pure soul which is come from the earth, and they say to the soul, "the peace of GOD be on thee, and on the body which you inhabited and kept alive." Then it is carried to its creator; when GOD says, "carry it to the place which has been created for it until the day of resurrection." And verily, when the soul of an infidel comes out; (and ABU'HURAIRAH mentioned to the Prophet about the smell of that soul; and called it cursed) the people of the upper regions say, "a vile soul is come from the earth," and it is said, "carry it away till the resurrection." ABU'HURAIRAH said, "then the Prophet put his garment to his nose."

ABU HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When a Momin is nearly dead, angels of mercy come, clothed in white silk garments, and say to the soul of the dying man, "come out satisfied with GOD, and with whom he is satisfied; come out to rest which is with GOD, and to the sustenance of GOD's mercy and compassion; and to the LORD, not being angry." Then the soul comes out, like the smell of the best musk; so that verily it is handed from one angel to another, till they bring it to the doors of the celestial regions. Then the angels say; "what a wonderful pleasant smell this is, which is come to you from the earth." Then they bring it to the souls of the faithful; and they are very happy at its coming; more than ye are at the coming of one of your family from a long journey. Then the souls of the faithful ask it, "what has such a one done, and such a one?" viz. how are they? and they mention the names of their friends left in the world. And some of them say; "let it alone, do not ask it, because it was grieved in the world, and comes from thence aggrieved; ask it when it is at rest." Then the soul says, after getting ease, "verily such a one, about whom you ask, is dead; is he not come to you?" When it informs them that he is dead, and they do not see him amongst themselves, they say to one another, "surely he was carried to his mother, which is hell fire." And verily, when an infidel is near death, angels of punishment come to him, clothed in sack cloth, and say to his soul, "come out, thou discontented, and with whom GOD is displeased: come to GOD's punishments." Then it comes out with a disagreeable smell, worse than the worst stench of a dead body, until they bring it upon the earth, and they say, "what an extraordinary bad smell this is;" till they bring it to the souls of the infidels.' BARA'A-IBN-AA'ZIB said, 'I came out with the Prophet at the bier of a man of the assistants; and we arrived just at the grave, when they had not interred it: and the Prophet sat down, and we around him; with our heads down and silent; you might say that birds were sitting upon our heads, so that, if we shook them, or turned them to the right or left, it would make them fly away. And there was a stick in the Prophet's hands, with which he dug, and drew a line on the ground, as is the custom of the afflicted. Then he raised his head and said, twice or thrice, to his companions, "seek protection in God from the punishments of the grave." After that he said, "verily when a Musteman servant separateth from the world, and bringeth his soul to futurity, angels descend to him, from the celestial regions, whose faces are white; you might say their faces are the sun; and they have a shroud of the shrouds of paradise, and perfumes therefrom. So they sit from the deceased, as far as the eyes can see. After which, the angel of death, who is IZRA'IL, comes to the deceased, and sits at his head, and says, "O pure soul, come out to GOD's pardon, and pleasure." The Prophet of GOD said, then the soul comes out, issuing like water from a bag: and the angel of death takes it; and when he takes it, the angels do not allow it to remain in his hands the twinkling of an eye. That is, when the angel of death has taken the soul of a servant, he resigns it to his assistants, in whose hands is a shroud; and they put it into the shroud and the perfumes: when a fragrance issues from the soul, like the smell of the best musk that is to be found upon the face of the earth. The Prophet said, then the angels carry it upwards, and they do not pass by any concourse of angels who do not say, "what is this pure soul, and who is master of it." And they say, "such a one, the son of such a one," calling him by the best names by which he was known in the world: till they reach the lowest region of heaven with him. And the angels ask the door to be opened for him, which is done. Then angels follow it through every region; the angels of one region to those of the next, and so on, till it reaches the seventh region: when GOD says, "write the name of my

The Prophet said, "then their souls are returned into their bodies; when two angels come to the dead man, and cause him to sit, and say to him, "who is thy patron?" He says, "my patron is GOD." Then they say, "what is thy religion?" He says, "Islàm." Then they say, "what is this man who is sent to you?" (i. e. the Prophet.) He says, "he is the Prophet of GOD, and sent by him." Then they say, "what is your proof of his mission?" He says, "I read the book of GOD, which is the Koràn, and believed in it, and knew him a teller of truth." Then a voice calls out from the celestial regions, "that my servant spoke true; therefore throw for him a bed from paradise, and dress him in clothes from paradise, and open a door for him towards paradise." The Prophet said, "then tranquillity and perfumes come for him from paradise; and his grave is enlarged for him as far as the eye can see. Then a man with a beautiful face comes to him, elegantly dressed and perfumed; then the man says, "be joyful in that which hath made thee so: this is the day which was promised thee." Then the dead says to him, "who art thou? for thy face is perfectly beautiful; it brings with it good." Then the man says, "I am thy good actions, formed into this shape." Then the dead says, "O LORD! order the resurrection, that I may return to my family and property†." angel of death comes, in order to sit at his head, and says, "O impure soul! come out to the wrath and displeasure of GOD." The Prophet of GOD said, 'then the soul is disturbed in the infidel's body, and wishes not to come out; from the fear which it sees from resentment. Then the angel of death draws it out, as a hot spit is drawn out of wet wool, part of which sticks to it at the time of pulling out: thus the soul of the infidel, when drawn out from the veins, with strength and violence, pulls out part of the veins with it. Then the angel of death takes the soul of the infidel, and having taken it, the angels do not allow it to remain with him the twinkling of an eye; but they take it in the sack-cloth, and a disagreeable smell issues from the soul, like that of the most fetid carcase that can be met with upon the face of the earth. Then the angels carry it upwards, and do not pass by any assembly of angels who do not ask, "whose filthy soul is this?" They answer, "such a one, the son of such a one;" and they mention him by the worst names that he bore in the world; till they arrive with it at the lowest heaven, and call for the door to be opened; but it is not done. Then the Prophet repeated this revelation: "the doors of the celestial regions are not opened for infidels, and they do not enter into paradise; till a camel, with all that size and stature, passes through the eye of a needle." Then GOD says, "write his history in Sijjin, which is the lowest earth.* Then his soul is thrown down with violence.' Afterwards the Prophet repeated this revelation: "Whoever ascribes a partner to GOD, you may say has fallen from the regions upon his face, and birds rub it away, and cause it to perish, or a wind throws it to a distant place." Then his soul is replaced in his body; and two angels come to him, and set him up, and say, "who is thy LORD?" He says, "alas! alas! I do not know." Then they say, "what is thy religion?" Then the heat and hot wind of it come to him, and his grave is made tight upon him, so as to squeeze his ribs. And a man with a hideous countenance comes to him, shockingly dressed, of a vile smell; and he says, "be joyful in that which casteth thee in sins; this is the day that was promised thee." And in another tradition, like the before mentioned, and in addition to it, is this: "when the soul of a Mómin comes out, every angel between the celestial regions and the earth sends blessings on it; and every one in the regions, the doors of which are opened for it, and there is not any assembly of the people of any door, but supplicateth GOD, that the soul may be raised up from them. And the soul of an infidel is pulled out with his veins; and every angel that is between the celestial regions and the earth curseth it; and so doth every angel in the regions. And the doors of all the celestial regions are shut upon it; neither is there any assembly of the people, at any door of the doors of the regions, but supplicateth GOD that it may not be raised up from them." ABDULRAHMAN-BIN CAB-BIN MA'LIC* relates from his father, that 'when death was present with CAB, OMM-BUSHÌR-BIN-MAS'UR, the daughter of BAR'AA came to him and said, "O CAB! if you meet such a one in that habitation, give my Salàm to him." CHAP. IV.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF WASHING THE DEAD, AND WRAPPING IT IN THE SHROUD.

The Prophet gives directions about washing the body of his daughter.

OMM-ÂTÍYAH said, 'the Prophet came to us, and we were washing his daughter, who had died: and he said, "wash her thrice, or more than that, if you see it adviseable and proper, with pure water, and with water in which the leaves of the tree *Sidr shall have been boiled; and the last time put a little camphor into it: and when you have finished, inform me." OMM-ÂTÍYAH said, 'when we had finished the washings, we acquainted the Prophet; and he threw his trowsers to us, and said, "put this under her in the coffin." And in one tradition it is said, "wash her an odd number of times, thrice, five times or seven times, and in washing her limbs, begin on the right side, and the limbs of Wad'ù."

* See p. 120, note. According to Mr. BROWN, (Travels in Africa, p. 270.) the Rhamnus Lotus of LINNEUS, or Zizyphus Lotus of WILLDENOW, is called Nabik in Arabic. He says, however, that there are two kinds, the larger of which is called Nabik-ul-Arab. This kind is probably the Sidr, and specifically different from the R. Lotus. Accordingly, FORSKAL, who examined the tree called Sidr in Egypt and in Arabia, makes it a distinct species, consisting of two varieties, under the names of R. nabeca rectus and divaricatus. (Flor. Ægypt. Arab. pp. LXIII, CVI.) Does he consider this the same with R. Napeca of LINNEUS? The distinction made by FORSKAL does not seem to have been preserved by later botanists. I imagine that ÂBDUL-RAHMÂN-BIN-ÂWF said this also, "HAMZAH-BIN-ÂBDULMUTTALLAB was killed, and my better; and he was put into such a shroud, in this way, and grass tied upon his feet. And I have received of the world, that which I have received. And I fear that the reward of my good actions has been already bestowed in this world, so that nothing will remain for me in that which is to come." * One of the Sahábah, and grand-father to SAD, who delivers this tradition. He embraced Islâm at a very early period, and was one of those who fled to Ethiopia. (See ABULFEDA p. 24.) He also accompanied the Prophet in his flight to Medinah, and was present at all his battles. He evinced great bravery at the battle of Ohud, where he received twenty wounds, in consequence of which he was lame for the remainder of his life. The Prophet prayed behind him in the expedition to Tabùc, and completed what he had left unfinished. He was tall and thin, of a fair complexion, with a roman nose. He was born ten years after the war of the Elephant, and died A. H. 32, at the age of 72. (So says the author of the work entitled Asmàa-Rijàl. But there must be, in some of his numbers, an error of three years. For MUHAMMED was born in the year of the Elephant. ABULFEDA p. 2. Consequently ABDUL-RAHMAN was ten years younger than MUHAMMED, who was fifty-three when he fled from Mecca. This gives 75 for the age of ABDUL-RAHMAN in A. H. 32.) He was buried at Bakìá.

† He was one of the most celebrated of the Sahábah, and one of the first who fled to Ethiopia. After the first inauguration at Akbah, the Prophet sent him to Medinah, to read the Korân on Fridays, and exhort the people to embrace the faith. (ABULFEDA, p. 41.) In the days of ignorance he was one of the most luxurious in his table and dress; and after embracing Islám he was distinguished for his piety and abstinence. He was with MUHAMMED in the battle of Bedr; and carried the standard of the Prophet in that of Ohud, where he was slain, in the fortieth year of his age.

And the Prophet ordered him to be brought from thence, which was done; and the Prophet placed him upon his knees, and spit in his shroud, and dressed him in his own clothes; because ÂBDULLAH-BIN-UBAI had clothed ÂBB'AS, the Prophet's uncle, in a dress of his.'

CHAP. V.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF FOLLOWING A BIER, AND OF PRAYER OVER IT.

The dead should be carried quickly to the place of interment.

ABÙHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " Be quick in lifting up a bier; for if the deceased be a good man, it is good to take him up quickly, and carry him to his grave, to cause the good to arrive at happiness; and if the deceased be a bad man, it is a wickedness which ye put from your neck." AB'U-SA'ÏD-KHU'DHRÌ. ' A. G. S. When a dead body is placed upon the bier, men take it upon their shoulders; and if he be a virtuous man he says, " carry me quickly;" but, if he be otherwise, he says, " Alas! alas! where are you carrying me?" And every thing hears his voice except man; the which, if man should hear, verily he would perish.' AB'U-SA'ÏD-AL-KHU'DHRÌ. ' A. G. S. " When you see a bier, stand up; and that person who follows it must not sit down, until it is placed on the ground." JA'BIR said, ' a bier was passing, and the Prophet stood up for it; and we stood with him, and said " verily O Prophet! this bier is of a Jewish woman, we must not respect it." Then the Prophet said, " verily death is dreadful; therefore when ye see a bier stand up." ALÌ-IBN-ABU'T'A'LIB said, ' I saw the Prophet standing for a bier; and we did the same; and he sat down, and we did the same." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S.

"That person who follows the bier of a Muslemán, because it is in obedience to GOD; and is with it till prayers are said for it, and its interment finished; verily will return, with rewards equal to two Kírà't's,* each Kírà't equal to the mountain of Ohud: and that person who has said prayers over it, and returned before interring it; verily will return with one Kírà't for his reward." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'verily the Prophet informed the people of the death of the NAJA'SHI† on the day he died; and he went with them to the place of prayer, and dressed their ranks, and repeated four Tacbìrs.' ABDUL-RAH'M'AN-BIN-AB'U-LAILA‡ said, 'ZAID-IBN-ARKUM would say four Tacbìrs, on our biers; and once five Tacbìrs: and I asked him saying, "you always used to say four Tacbìrs; why have you said five to day?" He said "the Prophet also used sometimes to say five Tacbìrs." TALH'AH-BIN-ABDULLAH-BIN-AWF§ said prayers after IBN ABB'AS, over a bier; and he repeated the introductory chapter,‖ and said, 'I have repeated this, that you might know it is agreeable to the precept and practice of the Prophet.'

AWF-BIN-MA'LIC¶ said, 'the Prophet said prayers over a bier; and I remembered some part of his prayers, when he repeated this: "O LORD! pardon and have mercy on him, and forgive him, and make his portion good in paradise, and expand the place of his entering into, (which is his grave) and wash him with water, snow and hail; and purify him from his faults, as thou cleanest a white cloth from dirt; and exchange for him a better habitation in that world than in this; and better people for it than in this; and exchange for him a better wife than he had here; and admit him into paradise, and defend him from the punishments of the grave and hell." This prayer, which I heard from his highness, in behalf of the dead man, made me envy him: so much so, that I wished to GOD I had been he, that his highness might have made the supplication for me.' AB'U SALMAH-BIN-ÂBDUL-RAH'M'AN relates, that when SÂD-BIN-ABUWA'KKAS' died, they brought him to ÂA'YESHAH for prayers: she said, 'bring him into the Masjid, that I may say prayers over him; but they refused her; and she said, in contradiction to their denial, "by GOD, verily the Prophet said prayers over the two sons of a woman, whose name is BAID'AA, in the Masjid; the name of one SUHAIL, and the other SAHAL.' SAMURAH-BIN-JUNDUB said, 'I repeated prayers after the Prophet, over the bier of a woman who died in child-bed: and he stood opposite to her waist.'

A dead body may be carried into a Masjid, & prayers said over it there.

IBN-ÂBB'AS relates that 'the Prophet passed by a grave, in which its dead had been buried in the night; and he asked and said, "when was this dead person buried?" They said, "last night." He said, "why did you not acquaint me of its death, that I might have said prayers over its bier?" They replied, "we buried it in the darkness of the night, and did not like to awake you." Then the Prophet stood up, and we in a line behind him; and he performed prayers over its grave, after people had repeated prayers over its bier.' AB'UHURAIRAH relates, that 'a black woman, or a youth, was employed in sweeping the Prophet's Masjid; and one day the Prophet did not see her, or him, present at their duty: and he asked the people about the woman or youth: "say what has happened to him, and where is he gone?" They said, "he is dead." The Prophet said, "why did you not inform me?" AB'UHURAIRAH says that they thought him contemptible, which might have been their reason for not acquainting the Prophet. Then he said, "shew me the way, and conduct me to the grave of the deceased; which they did; and the Prophet said prayers over the grave. After that he said, that "these graves have been filled with those people in darkness; and verily GOD gives them light from my saying prayers over them."

CURAIB, the slave of IBN-ABB'AS, relates, that 'a son of IBN-ABB'AS died, in Hudaid or Usfân;* and IBN-ABB'AS said, "O CURAIB! attend to what number of people are come to prayers." He said, 'then I came out, and behold the people were assembled on account of the son of IBN-ABB'AS, who had died: and I acquainted IBN-ABB'AS of it. He said, "do you say they are forty?" I said, "yes, they may be forty." He said, "bring out the boy's bier," and said, "verily I heard the Prophet say, there is not any Muslemân who dies, and forty men stand at his bier, who do not associate any thing with GOD, but GOD approves their intercessions in his favour." AAYESHAH said, 'verily the Prophet said, "there is no deceased person, for whom an assembly of Muslemâns shall say prayers, amounting to one hundred, and all of them supplicate and pray for his pardon, but it will be accepted." ANAS said, 'a concourse of men passed by a man's bier, and praised him for virtue: then the Prophet said, "it was proper." After that they passed by another bier, and repeated dispraise on it: and the Prophet said, "it was proper." Then OMER-IBN-AL-KHATT'AB said, "what was proper?" He said, "the deceased person, whom they have commended, paradise was proper for him; and the other whom they mentioned with displeasure, the fire was proper for him. Ye are GOD's evidences upon the earth: whomsoever ye testify to be of paradise, is of it; and whoever you declare to be of hell, is of it." OMER-IBN-AL-KHATTAB. A. G. S. JA'BIR relates, that 'verily the Prophet put two men of his, slain in the battle of Ohud, into one cloth;* after which he asked and said, "which of these two remembered the Koràn best?" And when a sign was made towards one of them who remembered the Koràn best, he put him first towards the Kiblah;† and said, "I am evidence for these on the day of the resurrection, that they were slain in the cause of GOD." And he ordered them to be buried with their blood; and did not pray over them, neither were they washed." JA'BIR-BIN-SAMURAH said, 'a horse, without a saddle, was brought before the Prophet; and he rode him: when returning from the bier of THA'BIT;‡ and we were on foot, around him: but he was not mounted when going with the bier; and he said, "the angels go on foot; it is not proper to be mounted."

And verily it is related, in the Sharah'-ul-Sunnat,* that the Prophet of GOD lifted up the bier of SÂD-BIN-MU'A'DH between the two poles.' THAWB'AN relates, that 'we came out with the Prophet to accompany a bier; and he saw some men mounted, and said, "have you no shame? since GOD's angels go on foot, and you go upon the backs of quadrupeds." IBN ÂBB'AS relates, that 'the Prophet repeated the introductory chapter over a bier.' AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "When you say prayers over a corpse, supplicate for it in purity." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet used (when performing prayers over a bier) to say, "O LORD! pardon our living and our dead, our present and absent, our young and old, our men and women. After that, they brought the bier of a woman, of the Koraish tribe, and they said, "O ANAS! say prayers over this woman." Then ANAS stood opposite the middle of the bier. And ALLA-IBN-ZIAD† said to ANAS, "did you see the Prophet stand as you do, in prayer, over the bier of a woman, and for a man as you do?" That is, "did you see the Prophet stand opposite the head of a man's bier, and opposite the middle of a woman's bier?" He said, "yes; in this way he stood." And in a tradition by ABU-DAUD, we have this, that 'ANAS stood opposite the buttocks of the woman.'

Then a wise man of the Jews came to the Prophet, and said, "verily, O MUHAMMED! we do thus; that is, we remain standing till the deceased be put into its grave." UBA'DAH says, 'the Prophet sat, and did not remain standing till it was interred; and said to his companions, "do ye the reverse of the Jews." That is, "on first sight of a bier, he stood up; after which sat, but did not rise up again; and the former rule became abrogated." IM'AS-JA'FER SA'DIK, relates from his fore-fathers, that IM'AM HASAN IBN-ALI, was sitting, and a bier passed by him; and the people stood up, till it passed by them; and IM'AM HASAN said, "nothing passed but the bier of a Jew; therefore rise not up. And the Prophet was sitting on the road of a bier's passing, and his highness disliked that the bier of a Jew should be higher than his blessed head; therefore he stood up to look at it." ON BURYING THE DEAD.

ÁMIR-BIN SÁD-BIN-ABÙ WAKKAS* relates, that his father, SÁD-BIN-AB'U WAKK'AS said, (in the illness of which he died) "make a Lah'ad† for me towards the Kiblah, and put unburnt bricks upon my grave, like as was done upon the Prophet's." Part Second.

ÛRWAH-BIN-ZUBAIR said, ' there were two men in Medînah, who were diggers of graves; one of them would make the hollow of the grave, and that was AB'U TALH'AH ANS'A'RÌ; and the other did not, but made a trench in the middle of the grave; and that was AB'U ÛBAIDAH.

Two modes of forming a grave.

And the companions differed, after the Prophet had died, about whether to make a hollow in his grave or not; and said, " which ever of the two comes first, let him do it his own way." And the man who made hollows came first, and made a hollow for the Prophet.' IBN ÂBBAS. ' A. G. S. " Hollows are for us, and trenches for others." HUSH'AM-BIN-ÂA'MIR* said, ' verily the Prophet said, on the day of the battle of Ohud, (when a body of the companions became martyrs) " dig graves, and make them spacious, and in depth equal to the breast of a middling sized man; and clean them well from dust and filth, and bury two and three people in one grave, and advance him towards the Kiblah who was superior in knowledge of the Koràn." JA'BIR said, ' when the day of the battle of Ohud was, and some Muslemàns were killed in it, and my father was also amongst the slain, and my aunt brought my father, to bury him in our burying-ground, which is Bakìâ, that a crier of the Prophet's called aloud, saying, " return the slain to their place of sleep; that is, to where they were slain, bury them there." IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet came to a grave in the night, and a lamp was lighted for him, and he placed the corpse fronting the Kiblah, and said, "GOD have mercy on thee: verily thou wert a weeper, and a great repeater of the Koràn." IBN ÔMER. 'Verily the Prophet would say (when a corpse was brought, or when he brought one himself to its grave,) "In the name of GOD," and "Oh GOD!" and "on the people of the messenger of GOD." IM'AM JÂFER SÂ'DIK relates, from his forefathers, that 'the Prophet threw dust three times, with both his hands, upon a corpse; and sprinkled water upon the grave of his own son, whose name was IBRAHÌM; and put small pebbles upon it.' JA'BIR. 'The Prophet prohibited building with burnt bricks, or stone with mortar, on graves; because there is ornament in it; and forbade the name of GOD, and any thing of the Koràn, and the name of the Prophet of GOD, being written upon graves; and forbade their being trodden under foot.' JA'BIR said, 'water was sprinkled over the Prophet's grave; and that person, who did it from a bag, was BILL'AL-BIN-RABAH':* he began from the side of his head and continued to his feet.' MUT'ALLAB-BIN-AB'UWADÂ'A† relates, that 'when ÔTHM'AN-BIN-MADHÛ'UN died, and his bier was brought out, and then was put into the grave, the Prophet ordered a man to bring a stone for him; but he was not able to lift it up. He raised up the stone, and placed it near the head of Âthm'an-bin-Madhû'un, and said, "with this stone I mark my brother's grave, and I will bury by his side those who may die of my family and kindred." Ka'sim-bin-Muh'ammed-bin-Ab'ubacr* relates, 'I came to Âa'yeshah, and said, "O my mother! lift up the curtain of the Prophet's tomb, and those of his two friends, Ab'ubacr and Âmer." And she uncovered the three graves, which were neither high nor low (they say the height of them was one span) and red gravel was put upon them.'

The tombs of the Prophet and his two immediate successors were not above a span in height.

Bara'a-ibn-Âa'zib said, 'we came out with the Prophet, with the bier of a man of the assistants; and we arrived at the grave, when he was not interred, or placed in the Lah'ad; and the Prophet sat opposite the Kiblah, and we along with him.' Âa'yeshah said, 'verily the Prophet said, "the breaking of the bones of a corpse, is the same as doing it in life; that is, it feels as much pain and torment as it would from the same operation when alive."

Part Third.

Anas said, 'we were present with a daughter of the Prophet when they were burying her, and that was Omm-Culs'um, the wife of Âthm'an: and the Prophet was sitting near her grave. And I saw his eyes shed tears, and he said, "is there one amongst you that has not committed a fault this night?" Then Ab'u-Talh'ah said, "I am one." And when ÂA'YESHAH arrived at Mecca, on a pilgrimage, she came to ÂBDUL-RAH'M'AN'S grave, and repeated these two distichs, which TAMÌM-BIN-NAWAIRAH composed, in a monody on his brother MA'LIC, whom KHA'LID-BIN-WALÌD killed. We were like the two companions of JUDHÁIMAH‖ who were not separate from each other for a long space of time, till it was said, they never will separate. CHAP. VII.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF WEEPING OVER THE DEAD, WITHOUT WAILING.

ANAS said, 'we came with the Prophet to AB'U YÚSUF, a blacksmith: and he was the husband of the nurse of IBRAHÌM, the son of the messenger of GOD. And the Prophet took IBRAHÌM and kissed him, and smelt him. Afterwards we came to him, when he was in his dying moments. Then the eyes of the Prophet were fixed, and flowing in tears; and ABDUL RAH'M'AN-BIN-ÂWF said to the Prophet, "do you weep and shed tears, O Prophet of GOD?" He said "O IBN ÂWF! these tears are compassion, and feeling due to the dead." After that, he shed tears again, and said, "verily my eyes shed tears and my heart is afflicted, and I say nothing but what is pleasing to my benefactor; for verily, O IBRAHÌM! I am melancholy at being separated from thee." USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID says, 'the daughter of the Prophet* sent some person to him saying, "my son is in his last moments; come to me." Then the Prophet sent a person to her, with his Salàm, and to say, "verily the thing

Then ZAINAB sent again to the Prophet, swearing to him, that he must come. And the Prophet rose up; and there was SAD-BIN-UBA'DAH with him, and MU'AD'H-BIN-JABAL, and UBAI-BIN-CAB, and ZAID-IBN-THA'BIT, and other men of the companions. Then the child was brought to the Prophet, dying; his soul trembling and moving. And both the Prophet's eyes shed many tears; and SAD said, "O Prophet of GOD! what is this weeping and shedding of tears?" He said, "this is an impression of tenderness and compassion, which GOD has put into the hearts of his servants; then GOD does not compassionate and commisserate his servants, except those that are tender and feeling."

ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER said, 'SAD-BIN-UBA'DAH was ill, with a disease which he had; and the Prophet came to him, to visit him, with ABDUL-RAH'M'AN-BIN-AWF and SAD-BIN-AB'U-WAKK'AS and ABDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD: and when he came in, he found him excessively ill, and said, "hath he certainly died?" They said "no." Then the Prophet wept. And when the people saw the Prophet weeping, they wept also. And his highness said, "have not you heard that GOD does not punish on account of shedding tears, nor from the hearts of the afflicted; but GOD punishes from the action of the tongue, and also shews kindness from it. That is, the punishment of GOD and his mercy, are regulated, by the action of the tongue: if it has bewailed, excepting from tenderness, it will deserve punishment; but if it has praised GOD in misfortune, it has obtained mercy and rewards: for verily the dead most surely are punished, from the wailing of their kindred for them." Mu'sa was senseless, and his wife came before him, crying aloud: afterwards he recovered; and said to his wife, "do you not know, that verily the Prophet has said, I am vexed with the person who rends hair in misfortune, and raises his voice in crying, and rends the collar of his garment?" Ab'u-Ma'lic-Asharì. 'A. G. S. And the Prophet said, "When a woman in lamentation dies before repenting; she will be made to stand up on the day of resurrection, with a shift of oil, and of pitch." Anas relates that the Prophet passed by a woman who was weeping near a grave, and he said to her, "abstain, O woman! from what God has prohibited, and have patience in misfortune." She said to the Prophet, "go from me; because you are not struck with misfortune." But the woman did not know the Prophet. Then it was said to the woman, "the person who spoke to you was the Prophet." Then she came to his door; but did not find a porter to stop her, such as are at the door of kings and rulers; and she said apologizing, "I did not know you, who are the Prophet of God, so that I might have obeyed your order." Then the Prophet said, "there is no patience, but what is born at the beginning of a misfortune, because people bear it afterwards by necessity." Ab'uhurairah. 'A. G. S. phet; or he has mistaken the meaning of what he heard." After this she explains IBN ÔMER's mistake. "A Jewish woman had died, and others were crying over her, and the Prophet said, "verily these are crying over her, now that it is most certain she will be punished in her grave." Then his highness spoke this particularly of a Jewish woman; and IBN ÔMER understood, that he meant it for all; that the dead would be punished in their graves on account of the cries of the living." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÂBÎ MULAICAH said, "the daughter of ÔTHM'AN-BIN-ÂFF'AN died at Mecca, and we came to be present at her bier: and IBN ÔMER and IBN ÂBB'AS were present: and verily I sat between them; and ÂBDULLAH-IBN-ÔMER said to a son of ÔTHM'AN's, who was sitting opposite, "do you not hinder the women from crying; because the Prophet of God has said, "verily the dead are punished on account of their families crying over them." Then IBN ÂBB'AS said, "ÔMER said again what ÂBDULLAH had mentioned;" after which IBN ÂBB'AS related the expression, and said, "I returned with ÔMER from Mecca towards Medînah, till we were at Badàa;* and all on a sudden ÔMER saw horsemen under the shade of a tree; the name of which is Samurah,† and he said to me, "go and see who they are." Then I looked, and saw it was SUHAIB from Rome, and other horsemen along with him; and I informed ÔMER that it was SUHAIB. He said, "call him." Then I returned towards him, and said, "march from hence, and come to ÔMER." And when they arrived at Medînah, and ÔMER met with the misfortune of being stabbed, SUHAIB entered his house, crying at his disaster, and said, "O brother! O my friend!" Then ÔMER said, "O SUHAIB! dost thou cry over me?" And verily the Prophet said; "most certainly the dead are punished on account of people crying over them." And IBN ÂBB'AS said, that "when ÔMER died, I mentioned it to Â'A'YESHAH, that such was the conversation of Â'OMER and SUHAIB. She said, " GOD have mercy on Â'OMER: I swear, by GOD, the Prophet never said so; I mean, in the way Â'OMER understood it: because the Prophet said so of an infidel; and an infidel is punished whether any one cries over him or not: but the Prophet said, GOD encreases the punishment of an infidel from the cries of his kindred over him." And Â'A'YESHAH said, ' the Koràn is enough for you, in which GOD saith " the faults of one are not written for another;" since crying is the fault of the kindred of the dead, why should it be written for the dead?' IBN Â'BB'AS said, " GOD causes to laugh, and causes to cry; that is, the sorrow and pleasure of a servant is from him." Â'BDULLAH-IBN-MALAICAH says, ' IBN Â'OMER said nothing in answer to this, but approved.'

Â'A'YESHAH said, ' when the Prophet received the news of ZAID-BIN-HA'RITHAH'S being slain, and JA'FER-BIN-ABUT'A'LIB, and IBN RAWA'HAH, he sat in the Masjid; melancholy and grief were discernible in him: and I looked through a slit in the door; and a man came to the Prophet and said, " verily JA'FER'S wives do so and so:" and he mentioned their excessive crying. Then the Prophet ordered the man to prevent the women from crying. And the man went to them to forbid them: after that he returned a second time to the Prophet, saying, " the women did not obey me." Then the Prophet said again, " return and deter them from crying." And the man went, but the women obeyed him not. Then the man came a third time to the Prophet, and said, " by GOD the women have overcome me, O Prophet of GOD!" Â'A'YESHAH says, ' then I imagined that his highness said to the man, " throw dust into the women's mouths;" (i. e. force them to desist, and leave off crying). Then I was ready to cry for AB'U-SALMAH; when unexpectedly a woman came to me, and wished to assist and accompany me in crying. Then the Prophet came and said, "do you wish, O woman! to bring the devil into the house, from which GOD has brought him forth twice; once by the entrance of AB'U-SALMAH into Islàm, and another time by his flight from Mecca to Habash?" When his highness said this, I desisted from crying, and did not cry afterwards.'

NUM'AN-BIN-BASHÌR said, 'ABDULLAH-BIN-RAWA'H'AH was senseless when he was ill, and near dying; and his sister, whose name was AMRAH, stood crying, and said, "O mountain! O that! and O t'other!" when she was enumerating his accomplishments, and praised him wailing. And ABDULLAH-BIN-RAWA'HAH said to AMRAH, when he recovered, "there is not one of those qualities which you have ascribed to me, but will be spoken of to me in a troublesome way." AB'U-M'USA-AL-ASHARÌ said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "there is no dead person, the people of whose tribe stand crying, and saying, O mountain! O chief! AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'one of the Prophet's family died, and the women assembled, crying over the corpse, and OMER stood up, preventing them from crying, and driving them away: and the Prophet said, "let them alone, O OMER! because eyes are shedders of tears; and the heart is stricken with calamity and sorrowful; and the time of misfortune near and fresh; the crying of the women is without wailing." IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'ZAINAB, the daughter of the Prophet, died; and the women cried, and ÔMER struck them with his whip: and the Prophet threw ÔMER down, and drove him away with his own hands; and said, "be gentle, O ÔMER!" After that he said to the women, "keep yourselves, O women! from the noise of the devil, which is wailing." And then he said, "verily, whatever is from the eyes, which are tears, and whatever be from the heart, which is melancholy and sorrow, are from GOD's pleasure and compassion; and what is from the hands and tongue, is from the devil; and he is pleased with it, because man falls into fault from that."* BUKHA'RÌ relates, that 'when HÁSAN-BIN-IM'AM HÁSAN died, his wife pitched a tent over his grave one year; and during that time, which she sat upon his grave, she had fresh affliction every day from separation. At the expiration of one year, when her pain abated, she struck the tent, and heard a voice saying, "beware! have you found the thing which you lost?" And another voice answered, "but she is hopeless and has turned away." IMR'AN-BIN-HUSAIN and AB'U-BARZAH said, 'we came out with the Prophet with a bier; and he saw a concourse of the deceased's friends, who had thrown away their upper garments and were going in their shirts.† And the Prophet said, "do you act like the people of ignorance? Verily I had intended to pronounce a curse upon you; such as would have metamorphosed you." Then they took up their clothes, and did not revert again into the custom of ignorance.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'the Prophet prohibited following a bier, with which a bewailer might be.'

Yet the Prophet did not condemn the natural expression of sorrow.

* The meaning appears to be, that GOD does not disapprove the involuntary emotions of the heart which are consequent on affliction, nor the outward demonstration of them by tears: but that he condemns such voluntary exclamations of grief as indicate discontent and repining at his decrees.

ON VISITING GRAVES.

BURAIDAH. 'A. G. S. "I prohibited you formerly from visiting graves; but you may do so now, for I have abolished the first order. And I had forbidden you from keeping meat sacrificed above three days; but now you may keep it as long as you please. And I had forbidden you putting Nabidh in any thing but a leathern bag, but now drink it out of any thing: and my reason for fordidding it, in any thing but a leathern bag, was this, that it keeps water cool, and it does not ferment, and become sharp; but in other things it gets hot and strong, and peradventure it might be intoxicating liquor and then unlawful; and the prohibition of using intoxicating drink was then recent; as yet the deliciousness of it was not forgotten; perhaps they might fall into it. But now, since to abstain from and avoid it is become indispensable, it cannot be supposed that any one would drink it in a fermented, strong state; therefore ye are at liberty to put it into any vessel you chuse; but drink not any thing intoxicating." shall I say and repeat on visiting graves?" He said, say "Peace be to you, O people of the graves of the faithful and of believers;" and "God have compassion on those of us that go before, and those of us that follow; and we, if it please God, are coming to you." Muh'ammed-ibn-Num'an said, 'he who visits the graves of his father and mother, or one of them, on every Friday, his faults will be pardoned; and there will be written, in the register of his actions; "a doer of good to his father and mother." Ibn Masu'ud said, 'verily the messenger of God said, "I had forbidden you to visit graves; but now ye may visit them, because visiting and seeing graves dispels worldly wishes, and gives disgust to them; and reminds of futurity." Ab'uhurairah said, 'verily the Prophet said, "may God curse women who go to visit graves." Tirmid'hi says, that this tradition was previous to the permission given by the Prophet to visit graves; but that, when he permitted it, both men and women were included. But some learned people allege, that his highness disapproved of women visiting graves; on account of their impatience and deficiency of fortitude. Aa'yeshah said, 'I was used to go into my house, where the Prophet and Abubacr were interred, without my upper garments; and I said to myself, "nobody lies here but my husband, who is the messenger of God, and my father, who is Ab'ubacr the true." But when Omer-ibn-al-Kha'tt'ab was buried there, I swear by God, I did not enter there, but with my body completely covered, on account of modesty towards Omer, who was a stranger.'

It is meritorious to visit the graves of one's parents on Fridays.

IBN ÀBBAS. There is a tradition from him, that 'the Prophet sent MU'AD'H-BIN-JABAL to Yemen; that is, he made him judge and chief of it; and ordered him, saying, " you are going amongst people of the book; then first invite them to give evidence that there is no GOD but GOD, and that MUHAMMED is the messenger of GOD: and if they obey that, and be Muslemàns, then instruct them that verily GOD has ordained his divine command on them, of five prayers in the day and night: and if they obey the five times of prayer, then instruct them, that verily it is a divine order on them to give alms; that is, charity, to be taken from the rich, and given to their poor: and if they obey and bestow in charity, then refrain from their best property; that is, you must not pick and chuse, but take whatever the proprietor gives, provided it is free from defect or blemish; because it is not agreeable to law to take any such: and abstain from the supplications (or complaints) of the oppressed; because there is no curtain between God and them; that is, their supplications reach God and are approved, although they be infidels."

Punishment in a future state of those who have neglected to give the legal alms, from gold & silver;

Ab'uhurairah. A. G. S. "There is no proprietor of gold and silver, who does not give from it what is due in charity, but when the day of resurrection comes, will have plates of gold and silver, like fire, made for him, which will be heated with hell fire; and his sides, forehead and back will be marked with them.* Whenever the plates are taken out of the fire, they will be replaced, as hot iron is put into and taken out of a blacksmith's forge. This will be on that day, the length of which will be fifty thousand years; which means the day of resurrection, while God gives his orders to his servants; then the servant will see his road, either into paradise, or into hell." The companions said, "O Prophet! what is the order about him who shall not have performed charity for camels; and what will be the punishments of it?" He said, "there is not any master of camels, who does not perform his duty for them, (although the divine duty for camels is charity; but from amongst the duties for camels, which are Sunnat, is to milk them when they come to drink water, where people are assembled, and thirst for milk, and there will also be punishment for abandoning this duty) but that on the day of resurrection the master of the camel will be thrown upon his face in a spacious and even plain, in which will be no hills or eminences; when all his fat camels, (and not even one of their young will be missing; but the whole with them,) will tread upon him with their hoofs, and bite him with their mouths; and when they have passed over him once, they will return again perpetually, treading him under foot; and this will be on the day of fifty thousand years, as long as orders continue to be given to servants; when they will see their roads to paradise or hell." It was from bullocks, sheep and goats;

said, "O Prophet! what is the order about bullocks, sheep and goats, the charity for them not being performed; and what manner of punishment will there be for abandoning it?" He said, "there is no master of bullocks, sheep and goats, who does not perform his duty for them, but he will be thrown upon his face, on the day of resurrection, on a plain in which will be no mountains or eminences, when he will not miss one of them, and not a twisted horn will be amongst them, lessening their strength, nor a bullock or sheep without horns, nor one of them broken; and they will strike him with their horns, and tread him under their hoofs, passing and repassing over him, on that day which will be fifty thousand years; while orders are given to the servants; and they will see their roads either into paradise or into hell." It was said,

"O Prophet! what is the order for horses?" He said, "there are three descriptions of horse; and each has its order: one description of them is a means of fault to man, and another which is a means of concealing his condition, so that it is not known, that he is a poor and indigent man; and one kind of horse to man is a means of reward to him. Then the horses which are the cause of fault to man, are those of a man, which are tied up for the purpose of shew, that it may be said he is a zealous warrior, when in fact it is not so, but from greatness, and to rebel and fight with Muslemàns: then horses for such a person are a cause of fault. And the horses which are as a veil to man, are those of him which are tied up in the road of GOD; that is, for his own riding, in order to ride on to lawful necessities, and hide his wants from mankind; and he has not forgotten his duty to GOD, upon their backs (i. e. lending them to others) nor forgotten his duty to GOD upon their necks, but performs the duty thereof in charity; (i. e. if they graze abroad, then something must be bestowed in charity) therefore, such horses conceal his condition. And those horses which are the means of reward to a man, are such as he has tied in the road of God for the people of Islàm; to fight for it himself and assist others in so doing, by mounting them upon his horses: then those horses are tied in a spacious meadow, in which is grass and water; then they do not eat any of that grass, but there are written for the master of them, rewards equal to the number of blades of grass eaten; and rewards also will be written for him equal in number to their dung and urine: nor does the horse break his heel-ropes, and gallop over one or two high lands, but God writes rewards for the proprietor equal to the number of steps the horse has made, and also his dung: neither does the master of those horses pass through a river, and the horses drink without his wish; but God writes rewards for him equal to the quantity of water drank." It was said, "O Prophet of God! then what is the order about asses, and has any thing descended about performing duty for them, or neglecting it?" The Prophet said, "there has not been sent down to me any thing particularly about asses; but this sign alone, which is collectively for all actions. 'That person who does an atom of good, will see it and find its reward; and that person who does an atom of evil, will see it, and will find its reward.'* Therefore, if the master of an ass does a good act, he will find its reward."

No legal alms exacted for asses.

ABUHURAIRAH. A. G. S. To whomsoever God gives wealth, and he does not perform the charity due from it, his wealth will be made into the shape of a serpent on the day of resurrection, which shall not have any hair upon its head, and this is a sign of its poison and long life, and it has two black spots upon its eyes, and it will be twisted round his neck, like a chain, on the day of resurrection: then the serpent will seize the man's jaw bones, and will say, "I am thy wealth, the charity for which thou didst not give, and I am thy treasure, from which thou didst not separate any alms." After this the Prophet repeated this revelation. "Let not those who are covetous of what GOD of his bounty hath granted them, imagine that their avarice is better for them: nay, rather it is worse for them. That which they have covetously reserved shall be bound as a collar about their neck, on the day of resurrection."* ABU'D'HAR relates, that 'the Prophet said, "there is not any man who has camels, bullocks, sheep and goats, and does not perform his duty for them, but the whole of them will be brought, on the day of resurrection, larger and fatter, stamping that man under their hoofs, and striking him with their horns, passing and repassing over him, during the time of the judgments being passed on man."

Punishment in a future state of those who have neglected the legal alms.

JARIR-BIN-ÂBDULLAH. 'A. G. S. "When an almoner comes to you, that is, he who is appointed by the Imàm to collect the alms, you must let him return satisfied with you, in this way, that you present yourself to him respectfully, and perform your alms fully and complete." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÂBÌ-AWF'A said, 'the order was such as that the people brought their charity and alms to the Prophet, and his highness distributed them; and his highness used (when a tribe brought their alms to him) to supplicate for them, and say, "O LORD! send mercy and grace on such a one, and his family, who has brought alms." Then my father, whose name was AB'U-AWF'A, brought his alms to the Prophet, and he said, "O LORD! send grace on AB'U-AWF'A's family." And such also was the order of GOD, to take their alms, and send up prayers for them.' And in one tradition it is thus: 'when a man brought his alms to the Prophet, he would say, "O LORD! send grace on this person." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet once sent ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHAT-T'AB, to collect the people's alms: and they came and told his highness that IBN-JAMÌL refused, and did not give his alms; and he was an hypocrite;* and KHA'LID-BIN-WALI'D also refused giving his alms; and ABB'AS BIN-ABDULMUTALLIB, the Prophet's uncle, also refused; but all the rest gave. Then the Prophet said, that IBN-JAMI'L does not dislike giving alms, and is not ungrateful, but for this cause, that he was a poor man, and GOD and his messenger made him rich, and this richness is the cause of his refractoriness and disobedience; and KHA'LID-BIN-WALI'D, who they say also, has not given alms, its reason will be that you oppress; and his condition is this, he has appropriated his wealth and implements of war, and cattle, to the combatants in the cause of GOD; and whoever is in this state, how can he refuse the divine charity? Therefore, perhaps his not giving it has been owing to your oppressing him; and bravery cannot bear oppression. But as to ABB'AS, his alms are upon me, and I am security for him. (And the reason of it was this, that the Prophet had taken two years alms from him before; that is, the alms of this year, which they asked him for, and the other the coming year; and the alms for him of the coming year is like that of the present, which will also rest with me.)" After that the Prophet said, "O OMER! you did not know and understand; that the brother of a man's father is like unto his father; therefore consider ABB'AS as my father, and observe respect to him, and do not trouble him."

ABU-HUMAID SA'ADI said, "the Prophet constituted a man almoner, who was of Azd,† and his name was IBN-AL-LUBAITAH. And when he returned from his journey, he said to the Muslemàns, "this quantity is for you, which is the alms; and the other quantity is for me, which was sent to me in presents." When the Prophet heard this, he was displeased; and he repeated the Khutbah, praised and glorified GOD; after that said, "verily I appoint men of you on business, of those over whom GOD has appointed me governour, and one of you comes and says, "this is for you, and this is for me, which was sent me in presents." Then why did not this man sit in his father's house, or in his mother's, and he would then see if presents were sent for him or not?* I swear by GOD, take not one of you any thing from that wealth; for it will be brought upon your neck on the day of resurrection. If it be on account of camels, his voice will be like a camel's; and if it be on account of bullocks, he will bellow like a bullock; and if it be for sheep or goats, he will make a noise like them.' After that the Prophet raised up both his hands, so that we saw the whiteness of his sides, and said, "O LORD! have I delivered thine orders to the people?" ÂDÌ-BIN-ÂMÎRAH.† 'A. G. S. "Whoever I have nominated an agent in a business, and he has concealed the value of a needle from me, or less; this concealment is perfidy; and he will come, on the day of the resurrection, and be punished for it."

Whoever transgress this precept will be punished at the resurrection.

Part Second.

IBN ÂBBÀS said, 'when this revelation came down: "But unto those who treasure up gold and silver, and employ it not in the cause of GOD, denounce a grievous punishment. On the day of judgment their treasures shall be intensely heated in the fire of hell, and their foreheads, and their sides, and their backs, shall be stigmatised therewith;" this revelation was heavily felt by the Muslemàns; and ÔMER said, I will open this difficulty for you." Then he went to the Prophet and said, "O Prophet of GOD! verily this revelation is heavily felt by your friends." The Prophet said, "verily GOD has not ordered these alms, but to purify that part which you have remaining, after giving alms; therefore, when you have performed your alms of property, your remaining substance becomes pure;* and God has not ordered legacies, but in order that they should be for your heirs, and become their property." And Ibn-Abbas says, 'then Omer said the Tacbir, praised and glorified God, wondering at this saying. After that the Prophet said, "shall I not inform you, O Omer! the best of man's treasures? It is this, a virtuous woman, who acts by God's orders, and is obedient and pleasing to her husband; when he looks at her with joy and delight, beholding her personal and mental beauties; and when he orders her to do any thing, she obeys him; and when he is absent from her, she guards his right, in property and honour."

A virtuous wife is a man's best treasure.

Ja'bir-bin-Atic. 'A. G. S. "Horsemen will quickly come upon you, whom you will consider enemies, and dislike; because they come to take from your property. Therefore, when they do come, give them plenty of room, and say, "ye are welcome;" and conceal nothing from them of your property. And if they are just, and do not force or oppress, they do it for themselves, and meet the rewards of justice: but if they oppress, the loss is on them. Do ye satisfy them; because your full and complete alms is their satisfaction; and the almoners must supplicate for you." Jarir-bin-Abdullah said, 'some people of the wilds came to the Prophet and said, "some of the almoners come to us and tyrannize." The Prophet said, "satisfy your almoners." They said, "O Prophet! satisfy them notwithstanding they oppress us?" He said, "satisfy them, although they may oppress you." Bashir-ibn-al-Khat'asiyah.† 'We said to the Prophet, "the people, who come to collect alms from us, surpass the bounds of equity and moderation; and oppress us: may we conceal of our property any part on that account?" He said, "do not hide, but bear patiently what they do." RA'FÎ-BIN-KHADÌJ. 'A. G. S. "An almoner, acting in a just and equitable way, is like a person who is a combatant in the road of GOD, and is a finder of its rewards, till he returns to his own house." ÂOMER-BIN-SHUAIB relates from his fore-fathers, that 'the Prophet said, "it is not right for an almoner to alight at a distant place, and to order people to be pulled along to him; and it is not lawful for proprietors to go far away from their houses, so as to trouble the almoner to follow them. The alms of people must not be taken except at their houses."

People are to pay the legal alms at their own houses.

IBN-ÂOMER. 'A. G. S. "That person who gets wealth, the alms of it is not incumbent upon him, till he has possessed it one year." ÂLI-IBN-AB'U'TA'LIB relates, that "ÂBB'AS asked about being in a hurry in giving his alms; before the expiration of a year, and arrival of its time; and the Prophet permitted him to give it." 'ÂOMER-IBN-SHUAIB, relates from his fore-fathers, that 'the Prophet said the Khutbah, and instructed the people, and said, "beware! whoever is guardian to an orphan that has money, he must trade with it; and not leave it without trading, so that the alms may not eat up its property."

A guardian to an orphan must improve by trade the property entrusted to his care.

Part Third.

ABÙHURAIRAH said, 'when the Prophet died, and AB'UBACR became his successor, and certain of the Arabs became infidels by refusing charity; ÂOMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'TAB said to AB'UBACR, "how be it, that you kill mankind? since verily the Prophet has said, I have been ordered to fight with man till he says there is no GOD but GOD: therefore that person who says there is no GOD but GOD, guards from me his person and property, unless for his duty in Islàm, such as paying money for blood and retaliation; and his account is with GOD."* Then AB'UBACR said, 'by GOD, verily I kill him who makes a difference between prayers and alms; that is, who shall confess the divinity of prayers, and deny that of charity, or practice the first, and not the second; because the divine duty in property is alms, as much so as the duty of prayers is to man's self. I swear by GOD, if they deny me a female goat, not a yearling, which they performed to the Prophet, surely I will kill them for such refusal." OMER said, 'by GOD! it was evident to me, that GOD had opened the breast of AB'UBACR to kill, therefore I understood it as proper to kill.' It is related in one tradition, that others of the companions also forbade AB'UBACR from killing, and said, "it is the beginning of your government, and there is a large body of enemies; peradventure it may be detrimental to the matters of Islàm." AB'UBACR said, "if the whole world are on one side, and I alone, I would kill if they gave not alms."

The duty of alms-giving is as cogent as that of prayer.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The treasure of any one of you will be on the day of resurrection, a large male snake, from which the master of the treasure will run away; while the snake will see him, and make a mouthful of his fingers." IBN MASU'UD relates from the Prophet, who said, 'there is no man who does not perform the alms of his property, but GOD will twist a snake round his neck at the resurrection.' After that the Prophet repeated to us, in proof of that saying, this revelation, from the book of GOD: "let not those people suppose, who have been greedy in that which GOD has given them, that it is a good to them; but it is bad for them, now; and they will be chained with it on the day of the resurrection."†

The wealth of him who with-holds the legal alms will assume the form of a snake, and torment him at the resurrection.

* That is, the rule for him evidently in law is this; and his secret motives to action rest on the knowledge of GOD at the resurrection, like as an hypocrite saying with his tongue, "there is no GOD but GOD;" and not with his heart. ABD-UL-HAK.

IN EXPLANATION OF THOSE FOR WHOM IT IS UNLAWFUL TO TAKE ALMS.

ANAS said, "the Prophet passed by a date in the road, i. e. the date had fallen in the road, and his highness' sight fell upon it, and he said, "if it was not that I fear this date may be from alms, verily I would eat it." AB'UHURAIRAH said, "IM'AM HASAN-BIN-ALI-BIN-AB'U'TALIB took a date from date alms, and put it into his mouth; and the Prophet said, "fy! fy!" that HASAN might throw it down, and not eat it. Three decisions of the Prophet regarding AA'YESHAH's freed woman BARÍRAH.

ÂA'YESHAH said, ' there were three things Sunnat on account of BARÍRAH:* one of them, that an option was given to BARÍRAH, in respect to her husband, whose name was MAGHÌTH; that she might either stay with him or leave him; and the Prophet said, " Walà† belongs to that person who has emancipated; and this is the second Sunnat: the third Sunnat is this; the Prophet came into ÂA'YESHAH's house, when meat was boiling, and bread was placed near him, and other things to eat with it, which were in the house; then the Prophet said, " do I not see a pot in which there is meat?" They said, " yes, there is a pot in which meat is boiling, but it is meat which has been given in alms to BARÍRAH, and you do not eat alms." He said, " this meat is alms for BARÍRAH, but Hadiah‡ for me."§ ÂA'YESHAH said, ' the Prophet would accept of Hadiah, and would make returns for it.' AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. BARÍRAH was the slave of a Jew, and had contracted with him for a certain sum as the price of her liberty. Being unable to raise that sum, she came to AA'YESHAH, requesting pecuniary aid to fulfil her engagement, and obtain her liberty. AA'YESHAH said, " tell your master that if he will sell you to me, I will purchase you." The slave reported this to her master, who replied he consented, on condition that the right of Walà should remain with him. AA'YESHAH told the Prophet what the Jew had said. He replied, " the Walà belongs to the person who emancipates the slave; therefore do you purchase BARÍRAH, and set her free, the Walà will be yours, and his condition become void." ABD-UL-HAK.

ABÙ-RÂFÎ, who was a freed man of the Prophet of GOD, relates, that his highness sent a man of the tribe of Beni Makhzùm, to take alms: and the man said to me, "associate with me and accompany me, that I may give thee something from the alms." Then I said, "I will not be your companion, nor go along with you, till I go to the Prophet, and ask him whether I shall go or not." Then I went to the Prophet, and asked him, "may I go with him or not?" He said, "alms are not lawful for us, who are the sons of HÂ'SHIM, and verily, a freed man of us is as of ourselves; like as alms are unlawful for us, so also are they to our freed men." ZIAD-IBN-AL-HARITH-AL-SUDAI* said, 'I came to the Prophet, and confessed to him, and he repeated a long tradition. Then a man came to the Prophet, and said to him, "give me alms." The Prophet said to him, "verily GOD has not been pleased to order either his Prophet or others, besides him, in the distribution of alms, until he ordered it himself in the Koran: then he divided it amongst eight classes, and forbade to give of it to any except them: then if thou art of the number of that description, I will give unto thee."

IN EXPLANATION OF LAYING OUT MONEY, AND THE MEANNESS OF WITHHOLDING IT.

The Prophet recommends liberality.

ABU'HURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " If I had gold like the mountain of Ohud, verily it would make me happy, not to have any part of it remaining at the expiration of three nights; except what I might preserve to discharge debts." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " There is no day on the morning of which servants rise, but two angels come down from the regions; and one of them saith, " O LORD! give to the liberal something in lieu of that which he hath bestowed;" and the other saith, " O LORD! give destruction to the miser."* ASM'A-BINT-AB'UBACR. ' A. G. S. " Be liberal, and count not what thou givest; or how much; for if thou count, GOD will reckon with thee.† And do not hoard up thy substance, lest GOD hoard from thee: give what thou canst, although it be a trifle." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " GOD says, be liberal, O son of ADAM! that I may be liberal to thee." AB'U UMA'MAH. ' A. G. S. " O son of ADAM!

to expend more than necessary, is better for thee; and to with-hold it is worse for thee; and thou wilt not be reproached for preserving a sufficiency: therefore begin, by expending what is more than a competency."

Comparison between a liberal man and a miser.

ABU'HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The comparison of a miser and a liberal man, is similar to the condition of two men dressed in coats of mail, with their arms glued to their breasts and collar bones, on account of the tightness of the coats of mail: and the liberal man stands up, when giving alms, the coat of mail expands for him; and the miser stands, when intending alms, the coat of mail becomes tight, and every ring of it sticks fast to its place."* JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. "Abstain ye from oppression; because one oppression is the cause of many on the day of resurrection; and abstain ye from excessive avarice, because it ruined those who have been before you, and stimulated them to shed the blood of each other, and they appropriated to themselves those things which GOD had forbidden." HA-RITHAH-BIN-WAHAB. 'A. G. S. "Give alms, and consider as plunder the existence of it, and rewards of it; because a time will come to you in which a man will carry his alms himself to the people; and then he will not find any one to accept it; the man to whom alms are brought, will say, "if thou hadst brought these alms yesterday, verily I would have accepted them." AB'U'DHAR GHAFFA'RI said, 'I came to the Prophet when he was sitting under the shade of the Câbah; and when he saw me, he said, "I swear, by the patron of the Câbah, that those are the greatest losers of all." Then I said, "may my father and mother be sacrificed for you! who are those who you say are the greatest losers?" He said, "those who have great wealth, except they do thus."† This he repeated thrice. "But very few are they who give so and so."

Warning against oppression, & avarice.

* The meaning is this. When the liberal man intends to give alms, his breast expands and opens by it, and his hands obey him, and are stretched out in giving; and when the miser attempts alms, his breast becomes tight, and his hands shut. ABD-UL-HAK.

† That is, gives his property from his front to his rear; from his right to his left.

Part Second.

ABUHURAIRAH. "The liberal man is near the pleasure of God, and is near paradise, which he shall enter into; and is near the hearts of men as a friend, and he is distant from hell: and the miser is far from God's pleasure, and from paradise, and far from the hearts of men, and near the fire: and verily an ignorant liberal man is more beloved by God, than a miserly worshipper." AB'U-SA'ID-AL-KHUD'HRI. 'A. G. S. "A man's giving in alms one Dirhem in his life-time, is better for him than giving one hundred when dying." AB'U-DARD'AA. 'A. G. S. "The state of a person who gives alms near his time of dying, or frees a slave at that time, is like that of the person, who sends food as Hadiah to him who is satisfied, and has no further need for food." AB'U-SA'ID-AL-KHUD'HRI. 'A. G. S. "Two qualities are not combined in any Muslemân, one avarice, the other a bad disposition." AB'UBACR. 'A. G. S. "Three people will not enter into paradise; one, a deceiver; the second, a miser; the third, one who reproaches others with obligation after giving." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The worst qualities in man are two; one, avarice, which storms when any thing disagreeable happens; the second, cowardice, which brings a man's soul out of his body from excessive fear."

Vanity of acts of beneficence on a death-bed.

Part Third.

AAYESHAH. There is a tradition from her that 'some of the Prophet's wives said to him, and asked him, "which one of us will join you soonest, and will find you first, after your death?"* He said, "the quickest of you in joining me, is she who stretcheth out her hands farthest."† Then the women took a piece of reed, measuring each other's arms, and SAUDAH, who was one of the Prophet's wives, had the longest arms.' AA'YESHAH says, 'we understood after this, that his highness' allusion to the length of arm, of the woman who was to join him first, was no other than she who should be most charitable, and give most alms.'‡ And the quickest in joining the Prophet was ZAINAB-BINT-JAHASH,§ and she loved charity and alms.'

The Prophet informs his wives that the most charitable of them will first join him after death.

ABU'HURAIRAH said, 'verily the Prophet said, that a man of the children of ISRAEL said, "verily I will give alms:" and he brought forth his alms, and put them into the hands of a thief; and people spent the whole night talking with astonishment, and saying, "alms have been given to a thief to night." And the man said, "O LORD GOD! praise be to thee for my giving alms, although it was to a thief." And again he said, "verily I will give alms:" then he gave his alms to an adulteress; and the people talked all night in wonder that, "an adulteress has received alms to night:" then the man said, "O LORD GOD! praise be to thee, for my giving alms, although to an adulteress." Again he said, "verily I will give alms;" which he brought out, and put into the hands of a rich man; and people talked of it in astonishment all night, saying, "alms have been given this night to the rich:" the man then said, "O LORD! praise be to thee, for my charity; although it was to the rich." Then the man dreamt of a person, who said to him, "your alms to a thief is beneficial, for peradventure he may become good and leave off stealing; and your alms to the adulteress is also beneficial, for perhaps she may discontinue adultery; and your alms to the rich is also useful, for perhaps he may take warning, and bestow from that which God has given him."

The garden of a beneficent man the peculiar care of heaven.

Ab'uhurairah relates, that the Prophet said, "while a man was standing in a plain, he heard a voice say in a cloud, "give water to the garden of such a one:" then the cloud went on one side, and poured its water on stony ground; and lo! the torrent filled all the roads: and the man followed the water, to see where it would go, that he might know who and where that such a one was. Then behold, he saw a man standing in his garden, and turning the water into the different quarters of it, and he said to the master of the garden, "O servant of God! what is your name?" He said, "such a one," the name which the other had heard in the cloud; and said, "why do you ask my name?" He said, "I heard a voice in a cloud, of which this is the water, say, "give water to the garden of such a one, and it took your name; therefore I ask your name, that I may know you are the person: then what business do you do in your garden, that you have got this eminence, that clouds are ordered to go and water your garden?" He said, "I do not wish myself to disclose the state of the case; but as you have asked, I will tell it to you; then verily I look to the thing which comes up in this garden, and which is obtained from it, and I give a third of it in alms, and I and my family eat another third, and I lay out another third in the repairs and cultivation of the garden; that is, I make the produce of the garden into three parts, one I give to the poor, another for my own subsistence and family, the third I lay out on the garden."

Ab'uhurairah said, "I heard the Prophet say, verily, there were three people of the children of Israel; one of them, a leper; the second, bald; the third, blind; and God wished to try whether they would be grateful or not; and he sent an angel, who said to the leper, "what do you wish for most?" He said, good colour and a good skin, and that this should go from me which is hateful to man." Then the angel rubbed his hand over the man's body, and the cause of the leprosy went away, and he was given a good colour and skin. Again the angel said to him, "what property do you like best? He said, "camels." Then he was given a female camel, of ten months pregnancy; and the angel said, "GOD bless thee in this camel, in the attainment of produce." Then the angel came to the person who had no hair upon his head, and said, "what dost thou wish for most?" He said, "good hair, and that this thing should quit me, which is hateful to man." Then the angel touched him, and the disease was removed, and he was given good hair. And the angel said, "what property dost thou prefer?" He said, "kine." Then he was given a cow with calf; and the angel said, "GOD bless thee in this cow, and multiply them." Then the angel came to the blind man, and said, "what dost thou wish for most? He said, "that GOD restore my sight; that I may see people." Then the angel touched him, and GOD caused his sight to return; and the angel said, "what property dost thou prefer?" He said, "I like goats best." Then he was given a goat with kid. Then the camel and cow produced; the goat kidded; and the master of the camel had a plain full of them; and the master of the cow also, and the master of the goat a plain full of goats. The Prophet said, verily the angel came to the leper, in the same form as the first time, and said, "I am a poor man; and really my daily necessaries have been expended in my journey, and I have no dependence on any to day but GOD or you; I beg of you, in the name of that GOD who gave you a good colour and skin and property, I ask you for a camel, by which I may reach my desires." And the leper said, "I have many duties; have a large family to whom something must be given; so that when would your turn come?" The angel said, "verily I know thee: wast not thou the leper so hateful to mankind, and the beggar who had no property, and GOD Almighty gave thee health and wealth?" Then the man said, "I was not given this property, but by the legacies of my fathers and ancestors." The angel said, "If thou art a liar, may GOD return thee to the condition in which thou wast, i. e. a leper and a beggar." Then the angel came to the bald man, as in the first shape, and said as he had said to the other person; and the man denied the angel, and answered him as the leper had done. Then the angel said, "if thou art a liar, may GOD return thee to the condition in which thou wast." Then the angel came to the blind man, in the same shape, saying, "verily I am a traveller, and a poor man: verily I have no means of subsistence left, and have no hopes to-day, but in GOD and thee. I ask thee, by that GOD who restored thy sight to thee, for a goat, by which I may reach my wishes." Then the blind man said, in the way of gratitude to GOD, "I was blind, and GOD caused my sight to return to me; then take whatever thou wishest of the goats; and leave what thou likest; by GOD! I do not forbid thee from taking any thing this day, for GOD." And the angel said, "keep thy property; you three people have been tried, in order that the teller of truth might be distinguished from the liar, the friend from the hypocrite, the grateful from the ungrateful; then verily GOD is pleased with thee, and displeased with those two."

OMM-BUJAID* said, 'I said, "O Prophet of GOD! verily a beggar stands at my door, and I am ashamed, at not finding any thing in my house to put into his hand." Then the Prophet said, "give him and put into his hand, although but a burnt hoof." There is a tradition from a freed man of OTHM'AN, who said, 'a bit of meat was sent to OMM-SALMAH; and the Prophet was fond of meat; and OMM-SALMAH said to the female slave, "put the meat in the house; perhaps the Prophet may eat it." And she put it into a cup-board in the wall; and a beggar came and stood at OMM-SALMAH's door; and said, "give alms, and may GOD encrease for you." And the people of the house said, "may GOD give thee encrease." Then the Prophet entered the house and said, "O OMM-SALMAH! have you any thing for me to eat?" She said, "there is," and ordered a slave girl to go and fetch the meat to the Prophet; and she went, and found nothing in the cup-board but a stone. Then the Prophet said, "the meat is turned to stone, from not giving to that beggar." IBN ABBAS. T. A. G. S. "Shall I not acquaint you of the worst of men, in point of rank and eminence?" It was said, "yes, inform us." He said, "that person from whom an alms shall have been asked in the name of GOD, and he has not given."

AB'U'DHAR GHAFFA'RI said, "I asked permission of OTHM'AN to go to him, and he granted it; and I had a staff in my hand: CAB-AL-AH'BAR was also present there; and OTHM'AN said, "O CAB! verily ABDUL-RAHMAN is dead, and has left great property; what faith have you in it, that he will be punished on account of his immense wealth and property?" CAB said, "if ABDUL-RAHM'AN gave alms from it, there is no fear on him." Then I lifted up my staff and struck him, and said, "I heard the Prophet of GOD say, I do not like, that if this mountain was gold for me, and I bestowed it in the road of GOD, and it was accepted of from me, that I should leave of it, for myself, six Ukiahs." AB'UDH'AR said, "I conjure thee by GOD, O OTHM'AN! didst thou hear this from the Prophet?" He said, "yes, I heard it." UKBAH-BIN-HAR'ITH* said, "I performed the afternoon prayer after the Prophet at Medînah, and he gave the Salâm, then stood up, and went quickly to the apartment of one of his wives. occurred to cause this hurry?" Then the Prophet came out of the house to the companions, and saw them wondering at his hurry, and said, "I recollected some money which I had, and supposed it bad, for that it might be a preventative to my approaching GOD; then I ordered it to be given." And in one tradition, we have, that "I had left some alms money in my house, and thought it bad, that night should come upon it." ABU'HURAIRAH relates that the Prophet came to BILL'AL, and he had a heap of dry dates: and the Prophet said in astonishment, "O BILL'AL! what are these dates?" He said, "I have kept them for to-morrow." The Prophet said, "do you not fear to see to-morrow these dates hot, in the day of resurrection, and the impression of them reach you? Bestow them, O BILL'AL! and fear not scarcity; for GOD will give thee." ABU-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Liberality is a tree in paradise; I mean like a tree of many branches; therefore, whoever is liberal, has taken a branch from it, which does not leave him, till it brings him into paradise. And avarice is a tree in hell; then whoever is avaricious, has taken a branch from it, which does not quit him till it brings him into hell." ALI IBN-AB'U'TA'LIB. 'A. G. S. "Hasten to give alms; because calamity does not surpass alms, but halts, and is expelled by it."

Tradition from AA'YESHAH respecting alms bestowed by the Prophet on his death bed.

AA'YESHAH said, "I had five or six Dinàrs in my possession, belonging to the Prophet, when he was sick; and he ordered me to distribute them: but his highness' pain deterred me from doing it, and there was no opportunity for me to give them away: after that, the Prophet asked me about them; saying, "have you expended them or not?" I said, "I have not expended them; by GOD I swear, that your pain prevented me." Then he asked for the Dinàrs, and put them on the palm of his hand, and said, "what is the supposition, if the Prophet of GOD had met GOD, with these Dinàrs in his hand? That is, their being in his hand, is not worthy the dignity of prophecy."

IN EXPLANATION OF SUNNAT ALMS.

ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " The person who gives in alms a thing equal in value to one dry date, which has been gained lawfully, (and GOD accepts nought but that which is pure) verily GOD accepts it with his right hand; after that, he increases the rewards of it for the master, like as one of you nourishes your own horse, so that the rewards of the alms become like a hill." ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " No alms diminish any property; I mean, although apparently alms are a cause of loss to property, yet in fact, it is a cause of perfection and completion; and GOD has not ordained abundance, for any servant, who forgives an injury or malevolent design, but it increases his greatness in the world and futurity: and no one humbles himself for GOD, but GOD exalts his eminence." ABUHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " The person who bestows one thing of two, in the road of GOD, shall be called from the doors of paradise; and there are a number of doors of paradise, equal to the number of good actions: then the person who shall be of the people of prayers, shall be called into paradise from the door for the prayers; and the person who shall be of the combatants for the religion, shall be called into paradise from the door particularly set apart for the champions; and he who shall be of the people of alms, shall be called into paradise from the door which is particularly allotted to them: and he who shall be of the keepers of fast, shall be called from the door Raiyàn,* which is a door of paradise, particularly set apart for the keepers of fast, to enter into paradise at." Then AB'UBACR said, "it is not absolutely necessary that a person should be called from all those doors; because if he is called from one door, he has gained paradise; therefore shall any one be called from all the doors?" The Prophet said, "yes; and I am hopeful, O AB'UBACR! that you may be of those persons who will be called from all the doors." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet asked his companions, "who is it among you that rose fasting this day?" AB'UBACR said, "I got up fasting this day." The Prophet said, "then who is it of you that has followed a bier this day, and performed prayers over it?" AB'UBACR said, "I am he." The Prophet said, "then who is it amongst you, that has fed a poor man to day?" AB'UBACR said, "I am." The Prophet said, "then who is it amongst you that has asked after the sick this day?" AB'UBACR said, "I am." Then the Prophet said, "these four things are not combined, in one day, in any man, but he enters into paradise."

Admission into paradise is obtained by different gates, according to the various species of good actions.

The smallest gift is not to be despised.

AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "O Muslemàn women! ye must not account contemptible the present of a woman, your neighbour, although it be the hoof of a goat." JA'BIR and HU'DHAIFAH said, "the Prophet of GOD said, "every good act, in which is approaching to the court of GOD, is charity."† AB'UD'HAR-GHAFFA'RÌ. 'A. G. S. G. S. " It is indispensable for every Muslemàn to give alms." The companions said, " but if he has not any alms to give, then what is he to do?" He said; " if he has nothing, he must do a work with his hands, by which to obtain something, and benefit himself; and give alms with the remainder." They said, " if he is not able to do that work, to benefit himself, and give alms to others?" The Prophet said, " then assist the needful and oppressed." They said, " if he is not able to assist the oppressed?" He said, " then exhort people to do good." And if he does not?" He said, " then let him with-hold himself from doing harm to people; for verily that is as alms and charity for him." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. " There is alms for a man's every joint, every day in which the sun rises; doing justice between two people is alms; and assisting a man upon his beast, and lifting him upon his beast, and his baggage, is alms; and pure words in which he rewards; and answering a questioner with mildness, is alms; and every step which is made towards prayers, is alms; and removing that which is an inconvenience to man, such as thorns and stones, is alms." AA'YESHAH. 'A. G. S. " Every person of the children of ADAM, has been created with three hundred and sixty joints; then the person who says the Tacbìr, and praises GOD by Alh'amdo-Lilláhi, and says La-allah-il-illáhi, and Subhàn-allah! and asks from GOD forgiveness of his faults, and throws aside and removes a stone from man's road, or a thorn or a bone inconveniencing man; or orders a thing lawful, and prohibits what is unlawful, and says and does these things in time equal to the number of joints, will close that day, having cast himself far from hell fire." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. " A camel, having given young, and having milk, is good alms, in the way of lending; and so also is a goat giving much milk; they give milk in the pail morning and evening; that is, benefit both morning and evening." The removing of any thing which incommodes others is an act worthy of paradise.

ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. Buhaisah‡ relates from her fore-fathers, that ' my father said, "O Prophet! what thing is not right to withhold?" He said, "that thing is water; which cannot be denied to any one; as any one having a well, or a rivulet, must not forbid others from drinking of them." Again he said, "O Prophet of God! what thing is not right to withhold?" He said, "another is salt, which it is not right to deny; such as any one having a salt bed, must not forbid others from taking of it." Again he said, "O Prophet! what thing is it not right to deny?" He said, "your doing good is better for you: I mean give what you wish, and what you can, and forbid nobody from doing so." Ja'bir. ' A. G. S. "Whoever brings the dead land to life; that is, cultivates waste land, for him is reward therein; and whoever eats from its produce, the reward thereof is for the cultivator." Bar'aa-ibn-Aa'zib. ' A. G. S. "The person who gives a camel or a goat to a poor man, for him to drink its milk for a time; and then return it to him; or lends Dirhems or Dinàrs, or shews the road to the blind, or strayed, shall have the like rewards as for freeing a slave."

One possessing a well or rivulet must not prevent others from drinking out of them.

Salt also must not be with-held.

The cultivation of waste land is a meritorious act.

ABU JURAIYA* said, 'I came to Medinah, and saw a man whose counsels men obeyed,† and he never said any thing but they obeyed him. I said, "who is this man?" They said, "this is the messenger of GOD, sent by him to mankind, to shew them the road." And I went to his highness and said twice, "peace be upon thee, O messenger of GOD!" The Prophet said, "do not say so, because it is applicable to the dead; but precede thy salutation with the word Salàm; and, after it, Alaic." I said to his highness, "are you the messenger of GOD?" He said, "I am the Prophet of that GOD, to whom, if a loss befals you, do you prefer supplications to have it remedied; and if you have a dry year, supplicate him to cause to grow for you; and if you are in a forest, and you lose your camel, then supplicate him, that he may bring your camel back to you." Then I said, "give me advice." He said, "abuse nobody." And I never did abuse any body after that, neither free man nor slave, nor camel nor goat. And his highness said, "do not think a good which any one does you contemptible; and I advise you, that you speak to your brother with an open countenance; because this is of the number of good acts and kindnesses; and let your garments extend to the middle of your leg; and if you refuse this, then wear them to your ancles; and avoid letting them hang low; because it is pride, and GOD does not love pride. And if a man abuse you, and lay open a vice which he knows in you; then do not disclose one which you know in him; that so there may be no fault but on him." AA'YESHAH said, 'verily, the people of the Prophet's house killed a goat, and the Prophet said, "what remains of it?" AA'YESHAH said, "nothing but its shoulder; for they have sent the whole to the poor and neighbours, except a shoulder which remains." IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "there is no Muslemàn who dresses another Muslemàn in a garment, but it will be a cover for him in the asylum of GOD, as long as a piece of it remains." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD said, 'there are three persons whom GOD loves; one of them, a man who has risen in the latter part of the night, when repeating the Koràn in prayers, or otherwise; the second, a man who gives alms, with his right hand, hiding it from his left; the third is a man who was in an army, and his friends were discomfited, and he faced the enemies of religion, fought them, and gained a victory."

then GOD created mountains, and put them upon the earth; and the land became firm and fixed; and the angels were astonished at the hardness of the hills, and said, "O GOD! is there any thing of thy creation harder than hills?" He said, "yes, iron is harder than hills; because it breaks them." Then the angels said, "O LORD! is there any thing of thy creation harder than iron?" He said, "yes; fire is harder than iron, because it melts it." And they said, "O defender! is there any thing of thy creation harder than fire?" He said, "yes, water overcomes fire: it kills it and makes it cold." Then the angels said, "O LORD! is there any thing of thy creation harder than water?" He said, "yes, wind overcomes water: it agitates it and puts it in motion." They said, "O our cherisher! is there any thing of thy creation harder than wind?" CHAP. VIII.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF THE SUPERLATIVE EXCELLENCE OF CHARITY.

ABUHURAIRAH and HACIM-BIN-HIZAM said, 'the Prophet said, "the best of alms is a thing from which is left sufficient for man's sustenance and his family; and begin by bestowing on those you have affection for." IBN-MASUUD. 'A. G. S. "When a Muslemàn bestows on his family and kindred, for the intention of rewards, it becomes alms, although he has not given to the poor, but to his family and children." ABU'HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "There is one Dínàr which you have bestowed in the road of GOD, and another in freeing a slave, and another in alms to the poor, and another given to your family and children; that is the greatest Dínàr in point of reward, which you gave to your family." THAWB'AN. 'A. G. S. "The most excellent Dínàr which man bestows, is that which he bestows upon his own family; and a Dínàr spent upon quadrupeds, in the road of GOD, which is combating for the faith, and a Dínàr which a man bestows upon his friends, in the road of GOD." OMM-SALMAH. 'I said to the Prophet, "is there any good tidings for me of rewards, for my bestowing on the sons of AB'U-SALMAH? His sons

"Give alms, O assemblage of women! although it be your ornaments." She said, 'then I returned from his highness' presence, when I heard this, towards ABDULLAH, my husband; and I said, "verily thou art a poor man; and verily the Prophet has ordered me to give alms; therefore, go to his highness and ask him, if it is sufficient for me to give to thee and thy children; and if it should be so, I will perform it, and lay out upon you; and if it is not sufficient, I shall expend on others." Then ABDULLAH said, "do you go and ask; don't trouble me." Then I went to the Prophet; and behold! I saw a woman of the assistants, at the Prophet's door, whose necessity was like mine; that is, that woman had also come to ask about this matter; and verily there was so much awe and fear in approaching his highness, that no person could go to him without his permission. Then BILL'AL came out to us from the Prophet; and we said to him, "go to his highness and inform him that there are two women at the door, and they ask thee, is it sufficient for them to bestow on their husbands, and on orphans which are under their protection; but do not inform him who we are; that is, do not tell him our names." Then BILL'AL went in to the Prophet, and asked him about this matter. He said, "who are they?" BILL'AL said, "one of them is of the assistants, and the other ZAINAB." Then the Prophet said, "which of the ZAINABS is it?" BILL'AL said, "ZAINAB, wife of ABDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD." ON THE OBLIGATION NOT TO TAKE BACK ALMS GIVEN.

OMER-IBN-AL-KHÀTTÀB said, 'I mounted a person upon a horse in the road of GOD; that is, I gave a horse to a champion who had not one; and he did not take good care of him; and I wished to buy the horse, and supposed that he would sell him cheap: then I asked the Prophet if my purchasing the horse from him was proper or not; he said, "do not buy him; and take not back your alms, although he give you the horse for one Dirhem; because verily, a taker back of his alms, is like a dog which vomits and eats it afterwards." BURAIDAH said, 'I was sitting near the Prophet, and behold! a woman came to him, and said, "O messenger of GOD! verily I had given in alms a slave girl to my mother, and verily my mother is dead; does that slave girl revert to me by inheritance, after my mother's death, or not? He said, "your reward was established by giving her to your mother, and the inheritance of her reverts to you again." The woman said, "O messenger of GOD! there was a month's fast upon my mother, which she did not keep on account of travelling and sickness: must I keep it for her?" He said, "fast for her." Again the woman said, "my mother never made a pilgrimage; then must I do it for her?" He said, "yes, perform a pilgrimage."

ten rewards for it, to seven hundred. GOD said, except for that fast which is unbounded; because fasting is for me, and I give its rewards, what I please; because he abandons the cravings of his appetites, for my satisfaction. And there are two pleasures for the keeper of fast; one, at the opening of the fast; and another, in meeting GOD in futurity: and verily the smell of the mouth of a keeper of fast is more agreeable to GOD, than the smell of musk; and fasting is a shield against the devil's wickedness in the world, and from hell fire in futurity. Then when it may be a day of fast with any one of you, utter no bad expressions, nor raise your voice on account of enmity; and if any one abuses a keeper of fast, or fights with him, let the person say in his own heart that I am a man keeping fast, I must not give abuse or shew enmity."

The fast of Ram'dàn to commence on seeing the new moon; or if it be cloudy, after the expiration of thirty days.

IBN-OMER. 'A. G. S. "Keep not fast till you see the new moon; and, if the moon be hidden from you by clouds, count the days." And in one tradition it is thus; "a month is twenty-nine nights: then keep not fast till you see the new moon; which, being hid from you by clouds, then complete thirty days." AB'U-BACRAH. 'A. G. S. "There are two festival months, whose rewards are never less, although they be less in number of days; one of them Ram'dàn; the other, Zu'l-haj." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. the new moon of Shâbàn, in order to ascertain the month Ram'dàn." OMM-SALMAH said, 'I did not see the Prophet keep two months successive fast, except Shábàn and Ram'dàn.' ÂMM'AR-BIN-YA'SIR, 'That person who keeps fast, doubtful of the day's being in Shábàn or Ram'dàn, verily has disobeyed MUH'AMMED.' IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'an Aárábì came to the Prophet, and said, "verily I saw the new moon of Ram'dàn." And the Prophet said, "do you give evidence to the unity of GOD?" He said, "yes." The Prophet said, "do you give evidence that MUH'AMMED is his messenger?" He said, "yes." The Prophet said, "O BILL'AL! proclaim to men, that they keep fast." IBN-ÔMER said, 'people were assembled to look for the new moon; and I informed his highness that I had seen the new moon: and he kept fast, and ordered people to keep fast.'

The fast of Ram'dàn is to commence, on the evidence of one man, who believes in GOD & the Prophet, that he has seen the new moon.

Part Third.

ÂÁYESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to remember the days of Shábàn, more particularly than of any other month; in order to keep in mind the fast of Ram'dàn: after that he would keep fast, after seeing the new moon of Ram'dàn: and if the moon was clouded, he would count thirty days, after which keep fast.' AB'U-AL-BAKHTARÌ* said, 'we came to perform Ûmrah;† and when we arrived at Bat'n Nakhlah,‡ we were assembled to see the new moon; and some of the party said, "this moon is three nights old;" and others said, "she is two nights." BOOK VII. IBN-ABB'AS said, "what night did you see the moon?" We said, "on such a night." Then he said, "the Prophet has appointed Ram'dàn from the time of seeing the new moon; I mean whenever you see the new moon of Ram'dàn, keep fast; therefore, this new moon is for the night in which ye saw it." And in a tradition from AB'U-AL-BAKHTARÌ it is thus, that he said, 'we saw the moon of Ram'dàn when we were at Dhát Irk:* then we sent a man to IBN-ABB'AS, in order to ask him what night of the moon it was; and he said, "the Prophet of GOD has said, verily GOD has appointed Ram'dàn from the time of seeing the new moon; therefore, should the moon be hidden from you, then count thirty complete days and keep fast."

" The difference between our fast, and that of the people of the book, is eating at the first dawn of day; because GOD has ordained, as lawful for us, what he has prohibited them." SAHAL-IBN-SAD. ' A. G. S. " People are always clothed in good as long as they are quick in finishing their early meal." ÔMER. ' A. G. S. " When the darkness of the night advances from the west, and day follows from the western quarter; I mean the sun set; the keeper of fast may begin to eat." AB'UHURAIRAH said, ' the Prophet has prohibited *Wis'àl in fast; and a man of the assistants said to his highness, " verily you practise Wis'àl, O Prophet of GOD! and why do you forbid it us?" He said, " which of you is like me? Verily GOD gives me victuals and drink every night."

It is forbidden to fast two days without intermission.

' A. G. S. " GOD said, the most beloved of my servants near me, are the quickest in beginning to eat." SALMAN-BIN-AAMIR.† ' A. G. S. " When any one of you wishes to begin to eat, he must eat dates, because it is a cause of increasing rewards; but, if you have no dates, then break your fast with water, because water is a purifier." ANAS said, ' the Prophet used to break fast with a few fresh dates, before performing prayers; but if there were not fresh dates, he would eat a few dry ones; and if no dry dates, he would drink a few handfuls of water.' ZAID-IBN-KHALID. ' A. G. S. " The person who gives to eat to one keeping fast, or accoutres a warrior, for him is the reward of them, on account of assistance in that which is good, and being a partner therein." IBN OMER relates, that when the Prophet broke fast, he would say, " thirst is gone, and the veins are moist; and rewards are established, GOD willing." MUADH-IBN-ZUHRA‡ said, ' verily, when the Prophet began to eat, he would say, " O LORD! I have fasted for thy pleasure, and have passed the fast on the sustenance which thou hast sent."

The first meal, after fasting, to be of dates.

* This has two meanings; the allusion to the call to prayer, is for sun-set prayer: in this point of view, it is beginning to eat quickly; although leaving eating and drinking, at the time of call to prayer, is Sunnat: or it may be the early call to prayer; that is, the existence of the dawn of day, does not depend upon the call to prayer; ascertain the rise of the morning, and do not eat if certainly it has dawned; otherwise eat. She said, " which of them hastens in beginning to eat and prayers?" We said, " IBN MASU'UD." She said, " this was the way the Prophet did." And she asked, " who is it that is dilatory?" We said, " AB'U MUS'A ASHARI." She said, " he is also one of the greatest companions; perhaps he has some excuse for being dilatory." IRB'AD'-BIN-SA'RÍYAH said, ' the Prophet called me to the early meal in Ram'dàn; and said, " come to the meal, its rewards are abundant." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. IN EXPLANATION OF THINGS, MAKING FAST VAIN AND FRUITLESS.

ABÙHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "A keeper of fast, who does not abandon lying and detraction, GOD cares not about his leaving off eating and drinking; that is, GOD does not accept his fasting." Â'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to have connexion with his wives in the nights of Ram-'dàn, and would bathe after day-break, and then keep fast.' IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet had blood drawn from him when he was Muh'-rim, and also when keeping fast.' AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The person who has forgotten his fast while keeping it, and drunk water, or eaten from forgetfulness, must complete his fast; because none but GOD has caused him to eat and drink." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'While we were sitting with the Prophet, unexpectedly a man came to him and said, "O messenger of GOD! I am ruined on account of having fallen into fault." He said, "what is the matter, and what have you done, that you say this?" The man said, "I have had connexion with my wife in the day time of Ram-'dàn, while I was keeping fast." Then the Prophet said, "have you a slave to free?" He said, "no." The Prophet said, "can you keep fast two months successively?" He said, "no, I cannot." The Prophet said, "have you got victuals to give to six poor people?" He said, "no, I have not." The Prophet said, "sit down." Then the Prophet procrastinated, till victuals came to give him, to give to the poor, as an expiation of his faults. And while we were in this state, a bag, in which were dates, was brought to the Prophet, made of fig leaves; and that bag was long and broad, containing fifteen or twenty Sáás. The Prophet said, "where is the beggar, and who is he?" The man said, "I am he." The Prophet said, "take this, and give alms with it to the poor." The man said, "shall I give alms to poorer than myself, O Prophet! I mean I am poorer than all, what alms shall I give to others? I swear by God, there is not in Medínah the people of any house poorer than of mine." Then the Prophet laughed to such a degree as to shew his canine teeth. After that he said to the man, "feed the people of your own house with the figs:" that is, when the Prophet saw the man's extreme want, he said, "eat and feed your own family;" saying, "you will give in expiation for your fault some other time, when you have it in your power."

Part Second.

ABÙHURAIRAH said, 'verily a man asked his highness about a man and his wife dallying, and embracing each other in a time of fast; and the Prophet permitted it: and another man came to the Prophet and asked him the same question, and he forbade him. Then behold! the man who had been permitted was old, and the one forbidden, young." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. THAWB'AN said, "he spoke true, and I poured water for his Wa'dù." ÂA'MIR-BIN-RABÍA said, 'I saw the Prophet clean his teeth, an incalculable number of times, whilst he was keeping fast.' ANAS said, 'a man came to his highness and said, "both my eyes ache; may I put Surmah to them, now that I am keeping fast?" He said, "yes, for applying Surmah, when keeping fast, is not detrimental; if you wish it, do so." There is a tradition, by some of the Prophet's companions, saying, 'verily we saw his highness at *Árj pouring water upon his head, on account of thirst or heat, when he was keeping fast.' SHEDD'AD-BIN-ÂWS' relates, that 'the Prophet came to a man in Bakíá, who was getting blood drawn from him; and his highness was holding me by the hand, when eighteen nights of Ram'dàn had elapsed; and he said, "the drawer of the blood, and he from whom it is drawn, have broken the fast; one on account of weakness, which will arise from loss of blood; and the drawer of the blood is not safe from some of it going into his belly."† AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The person who begins to eat, on a day in the month of Ram'dàn, without lawful permission, and without sickness, he will not expiate it if he fasts his whole life after." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "How many keepers of fast are there that gain nothing by it but thirst; such as keeping fast and not refraining from lying and detraction? And how many risers at night, and performers of prayers, are there, that gain nothing by their rising but wakefulness; such as performing prayers on sequestered ground?"

ABÙ-SÀÏD-AL-KHUDHRÌ. 'A. G. S. "There are three situations, which do not make fast fruitless; being bled, if able to bear it; and vomiting unintentionally; the third, emission in sleep." THA'BIT-AL-BUNA'NÌ* said, 'ANAS was asked, "did you consider it bad to be blooded in the time of the Prophet?" He said, "no, unless from creating weakness; not on account of its making fast null and void." BUKHA'RÌ said, 'IBN-ÒMER used to be bled, in the day time, while he was a keeper of fast; then left it off, and would have it done in the night.' ÀT'AA said, 'if any person rinses his mouth, and throws out the water, and then should swallow any spittle, it is of no consequence, while he has no part of the water remaining in his mouth, and does not chew gum; then if the water of the mouth is swallowed, which is created from chewing the gum, I do not say that it breaks the fast; because nothing is separated from it to go into the belly, and break the fast; but it is forbidden.'

Being bled, if able to bear it, vomiting unintentionally, & emission in sleep, do not vitiate a fast.

IN EXPLANATION OF A TRAVELLER'S FAST.

It is optional with a traveller to fast or not.

ÁÁYESHAH said, that 'Hamzah-bin-Âmer-Aslamì,* who was a great faster, said to the Prophet, "should I keep fast in travelling?" He said, "if you wish it, do so; and, if you wish it, eat." Ab'u-Sa'ïd-al-Khu'dhrì said, 'we were in a campaign with the Prophet, when sixteen nights of the month Ram'dàn had passed; some of us kept fast, and some of us ate; and neither one nor the other were taxed with fault.' Ja'bir said, 'the Prophet was on a journey, and saw a crowd of men, and saw one man shaded by a tent, or such like, and he asked, "what is this crowd, and the cause of shading?" They said, "he is a faster, who has fallen from extreme weakness." Then his highness said, "it is not good to keep fast in travelling." Anas said, 'we were travelling with his highness, some of us keepers of fast, others eaters, and we alighted at a place on a hot day, and the keepers of fast fell down, and the eaters remained standing, and pitched their tents, and watered their camels; and the Prophet said, " the eaters have borne away the rewards this day, on account of their waiting on the fasters." IBN-ÂBB'AS, said, ' his highness came out of Medínah to go to Mecca, and kept fast in the road, till he arrived at Usfàn,* where were wells of sweet water; and he called for water, and held it up an arm's length, that the people might see it; then he drank water, and broke his fast; till he arrived at Mecca; and this happened in Ram'dàn.' IBN-ÂBB'AS said, ' verily the Prophet kept fast in a journey; and those who wished it, fasted; and those who did not, ate.

CHAP. VI.---PART I.

*IN EXPLANATION OF EXPIATION.

Â'ÁYESHAH said, 'there was expiation on me in the month of Ram'dàn, for what I had eaten, on account of having an excuse; and I was not able to expiate for it unless in the month Shábàn; that is, I delayed the expiation till the latter part of the year.' AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "It is not right for a woman to keep fast while her husband is present, unless by his permission (i. e. on account of expiation) and the wife must not permit any one to enter her house but by the husband's permission." MU'AD'HAH. There is a tradition from him, that he asked Â'A'YESHAH, "what is the state of a menstrual woman who expiates for a fast in which she had eaten in the time of her menses?" She said, "when I happened to be menstrual during the fast, I was ordered to expiate for the fast, but not for prayers; I mean, there was not necessity for asking about the worshipping; whatever the law-giver has ordered, must be acted on agreeable thereto." Â'A'YESHAH said, 'the person who dies, having a fast not expiated for, his heir must fast for him."

The expiation for a fast omitted, may, if necessary, be postponed for near a year.

Part Third.

One person cannot fast or pray for another.

THERE is a tradition from MA'LIC, that IBN-ÓMER was asked, "does one keep fast on the part of another, or one perform prayers on the part of another?" He said, "no one keeps fast on account of another, nor performs prayers for another, as an expiation for him."

CHAP. VII.---PART I.

ON SUNNAT FASTS.

ÂÁYESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to fast, so that we would say, he will never begin to eat again, and would continue eating so, that we would say, he never will keep another fast; that is, the noble custom of his highness, was not continual on Sunnat days of fast; sometimes he would keep fast days together, so that people supposed that he would not begin to eat again in the month; and sometimes he would eat so that people supposed he would never fast.' Âa'yeshah says, 'I never saw the Prophet fast a complete month but Ram'dân; nor did I ever see him keep fast in any month more than Shâbân.' And in one tradition it is, that Âa'yeshah said, 'the Prophet used to fast the whole of Shâbân; and he used to fast but seldom the whole of Shâbân.'* Âbdullah-bin-Shakîk said, 'I said to Âa'yeshah, "did the Prophet use to fast the whole of any month?" She said, "I do not know of his highness' fasting the whole of any month but Ram'dân; nor his eating the whole of any month without keeping fast, some part of it; i. e. he did not fast the whole of any month, nor did he let one month pass without fasting part of it, until he passed into his own road; i. e. died." Imr'an-bin-Husa'in relates from the Prophet, saying, 'he asked me, "O such a one! did not you keep fast in the latter part of Shâbàn?" I said, "I did not." He said, "then when you finish the fast of Ram'dàn, keep fast two days." Ab'uhurairah. 'A. G. S. "The most excellent of fasts, after the fast of Ram'dàn, is the month Muh'arram, the month of God; and the most excellent prayers, after the divine prayers, are night prayers." Ibn Abb'as said, 'I did not see his highness intend the fast of any day which he considered more noble than the Ááshúràa, and fast of Ram'dàn.' Ibn Abb'as said, 'as long as his highness kept the fast of the day Ááshúràa, and ordered people to keep it, the companions said, "O Prophet! verily the day Ááshúràa is a day which the Jews and Christians respect." He said, "verily, if I live the next year, I will surely keep fast from the ninth of Muharram." Omm Fad'l-bint-al-Ha'rith said, 'some people had doubt of the Prophet's keeping fast in the day Árfah; some said, "his highness is keeping fast;" others, that "he is not." Then Maimu'nah said, "I sent the Prophet a cup of milk when he was standing in Árfah upon his camel, and he drank it." Then it was understood that he did not keep fast.' Áa'yeshah said, 'I never saw his highness keep fast, from the first of Zi'l-h'aj till the tenth of it.' Ab'u Kuta'dah said, 'a man came to the Prophet and said, "how do you keep fast?" And his highness got angry, at his question; as he ought to have asked for himself, and to have said, how am I to keep fast? so that the Prophet might have answered him agreeable to his condition. And when Omer-ibn-al-Khatt'ab saw the anger of his highness, he said, "we are satisfied with God, who is our cherisher; and with Islàm, which is our religion; and with Muhammed, who is our Prophet; we seek protection with God from his anger, and the anger of his messenger." ing these words, till his highness' anger became assuaged. After that Ômer asked about what the man had asked, and said, "O messenger of God! how is the condition of that person who keeps fast perpetually?" He said, "that person has neither kept fast nor eaten." Ômer said, "how is that person who fasts two days, and eats one?" His highness said, "has any one the power of doing so? I mean, this also is difficult." Ômer said, "how is it with the person who keeps fast one day, and eats another?" He said, "this is the fast of Da'ud, the Prophet, who fasted one day, and ate another; but it likewise has its inconvenience." Ômer said, "how is it with the person who keeps fast one day, and eats two?" His highness said, "I should like to be able to do that; I mean, there is not that power in me, unless God should give me capability to do it." After that he said, "three days are enough, in every month, for fasting; and the fast of Ram'dàn, which is sufficient till the next Ram'dàn; and this is the fast of the whole year; and the fast of the day Árfah, I am in hopes, by the grace of God, that it will cover my faults of the future year, and of the past; and the fast of the day Áshúràa, I am hopeful, will cover the faults of the coming year." Ab'u Kuta'dah. 'It was asked of the Prophet the cause of the Monday fast. He said, "on that day I have been born, and the first instructions to me from above were on a Monday."

It is sufficient to fast three days in every month besides Ram'dàn.

Mua'dhah-al-Ádawì said, 'I asked Áa'yeshah, "did the Prophet use to keep three days fast in every month?" She said, "yes." Then I asked, "what days of the month did he fast?" She said, "he did not fear about what days he fasted; I mean, he fasted any three days of a month." Ab'u-Ay'ub-al-Ans'árì said, 'verily the messenger of God said, "the person who fasts the month Ram'dàn, and follows it up with six days of Sháwàl; it will be like a constant fast." The Jew said, "this is a great fast; GOD redeemed MOSES and his tribe on this day; and drowned PHAROAH and his tribe; then MOSES kept fast on account of gratitude for this benefit, and we keep fast as following him." Then the Prophet said, "we are more worthy of, and nearer to, MOSES, than you." And the Prophet kept fast on the day Ááshúràa, and ordered the companions to fast on this day."

son of keeping fast on these two days is this: " verily these two days are festivals to the polytheists, and I like to act contrary to them, because they do not keep fast on these two days." JA'BIR-BIN-SAMURAH said, 'the Prophet used to order fasting on the day Ááshúràa, and it was caused by that, and he used to advise us to keep fast on this day: then when the fast of Ram'dàn was ordained by divine command, he neither ordered us to keep fast on Ááshúràa nor forbade it us; nor did he advise us to it when this day came.' HAFS'AH said, 'there are four Sunnats which the Prophet did not leave off; the fast of the day Ááshúràa, the fast of nine days of Dhi'lhajjah, and that of three days in every month: and two Sunnat Racâts before morning prayer.' ON THE THINGS THAT MAY BE EATEN DURING SUNNAT FAST.

ÂÁYESHAH said, 'the Prophet came into my house one day, and said, "have you got any thing to eat?" I said, "no, I have not got any thing." His highness said, "verily I am keeping fast." After that, he came to me another day, and said, "have you got any thing to eat?" I said, "O Prophet! there has been some *Haís sent to me." And the Prophet said to ÂA'YESHAH, "shew it to me: what kind of stuff is it? for verily I am fasting." Then he ate of it. That is, eating during Sunnat fast is allowable without any excuse.' ANAS, said, 'the Prophet came to OMM-SULAIM, who was my mother, and she brought him dates and butter, and he said, "return your butter into its bag, and your dates into their dish, for I am fasting." After that, his highness stood up and went to a corner of the house, and performed Sunnat prayer, and prayed for OMM SULAIM and her family, and for mending her broken heart.'† AB'U-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. OMM HÁNÌ said, 'on the day of the conquest of Mecca, FÁTIMAH ZAHRÀ, who was the Prophet's daughter, came and sat upon his left side, and I sat upon his right side: then a female slave, born in the house, brought a vessel in which was some kind of drink; and she gave it to his highness, and he drank of it, and then gave it to me, and I drank of it. And I said, "O Prophet! I have broken my fast, for I was keeping it." He said to me, "were you expiating for any part of the fast of Ramdàn, or for a fast which you had vowed to keep?" I said, "no." The Prophet said, "then it is no detriment to you, if your fast was Sunnat." And in one tradition it is, that 'I said, "be ware O Prophet! verily I was keeping fast." And the Prophet said, "the keeper of Sunnat fast is his own governor; he may keep fast, or eat, as he likes." ZAHRÌ, relates from ÛRWAH, and she from ÂÀYESHAH, that ÂÀYESHAH said, 'I and HAFS'AH were keeping fast; and we were offered victuals which we liked very much; and HAFS'AH said, "O Prophet! verily we were fasting, and victuals were brought to us which we were very fond of, and we ate of it." his highness said, "expiate for it some other day." The merit of a person who keeps fast is enhanced by his being near to those who eat.

IN EXPLANATION OF THE NIGHT KADR.

AAYESHAH said, ' the Prophet said, " seek for and desire the night of power, in one of the nights of the last ten nights of Ram'dàn; either the twenty-first, or twenty-third, or twenty-fifth, or twenty-seventh, or twenty-ninth." IBN-OMER. There is a tradition from him, that some of the companions were shewn the night of power in their sleep, in the last seven nights, and the Prophet said, " I know that your dreams have agreed with the seven last nights; therefore, any one seeking for the night of power, must seek it in the seven last nights of Ram'dàn." IBN-ABB'AS. ' A. G. S. " Seek for the night of power in the ten last nights of Ram-'dàn, in the twenty-ninth night, twenty-seventh and twenty-fifth." ABU-SA'ID-AL-KHU'DHRÌ relates, that ' his highness retired alone into a Turkish tent, the first ten nights of Ram'dàn; after that, shut himself up, from the tenth, to the twentieth; after that, put his head out of the tent, and said, " verily I retired the first ten days of Ram'dàn, seeking for the night of power; after that the ten middle days, for the same purpose; and an angel came to me and said, " that night is in the ten latter nights:" then, any one having retired with me to seek this night, must retire on the ten latter nights; for verily I was shewn this night in the last ten: its remembrance was taken from me; and verily I saw myself in a dream, prostrating in mud at the day-break following that night, in which I saw it in my sleep: then seek for it in the ten latter nights, and in the odd nights of these ten." AB'U-SA'ID-KHU'DHRÌ says, 'then it rained in that night, and the roof of the Prophet's Masjid was at that time of the branches and leaves of the dates, and the roof leaked; and both my eyes saw the impression of mud upon the Prophet's forehead, in the morning of the twenty-first. From hence it is known that the night of power is on the twenty-first of Ram'dàn.' ZIRRÌN-BIN-HUBAISH,* said, 'I asked UBAI-BIN-CAB, saying, your brother, IBN-MASU'UD, says, "that person who stays awake all the nights of the year, finds the night of power." And UBAI-IBN-CAB said, "his object in saying that was, that when any one finds the night of power, that he is not to rest upon having obtained its rewards; that is, he is not to pass the remainder of the year at his ease, but to labour in good actions. Beware; for verily IBN MASU'UD surely has known that the night of power is in Ram'dàn, and that it is in the ten last nights; and that it is in the twenty-seventh night." Then UBAI-BIN-CAB swore, when he did not say if it please GOD; but said, "certainly the night of power is the twenty-seventh night." ZIRRÌN-BIN-HUBAISH says, 'I said to CAB, "by what proof do you say so?" He said, "from a sign which his highness acquainted me of; which is this; the sun rises in the morning of that night, without brightness." AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to be very assiduous and industrious in acting, in the last ten nights of Ram'dàn; more than he did in the first or middle ten nights.' AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet was used, when the ten last nights of Ram'dàn arrived, to labour more in his worshippings, than customary; and was awake the whole night; and made his family keep awake also, that they might worship likewise.' CH. IX. PART I.

UBAI-BIN-CAB says it is the twenty-seventh night.

Part Second.

ÂÁYESHAH said, ' I said, " O Prophet! inform me, if I find out which is the night of power, what I shall say in prayers and supplications?" He said, " say, O LORD! verily thou art a forgiver and lover of pardon; then forgive me my faults." AB'U-BACRAH said, I heard the Prophet say, " seek for the night of power in four nights in the nine remaining nights or in three nights of the seven, or two nights in five, or in one of the three." IBN-ÔMER said, ' his highness was asked about the night of power: he said, " it is in every Ram'dàn," ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ANAS said, ' I said, " O messenger of God! verily I have a forest, in which I stay, and say prayers there, for the praise of GOD; then order me a night in which I may come to this Masjid." He said, " come on the twenty-third." And it was said to his son, " what did your father do in the Masjid?" He said, " he came into the Masjid; and when he performed afternoon prayers, he would not come out of the Masjid on any account, except for his natural evacuations: and when he performed morning prayer, he would find his beast at the door of the Masjid, would then mount him, and go to his forest."

The angels descend on the night Kadr, and pray for mercy on true believers.

And when it is with Muslemàns the festival Fitr, GOD excites emulation in his angels, on account of the rewards which his servants gain; and says, " O my angels! what is the retaliation and wages for works completed?" They say, " O GOD! its retaliation is that its full wages be given." After that, the servants come out, raising their voices in supplication: and GOD says to the angels, " O my angels! my male and female slaves have performed my divine commands, and that is the fast Ram'dàn; I swear by my power, that I approve their supplications." And GOD says, " return; verily I have pardoned you, and have changed your misdeeds for rewards."

CHAP. X.---PART I.

ON SECLUSION.

ÂAYESHAH said, 'his highness used to seclude himself, the ten last nights of Ram'dân, until GOD caused him to die; and this was after having secluded himself in the first ten, and medium ten days; and he did not find the night of power; and it was shewn to him in the last ten nights: after that his wives secluded themselves in the last ten nights.' ABU-HURAIRAH said, 'the Korân was repeated to the Prophet once every year; and the repeater was GABRIEL; then it was repeated to him twice in the year in which his pure soul was taken away; and his highness used to seclude himself ten days in every year; and twenty days in the year in which his soul was taken.' ÂAYESHAH said, 'his highness used, when he secluded himself, to put his head out of the Masjid, near me; and was himself in the Masjid: and I combed the hair of his highness' head;* and his highness would not come out of the Masjid unless for his necessary evacutions.' IBN-ÔMER relates, that 'ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHAT'TAB asked the Prophet, and said, "I had made a vow, in the time of ignorance, that I would seclude myself one night in the Cábah." His highness said, "if you have made a vow, then perform it."

Part Second.

The annual seclusion being once omitted, was expiated by a double period in the following year.

ANAS said, "the Prophet used to seclude himself the ten last nights of Ram'dàn; but one year he did not do it; and when the following year came, he secluded himself twenty days, in expiation for it." Â'YESHAH. 'His highness used, (when wishing to seclude himself) to perform morning prayer, then enter into his place of seclusion.' Â'YESHAH said, 'his highness went to visit the sick; when he was in a state of seclusion; and would pass in the same attitude as in seclusion, and would not look to one side or the other, nor stop; and he would ask the condition of the sick.' Â'YESHAH said, 'it is Sunnat on one secluded not to visit the sick, or be present at the prayers over a bier, nor touch his wife; nor come out on any account, but for occasions of indispensable necessity; nor is seclusion right without fasting; nor except in a public Masjid.'

Part Third.

IBN ÔMER relates, from his highness, that 'when he secluded himself, his bed was spread for him, and his bedstead; and they were put either before or behind the pillars of the Masjid.' IBN Â'BB'AS said, 'his highness said, in respect of one secluded, "GOD deters him from faults, and rewards him with good things; like the doer of good; that is, the good acts which he does not then perform, such as visiting the sick, and prayers over a bier, visiting Muslemàns; GOD also gives him the rewards thereof.'

ABU'HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Does any one of you like, when he returns to his family, to find, on his return, three female camels, with young, large and fat?" We said, "yes, we should like it." He said, "then three revelations, which any one of you repeats in his prayers, is better for him than three large, fat, female camels with young." ÂA'YESHAH. 'A. G. S. "Skilfulness in the Koràn is with the angels and the Prophets, which are great and virtuous; that is, a skilful person in Koràn in the world is like them, and their companion in futurity; and that person who reads the Koràn, and his tongue does not flow well in reading it; for him are two rewards; one, the rewards of reading; the other, of trouble." IBN ÔMER. 'A. G. S.

The most enviable persons are those who read the Koràn and bestow alms.

"There is no room to envy any but two persons; one a man to whom GOD has given the Koràn, and he rises up with it, and reads it in a Sâât of the night, and a Sâât of the day; the second, a man to whom GOD has given property, and he gives in alms with it, in a Sâât of the night and of the day." ABU MUS'A, 'A. G. S. "The state of a Muslemàn, who reads the Koràn, is like the orange fruit; whose smell and taste are pleasant; and that of a Muslemàn, who does not read the Koràn, is like a date, which has no smell, but a sweet taste; and the condition of an hypocrite, who does not read the Koràn, is like the Coloçynth, which has no smell, and has a bitter taste; and the hypocrite who reads the Koràn is like the sweet bazil, whose smell is sweet, but taste bitter."

And in the morning he informed the Prophet of it, who said twice, "read, O USAID! read, O USAID!" USAID said, in excuse for leaving off reading, "I was afraid, O Prophet of GOD! that the horse would have trodden upon my son, when he was near him; and I went to YAHYA, and raised up my head towards the regions, and I saw a thing like a canopy, and in it like lamps: then I came out of my place; but did not see them." His highness said, "do you know what it is which you saw like a canopy and lamps?" He said, "no." The Prophet said, "they were angels, which were near you on account of your voice in reading the Koràn; and if you had read all night, verily they would have remained till the morning; and people would have looked at them; and they would not have been hidden from men."

Ab'uhurairah said, 'the Prophet appointed me to take care of the Fitr alms; that is, he gave them over to me, in order that they might be distributed to the poor at an opportunity: and a person came to me, and began taking from it with both his hands; and I took hold of him, and said, "I shall take you to the Prophet." He said, "verily I am a poor man, and have the weight of a family upon my neck, and my want is excessive." Then I released him; and in the morning went to the Prophet; and he said, "O Ab'uhurairah! what is become of your last night's prisoner?" I said, "O messenger of God! he complained of extreme want, and of a family; and I had compassion on him, and set him free." The Prophet said, "beware! verily he told a lie, and will soon come back." Then I thought he would come back, from the Prophet's saying so; and I sat expecting him: and he came, taking victuals with both his hands; and I seized him and said, "verily I shall take thee to the Prophet." He said, "let me go, I am indigent, and have the weight of a family upon me, and I will not return again." Then ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB said, " since repeating this chapter has such rewards, verily I shall repeat it very often; and from which I shall get a great many palaces in paradise." Then the Prophet said, " GOD's mercy is more spacious than that." HÁSAN BAS'RÎ. ' A. G. S. " Whoever repeats a hundred sections in one night, the Koràn shall not be an enemy to him in that night; and he who repeats two hundred revelations in one night, shall have written for him the standing up of a whole night; and he who repeats five hundred in one night, to a thousand, shall rise in the morning with a Kin'tàr of rewards." The companions said, " what is a Kin'tàr?" The Prophet said, " a great deal of wealth, amounting to twelve thousand."*

* In the Kámùs a Kin'tàr is said to be the weight of forty Ukiahs of gold, or 1200 Dínàrs; or the quantity of gold which will fill an ox's hide.

Remember the Koràn, because it goes quicker from the breasts of men, than their quadrupeds, if not tied." IBN ÒMER. ' A. G. S. " The condition of remembering the Koràn and forgetting it, is no other than like that of a master of camels, which are tied by the leg: if guarded, they will be preserved; but, if they are freed, they run away."

The words of the Koràn, if not frequently repeated, are easily forgotten.

I mean, "thou art the most worthy to read the Koràn." He said, "I like to hear it from others." Then I read the chapter entitled Women,* till I came to this section: "Then what shall be the condition of the infidels, when I bring an evidence from each tribe against itself, and shall bring thee, O MUH'AMMED! a witness against these people?"† Then his highness said, "this is enough for thee now." UBAI-IBN-CAB said, "did GOD mention my name to thee?" The Prophet said, "yes, he did." Again UBAI said, with astonishment, "was I actually mentioned by the creator of the universe?" The Prophet said, "yes, thou wast mentioned by GOD." Then both the eyes of UBAI-IBN-CAB shed tears. And in one tradition it is, that when the chapter commencing, "the unbelievers among those to whom the scriptures were given, and among the idolaters, did not stagger,"‡ was revealed, his highness said to UBAI-BIN-CAB, "verily GOD ordered me to repeat the abovementioned chapter to thee." The Prophet said, "praise be to GOD, who has created people of my sect, with whom I have been ordered to sit." Then he sat in the middle of us, and made himself our equal, and was not discriminated from us. After that, he made a sign with his hand, saying, "sit ye this way, in a circle." Then the companions sat down in a ring, and his highness saw their faces, and said, "be joyful, O body of poor refugees! with perfect splendor on the day of resurrection: and ye will enter into paradise before the rich by half a day; and half a day of that world is five hundred years of this." CHAP. III.--PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF DIFFERENCES IN THE KORAN.

That mode of reading the Koràn is the best which convinces the hearer that the reader is impressed with the book.

There are various readings of the Koràn, all equally genuine.

OMER IBN-AL-KHÁTTÁB, said, "I heard HISHÁM-BIN-HACÌM-BIN-HIZÁM read the chapter entitled Furkàn,* in another manner than that which I read it, and the Prophet taught me that chapter; and when I read it as he taught it me, and he read it differently, I was near being angry with him: after that I waited till he had finished reading; then I threw my garment upon his neck, and pulled him, and brought him to the Prophet, and said, "O Prophet! verily I heard this man read the chapter Furkàn, in a different way from that which you taught me." And the Prophet said, "let HISHÁM go:" and he said to HISHÁM, "read the chapter." And he read it in the manner that he had done; and his highness said, "thus has this chapter descended." After that he said to me, "read it," which I did as I remembered. Here also, he said, "thus was this chapter sent down." And as we were confounded when he said of both, thus it was sent down, the Prophet said, "verily the Koràn was sent down on seven dialects: then read what is easy and agreeable to you." Ibn Masu'od said, I heard a man read in one dialect, and the Prophet in a different one, and I brought the man to the Prophet, and informed him of the case. And I perceived displeasure in his highness' face on account of our disputation; and he said, "you are both good readers; then do not object to each other's reading; for verily those that were before you objected to one way of reading the Koràn, and they were ruined." Ubai Ibn Cab said, 'I was in the Masjid, and a man came in, performing his prayers; and read in a dialect which I had forbidden him; after that another man came in, and read in another dialect; and when we had finished prayers we all came to the Prophet; and I said, "this man has repeated in a dialect which I objected to, and another man came in and repeated in a different dialect." Then the Prophet ordered the two men to repeat over again; which they did, and his highness praised them both. Then a doubt arose in my mind on account of the Prophet's praising both readings; and I had not this doubt when I was in ignorance: and when the Prophet perceived it, he struck his hands upon my breast, and perspiration run from me, and I was in such a state, that you might say I saw God, from fear. And his highness said to me, "O Ubai-bin-Cab! intelligence was sent to me to read the Koràn in one dialect, and I was attentive to the court of God, and said, "make easy the reading of the Koràn to my sects." Then instructions were sent to me a second time, saying, "read the Koràn in two dialects." Then I turned myself to the court of God, saying, "make easy the reading of the Koràn to my sect." Then a voice was sent to me a third time, saying, "read the Koràn in seven dialects." Ibn-Abbas, 'A. S. "Gabriel taught me to read the Koràn in one dialect: then I turned to Gabriel, that he would petition at the court of God, that he would make easy the reading of the Koràn to my sect; then I was always asking that it might be made easy, and that Gabriel would cause it to be made so for me, till at last it came to seven dialects." IBN SHAH'AB* said, 'it reached me that those seven dialects are not more than one in the rules of religion, and are not at variance, either in the indication of things lawful or forbidden; that is, their sense is in all the same.'

Part Second.

UBAI IBN-CA'B, said, 'his highness met GABRIEL and said, "O GABRIEL! verily I have been sent to an unlettered sect, that has not learnt to read and write; some of them old women, and some old men; some boys, and some girls; some of them men that have never read any book." GABRIEL said, "O MUHA'MMED! verily the Koràn has been sent down in seven dialects." And in one tradition it is thus, that GABRIEL said, "there is not a dialect of those dialects, but is a curer of diseases which are in breasts, such as infidelity and ignorance; and every dialect is a sufficient proof of the truth of the Prophet." And in one tradition it is, that his highness said, "GABRIEL and MICHAEL came to me; and GABRIEL sat upon my right, and MICHAEL upon my left. And GABRIEL said, "read the Koràn in one dialect; and MICHAEL said to the Prophet, "ask GABRIEL for more; that is, say to him, let it be read in other dialects also; till at length it reached seven dialects; and every dialect is a curer of diseases, and a sufficient proof of the veracity of the prophecy." IMR'AN-BIN-HUS'AIN said, 'I passed by a story-teller, who was reading the Koràn and begging; and I said, "verily we, our families and properties, are all GOD's, and we are returners towards him," like as is repeated in misfortune; you might say this reading of the Koràn, and begging upon it, was a misfortune that had overtaken the story-teller. After that, I said, that I heard the Prophet say, "he who reads the Koràn must beg of GOD by it, and ask his worldly and future wants of GOD; for verily it shall soon come to pass, that tribes will come that shall read the Koràn and beg of man by it."

Part Third.

It is forbidden to read the Koràn for pecuniary reward.

BURAIDAH-ASLAMÌ. 'A. G. S. "The person who reads the Koràn when asking meat of man, (i. e. shall constitute the Koràn as a means of obtaining worldy goods,) shall come, on the day of resurrection, with the face all of bone, without any flesh upon it." IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'the Prophet did not know the division between two chapters, until the words, "in the name of the most compassionate and most merciful," came down to him. ÂLKIMAH said, 'we were in Hems; and IBN-MASÛ'UD repeated the chapter entitled JOSEPH;* and a man said "it was not sent down this way:" and IBN-MASÛ'UD said, "I swear by GOD, that really I repeated it in the time of the Prophet, and in his presence, and his highness said, "you have repeated it well." And while the man was speaking to IBN-MASÛ'UD, he perceived a smell of liquor from him; and said to him, "do you drink, and belie the book of GOD?" And IBN-MASÛ'UD struck him, as he merited, for drinking.'

ZAID-IBN-THA'BIT said, 'AB'U-BACR sent a person to me, and called me to him, at the time of the battle with the people of Yemámah;†

and I went to him, and behold, Omer was with him; and Ab'u-Bacr said to me, Omer came to me and said, "verily a great many of the readers of the Koràn were slain on the day of the battle with the people of Yemámah; and really I am afraid, that if the slaughter should be great, much will go from the Koràn; because every person remembers something of it; and verily I see it adviseable for you to order the Koràn to be collected into one book." I said to Omer, "how can I do a thing which the Prophet has not done?" He said, "I swear by God, this collecting of the Koràn is the best way." And Omer used to be constantly returning to me and saying, "you must collect the Koràn," till at length God opened my breast so to do; and I saw what Omer had seen adviseable.' Zaid-Ibn-Tha'bit says, that 'Ab'u-Bacr said to me, "you are a young and sensible man, and I do not suspect you of forgetfulness, negligence or perfidy; and verily you used to write for the Prophet his instructions from above; then look for the Koràn in every place, and collect it." I said, "I swear by God, that if people had ordered me to carry a mountain about, from one place to another, it would not be heavier upon me than the order, which Ab'u-Bacr has given, for collecting the Koràn." I said to Ab'u-Bacr, "how do you do a thing which the Prophet of God did not?" He said, "by God, this collecting of the Koràn is a good act." And he used perpetually to return to me; until God opened my breast, on the thing which his breast, and Omer's, had been opened upon. Then I sought for the Koràn, from the leaves of the date, and white stones, and the breasts of people that remembered it; till I found the last part of the chapter entitled Repentance,* with Ab'u-Khuzaimah Ans'arì, and with no other person. Then these leaves were in the possession of Ab'u-Bacr, till God caused him to die; after which Omer had them, in his life time; after that, they remained with his daughter, HAFSAH; after that, OTHMAN compiled them into one book.' ANAS-IBN-MALIC relates, that HUDHAIFAH came to OTHMAN, and he had fought with the people of Syria in the conquest of Armenia; and had fought in Adhurbaijan, with the people of Irak, and he was shocked at the different ways of people reading the Koran. And HUDHAIFAH said to OTHMAN, "O OTHMAN! assist this sect, before they differ in the book of GOD, like as the Jews and Christians differ in their books." Then OTHMAN sent a person to HAFSAH, ordering her to send the leaves which she had; and saying, "I shall have a number of copies of them taken, and will then return them to you." And HAFSAH sent the leaves to OTHMAN. Then OTHMAN ordered ZAID-IBN-THABIT-ANSARI, and ABDULLAH-BIN-ZUBAIR, and SAID-IBN-AL-AAS, and ABDULLAH-IBN-AL-HARITH-BIN-HISHAM; and these were all of the Koraish tribe, except ZAID-IBN-THABIT; and OTHMAN said to the three Koraishites, "when you and ZAID-IBN-THABIT differ about any part of the dialect of the Koran, then do ye write it in the Koraish dialect; because it came not down in the language of any tribe but theirs; (and by the petition of his highness it was permitted to every person to read it in his own dialect; but OTHMAN, fearful of the difference which might arise amongst people, ordered all other dialects to be expunged from the Koran except the Koraish:) Then they did as OTHMAN had ordered; and when a number of copies had been taken, OTHMAN returned the leaves to HAFSAH. And OTHMAN sent a copy to every quarter of the countries of Islam; and ordered all other leaves of it to be burnt.' IBN-SHAHAB said, 'then KHARIJAH, son of ZAID-IBN-THABIT, informed me, saying, 'I did not find one section of the chapter entitled the Confederates,* when I was writing the Koran, which verily I heard from the Prophet; then I looked for it, and found it with KHUZAIMAH ANSARI, and entered it into the chapter Confederates.'

"When ye supplicate GOD, do it on the palms of your hands, and not with the backs of them; and when ye have finished supplicating, then draw the palms of your hands over your faces." SALM'AN. 'A. G. S. "Verily your patron is ashamed before his servants, when they raise up their hands to him in supplications, to return them empty." ÔMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'AB

The preferring of petitions to GOD is an acceptable act of adoration.

We must not pray for any thing sinful, or that tends to break off the affection that ought to unite relations.

* Then it is known that supplication is by the order of GOD: whatever is by his order, is worship.

"Verily the quickest supplications for approval are those of the absent for the absent." ÔMER IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB said, 'I asked the Prophet's permission to perform the Ômerah;* and he permitted me, and said, "make us partners, O brother! in your supplications; and do not forget us at that time." Then his highness made use of an expression, which, if I got the whole world, it would not make me so glad." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "There are three persons whose supplications are not denied; one of them a faster, the supplication of whom is not denied at the time of his breaking his fast; the second, a just king; the third, of the oppressed: and GOD lifts up the supplications of those who suffer under tyranny, upon the clouds; that is, he approves them; and the doors of the regions are opened for them: and GOD says to the oppressed, I swear by my might, verily I will assist you, although it may be henceforth." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "There are three supplications approved, in the acceptance of which there is no doubt; one, the supplications of a father for his children, whether for good or ill; the second, the supplications of a traveller, either for himself or others; the third, the supplications of the oppressed."

GOD hears the prayers of those who fast, of a just king, of the oppressed,

salt for your pot.") ANAS said, 'the Prophet used to raise up both his hands in supplication, even so that whiteness of his arm-pits was seen.' SAHEL-BIN-SAD said, 'the Prophet used to raise up his hands, even with his shoulders, and supplicate.' SA'YIB-BIN-YEZÌD relates, from his father, who said, 'the Prophet used, when making supplication, to raise up both his hands, and touch his blessed face with them.' ACRIMAH relates from IBN-ABB'AS, who said, 'when supplicating it is worthy of you to raise up both your hands even with your shoulders, or near to them; and when asking forgiveness, it is worthy of you to make a sign with one finger; and in weeping, to hold out your arms at full length.' IBN-OMER said, 'verily your raising up your hands in the way which you do, is an innovation; for the Prophet never raised his higher than his breast.' UBAI-IBN-CAB said, 'the Prophet used, when remembering any one, to supplicate for him, to begin his supplication for himself, as he would say, "O LORD! pardon me and such a one." AB'U-SA'ÏD-KHUD'HRÌ. 'Verily the Prophet said, "there is no Muslemàn who may make a supplication, in which is no cause of fault, or cutting off the connexion of kindred, but GOD will give him one of these three, either he will hasten in the approval of his supplication, that is, gives it in this world; or he preserves his supplication, and hoards it for him, to give in futurity; or removes an ill from him." The companions said, "since we know that supplications are approved in one of these three ways, we will supplicate very much." The Prophet said, "the rewards of GOD are abundant; your great supplications lessen not his rewards." ABB'AS relates, from the Prophet, who said, "there are five supplications which are accepted; one, those of the oppressed, until GOD takes revenge on the oppressor; the second, those of one intending to make a pilgrimage, until he returns to his own house; the third, those of a combatant with infidels, until he finishes his holy war; the fourth, of a sick person, until restored to health; the fifth,

IN EXPLANATION OF REMEMBERING GOD AND APPROACHING HIM.

ABÙHURAIRAH and AB'U-SA'ÏD-KHUDHRÌ. ' A. G. S. " No body of people sit, when remembering GOD, but they are surrounded by angels, which cover them with GOD's favor; and peace descends upon them, and GOD remembers them, in that assembly which is near him." AB'UHURAIRAH said, ' the Prophet was coming from Mecca to Medínah, and passed by a mountain called *Jumdàn and he said, " go quick, this is Jumdàn, and Medínah is near." And goers alone went on before; they asked, " who are the goers alone, O Prophet?" He said, " they are men who have remembered GOD very much, and women who have done the same." AB'U-MU'SA-ASHARÌ. ' A. G. S. " The condition of that person who remembers GOD, and of that who does not, are like the living and the dead; the rememberer is as the living, and the other like the dead." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. GOD says, " I am near the hope of my servant who puts it in me; that is, I pardon his sins, when he asks for it; and approve of his repentance, when he repents and turns away from sins; and I accept, when he supplicates; and I am with him, and near him, when he remembers me; when he remembers me in private, I remember him in private, and give him his rewards; and, if he remembers me in a crowd, I remember him in one better than that." ABU'D'HAR GHAFFA'RI.

God rewards good actions tenfold; but inflicts punishment for evil deeds only equal to their magnitude, or forgives them.

'A. G. S. Almighty GOD says, "he who does one good act, for him are ten rewards; and I also give more to whomever I will; and he who does an ill, its retaliation is equal to it, or I forgive him; and he who seeks to approach me one span, I will seek to approach one cubit; and he who seeks to approach me one cubit, I will seek to approach him two fathoms; and he who walks towards me, I will run towards him; and he who comes before me with the earth full of sins, and does not associate any thing with me, I will come before him with a front of forgiveness like that." AB'U-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. GOD said, "Whoever considers as an enemy any one of my friends, verily I will denounce against him war and enmity; and whoever seeks to approach me by that which I have given as my divine commands, is most loved by me: and my servant is always seeking to approach me by Sunnat; so that I love him: therefore, when I hold him as a friend, I am his hearing by which he hears, and I am his sight by which he sees, and I am his hands by which he holds, and I am his feet by which he walks: if this servant supplicates me, verily I give unto him; and, if he seeks protection with me from harm and ills, I give him protection; and I do not hesitate about any thing in which I am the doer; like my hesitation in taking the soul of a Mómin, who dislikes death; and I dislike making him sad; but there is no remedy for him against death; that is, I (on account of the regard I have for my servant) hesitate about causing him to die, because he is displeased at death; but there is no remedy for it; he certainly must die." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily there are angels which move around houses for GOD, and seek for the rememberers of God; and when they find an assembly remembering God, they say to one another, "come ye, to that which ye were seeking." Then the angels cover the repeaters of God's name with wings, as far as the lowest region (called the region of the world.") The Prophet said, "when the angels go to the court of God, God asks them, (while knowing better than they) "what do my servants say and do?" Then the angels say, "they remember thee with purity, greatness, praise, and respect." And God says, "have they seen me?" The angels say, "no by God, they have not seen thee." Then God says, "what would their condition be if they had seen me?" The angels say, "if they had seen thee, they would be more strenuous in worshipping thee, and in holding thee mighty and glorious; and they would be more excessive in repeating thy immaculate attributes." God says, "then what do they ask?" The angels say, "paradise." Then God says, "have they seen paradise?" The angels say, "we swear by God they have not; that is, their belief in paradise is mysterious." Then God says, "what would their state have been had they seen paradise?" The angels say, "if they had seen paradise, they would be very ambitious for it: and would be excessive wishers of it, and very great desirers of it." God says, "what thing is it they seek protection from?" The angels say, "from hell fire." God says, "have they seen the fire?" The angels say, "no; if they had seen the fire, they would be greater runners from it." God says, "how would they have been, had they seen the fire?" The angels say, "if they had seen the fire, they would be greater runners from it, and would be greater fearers of it." Then God says, "I take ye as evidences; that verily I have pardoned them." One of the angels says, "there is a person amongst them who is not a remembrer of thee, and is only come on account of his own needs." God says, "verily it is not unfortunate for him to sit in such an assembly as this, although he may have come on any other account." And in one tradition it is, that the Prophet said, 'verily there are angels which walk upon the earth for GOD, and seek for assemblies of repeaters of GOD's name; and when they meet with one in which GOD is remembered, they sit down with the rememberers, and hide one another with their wings; so that they fill the expanse between the earth and the lowest region. Then when the repeaters separate, the angels ascend up to the regions; and GOD asks them (although he knows their condition) "whence are ye come?" They say, "from thy servants which are on the earth; they make mention of thy purity, and greatness, with reverence and praise; supplicate and beg of thee." GOD says, "what do they beg of me?" The angels say, "paradise." GOD says, "did they see paradise?" They say, "no." GOD says, "what would their state have been had they seen paradise?" The angels say, "they would wish more for it." GOD says, "what do they seek protection from?" The angels say, "from thy fire and punishments." GOD says, "have they seen my fire." They say, "no." GOD says, "what would their condition have been had they seen it?" The angels say, "they would fear more. They ask thee forgiveness." GOD says, "verily I have pardoned them; and have given them the things they supplicated for; that is, paradise: and I have given them protection from what they sought; that is, the fire." The angels say, "O our patron! there is a servant amongst them, an offender, and of bad actions, who did not pass by them, but sat down without remembering thee." GOD says, "I have pardoned him also; because this is an assembly, the companion of which shall not be unfortunate."

The frequenting of the assemblies of the pious is a means of forgiveness even to the wicked.

HANDHALAH-IBN-AL-RUBAIYA-USAIDI* said, "ABUBACK came to me and said, "how are you? What state are you in? In the truth of faith;

O HANDHALAH?" I said, "I am become an hypocrite." AB'UBACR said, "immaculate GOD! how do you ascribe hypocrisy to yourself?" I said, "we stay near the Prophet when he reminds us of hell and paradise, that you might say we see them with our eyes; and when we leave him, we mix with our wives and children, and are engaged in our fields and gardens." AB'UBACR said, "I swear by GOD, verily I myself am in these predicaments which you mention." And AB'UBACR went to the Prophet and said, "we are become hypocrites, O Prophet! that is, in all cases our internal does not accord with our external." The Prophet said, "what is this, and on what account do ye ascribe hypocrisy to yourselves?" We said, "O messenger of GOD! we stay near you when you remind us of hell and paradise, as if we saw them with our eyes; and when we leave you, we mix with our women and children, attend to our fields and gardens, and forget a great deal of what we remembered with you." The Prophet said, "I swear by him in whose mighty hands is my life, that if you were always to remain in the state in which you are when with me, and when remembering GOD, verily the angels would shake you by the hand upon your beds, and come before you and take you by the hand in your roads; that is, you would always meet with angels; but O HANDHALAH! be one sáát in remembering GOD, and the performance of his duties; and another in the performance of your duty to your family." This he repeated thrice.'

A man is not guilty of the crime of hypocrisy, although, when engaged in his necessary worldly pursuits, the ardent sentiments of piety, which he felt when listening to religious discourses, be somewhat cooled.

ABU-DARDAA. 'A. G. S. "Shall I not inform you of the best of your actions? Shall I not inform you of your purest actions before your king (i. e. GOD?) Shall I not inform you of your most exalted actions in your stations, and better for you than spending gold and silver?

BOOK IX.

Shall I not inform you of an action which is better for you, than fighting with infidels, and cutting off their heads, and their cutting off yours?" The companions said, "yes, inform us." The Prophet said, "these actions are remembering GOD." ABDULLAH-BIN-BUSR* said, "an Á'rábì came to the Prophet and asked, "which is the best of men?" The Prophet said, "joy be to that person whose life is long, and actions good; I mean, this is the best of men." The Á'rábì said, "O Prophet! which is the best of actions, and the most rewarded?" He said, "the best of actions is this, that you separate from the world, and die whilst your tongue is moist in repeating the name of GOD." ANAS. 'A. G. S. "When you pass through the gardens of paradise, eat." The companions said, "what are the gardens of paradise?" The Prophet said, "the gardens of paradise are the circles of those who make mention of GOD." AB'U-HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The person who sits in an assembly, and does not remember GOD, shame and loss will be for him on the day of resurrection; and he who falls upon his side in his place of sleep, and does not remember GOD therein, shame and loss will be on him from GOD on the resurrection; that is, in every situation, sitting, standing, asleep and awake, night and day, be employed in the remembrance of GOD: every time that passes without it will be a cause of shame and loss at the resurrection." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "There is no assembly, which rises up from the place of sitting, without remembering GOD therein, but rises up like as from dead asses; and it will be a means of shame and loss to them." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "No tribe sits in a place, in which they do not remember GOD, and send grace upon his Prophet, but will be ashamed, and lose, on the day of resurrection; and, if GOD wills, he will punish them; and, if he please, he will pardon them." OMM-HABÍBAH. 'A. G. S. "Every speech of man is a loss to him, not a gain; except ordering any one to obey the laws, or with-holding any one from that which is unlawful, or remembering God." IBN-OMER. "A. C. S." "Talk not much without remembering God, because verily it is a cause of hardness of heart; and verily the farthest man from God is the hard hearted."

THAWBAN said, "when this revelation came down, 'those who treasure up gold and silver, and do not expend them in the road of God, the gold and silver will be heated in hell fire, and their foreheads, sides and backs will be marked with them,' we were with the Prophet, in some of his journeys, and some of his highness' companions said, 'this revelation is come down in denunciation against gold and silver; would to God! that we knew what property is better than gold and silver, we would take it and lay it by.' Then his highness said, 'the best of property is a remembering tongue and grateful heart, and the wife of a Muslemân, who assists him in faith.'"

The merit of praising God and thanksgiving is more valuable than any kind of property.

Part Third.

ABU-SAID-KHUDHRI said, "MUAWIAH came to an assembly that was sitting in a circle in the Masjid, and said, 'what has caused you to sit here; and why do you do so?' They said, 'we are sitting remembering God.' He said, 'by God are you not sitting otherwise than in the remembrance of God?' They said, 'we swear by God nothing else has caused our sitting.' MUAWIAH said, 'beware, verily I did not take an oath from you, on account of suspecting you of falsehood, but expressly in imitation of the Prophet; for verily he came to a circle of his companions, and said, "what has caused you to sit here?" They said, "the remembrance of God, and we praise him for his shewing us the road to Islâm, and for his benefiting us by it." His highness said, "by God has nothing else caused your sitting?" They said, "by GOD we swear, nothing besides." The Prophet said, "beware! verily I did not take an oath from you on suspicion of falsehood; but GABRIEL came to me, and informed me, saying, "GOD honours his angels by you."

ABDULLAH-BIN-BUSR said, 'verily a man said, "O messenger of GOD! really the rules of Islàm are many upon me; then inform me a thing by which I may lay hold; I mean, inform me of an act by the doing of which I may obtain great rewards." His highness said, "let your tongue be always moist in the remembrance of GOD." AB'U-SA'ID-KHUDHRI said, 'verily the messenger of GOD was asked, "what servant is the best, and of highest station, near GOD, on the day of resurrection?" He said, "men and women, great rememberers of GOD." It was said, "O Prophet! are repeaters of GOD's name also better, and of higher degree, than the combatants in the cause of GOD?" He said, "a combatant, if he draws his sword against the infidels and polytheists, even until it be broken, and the combatant or his sword be smeared in blood, still surely the rememberer of GOD is better." IBN-ABB'AS. 'A. G. S. "The devil is a sitter upon the heart of man; therefore, when man remembers GOD, it separates the devil; and when he is negligent and remiss in the remembrance of GOD, he throws bad machinations into the heart of man." MA'LIC said, 'it reached me that the Prophet was wont to say, "a rememberer of GOD amongst the negligent, is like a fighter after the runners away; and a rememberer amongst the negligent, is as a green branch on a dry tree." And in one tradition it is thus: "a rememberer of GOD amongst the negligent, is like a green tree in the middle of dry ones; and the rememberer of GOD, in the centre of the negligent, is like a lamp in a dark house: to the rememberer of GOD amongst the negligent, GOD shews his sitting place on paradise; either when awake or asleep; and a rememberer of GOD amongst the negligent, shall have his faults forgiven in number equal to men and beasts." MUA'DH-BIN-JABAL said, 'no servant has done any act, tending more to redeem him from the punishments of GOD than the remembering of GOD.' AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily GOD says, I am with my servant when he remembers me; and his lips shake in repeating my name." ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER said, 'the Prophet would say, "there is a polish for every thing that takes rust; and the polish for the heart is the remembrance of GOD; and there is no act that redeems from GOD's punishments so much as the remembrance of him." The companions said, "is not fighting with the infidels also like this?" He said, "no, although he fight until his sword be broken."

Praising GOD is more meritorious than engaging in holy war.

BURAIDAH said, 'I came with the Prophet, into the Masjid, at the time of evening prayer; and unexpectedly a man was repeating, in a loud voice: and I said, "O messenger of GOD! do you say, that this person acts the hypocrite?" The Prophet said, "no; but he is a Muslemàn, and returner to GOD." And the person was AB'U-MU'SA ASHARÌ. Then the Prophet stood up listening to his reading. After that, AB'U-MU'SA sat down, and supplicated in these words, "O LORD! I take thee to-witness that thou art GOD, the only one, and without need; thou art not the son of any one, nor is any one the son of thee, nor is there any one like unto thee." Then the Prophet said, "verily AB'U-MU'SA has supplicated GOD by a name, by which being supplicated, he grants; and accepts when asked." I said, "O messenger of GOD! may I inform AB'U-MU'SA of what I have heard from you?" He said, "yes, tell him." And I did so; and he said to me, "you are my brother and friend to-day, for having told me a saying of the Prophet's."

The Prophet approves the form in which AB'U MU'SA addressed the Almighty.

I said, "yes." The Prophet said, "verily I repeated, after leaving you, four words thrice; and if they were weighed with any thing which you have said and repeated to-day, verily they would be equal: they are these words, "I remember thee, with purity and praise, to the number of thy creations; and in such a manner as shall be pleasing to thee, and by the weight of thy imperial throne, which is stupendous; and in number equal to thy words."

Abu-Musa-al-Asharì said, 'we were with the Prophet on a journey, and some men stood up repeating Alláho-Acber aloud; and the Prophet said, "O men! be easy on yourselves, and do not distress yourselves by raising your voices; verily you do not repeat to one deaf or absent, but verily to one who heareth and seeth; and he is with you; and he to whom you pray is nearer to you than the neck of your camel." God said, "O Moses! if the seven regions and their inhabitants, and the seven earths, were put into one scale, and La-iláho-ill'-alláhi in another; verily the scale in which these words are placed, would preponderate." Abu-Sa'id, and Abu-Hurairah. A. G. s. ÔMER-BIN-SHOWAIB relates from his fore-fathers, that the Prophet said, "he who repeats Subhàn allah one hundred times in the morning and evening, shall be like a person having performed ten pilgrimages; and he who says al-h'amdo Lilláhi, a hundred times, morning and evening, shall be like the person who has mounted men upon a hundred horses in the road of GOD; and he who says La-iláho-ill'-illáhi a hundred times, morning and evening, shall be like one that has freed a hundred slaves of the children of ISRAEL; and he who says Alláho-Acber one hundred times, morning and evening, no one will produce on that a better deed, except one that has said the like, having added to it." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ÂMER. 'A. G. S.' "Saying Subhán-allah is half the scale of actions; and saying al-h'amdo L'illáhi fills the scale; and Lá-iláho ill'-illáhi leaves no curtain between him and GOD, till he reaches him." ABU'HURAIRAH. 'A. G. S.' "No servant has said Lá-iláho-ill'-illáhi, with an unsullied heart, but the doors of the regions are opened for him, until he reaches the imperial throne; that is, GOD: so long as he abstains from great crimes." ABU-MASU'UD. 'A. G. S.' "I met ABRAHAM, in the night of my ascension; and he said, give my Salàm to your sect, and inform them that paradise and its earth is sweet and pure, and its water sweet and pleasant; its lands level, and without trees; and there is no verdure in it; and acquaint them that its trees are these words, Subhàn-allah and al-h'amdo-L'illáhi, and Lá-iláho-ill'-alláhi; allâho-Acber; that is, trees are planted there in rewards for men's actions; every word which is said of these words has a tree planted for it in paradise." ON ASKING PARDON AND REPENTANCE.

O my servants! ye have all strayed except those to whom I have shewn the road; then ask me for directions, that I may shew you the way. O my servants! ye are all hungry, except those to whom I give food; then ask me for food, that I may give it unto you. and day, and I pardon all; then ask me for forgiveness, that I may forgive you. O my servants! verily no detriment happens to you, until you sin; nor doth a benefit reach you, until you worship. O my servants! if the first and last of you, your men and Genii, were abstinent, it would increase nothing in my reign. O my servants! if the first and last of you, your men and Genii, were disobedient, and sinful, it would not lessen any thing of my reign. O my servants! if your first and your last, your men and Genii, were to stand on one plain, and supplicate, and ask me for whatever they wished, and I gave to every one his wish, this giving would not lessen what I have, except as a needle diminishes the water of the sea, when taken out of it. O my servants! there are none of your good or bad actions which I do not know; after which I give you their rewards; then he who gets a good reward must thank me; and he who gets a bad reward, must reproach himself."

God forgives a man who had committed many murders, on his shewing a disposition to repent.

ABU SA'ID KHUDHRI. A. G. s. There was a man of the children of ISRAEL, who killed ninety-nine people; after which he came out, asking if his repentance would be accepted; and having met a monk, he asked him, "is there acceptance for my repentance?" The monk said, "no." Then the man killed the monk, and stood asking people about the approval of his repentance. And a man said to him, "come to such a village, in which there is a sage who will open your difficulty." Then the signs of immediate death were upon him, and he tried to reach the village upon his breast, and died. Then the angels of mercy and punishment disputed about him; that is, the angels of mercy said "GOD will pardon him;" and the others, "GOD will punish him." Then GOD ordered the village, towards which the man had attempted to go, to be near to the corpse; and the village which he had fled from, to be far away from him. Then GOD said to the angels, "compute, and measure the distance between the two villages, relatively to the dead man; which of the two is nearest to him." And it

ABU HURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " I swear by GOD, if you do not sin, verily GOD will take you; and verily a tribe that commits faults and then asks pardon, GOD forgives." ABU-MUSA. ' A. G. S. " Verily GOD expands the hands of his compassion in the night, that committers of faults in the day may repent; and expands the hands of mercy in the day, that committers of faults in the night may repent, until the sun shall rise in the west." AAYESHAH. ' A. G. S. " Verily, when a servant confesses his faults, and repents, and turns to the court of GOD, GOD approves of his repentance." ABU HURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " He who shall repent before the sun rises in the west, GOD accepts his repentance." ANAS. ' A. G. S. " GOD is verily glad at the repentance of his servants, when they repent and turn to him; more than one of you, whose riding camel, having run away, and left him in a desart without food or water; he comes under a tree, and lays himself down under its shade, full of sorrow; having lost all hope of his camel; when, all at once, he beholds his camel, standing near him, and takes him by the rope; and then says, from excessive pleasure, O LORD! thou art my servant, and I am thy lord; having made a blunder from the excess of his joy."* ABU HURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. Verily, a servant committed a fault, and said, " O my patron! I have erred, then pardon me." And GOD says to the angels, " did my servant know that verily there is a defender for him, who pardons his faults, and punishes on account of them? I have pardoned him by this." After that the servant has been a long time without committing a fault; as long as GOD willed; and then offended another time, and said, " O my cherisher! I have offended, pardon it." And GOD says, " did my servant know, that there is a cherisher who forgives and punishes? I have pardoned Jundub. ' A. G. S. "Verily a man said, "by God, God will not forgive such a one." And verily God said, "who is it that swears by me I will not pardon such a one? Verily I have pardoned him, and have made vain the actions of the liar." Shedd'ad-bin-Aws. ' A. G. S. This is the most excellent for you to say, in asking pardon, "O Lord! thou art my cherisher; there is no true God but thee; thou didst create me; and I am firm in the promise I made thee, to the utmost of my power; I seek protection with thee from the badness of my faults; I confess to thee, thy benefits to me, and the constant existence of my faults; then pardon me; for verily no person forgives faults but thee." His highness said, ' then any one that shall say these words in the day, when having sincerity and dependance in them, and dies in that day, before reaching the evening, is of the people of paradise; and whoever says them in the night, when knowing them as true, and dies before the morning, is of the people of paradise.'

ADAM! verily, if you come before me with faults equal to the full of the earth; and then come before me without associating any thing with me, verily I will come before you with the earth full of pardon; that is, I will pardon any quantity of sins you commit." IBN-ABBAS relates, from the Prophet, that 'GOD said, "he who has known that I have the power to forgive him, I will pardon; and I have no fear, as long as he does not associate any thing with me." IBN-ABB'AS. 'A. G. S. "He who asks pardon continually, GOD releases from every constraint; and makes him a pleasure for every melancholy, and sends him sustenance, from that place which he neither supposed or had hope from." AB'U-BACR. 'A. G. S. "An incessant sinner, has not sinned, that has asked pardon; although he may have sinned seventy times a day; because asking pardon is their coverer." ANAS. 'A. G. S. "The most of the sons of ADAM are sinners, and the best of sinners are repenters." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily, when a true believer commits a fault, a black spot is created in his heart; therefore, if he repents, and asks pardon of GOD, the black spot is polished from his heart: and, if he increases his sinning, the black spot increases; so that it takes hold of the whole heart. Then this spot is a rust, which GOD has mentioned in the revelation, "their hearts became rusty from their works."

He that asks forgiveness for his sins is as if he had not sinned.

IBN-OMER. 'A. G. S. "Verily GOD accepts of the repentance of his servant, as long as his soul does not come into his throat."* AB'U-SA'ID-KHUD'HRI. 'A. G. S. Verily the devil said, "I swear by thy greatness, O cherisher! I always lead your servants astray, so long as the soul is in their bodies." pardon of me." SAFWAN-BIN-ASSAL. 'A. G. S. Verily GOD has made a door in the west, the breadth of which is seventy years' journey, for repentance; which will not be shut so long as the sun rises not in the west." MUAWIAH. 'A. G. S. "Flight from sin towards repentance shall not be cut off, until the sun rises in the west." ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Verily there were two men of the children of ISRAEL, who had a friendship for each other; one of them laboured in adoration, and the other was a sinner: and the adorer said to the sinner, "return from sinning." He said, "leave me to my cherisher." At length he found him committing a very great sin, and said, "return from sinning." The sinner said, "leave me to my cherisher; were you sent as a guard over me?" The adorer said, "I swear by GOD, he will not forgive your faults always, and will not bring you into paradise." Then GOD sent an angel to them, who took both their souls; and they were near GOD together; and GOD said to the sinner, "come into paradise;" and to the other, "can you prevent my compassion on my servant?" He said, "I cannot, O my defender!" GOD said to the angels, "carry him towards the fire."

GOD pardons a great sinner, who had expressed confidence in his mercy; and condemns a religious man, who had presumed to set bounds to it.

ASMAA-BINT-YEZID said, 'I heard the Prophet repeating this revelation: "O my servants! those who injure themselves, from committing faults, shall not be hopeless of GOD's mercy; verily, GOD pardons all faults, and has no fear." ABUDHAR-GHAFFARI. 'A. G. S. GOD says, "O my servants! you have all strayed, except him to whom I shew the road; then ask of me the straight road, that I may shew it you: and all are poor, except him whom I have made rich; then ask from me, that I may give you daily bread; and you are all sinners, except him whom I save from sinning: then he who knows that I am the LORD of power on pardoning sins, then asks me for pardon, that I may forgive him; and I have no fear. diminish in my reign the wing of a gnat; and if all my servants were assembled on one plain, and every man of you supplicated a thing to the utmost of his wishes, I would give him whatever he asked; this giving would not decrease any thing in my reign, but as much as the water of a river would be diminished, if one of you passed through that river and dipped a needle into it, after that took it up, with the quantity of water that would be upon it. Verily I am a giver, and a great giver; I do whatever I wish; my giving is a word, and my punishment a word; my order is not for a thing when I wish it, otherwise than my saying be, and it is." ANAS relates, that his highness repeated this revelation: "GOD is endowed with continence, and possessed of pardon." Then the Prophet explained the meaning of this revelation: "your cherisher said, I am worthy of those that abstain from my punishment: then he who fears me, and abstains from my punishment, it is fit for me to pardon him." IBN-OMER said, 'verily we counted the Prophet's saying in an assembly, "O LORD! pardon us and accept our repentance; verily thou art the approver of repentance, and pardoner," a hundred times.' BILL'AL-BIN-YES'AR relates from his forefathers, I heard the Prophet say, 'he who says, "I wish for GOD's forgiveness, that GOD besides whom there is no other GOD; he is alive, and the lives of others are from him," GOD shall pardon his faults, although he may have run away from fighting with infidels.'

Part Third.

ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. Verily, GOD most certainly exalts the degree of a virtuous servant in paradise; and the virtuous servant says, "O my patron! from whence is this exalted degree for me?" GOD says, "it is on account of your children asking pardon for you." ABDULLAH-

BIN-ABBAS. 'A. G. S. "There is no dead in the grave, but is like a person over his head in water, and calls to somebody to take him by the hand; has hope that his father or mother will pray for him, or his brother or friend; then when the prayer reaches the dead, it is more loved by him than the world, and any thing in it; and verily GOD most certainly gives to the dead (on account of the prayers of the people of the earth) rewards like mountains; and verily the presents of the living to the dead, is asking forgiveness for them." ABDULLAH-BIN-BUSR. 'A. G. S. "Joy be to him, who has asked much pardon in the day and night." AAYESHAH relates, that his highness used to repeat this supplication: "O LORD! make me of those who are glad, when they do good, and when they do wrong, ask forgiveness."

GOD bestows blessings on the dead, on account of the prayers of the living.

HARITH-BIN-SUWAID* said, 'ABDULLAH-IBN-MASU'UD, related two traditions to me; one of them from the Prophet himself, and the other from himself; which is this: 'verily a Mómin sees his own faults, whether great or small like mountains, and sees himself, as if he were sitting under a hill, he fears its falling upon him: and verily, a wicked man sees his wickedness, like a fly that has passed over his nose, and he has driven it away." After that IBN MASU'UD said, 'I heard the Prophet of GOD say, "verily GOD is gladder at the repentance of his servant, a Mómin, than a man in a desart (which is a place of destruction) who had a riding camel with him, and on it his water and food, and the man lay down to sleep, and awoke when his camel had run away; and he sought him until oppressed with heat and thirst, and said, "I will return to the place in which I was, and go to sleep till I die:" then he laid his head upon his arm to die, and awoke, and unexpectedly saw his camel ready near him, with victuals and drink. Then GOD is happier than this man at finding his camel with his food and water." ALI-IBN-

I would not value having the whole wealth of the world in the place of this revelation: "Say, O MUH'AMMED! O my servants! those who have oppressed their own souls shall not be hopeless of the mercy of GOD." A man said, "what is the condition of him who has associated any thing with GOD?" The Prophet remained silent; after that he said, "know that GOD forgives him also; but on repentance." This he repeated thrice. AB'UD'HAR GHAFFA'RÌ. 'A. G. S. CHAP. IV.---PART I.

ON THE ABUNDANCE OF GOD'S MERCY.

ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. When God created the creation, he wrote a book, which is near him upon the imperial throne; and what is written in it is this: "verily my compassion overcomes my anger." Ab'uhurairah. 'A. G. S. "Verily for God are one hundred mercies; one of which he has sent down amongst man and the Genii, amongst quadrupeds and every moving thing upon the face of the earth: then by it they are kind to each other, and forgive one another; and by it the animals of the wilds are kind to their young; and God has reserved ninety-nine favors, by which he will be gracious to his servants, on the day of resurrection." Ab'uhurairah. 'A. G. S. "If a Mómin knew any thing of God's punishments, he would not hope for paradise: and if an infidel knew any thing of God's compassion, he would not be hopeless of his paradise, not one of them; that is, if true believers could imagine God's resentment, not one of them could hope for paradise, and if infidels look on his mercies they may not be hopeless of paradise." Ibn Masu'ud. 'A. G. S. "Paradise is nearer to one of you than the thongs of your shoes; and hell is like it: that is, he who has done a good act, paradise is near to him, and he who has done a bad thing, hell is near unto him." ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "A man said (who had never done a good act) to his family, (and in one tradition it is this, that a man injured himself, and sinned beyond bounds; and when dying said to his sons,) "when I am dead, burn me, and throw one half of my ashes into the river, and the other into the desert;" and said, "I swear by GOD, if he orders me to be punished, verily I shall be punished in a way in which no one of the creation ever was, or will be." Then, when the man died, his family or sons did as he ordered them: and GOD ordered the river, which collected every part of his ashes; and he ordered the desart, which collected every part of his ashes in it. After that, GOD said to the man, after giving him life; "what did you make this bequest for?" He said, "for fear of your punishment, O GOD! and you knew best my condition, which was full of sins." Then GOD pardoned him.' OMER IBN-AL-KHATTAB said, 'some captives were brought before the Prophet; and lo! one of the women's breasts were full of milk, in such a manner that they run in streams, when she was running about looking for her child: and when she found a child amongst the captives, she took it, with the lovingness of her own child, and pressed it to her breast, and gave it milk. Then the Prophet said, "do you suppose that this woman will cast her own child into the fire?" We said, "no." His highness said, "verily GOD is more compassionate on his servants, than this woman on her own child." ABUHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "The actions of no one of you ever redeem you, but redemption is on the compassion of GOD." The companions said (in the way of a question) "do you also, O Prophet! not get redemption from your own actions?" He said, "I also, unless that GOD covers me with his compassion; therefore let your actions be upright, and observe a medium, and act morning and evening, and something in the night, so that you may reach your desires."

GOD pardons a great sinner, after collecting his ashes from all the quarters into which they were scattered.

No man enters paradise by his own merits, but by the mercy of GOD.

JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. "The actions of no one of you bring you into paradise, nor free you from hell fire; neither do I enter into paradise, nor become free from hell, but by the compassion of GOD." AB'U-SA'ID-KHUDHRÌ. 'A. G. S. "When a man is brought to Islàm, and he performs it well, GOD covers all his former faults; after which he gets ten rewards for every good act, to seven hundred, and also more than that; whereas the reward of misdeeds is as one to one; unless GOD passes that over likewise." IBN ÂBB'AS. 'A. G. S. "Verily, GOD wrote the good acts and the bad ones; therefore, he who intends the good, and does not practice them, GOD writes them as perfect good; and, if he intends good, and puts it into practice, GOD writes for him, near himself, ten good acts to seven hundred, and also more than that; and he who intends evil, and has not done it, GOD writes perfect good for; but if he has intended bad, and done it, GOD writes one evil act for each."

ÚKBAH-BIN-ÂÁMIR. 'A. G. S. "Verily the condition of that person who does evil, and after that good deeds, is like the condition of a man with tight armour, which has vexed him; after that, has done a good deed, then the rings of the armour become open: after that, has done another good act, so that the armour falls from his body." AB'U-DARD'AA said, 'I heard the Prophet giving advice on the pulpit, and he said, "for him who fears GOD are two paradises." I said, in the way of question, "although he commits adultery and steals, O Prophet of GOD?" He said the same a second time; and I said a second time, "although he commits adultery and steals?" He repeated the same a third time, and I said a third time, "although he commits adultery and steals?" The Prophet said, "yes, although you think it bad."* Aamir-al-Ra'm said, "while I was sitting near the Prophet, a man came before him with a carpet upon him, and a thing in his hand covered with the carpet; and he said, "O Prophet! I passed through a forest of trees, and heard the voices of the young of birds; and I took them, and put them into my carpet; and their mother came flying around my head, and I uncoverered the young, and the mother fell down upon them, then I wrapped them up in my carpet; and there are the young which I have." Then the Prophet said, "put them down," which I did, when their mother joined them: and the Prophet said, "do you wonder at the affection of the mother for her young? I swear by him who has sent me on truth, verily God is more affectionate to his servants, than the mother of these young to them. Return them into the place from whence you took them, and let their mother be with them." The man returned them.

God has greater love for his servants than a bird for her young.

Abdullah-ibn-Omer said, "we were with the Prophet, in some of his wars with the infidels, and he passed by a crowd, and said, "who are they?" They said, "we are Muslemàns." And a woman was lighting a fire under her pot; and she had a son with her, and when the fire burnt up, and got hot, she put her son away from it, that he might not be hurt by it. Then the woman came to the Prophet, and asked, "are you the Prophet of God?" He said, "yes, I am." And the woman said, ("may my father and mother be sacrificed for you!) is not God the most affectionate of the affectionate?" He said, "yes." The woman said, " is not God more affectionate to his servants than a mother to her child?" He said, " yes." The woman said, " a mother does not throw her child into the fire; then how can God throw his servants into fire?" Then the Prophet held down his head in tears; after that he raised it up towards the woman, and said, " verily God punishes those that refuse to confess his unity." THAWB'AN relates, from the Prophet, " verily a servant wishes for the satisfaction of God; then, on that account, God always says to GABRIEL, " verily such a servant of mine wishes to please me; know verily my compassion is upon him." And GABRIEL says, " God's compassion is upon such a servant;" and the bearers of the imperial throne say, " God's compassion is upon him," and all the angels that are around it, until all the people of the seven regions repeat the same. After that, compassion is brought down to the earth for him." USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID, relates from the Prophet, in the word of God, " after that I gave a book of laws, to those that were selected from my servants; then some of these servants injure their own souls, and some of them observe a medium in their actions, and some of them are swift in goodness." The Prophet said, " all of them are in paradise, agreeable to their difference in eminence and degree."

CHAP. V.---PART I.

ON WHAT SHOULD BE SAID, IN THE MORNING, EVENING, AND TIME OF SLEEP.

The Prophet's form of evening,

ABDULLAH-BIN-MASÛÛD said, 'the Prophet used, in the evening, to say, "we have reached the night, and so have all other inhabitants of God's empire: praised be God; and there is no other God but God; one; to whom there is no partner; for him is dominion and praise, and he is powerful over all things: O Lord! I supplicate thee for the good of this night; and for every good that is in it; and I seek protection with thee, from the evils of this night, and from every evil that may be in it; O Lord! verily, I seek protection with thee from sickness, from age and pride; and from the contentions and calamities of the world, and from the punishments of the grave." And when the Prophet reached the morning, he would repeat the same; but in place of "we have reached the night," he said, "we have reached the morning." HUDHAIFAH said, 'when the Prophet went to his bed-chamber, at night, he would put his right hand under his cheek, and then would say, "O Lord! in thy name do I sleep and wake:" and when he awoke, he would say

" thanksgiving to GOD, who has awoke me after sleep, and towards him is the resurrection." AB'UHURAIRAH. ' A. G. S. " When any one of you goes to his bed to sleep, he must first dust it with the end of his garment; because he does not know what may have fallen upon it, in his absence; after that, let him say this prayer: " In thy name, O my patron! I have laid down my side; and in thy name, I raise it up: if thou take my soul, have mercy upon it, and if thou send it back, then guard it, even as thou guardest thy virtuous servants."*

BAR'AA-IBN-AA'ZIB said, ' the Prophet used, when he went to his bed, to sleep upon his right side; after that would say, " O LORD! I resigned my soul to thee, and turned to thee, and resigned my work to thee, and relied on thee, and sought protection in thee, on account of shewing my wish towards thee, and of fearing thee: there is no asylum or redemption from thy resentment but in thee: I believed in thy book, which thou didst send down, and Prophets which thou didst send; I mean, I believe in all the books and all the Prophets." And the Prophet said, " whoever repeats these words, and dies in the night in which he has repeated them, dies on the way of religion." (And in one tradition it is thus, that the Prophet said to a man, " O man! when you wish to go to sleep, then do your Wa'dù, the same as for prayers; after that, lie down upon your right side; and then repeat these words: and if you die in this night, you die on the way of Islàm, and if you rise in the morning, you will get much good.") ANAS said, ' verily the Prophet would say, when he came to his bed; " praise be to GOD, who has given us to eat, and to drink, and is sufficient for us; then there are a great many men who have no sponsors."

The Prophet, on going to rest, used to make profession of his faith.

* When man goes to sleep, he is like one who is dead: for the true GOD takes his soul, and either keeps it, and causes him to die, or sends it back, and causes him to live; therefore he prays, if thou hast guarded my soul and made me to die, forgive me; and if thou hast sent it back, and kept me alive, protect me, as thou guardest thy virtuous servants. Â'LÌ IBN AB'U'TA'LIB relates, that FA'TIMAH ZAHR'A came to the Prophet's house, complaining of a pain she felt in her hand, from turning round a grinding stone: and it reached her that some prisoners had come to the Prophet from the wars; and FA'TIMAH did not find the Prophet at home, and she mentioned her case to Â'A'YESHAH, saying, "tell it to his highness when he comes." Then, when the Prophet came home, Â'A'YESHAH informed him thereof: and when he heard it, Â'LÌ says, he came to us, when we had gone to our bed-chamber. Then we attempted to stand up, out of respect to his highness; and he said, "stay in your places." Then he sat himself down, between me and FA'TIMAH, so that I felt the coolness of his highness' foot upon my belly. Then the Prophet said, 'shall I not shew you a better road than that which you asked? When you go to your place of sleep, then say "immaculate GOD!" thirty-three times; and "all praise be to GOD," thirty-three times; and "great GOD," thirty-four times; then these words are better for you than the servant which you wished for.'

FA'TIMAH requests a slave of the Prophet,

Part Second.

ABÙHURAIRAH said, 'when the Prophet rose in the morning, he would say, "O LORD! in thy name I have reached the morning; and in thy name have reached the evening, and in thy name do I live, and in thy name will I die; and to thee is return." And when he reached the evening, he would say, "O LORD! in thy name have I reached the evening, and in thy name have I reached the morning, and to thee is the rising from the dead." AB'UHURAIRAH said, that AB'U-BAGR said, I said, "O messenger of GOD! order me a prayer to say morning and evening." He said, say, "O GOD! the knower of the hidden and the open, the present and the absent, the creator of the regions and the earths, and the cherisher of every thing; the master and king of all; I give evidence that there is no GOD but thee; I seek protection with thee from the badness of myself, and from the badness of the devil." Say this, morning and evening, and at bed time.'

By adoration of GOD, morning & evening, a man is preserved from misfortune, during the ensuing day or night.

ÁB'AN* said, that he heard his father say, that the Prophet said, 'whoever shall, in the morning of every day, and in the evening of every day, say these words three times, "I have reached the morning and the evening, in the name of GOD, by which no detriment can happen in the regions or the earth; he is the hearer and the knower;" no loss or calamity will happen to him.' And ÁB'AN was seized with a paralytic stroke; and a man looked at him and said, "you related that whoever repeated these words every day would meet with no misfortune; and you repeated them; notwithstanding which this paralytic misfortune befel you." Then ÁB'AN said to the man, "what do you say? take heed; verily the tradition is as I related it to you; but I have not repeated it today; so that GOD's predestination should pass upon me." And in one tradition it is thus; "whoever says this thrice every evening, no sudden calamity will befal, until he reaches the morning; and whoever says them in the morning, no sudden calamity will reach unto the evening."

Forms of adoration used by the Prophet, at night,

ÁBDULLAH-IBN-MASU'UD said, 'verily the Prophet used to say at night, "we and all GOD's kingdom have reached the night; all praise is for GOD; there is no GOD besides GOD; he is one; there is no partner for him; for him is dominion and praise; and he is powerful over all things. (And in one tradition it is thus: "O LORD! defend me from the wickedness of arrogance, and from the punishments of the fire and the grave.") And in the morning, he would say, "we have reached the morning," and the aforementioned words. There is a tradition, from some of the Prophet's daughters, that verily the Prophet used to teach us, and tell us to say in the morning, "Subhàn allah wa bih'amdihi; La-h'awlo wa la Kuwwato illa B'illáhì; what GOD willed was, and what he willed not, was not; I know that GOD has power over all things; verily his wisdom encompasseth all things." To confess, in the morning, GOD's unity & supreme power, has the merit of ten virtuous actions; and blots out the guilt of ten crimes.

Whoever says, in the morning, "there is no GOD but GOD; one; to whom there is no partner; for him is dominion and praise; and he is powerful over all things;" rewards shall be for him, equal to those for emancipating a slave of the children of ISRAEL; and ten good acts shall be written for him, and ten misdeeds deducted from him; and he shall gain ten steps, and shall be protected from the wickedness of the devil, until night: and whoever shall repeat these words at night, shall get the aforementioned rewards until he rises in the morning." AB'U-AYA'SH says, that a man saw the Prophet in his sleep, and said, "O messenger of GOD! verily AB'U-AYA'SH relates from you so and so." The Prophet said, "he spoke true." HA'RITH-BIN-MUSLIM-TAMÍMÌ† relates, from his father, and he from the Prophet, that his highness told me a secret; and then said, "when you have finished sun-set prayers, and given the Salàm, then say (before speaking a word to any one) seven times, "O GOD! defend me from hell fire." night, redemption from the fire shall be written for you; and when you have finished morning prayer, say these words seven times; and verily when you repeat them, and die in this day, redemption from the fire shall be written for you.' IBN-ÓMER said, 'the Prophet did not abandon these words morning and evening, "O GOD! I beg from thee safety from all calamities, in the world and futurity; O GOD! I pray to thee for safety in religion, and for my family and property; O GOD! conceal my vices and guard me from fear; O GOD! preserve me from before and behind, on my right side and my left; and guard me from above, that is, from calamities and punishments from all sides; and I seek protection in thy greatness, from perishing under myself; i. e. from sinking into the earth." HUD'HAIFAH said, 'his highness used, when wishing to go to sleep, to put his hands under his head; and then say, "O GOD! defend me from thy punishments, in the day on which thou wilt assemble thy servants; I mean the day of rising from the dead." The companions said, "when repeating these words have so many rewards, why should we not say them?" The Prophet said, "the devil comes to one of you when at prayers, and says to him, "remember so and so," I mean the devil casts evil thoughts into the mind, till you have finished your prayers; and peradventure he forgets to repeat those words: and the devil comes to one of you in your bed-chamber, and is always making you sleep, and you have no opportunity to repeat these words." say, " I take protection with GOD from the cast out devil," because the ass has seen the devil.'

IBN-ÔMER said, 'verily the Prophet used (when mounted upon his camel to take a journey) to say, " Allah-Acber," thrice; after that he would say, " that GOD is pure who has made this camel obedient to me; for I had not the power myself of bringing him under my obedience; and verily I am a returner to my patron; O LORD! I ask thee in this journey for goodness and continence, and for actions by which you shall be pleased. O LORD! make this journey easy to me, and shorten for me the distance of this journey; O LORD! thou art a friend and companion in journey, and guardian of our families in our absence; O LORD! I seek protection with thee from the troubles of travelling; O LORD! I seek protection with thee from a sight which may be followed with melancholy and grief; and O LORD! defend me from meeting with, on my return, any thing injurious to my family and property." And when the Prophet returned from a journey, he would say these words; and add this to them, " we are returners, we are repenters, we are worshippers, we are praisers of GOD." ABDULLAH-BIN-SARJIS said, 'the Prophet used, when he travelled, to seek protection from the trouble of the journey, and badness of return, and from scarcity after abundance; and would seek protection from the supplications of the oppressed, and from seeing any thing bad in his family and property.' KHAWLAH-BINT HACÌM* said, 'I heard the messenger of GOD say, he who alights at his journey's end, and says, " I seek protection in the words of GOD, which are perfect, and complete; from the badness of the thing which GOD has created;" nothing hurtful will happen to him, till he marches from that place.' His highness said, 'beware, if you had repeated this supplication in the evening; "I seek protection in the words of GOD, which are perfect and complete, from the injury of things which GOD has created," the scorpion would not have bit you.' AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'when his highness was travelling, and it was day-break, he would say, "let the hearers hear our speaking the praise of GOD, and on the goodness of his benefits to us, so that they may follow us in speaking praise; O LORD! be our companion, and do us good; I say this whilst I am a seeker of protection with GOD from the fire." IBN-ÔMER said, 'the Prophet used (when returned from war pilgrimage, and Úmrah) to say thrice, upon every rising ground, alláho-acber; after that he would, say, Lá-iláha-ill'-Alláho, one; there is no partner with him, for him is dominion and praise, and he is powerful over all things: we are returners, we are repenters, we are adorers, we are worshippers, we are speakers of praise for GOD; GOD has verified his promise, in support of religion, and has assisted his servant, and has broken multitudes of infidels alone, although ten to one, they were defeated." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ABÌ-AWFÌ said, 'the Prophet supplicated for evil on the polytheists, on the day of the battle of *Ah'zàb; and said, "O GOD! the sender of the book, and the quick taker of accounts with thy servants: O LORD! give defeat to these bodies of infidels: O LORD! break them, and make their legs to tremble." ÂBDULLAH-BIN-BUSR said, 'the Prophet alighted near my father, and we approached him with victuals, and a bag of milk, and he ate: after that, dry dates were brought, and he ate of them; and he threw away the kernels, by putting them first upon his fore and middle fingers; after that drinking water was brought, and he drank of it; and my father said to his highness, (and took hold of the bridle of his beast) "supplicate GOD for us." Part Second.

The Prophet's form of prayer at sight of the new moon.

TALHAH-BIN-UBAIDULLAH said, 'verily the Prophet used (when he saw the new moon) to say, "O LORD! make the new moon rise upon us, safe from calamities; and firm in faith, and pure in heart, and secure in Islàm. O new moon! our lord, and your lord, is GOD."

At sight of misfortunes, a man should give thanks to GOD, that he is exempt from them.

OMER-IBN-AL-KH'AT'T'AB and AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. There is no man who has seen a person entangled in misfortune, and said, "thanks be to GOD, who has given me safety from that by which he has entangled thee, and has given me more than many whom he has created," but will be safe from that misfortune, let it be what it will.' OMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB. 'A. G. S. He who goes into a bazar, and says, "there is no GOD but the one GOD, he hath no partner; his is the kingdom, to him be the praise; he bringeth to life and causeth to die; and he is the living one, who dieth not; in his hand is every thing good; and his power extendeth over all;"* GOD will write for him a million of good acts, and will blot out a million of faults, and exalt him a million steps, and will build a house for him in paradise." MU'AD'H-BIN-JABAL said, 'the Prophet heard a man supplicating, and saying, "O LORD! I ask thee for perfect benefits;" and the Prophet said, and asked the man, "what thing is the perfect benefit which you ask for?" He said, "this is a supplication by which I hope for good; and I know wholly that with GOD are perfect benefits, I ask for them." Then his highness said, "of the most perfect of benefits is entering into paradise, and getting redemption from hell fire." And the Prophet heard a man say, "O master of greatness! O master of generosity!" And the Prophet said, "verily thy supplication is accepted; then ask for any thing you wish." And the Prophet heard another man saying, "O LORD! verily I ask thee for patience:" and the Prophet said, "the patience which you ask of GOD is like asking for calamity; because patience is for calamity; then ask health of GOD; that he may guard you from all calamities and mishaps." AB'UHURAIRAH. 'A. G. S. "Whoever sits in an assembly, and there talks much idly, and says, before standing up, "O GOD! thou art immaculate, and I praise thee, and give evidence that there is no GOD besides thee, I ask thee for pardon, and I repent to thee," he will be forgiven his faults, which have happened therein." ÂLÌ-IBN-AB'UT'A'LIB said, 'a horse was brought for me to ride upon, and I put my foot in the stirrup, and said, "in the name of GOD!" and when I sat upon his back, I said, "all praise to GOD!" After that I said, "thou art pure, O GOD! who hast made this horse obedient to me; for I had not the power of bringing him under my obedience; and verily, I am a returner towards my patron." Then I said, "all praise to GOD!" thrice; "great GOD!" thrice; and I said, I remember thee, O GOD! with purity; verily I have injured myself from neglect in adoration; then forgive me, because no one pardons faults but thee." After that I laughed, and it was said, "what has made you laugh?" I said, "I saw the Prophet do as I have done;" after which his highness laughed; and I said, "what did you laugh at, O messenger of GOD?" He said, 'on this account, that thy cherisher, verily is pleased and satisfied with his servant, when he says, "O LORD! pardon my faults:" GOD says, "the servant knows that no person forgives faults but me." ABDULLAH-BIN-YEZID-KHATMI* said, 'the Prophet used (when about to bid farewell to any army) to say, "I commit to the care of GOD your religion, your faith, and last actions." ANAS said, 'a man came to the Prophet, and said, "O messenger of GOD! verily I intend to take a journey; then give me a wallet: I mean, supplicate for me." Then the Prophet said, "may GOD make thee a wallet of abstinence; because it is a wallet for the last road." The man said, "supplicate more for me." He said, "GOD forgive your faults." The man said, ("may my father and mother be sacrificed for you, O Prophet of GOD!) supplicate more for me." The Prophet said, "may GOD grant thee attainment of good, wherever thou art."

ABU'HURAIRAH relates, that a man said, "O messenger of GOD! verily I wish to make a journey, then advise me." The Prophet said, 'be always abstinent, and always say, "allâho acber," when you get upon a high spot;' and when the man turned his back, the Prophet prayed for him, "O LORD! make the distance of his journey short, and make his journey easy to him." IBN-OMER said, 'when the Prophet travelled, he would say at night, "O earth! my LORD, and thy LORD, is GOD; I seek protection with GOD from thy harms; that is, from sinking into thee, and being bewildered in desarts; and I seek for protection from things that are fixed in thee, such as the Genii, and all animals; and I seek protection with GOD from tygers, black snakes, and every kind of snake and scorpion; and from the hurts of the inhabitants of towns; and from the devil and his race." Abu-Musa said, 'verily, when the Prophet frightened a body of people, he would say, "O Lord! I throw your fear into their breasts, and take protection with you from their injuries." Omm-Salmah said, 'verily the Prophet used, when he came out of his house, to say, "in the name of God! I put my whole trust in him; O Lord! I take protection with thee from slipping, and straying, or oppressing any one; or any one oppressing me, or from acting an ignorant part with any person; or that any one should do so with me." Anas. 'A. G. S. "When a man comes out of his house, let him say, "in the name of God! and I put my whole trust in God; there is no power or strength but in God." At this time it shall be said for the man, "you have been shewn the straight road, and there is enough for you in all your undertakings; and you are guarded from all mishaps." Then the devil removes far from him; and another devil says to the one put away, "how will you overcome a man that has found the right road?"

The Prophet's prayer on coming out of his house.

Abu Malic Asharì. 'A. G. S. When a man comes into his house, let him say, "O God! Abuhurairah said, 'the Prophet used, when a man married, to supplicate, and say, "God bless thee in increase; and God bless both in increase; and God give concord between ye." Omer-bin-Shuwaib relates from his ancestors, that the Prophet said, 'when any one of you marries, or buys a slave boy or girl, he must say, "O Lord! The supplications of a person in sorrow are these, "O LORD! I hope for thy compassion; then do not leave me without it the twinkling of an eye, and make my condition good; there is no GOD but thee." AB'U-SA'ID KHU'DHRI said, 'a man said, "O messenger of GOD! debts and sorrows have pressed me." His highness said, "shall not I then teach you a saying, which when you say, GOD will take away your sorrow, and discharge your debts; I mean will cause your debts to be discharged?" The man said, 'teach me the words.' The Prophet said, 'say, morning and evening, "O LORD! defend me from melancholy and sorrow; and from incapability and laziness, and from stinginess and cowardice, and from being overcome with debt, and from being overcome by men, on account of debt." The man said, 'then I did what the Prophet ordered me; and GOD took away my sorrow, and discharged my debt. ALI-IBN-AB'U'TALIB said, 'a *Mucátab came to me, and said, "verily I am unable to discharge the sum which I agreed for, then assist me; that is, give me something to give in exchange for my bond." I said, 'shall I not teach you some words which the Prophet taught me, which if you had a mountain of debt upon you, GOD would discharge it for you? Part Third.

The Prophet's ejaculation, on taking his place in an assembly, or standing up to pray.

AÁYESHAH said, 'the Prophet used, when he sat in an assembly, or performed prayers, to speak a few words; and I asked his highness about the words: he said, they are these, "I remember thee, O GOD! with purity, and praise thee; there is no GOD but thee; I ask pardon of thee, and repent to thee;" and if words are uttered, for which are rewards, there will be a seal for them unto the day of resurrection; and if bad words are uttered, those words will be a cause of covering them." KUTA'DAH. 'It reached me, that the Prophet used to say (when he saw the new moon) thrice, "good new moon, shower of the right road:" and he would say thrice, "I believe in him who created thee;" and then would say, "thanks be to GOD, who ended such a moon, and brought such a one." He said, 'yes there is a thing for you to say, "O LORD! cover our vices and guard us from fear." Then GOD struck the faces of his enemies with a wind, which he sent, and broke their army with it.' BURAIDAH said, 'his highness used to say, when he came into a bazar, "I am come in, in the name of GOD; O LORD! ABUHURAIRAH. A. C. S. "Seek protection with GOD, from the distresses of calamity, and from difficulties and hardships, and from a bad fate, and from the gladness of the enemies of religion in this world." ANAS said, 'the Prophet used to say, "O LORD! verily I seek protection with thee, from sorrow, from incapacity and laziness, from cowardice and greediness, and from a heavy load of debt; and from being overcome by debtors." AA'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet used to say, "O LORD! verily I seek protection with thee from laziness, decrepitude and debt; and from any thing by which I should err. O LORD! I seek protection with thee from the punishment of the fire, and from that thing which is a cause of it: O LORD! I seek protection with thee from the punishment of the grave, and from the thing causing it; and from the evils and contentions of riches; and harms of poverty; and from the wickedness of DAJJ'AL: O LORD! wash my sins with ice-water, and hail-water; and purify my heart, as is a white cloth, from dirt; and make the distance between me and faults far, as the east from the west." ness, from cowardice and greediness, and age, and the punishment of the grave: O LORD! give my soul continence and abstinence; and purify it; thou art the best purifier; thou art master of possession, and LORD of aid. O LORD! I seek protection with thee from useless knowledge, and a heart that fears not, and from an insatiable soul, and from a disapproved supplication."

ABDULLAH-IBN-OMER said, 'this was one of the number of the Prophet's supplications: "O LORD! I seek protection with thee, from the decline of the property which thou hast given me; and from the loss of the health which I have, and from the suddenness of thy reprimands, and from all thy displeasures." IN EXPLANATION OF SUPPLICATIONS FOR ALL DESIRES AND WISHES.

ABÙ-MÚSÀ-AL-ASHÀRÌ, relates, that the Prophet supplicated by this supplication: "O LORD! pardon my faults, and the works which I may have done through ignorance; and forgive my lavishing away; and pardon my sins, which thou knowest better than me; O LORD! pardon me my inconsiderate speaking, and blundering; and forgive my wicked labours and intentions, and all these are my characteristicks: O LORD! pardon me the faults which I have done before, and shall do after, and those which I have discovered and concealed; and those which thou knowest better than me, thou art the first and the last, and powerful over every thing." ABU'HURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet would say, "O LORD! make my religion prosper, because it is a preventer of faults and punishments; and make the things of the world good for me, in which is my being; and make my latter end good, in which is my return, and make life a means of increase for me in every good, and make life a cause of deliverance for me from every evil." ' the Prophet stood upon the pulpit, and then cried and said, " ask GOD remission of your sins, and safety from calamity; because, no one has been given (after faith in GOD, and his messenger) a better benefit than health." ANAS relates that ' a man came to the Prophet and said, " O Prophet! what supplication is most advantageous?" He said, " ask GOD safety from calamities, and to keep thee in safety from the vexation of man, and to give to man safety from thy disturbances; to give thee safety in the world and futurity." After that, the man came to his highness, the second day, and said, " O messenger of GOD! what is the best supplication?" He gave him the same answer as on the first day. After that, the man came on the third day, and asked the same question; and received the like answer; and his highness said, " when you are given safety in the world and futurity, verily you have found redemption." ABDULLAH-BIN-YEZID KHA'TMI relates, that ' his highness said, in his supplications, " O LORD! give me thy friendship, and the friendship of him that may be useful to me towards thee. O LORD! the thing which thou hast drawn from me which I loved, make it not a preventative of the thing which you like."

The Prophet instructs a man regarding the petitions most proper to be put up to GOD.

IBN-OMER said, ' it was seldom that his highness stood up in an assembly, till he supplicated for his friends, in this supplication, " O LORD! apportion to us of thy fear, that which will be a partition between us and our sins. O LORD! give us, of thy obedience, that which will bring us to thy paradise; and give us of the truth, by which the misfortunes of the world shall be easy on us, and make us fortunate in our hearing and sight, our strength and capability, so long as thou keepest us alive; and constitute an heir of our race, and make us powerful to punish tyrants, and give us victory over those that abuse us, and make no misfortunes in our religion; and make not the world the greatest of our griefs; and do not make the world the end of our knowledge; and let not rulers be over us, that would have no mercy upon us." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet used to say, "O LORD! benefit me by that which thou hast taught me; and teach me what will benefit me, and increase my knowledge: thanks to GOD in every state: I seek protection with GOD, from the condition of the people of hell." OMER-IBN-AL-KHA'T'T'AB said, 'when instructions from above were sent down to the Prophet, a noise was heard from the side of his face, like the noise of bees; then instructions were sent down one day, and we stayed a Sáát; and the noise was removed; and his highness turned himself to the Kiblah and raised up both his hands, and said, "O LORD! increase our worldly and future benefits, and do not diminish them; and keep us high, not mean; and give us good of the world and futurity; and do not disappoint us; and give us strength to discharge religion, and allow not our enemies to overcome us; and make us satisfied with thee; that is, give us such that we may be satisfied with, and be pleased with us, that we may do such works as may be the cause of your pleasure." After that, his highness said, "ten revelations have been sent down to me; and whoever acts by them shall enter into paradise." After that the Prophet repeated the chapter commencing "Now are the true believers happy,"* till he completed ten verses of this chapter.'

A noise was heard when revelations descended to the Prophet.

OTHMÀN-BIN-HUNAIF,† said, 'verily a blind man came to the Prophet, and said, "pray GOD to cure me of blindness." His highness said, "if you wish it, I will supplicate; and, if you chuse, have patience; therefore your patience in your blindness is better for you, on account of future rewards; because its reward is paradise." The man said, "I wish for cure; then supplicate GOD." Then his highness ordered the man to perform Wadú properly, and to supplicate by this: "O LORD! verily I supplicate, and turn my face towards thee, by the means of thy Prophet, whose name is MUHAMMED, and thou didst send him for compassion to mankind: verily I have turned my face towards thee, on thy account, that he may order in my necessities; O LORD! then accept his supplication in my favor."

A form of prayer used by DAVID.

ABU-DARDAA. A. G. S. This was of the number of DAVID the Prophet's supplications: "O LORD! I wish for thy friendship, and for that of him whom thou considerest as a friend, and I wish for a deed to cause me to reach thy friendship. O LORD! make thy friendship more friendly to me than the friendship for myself, my property, and family, and than cold water to the thirsty." And ABU-DARDAA said, 'the Prophet used, when he mentioned DAVID, and when relating from him, to say, "DAVID was the greatest adorer of his time." ÂTAA-BIN-SAYIB relates, from his father, who said, 'I performed prayers with ÂMMAR-BIN-YASIR, and he was concise in supplicating; and some of those present said to ÂMMAR, "verily you have performed prayers quick, and abbreviated." He said, "this abbreviation and conciseness is not a means of loss to me; verily I supplicated, in these prayers, by supplications which I heard from the Prophet." Then, when ÂMMAR got up, my father followed him and asked him about the supplications; after that my father came, and informed people of it; it is this, "O LORD! I supplicate thee, by thy mysterious knowledge and thy power in creation, keep me alive as long as thou knowest it best for me; and give me death when thou judgest it best for me. O LORD! I supplicate thee for thy fear, externally and internally; and I supplicate thee for truth in pleasure and anger; and for a medium in riches and poverty, and for eternal benefit; and for a family which shall not be extinct, to the day of resurrection; and I supplicate thee for satisfaction with fate, and for rest after dying, and the delight of beholding thy face, and for desire to meet thee without its being detrimental to me: keep me alive without calamity: O LORD! adorn me with the ornament of Imàn; and make me a shower of the right road to others." OMM-SALMAH. 'Verily the Prophet would say, after morning prayer, "O LORD! I supplicate thee for profitable knowledge, and approved actions, and pure sustenance." ABUHURAIRAH said, 'I remember a supplication of his highness, which I shall not abandon, "O LORD! make me to be verily grateful for thy benefits, and to repeat thy name often, and follow thy advice, and guard thy admonition." ABDULLAH-BIN-AMER said, 'the Prophet would say, "O LORD! verily I supplicate thee for health of body, and for refraining from all things forbidden; and for integrity in the properties of man; and for good humour, and satisfaction with fate."

The Prophet instructs a sick man how to pray.

ANAS relates, that the Prophet visited a sick Muslemàn, who really was so very weak that his voice could not be heard; and the Prophet said to him, "did you supplicate any thing?" He said, 'yes, I repeated this, "O LORD! hasten in this world thy punishment which was prepared for me in futurity." The Prophet said, 'it is astonishing; you are not able to bear GOD's punishment; why did you not make this supplication? "O LORD! give me good in the world and in futurity, and defend me from the punishment of the fire." Then the man prayed to GOD in these words, and GOD gave him health.' HUDHAIFAH. 'A. G. S. "It is not worthy of a Muslemàn to make himself despicable." The compasions said, "how can Muslemàns make themselves despicable?" He said, "in this manner, coming before a calamity which he has not power to ward off." OMER-IBN-AL-KHATTAB said, 'his highness taught me, and said, say "O LORD! make my internal better than my external, and my external good; O LORD! I supplicate thee for this, that whatever you give to man, of family, property, and children, may be good; and that they stray not, nor lead others astray."

ON THE RITES OF PILGRIMAGE.

ABUHURAIRAH said, 'the Prophet advised us, and said, "O men! verily pilgrimage is a divine institution; then perform it." A man said, "shall we perform pilgrimage every year?" His highness was silent, until the man repeated his question thrice. Then his highness said, "if I had said yes, verily it would be divine every year, and verily you would not be able to do it." After that he said, "do not ask me why and wherefore a thing is, whose explanation I let alone; for those people that were before, were not destroyed but on account of their importunity, and on account of their opposing their own Prophet; then when I order you in any thing, do what you can, and when I forbid you a thing, quit it totally." They said, " we are Muslemàns." And they said, " who are you?" He said, " I am the Prophet of GOD." Then a woman brought a boy to the Prophet, and said, " is there reward for this boy, if he makes a pilgrimage?" He said, " yes, for him and for you who carry him." IBN-ABB'AS said, ' verily a woman of the tribe of Khathám said, " O messenger of GOD! is pilgrimage a divine institute on my father, who is weak and old; to such a degree that he cannot keep upon the camel? then shall I make a pilgrimage on his part?" He said, " yes, do it on his account." IBN-ABB'AS said, ' a man came to his highness and said, " verily my sister had made a vow to make a pilgrimage, and verily she died." His highness said, "go and make a pilgrimage with your wife; because the companions are many; and there is no person with your wife but you." Á'A'YESHAH said, 'I asked the Prophet's permission to go and fight the infidels; he said, "your zeal, O woman! is pilgrimage; I mean, it is enough for women to go out for pilgrimage, and there is no necessity for them to go out to fight." IBN-ABBAS. 'A. G. S. After the coming down of the divine institute of pilgrimage, "O men! verily GOD has ordained pilgrimage on you," AKRA-BIN-HABIS† stood up and said, "is pilgrimage of divine obligation for every year, O messenger of GOD?" He said, "if I say yes, verily it would make it divine in every year; and if it were so, you would not be able to do it; then pilgrimage is divine once in your life time; therefore any one that does it more, it is Sunnat." ALI-IBN-AB'U-T'A'LIB. 'A. G. S. "That person who is master of necessaries sufficient for himself in the road, and sufficient for his family and children during his absence, and is master of an animal to carry him to the house of GOD, and does not perform a pilgrimage, there is no difference between him and his dying an infidel, in the religion of the Jew or the Christian: and this denunciation is on account of that GOD says, "it is incumbent on man to make a pilgrimage to the Cábah, who is able to go there, and he who disobeys, verily God is in no need of the creation, whether they go on pilgrimage or not." Ibn-Abbas. A. G. S. "There is no abandoning pilgrimage and marriage in Islâm; that is, a Musleman must not abandon making a pilgrimage and marriage." Ibn-Abbas. A. G. S. "Whoever wishes to make a pilgrimage, and is able to perform it, must be quick and court the opportunity as plunder." Ibn-Masu'ud. A. G. S. "Follow up the pilgrimage with the Umrah, or the Umrah by pilgrimage; because verily they put away poverty and faults, like as a forge removes the dross of iron, silver and gold: and there is no other reward for an approved pilgrimage but paradise."

Pilgrimage is incumbent on all adults who have property sufficient to defray the expense of travelling, & to maintain their families in their absence.

Ibn-Omer said, "a man came to the Prophet, and said, 'O messenger of God! what thing constitutes a divine pilgrimage, after having reached the age of puberty?' He said, 'being master of such necessaries, as shall be sufficient for his going, coming, and family, and for him to ride upon there and back.'" Ibn-Omer said, "a man asked the Prophet, 'what is a maker of pilgrimage, and what is his description?' He said, 'dishevelled hair and a dusty head; and unperfumed.' Then another man stood up and said, 'O messenger of God! which of the pilgrimage acts is best and of greatest reward?' He said, 'raising the voice in saying Labbait (i. e. I am ready to serve thee) and making the blood of sacrifices to flow.' Then another man stood up, and said, 'O messenger of God! what is the meaning of Sabil, which occurs in this revelation. He who has the means of Sabil towards God?' The Prophet said, 'necessaries, and a thing to ride upon.'" Abu-Razin-Ukaili* said, "I came to the Prophet, and said, 'O messenger of God! verily my father is of great age, and not able to perform pilgrimage and Umrah, on account of not having necessaries for the journey, neither is he able to ride." The Prophet said, "make a pilgrimage and do Umrah on the part of your father." IBN-ABBAS said, 'verily the Prophet heard a man say Lebbaic on the part of SHUBRUMAH; and prepare to perform pilgrimage for him. His highness said, "who is SHUBRUMAH?" A man said, "he is my brother." His highness said, "have you made a pilgrimage yourself?" He said, "I have not." The Prophet said, "make a pilgrimage for yourself, after that on the part of SHUBRUMAH." IBN-ABBAS said, 'the Prohpet has fixed *Akik as Mikát for the people of the east.' AA'YESHAH said, 'verily the Prophet fixed D'hàt Irk for the people of Iràk.' OMM-SALMAH said, 'I heard the Prophet say, "whoever ties on the Ihràm, for pilgrimage, or Umrah, from the Masjid-ul-Aksa† towards the Masjid Haram,‡ shall be forgiven his past faults and his future."§

A man's first duty is to perform pilgrimage for himself; afterwards for his parents or near relations who are unable to go.

Part Third.

IBN-ABBAS said, 'the people of Yemen had come out for pilgrimage, and did not bring necessaries for themselves; and said, "we put our whole trust in GOD." And when they arrived at Mecca, they begged; and GOD sent down this revelation: "Carry necessaries, and abstain from begging; because abstinence is the best necessary for the last journey." AA'YESHAH said, 'I said, "O messenger of GOD! is there any holy war incumbent on women?" He said, "yes, there is one, in which there is no killing; it is pilgrimage and Umrah."¶ ABU-UMAMAH, A. C. IBN-OMER. 'A. G. S. ON TYING ON THE IHRÀM, AND REPEATING LEBBAIC.

The Prophet was perfumed before putting on the dress called Ih'ràm.

ÂÁYESHAH said, 'I used to perfume his highness for his Ih'ràm, before he tied it on; and for his coming out of Ih'ràm, before encompassing the Câbah, you might say that I saw the flashing of sweet scents on the top of his blessed head, while he was Moh'rim; I mean, the impression of perfume would remain upon his head after Ih'ràm.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'I heard the Prophet say, with a loud voice, "Lebbaic!" when he had clotted his hair, to prevent it from flying about him.' His highness said, "I stand up for thy service; there is no partner with thee; verily praise, benefits, and dominion are for thee. There is no partner with thee for worshipping." IBN-ÔMER says, 'his highness repeated no more than these words.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'his highnesss used (when he put his foot into the stirrup, and was mounted upon his camel) to say with a loud voice, "Lebbaic, I rise up in thy service, O patron! there is no partner with thee: verily praise, benefits and dominions are all for thee." 'We came out with the Prophet, in the year of the farewell pilgrimage, and some of us said Lebbaic, for Umrah merely; and some of us had tied on the Ih'ràm, for pilgrimage and Umrah both; and some of us had bound on the Ih'ràm for pilgrimage solely; and the Prophet had prepared himself solely for pilgrimage; those who had done it for Umrah only, came out of Ih'ràm after the performance of Umrah, before the days for pilgrimage; and those who had put on the Ih'ràm for pilgrimage solely, or did it for pilgrimage and Umrah both, did not come out of Ihràm, until the festival day came, which is the time of finishing the pilgrimage, and coming out of Ih'ràm.' IBN-OMER said, 'his highness did Tamattú in the farewell pilgrimage, from Umrah to pilgrimage.'*

OF THE FAREWELL PILGRIMAGE.*

JÁBIR-BIN-ÂBDULLAH said, "verily the messenger of GOD tarried nine years at Medínah, and did not perform pilgrimage: after that it was proclaimed, in the tenth year, that his highness is a performer of pilgrimage; that is, has an intention to come out for pilgrimage: then a great many men came to Medínah; and we the companions came out with his highness, till we reached Dhu'l-Hulaifah; and ASM'AA-BINT-ÛMAISH, who was wife of AB'U-BACR, was brought to bed of MUHAMMED-BIN-AB'U-BACR; and ASM'AA sent a person to the Prophet, saying, "what am I to do, to tie on the Ih'ràm or not?" His highness said, "bathe and tie up the bloody place with a cloth, and tie on the Ih'ràm." Then the Prophet performed two Racâts of prayer, for Ih'ràm, in Dhu'l Hulaifah; where they built a Masjid; after that he mounted his camel, the name of which was Káswà,† until he carried his highness to Bédàa; when the Prophet raised his voice and said, "I stand up in thy service, O LORD! service; there is no partner for thee; I stand up in thy service; verily praise and benefits are for thee, and dominion is for thee; there is no partner for thee." JA'BIR says, 'we had merely intended pilgrimage, and did not perform Umrah in pilgrimage months, so that when we came to the Câbah with his highness, he kissed the black stone; then encompassed the Câbah three times in a quick step, and walked round four times in a gentle pace; after that came to the stone in which is the impression of ABRAHAM's foot, and repeated this revelation: "take the station of ABRAHAM for a place of prayer."* Then his highness performed two Racâts of prayer, and stood behind ABRAHAM's station, keeping it between himself and the Câbah.' And in one tradition it is related, that his highness repeated in these two Racâts, the chapters entitled "the declaration of GOD's unity,"† and "say, O unbelievers:"‡ after that returned to the black stone, and kissed it; after that came out at the door of the Câbah, towards the mountain Safa; and when near it repeated this revelation: "verily Safa and Marwah are signs of GOD, which he has made for pilgrimage."§ The Prophet said, "I shall begin with the thing which GOD did:" then he begun by running to Safa, and went upon it till he saw the Câbah; fronted the Kiblah, and declared the unity of GOD, and repeated the Tacbir, and said, "There is no GOD but GOD alone, he hath no partner; his is the kingdom, to him is praise; and he hath power over all things; there is no GOD but GOD alone; he hath performed his promise, and hath aided his servant, and put to flight the hosts of infidels, by himself alone." And he supplicated in the middle of these words, and did this thrice; then came down from Safa, and went towards Merwah, another hill, and running till he began to ascend, then went slow, and did upon it as he had done upon Safa: and the running between Safa and Merwah is seven times; so that when his highness found himself at Merwah the seventh time, he said, "if it had been, that I had known before, what I knew afterwards, I would not have brought sacrifice, and would have done Umrah in lieu of pilgrimage; and would have come out of Ihràm; then any one of you not having sacrifice, must come out of Ihràm; and substitute Umrah for it." Then SURA'KAH-BIN-MA'LIC BIN-JUSHAM* stood up and said, "is this order for this year, or for always?" Then the Prophet put his fingers within each other, and said, "Umrah is come in pilgrimage time, and it is not as you said, but for always." Then ALÌ came, in the time of pilgrimage from Yemen, and brought many camels and bullocks, for his highness' sacrifice. And he said to ALÌ, "what did you say when you tied on the Ihràm for pilgrimage?" He said, 'I said, "O LORD! verily I have tied on the Ihràm for that which thy Prophet has done." His highness said, "verily I have a sacrifice with me, and cannot come out of Ihràm; therefore do not come out of Ihràm." JA'BIR says that the whole of the camels which ALÌ brought from Yemen, together with those the Prophet brought with himself from Medínah, were one hundred. Then all the people came out of Ihràm; and they all cut short their hair, except the Prophet of GOD, and those who had sacrifices. And when it was the eighth day of Dhu'l-Hajjah (which is called Tarwíah)†

Those who had not beasts for sacrifice were allowed to substitute Umrah for the rites of pilgrimage.

* He was one of the Koraish, of the tribe Madlej, and one of those who pursued the Prophet on his flight from Mecca. When he had just overtaken the fugitives, MUH'AMMED called to him, and his horse fell instantly prostrate to the ground. SURA'KAH said, "O MUH'AMMED! pray GOD to preserve me, and I will desist from pursuing you." MUH'AMMED did so, but SURA'KAH no sooner found himself in safety, than he renewed the pursuit. The Prophet called to him again, and again his horse fell down. He then repeated his request to the Prophet, who prayed for him a second time; and added, "What will you think, O SURAKAH! when you shall put on the bracelets of CESR'A PERW'EZ?" This prophecy is said to have been fulfilled A. H. 15, when YEZDEGIRD, the last king of Persia, was defeated in a great battle, and his jewels fell into the hands of the Muslemàns. Among them were his bracelets, with a belt and crown, which had formerly belonged to Khusrù surnamed Perwèz. These were brought to the Khalifah OMER, who calling SURA'KAH, dressed him in these ornaments. ABULFEDA, p. 51. This same SURA'KAH was an eminent poet. He died A. H. 24.

they turned themselves towards Mina;* and his highness rode towards Mina, and performed there the prayers of noon, and afternoon, sunset, evening and morning, and spent a night in Mina. After that, he stopped a little after the performance of morning prayer, until the sun rose; and ordered that a tent, which was made for him of hair, should be pitched in the valley Numirah, which is near the valley Arfàt. Then the Prophet went towards Arfàt; and the Koraish imagined that his highness would stop upon Muzdalifah, as the Koraish had used to do in the time of ignorance; when they did not go upon Arfàt. Then the Prophet went beyond Muzdalifah, until he reached Arfàt, and verily found a tent pitched for him in Numirah, and went down to it, until the declination of the sun; then ordered that Kùswah, his highness' camel, should be saddled; and he rode into the valley of Numirah, repeated the Khu'tbah, and said to the people, "know that all the customs of ignorance are abandoned, and those who committed murder before embracing Islàm, for them is no retaliation, and the interest on money contracted for in the time of ignorance is remitted; then abstain ye from GOD's punishment, and perform your duties to your wives. Verily I have left a thing with you, which, if you ardently seize, you will never stray, and that is the book of GOD: and you will be asked, on the day of resurrection, what I did with you; then what will ye say?" The companions said, "we will give evidence before GOD, that verily thy Prophet brought thy mission, and discharged thy orders, and gave us advice." Then the Prophet raised up the finger of evidence towards the regions, and inclined it towards the people, and said thrice, "O LORD! be witness." and did nothing Sunnat between the two: after which he mounted his camel; till he came to the place of standing in Arfàt, and then turned his camel towards Sukhràt, near Jabal Rah'mat, and kept Habl-ul-Mushàt in his front; and turned his face to the Kiblah, and remained standing until the sun set, and took USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID up behind him, and returned from Arfàt, and went quick till he came to Muzdalifah;* and performed there the sun-set prayers, and added nothing Sunnat between them. After that, he lay down upon his side, and went to sleep, till day-break; then rose up and performed morning prayer; then mounted his camel; till he came to Mushàr Haràm.† Then his highness turned himself towards the Kiblah and supplicated GOD, saying "great GOD! and there is no GOD but GOD" and he mentioned GOD in unity, then remained standing there until the morning became light, then left Muzdalifah before sun-rise, and took up behind him FA'DL-BIN-ABB'AS, as he had done with USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID in Arfàt, till he came into the valley of Muhassir, which is between Muzdalifah and Mina. And he drove his camel on rather quick; and went the middle road, which is a different road from the first he went, till he came to Jumrah, which is under a tree; and he threw seven pebbles there, and repeating great GOD! upon each pebble; after that, his highness returned to the place of sacrifice, which is in Mina; and killed, with his own hands, sixty-three camels. After that, he gave camels to ALI, and he sacrificed the remainder, and ordered a little flesh to be taken from every camel, which was put into a kettle and dressed; and their highnesses ate of it, and drank of its soup. After which, the Prophet mounted his camel, and drove him quick towards the Cábah, and encompassed it: then performed noon-day prayer in Mecca. And he said, " if it was not from my apprehension that this office would go from your hands, verily I would draw water from Zemzem." Then they gave his highness a bag of Zemzem water, and he drank of it.' Aa'yeshah said, ' we came out with his highness, in the farewell pilgrimage; some of us had tied on the Ih'ràm for Umrah, and some of us for pilgrimage; and when we arrived at Mecca, the Prophet of God said, " those that have tied on the Ih'ràm for Umrah, and have not sent sacrifices, must come out of Ih'ràm, and tie on the Ih'ràm for pilgrimage, in the pilgrimage days; and those that have tied on the Ih'ràm for Umrah, and sent sacrifices, must tie on the Ih'ràm for pilgrimage and Umrah both, and not come out of Ih'ràm till both be finished." Aa'yeshah said, ' then I became menstruous, and did not encompass the Câbah for Umrah, nor run between Safa and Merwah, and I remained menstrual until the day Arfah came; and I did not tie on the Ih'ràm except for Umrah; and the Prophet ordered me to open my hair and comb it; that is, to come out of Ih'ràm; and tie on for pilgrimage, and quit Umrah. Then I did that his highness ordered me; so that I performed my pilgrimage: and he sent with me my brother, whose name was Abdul-Rah'm'an; and he ordered me to perform an Umrah in lieu of the one which I lost on account of the menses; and ordered me to tie on the Ih'ràm for this Umrah at Tanum, a place four or six miles beyond Mecca.' Aa'yeshah said, ' then those people who had tied on the Ih'ràm for Umrah encompassed the Câbah, and ran between Safa and Merwah; after that came out of Ih'ràm; after that encompassed the Câbah, after returning from Mina on the day of sacrifice; but those people that had tied on the Ih'ràm for pilgrimage and Umrah both, only encompassed the Câbah once.' mage; and the people did the like: and some of them had sacrifices, others not: and when his highness came into Mecca, he said, "whoever of you have sacrifices, let them not come out of Ih'ràm till they perform their pilgrimage; and those who have not sacrifices must encompass the Câbah, and run between Safa and Merwah; and shorten the hair of their heads, and come out of Ih'ràm: after that they must (when the pilgrimage days come) tie on the Ih'ràm for it, and send sacrifice: and he who has not a sacrifice must keep fast three days, the seventh, eighth and ninth; and keep fast seven days more, when he returns to his house." When his highness came to Mecca, and ordered his companions as before mentioned, he encompassed the Câbah, and kissed the black stone first of all; after that, encompassed the Câbah three times rather quick, and then four times slowly; after that was done, he performed two Racâts of prayer in ABRAHAM's place: then gave the Salàm, then finished prayers, and came to mount Safa, and ran seven times between it and Merwah; after that, did not come out of Ih'ràm, till he performed his pilgrimage, and sacrificed on the day of sacrifice in Mina; then came from it to Mecca, and encompassed the Câbah, and came out of Ih'ràm. And those who had sent sacrifices to Mecca did as the Prophet had done.' IBN-ÂBB'AS. 'A. G. S. CHAP. IV.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF ENTERING INTO MECCA AND ENCOMPASSING THE CÂBAH.

NÂFÎ said, 'IBN-ÔMER would not come to Mecca without spending one night in Dhìt'awa,* and in the morning would perform prayers, and bathe there; and would enter Mecca in the day time; and would mention that the Prophet of GOD did so.' ÂAYESHAH said, 'verily whenever the Prophet came to Mecca, he would come from the side of Dhit'awa, and whenever he came out, he would come out from another quarter.' ÛRWAH-BIN-ZUBAIR relates that ÂAYESHAH said, 'verily the Prophet made a pilgrimage, and the first thing which he did, after entering Mecca, was his Wadù; then he encompassed the Câbah, and did not perform Ûmrah. After that, ABU-BAGR and ÔMER and ÔTHMAN did the same.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'the Prophet used (when he encompassed the Câbah, in pilgrimage or Ûmrah) to go quick three times, and slow four; then run between Safa and Merwah.' IBN-ÔMER said, 'the Prophet went quick three times from the black stone to the same again; and four times slow; and when he ran between Safa and Merwah, he would run in the drain also.' JA'BIR said, 'verily, whenever the Prophet came to Mecca, he would come to the black stone, and kiss it; after that would move away on his right, would encompass the Câbah, three times quickly, and four times slowly.' ZUBAIR-BIN-ÂRBÎ* said, 'a man asked IBN-ÂOMER about kissing the black stone; he said, "I saw the Prophet put his hand upon it and kiss it." IBN-ÂOMER said, 'I did not see his highness kiss any of the pillars of the Câbah, but two things; the Yemânî pillar† and the black stone.' IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'the Prophet, in the farewell pilgrimage, encompassed the Câbah upon his camel, touching the black stone, with a stick which was in his hand, and then kissing it.' IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'his highness encompassed the Câbah upon his camel, and whenever he arrived near the black stone, he would make a sign towards it, with the thing which he had in his hand, and would repeat the Tacbîr.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'we came out with the Prophet, when we only intended pilgrimage; and when we arrived at Sarif,‡ my menses came on; and his highness entered Mecca whilst I wept on account of the occurrence of the menses, lest it might be a preventative to my performing the pilgrimage. Then his highness said, "perhaps you are menstruous:" I said, "yes." He said, "have no anxiety about it, because it is a thing which GOD has preordained on the daughters of ADAM. Then do, O ÂA'YESHAH! the things which pilgrims do, except encompassing the Câbah, until you become pure." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'AB'U-BACR sent me in a pilgrimage, in which his highness had appointed him the chief, (before the farewell pilgrimage,) on the sacrifice day, amongst a body of Discordant testimonies regarding the Prophet's lifting up his hands when he came in sight of the Câbah.

MUHÁJIR of Mecca said, 'a man asked JA'BIR, "do you raise up both your hands when you see the Câbah?" He said, "verily I performed pilgrimage with the Prophet of GOD, and we did not use to do it." AB'UHURAIRAH said, 'his highness turned himself to Mecca, and entered it, then went towards the black stone, and encompassed the Câbah; after that came to Śafa, and went upon it, to look at the Câbah; then raised up both his hands, remembered GOD as much as he wished, and supplicated.' IBN-ÂBB'AS said, 'verily the Prophet said, "encompassing the Câbah is like prayers in rewards; then the difference in it is this, that you speak to each other in encompassing the Câbah, which is not allowable during prayers: then he who talks in encompassing the Câbah, must speak good words." IBN-ÂBB'AS. 'A. G. S. "The black stone is come down from paradise; and, at the time of its descent, it was whiter than milk: and the sins of the children of ADAM have caused it to be black, by their touching it." IBN-ÂBB'AS. 'A. G. S. "I swear by GOD, verily GOD will suspend the black stone, on the day of resurrection, when it will have two eyes, by which it will see, and know all those who touched it, and kissed it; and it will have a tongue by which it will speak, and it will give evidence for all those that touched and kissed it on Iman."

The black stone came down from heaven, and was then white; but its colour has been changed by the contact of sinful mortals.

IBN-ÓMER said, 'I heard the Prophet of GOD say, "verily the black stone, and the one on which are the impressions of the feet of his highness ABRAHAM, are rubies of the kind of those of paradise: GOD has blotted out, and made their brightness imperceptible; and if he had not made their brightness imperceptible, verily every thing which is between the east and the west would be bright."

ÚBAID-BIN-ÚMAIR* relates from IBN ÓMER, who said, 'we went in an assemblage to the black stone, and the Yemáni pillar, (but I never saw any one of his highness' friends, beside myself, go to either of them accompanied by many others,) because I heard the Prophet say, "touching these two is a coverer of sins," and I heard his highness say, "whoever encompasseth this temple seven times, and attends to its rites and its rules; its rewards shall be like those for emancipating a slave;" and I heard the Prophet say, "whoever makes one step in encompassing the Cábah, and raises up another, GOD lessens his faults on that account, and writes a good act for him; I mean, he lessens faults for every step, and writes a good act for every one." ÁBDULLAH-BIN-SA'YIB said, 'I heard the Prophet of GOD say this supplication, between the black stone and the Yemáni pillar: "O LORD! give me good in the world and in futurity; and defend me from hell fire." SAFÍAH-BINT-SHIBAH† said, 'the daughter of AB'U-TAJR'AT informed me, saying, "I entered into Mecca with Koraish women, who were looking at the Prophet of GOD, who was running between Safa and Merwah: and I saw him swagger when running with his clothes shaking about, and I heard him say, run between Safa and Merwah, because GOD has ordained it on you." IBN-OMER said, 'I did not abandon kissing the black stone and the Yemánì pillar, both in company and alone, from the time of my seeing the Prophet do it.' MUHAMMED-BIN-ABÙ BACR THAKAFÌ* said, I asked ANAS-BIN-MA'LIC (when we were both going, early in the morning, from Mîna to Â'rafah) "how were you, and what did you do in the day Â'rafah† with the Prophet?" He said, "whoever liked it, repeated Talbîah,‡ and was not forbidden; and those that liked it, would repeat the Tacbîr, which was not prevented." Â'A'YESHAH said, 'verily the Prophet said, "verily on the day Â'rafah, GOD redeems his servants from hell fire, more than on other days; and verily his compassion is close to them on this day; after that, GOD honors his servants in the presence of his angels, and says to them, what do these servants of mine want? ÂMER-BIN-ÂBDULLAH-BIN-ŚAFRÀN* said, 'before the time of Islàm, every Arabian tribe had its appointed place for standing in Árafah, where they would stand, and the place of YEZÌD-BIN-SHAIB'AN† was in a place very far from that of the Prophet. Then YEZÌD-BIN-SHAIB'AN, and the people of his tribe, wished to represent to his highness, and request to stand nearer his place. Then his highness sent a companion, whose name was IBN-MIRBÂ, to them, telling them to stay where they were, and not to remove from their ancient standing place, which was bequeathed to them by their father ABRAHAM, the friend of GOD; and saying that all Árafat was allotted for the purpose of it; and there was no difference, in being near to, or distant from the station of the Imàm.' JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. "All Árafat is for standing in; and it is lawful to take any part of it for that purpose; and all Mina is for sacrificing; it is lawful to sacrifice in any part of it; and all Muzdalifah is for standing on; and all the Mecca roads are the same; that is, it is lawful to enter Mecca by any road."* KHA'LID-BIN-HAWD'HAH said, 'I saw the Prophet repeating the Khut'bah to the people, standing up in the stirrups of his camel, in the day of Árafah, in Árafah; and this was that all might hear, both far and near.' ÂMER-IBN-SHUAIB relates, from his ancestors, that 'verily the Prophet said, "the best of supplications is on the day Árafah; whether made in Árafah or elsewhere; and the best supplication, and remembrance of GOD which I made, and the Prophets before me, in the day Árafah is this: "there is no GOD but GOD alone; he hath no partner; his is the kingdom; to him be the praise; his power extendeth over all things." TALH'AH-BIN-UBAIDULLAH. 'A. G. S. "The devil is always angry at seeing the good works of man, and becomes contemptible and base in his own sight; and his anger is always greater on the day Arafah: and this is on no other account, than from seeing the mercy of GOD descend upon his servants; and from GOD's remission of their great crimes: and the devil's anger on the day of the battle of Bedr, which was the victorious day of the Muslemàns, was as on the day Arafah, or greater; because, verily, the devil saw GABRIEL, on the day of the battle of Bedr, putting the angels in order; and dressing their ranks, to fight with the infidels." JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. When it is the day Arafah, verily GOD brings down his compassion to the lowest region, and honours the angels by his servants; and says to the angels, "look at my servants, who are come into the court of my compassion, with dishevelled hair covered with dust; and raising up their voices in Talbíah, from long and distant roads, "I take you to witness, that verily I have pardoned them:" then the angels say, "O our patron! such a man and woman of this assembly have done so and so:" GOD says, "verily I have forgiven them." The Prophet said, "the redemption of servants from hell fire, is greater on this day than all days."

The devil betrays great anger and vexation on the day Arafah, as he did on the day of the battle of Bedr.

the meaning of the word of God: "pass on from thence, like other people." Ibn-Abbas-bin-Mirdas* relates, that the Prophet supplicated for the pardon of his sect, in the night of the day Arafah; and it was approved; and God said, "verily I most certainly have forgiven them all their faults, except their oppression on others; because I will punish oppression." His highness said, "O Lord! if thou wilt, give to the oppressed paradise, in atonement, and pardon the oppressor." Then his highness' supplication was not accepted in that night; and when the morning came in Muzdalifah, he supplicated again; and it was accepted; and all their crimes were forgiven." Ibn-Abbas says, 'then the Prophet laughed; and Abubacr and Omer said to him, "(may our fathers and mothers be sacrificed for you) verily we never saw you laugh before in Muzdalifah; then what has caused you to laugh? May God ever cause your teeth to laugh; that is, be glad and happy." His highness said, "verily when God's enemy, the devil, knew that verily God accepted my supplication, and pardoned my sect; he took up dust with both his hands, and threw it upon his head, and said, "alas! ruin!" Then it made me laugh, to see his impatience, complaints and lamentation.'

IN EXPLANATION OF COMING OUT AND GOING FAST FROM ÂRAFAT.

HUSHÀM-BIN-ÛRWAH* relates from his father, who said, USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID was asked "how did the Prophet go in the farewell pilgrimage on his return from Árafat? He said, "his highness went quick; and when he found an opening he quickened his pace." IBN-ÂBB'AS says, 'I came out with his highness, on the day Árafah, and he heard in his rear the noise of beating and driving on camels, and people hastening on; and he made a sign to them with his whip, and said, "O men! may it be on you to go slowly and at your ease; because doing well and geting rewards in pilgrimage is not by driving on quick, being in a hurry and confusion, but it is by abandoning things prohibited." IBN-ÂBB'AS relates that USA'MAH-BIN-ZAID was riding behind his highness, from Árafah towards Muzdalifah; after that, he took up FAD'L-BIN-ABB'AS from Muzdalifah to Mina: then USA'MAH and FAD'L related, that the Prophet continued repeating the Talbíah, unto the time of throwing the pebbles.

Abdullah-bin-Masu'ud said, 'I never saw the Prophet perform any prayer, unless at its time, excepting the two prayers of sunset and evening at Muzdalifah, and morning prayer at Muzdalifah he did perform before its time.' Ibn-Abb'as said, 'in the night of Muzdalifah his highness sent the weak of his family, and ordered them not to throw pebbles, till after sunrise; and I was one of the number.' Fa'dl Ibn-Abb'as said, 'I was mounted behind his highness, and he said to the people, in the night of Arafah, and morning of Muzdalifah, when they beat and drove on their camels at a great rate, "O people? go slow, and do not be in a hurry;" and his highness was keeping back his own camel from going fast, till he came into the valley Mu'hassir; and he said, "be it on ye, O men! to take up pebbles from this valley, like small potsherds, and throw them into Jumarah." And Fa'dl-Ibn-Abb'as says, the Prophet would always repeat the Talbíah, till throwing the pebbles into Jumarah.' Ja'bir said, 'his highness was going slowly from Muzdalifah, and ordered the people to do the same; and he went quick in the valley Mu'hassir, and ordered the people to throw pebbles the size of small potsherds; and said to the companions, "perhaps I shall not see you after this year; then learn the rules of religion."

The Prophet prescribes the time and manner of throwing pebbles.

Muhammed-ibn-Kais ibn-Makhramah* said, 'the Prophet repeated the Khut'bah and said, "the people of ignorance used to set off from Arafat before sunset, and from Muzdalifah after sunrise; and verily we do not set off from Arafat till sunset, and we set off from Muz- dalifah before sunrise; our ways are opposite to those of the worshippers of idols and the polytheists." IBN-ABBAS said, 'his highness sent us before, in the night of Muzdalifah, (who are boys of ABDUL MUTALLAB's family) mounted upon asses; and his highness patted us on the thigh with the palm of his hand, and said, "O my sons! do not throw the pebbles until the sun rises." AAYESHAH said, 'his highness sent OMM-SALMAH, in the night of the day of sacrifice; and she threw the pebbles before day-break; then passed away, and encompassed the Cabah; and this was on the night of her turn.' IBN-ABBAS said, 'let that person who has halted in Mecca, to perform Umrah, repeat the Talbiah until he kisses the black stone.'

The Prophet directs that the pebbles be not thrown till after sun rise.

Part Third.

YAKUB-BIN-AASIM-BIN-URWAH* relates, that URWAH heard SHARID† say, 'I went on with the Prophet from Arafat, till we reached Muzdalifah, he rode the whole of the way.' IBN-SHAHAB‡ said, 'SALIM-BIN ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER informed me, that HAJJAJ-BIN-YUSEF (who was a notorious tyrant) in the year in which he came down upon Mecca to fight ABDULLAH-BIN-ZUBAIR, on the part of ABDUL MALIC-BIN-MERWAN, and performed pilgrimage, asked ABDULLAH-BIN-OMER, "how am I to say prayers on the day Arafah?" And SALIM said to HAJJAJ, "if you wish to perform Sunnat, do it in the middle of the day."§ And ABDULLAH said, "SALIM spoke true; verily his highness' companions would use to join the prayers of noon and afternoon." Then I said to SALIM, "did the Prophet do so?" He said, "the companions did not do it, but in following the Prophet."

The Prophet used, on the day Arafah, to say the noon & afternoon prayers together.

CHAP. VII.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF THROWING THE PEBBLES.

The manner and time of the Prophet's throwing pebbles.

JÁBIR said, 'I saw the Prophet throwing pebbles, when mounted upon his camel, on the day of sacrifice; and he said, "learn the rites of pilgrimage; because verily, I do not know whether I shall make a pilgrimage after this or not." JA'BIR said, 'I saw his highness throw pebbles the size of small potsherds.' JA'BIR said, 'his highness threw pebbles, on the day of sacrifice, at breakfast time; but after the day of sacrifice, till three other days, he threw pebbles at the time of the sun's declining from the meridian.' ABDULLAH-BIN-MASU'UD said, 'I arrived at Jamrah Cubrà, which is on the side of Masjid Khif, and I placed the Cábah on my left, and Mina on my right, and I threw seven pebbles, and repeated the Tacbìr upon every one that I threw; and in this way did he throw pebbles to whom descended the chapter of the Cow; I mean, the Prophet of GOD.' JA'BIR. 'A. G. S. Part Second.

KUDÁMAH BIN-ÁBDULLAH BIN-ÁMMÁR said, 'I saw the Prophet throw pebbles, on the day of sacrifice, in Jamrah,* when mounted upon a female camel, with a white face, and a red head; and there was no beating or driving people aside, nor saying, "on one side! get away!" ÁÁ'YESHAH said, 'the Prophet of GOD said, "throwing stones and running between Śafa and Merwah has not been ordained for any other purpose than to remember GOD." ÁÁ'YESHAH. 'We said, "O messenger of GOD! shall we not build a house to shade you, in Mina?" He said, "no, Mina is a place of coming down upon, and sitting in, of those that came there before."†

Part Third.

NÁFÍ said, 'verily IBN ÓMER used to halt a great deal near the two Jamrahs, and would say, "great GOD! immaculate GOD! and praise be to GOD!" and would supplicate GOD, and would not stop near Jamrah Ákbah,‡ after throwing the pebbles, neither in the sacrifice day or any other: and IBN ÓMER said, "thus did I see the Prophet."

CHAP. VIII.---PART I.

IN EXPLANATION OF QUADRUPEDS TO BE SENT TO MECCA AS SACRIFICES.

The Prophet marks the camels destined for sacrifice.

IBN ÂBBÀS said, 'his highness performed noon-day prayer, when he came out for pilgrimage to Dhu'l Hulaifah; after that called for his female camel, to send her to Mecca to be immolated; and he threw a lance into the right side of the hump upon her back, and wiped the blood from it, and hung two strings of camel's hair on her neck, that she might be known as a sacrifice, and not be stolen, and that the poor might take her and eat her, in case of her being near dying in the road.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'once his highness sent rams to be sacrificed at Mecca, and tied strings upon their necks.' JA'BIR said, 'his highness sacrificed a bullock, on the part of ÂA'YESHAH, on the day of sacrifice.' JA'BIR. 'His highness sacrificed a bullock, on the part of his wives, in his pilgrimage.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'I twisted with my own hands the strings of the Prophet's camels, and he hung them upon their necks, and struck them with lances on the right side of their humps, and sent them to Mecca along with AB'U BAKR.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'I twisted the strings of his highness' camels with coloured wool; after that he sent them, along with

Ab'u Bacr, to Mecca.' Ab'u Huraira said, 'verily the Prophet saw a man driving a camel, and said to him, "mount." The man said, "this is a camel for sacrifice, how can I ride him?" The Prophet said, "mount." The man said, "how? this camel is for sacrifice." Again the Prophet said, "mount: alas upon thee! I order thee to mount, and thou makest excuses." Ab'u Zubair said, 'I heard Ja'bir-bin-Abdullah say, (when he was asked about riding upon a camel sent to Mecca for sacrifice) "I heard the Prophet of God say, ride him moderately; and this also when compelled." Ibn Abb'as said, 'his highness sent sixteen camels, by a man, to Mecca; and ordered him to watch them, and take care of them: and the man said, "O messenger of God! what shall I do with a camel that gets tired, from fatigue, or heaviness of load?" His highness said, "strike a lance into the right side of its hump, then colour with its blood the two strings which are round its neck: take them off, and place them along side of the camel; that passengers may know this is a sacrifice; that the poor may eat it, not the rich, for it is forbidden to them; and you must not eat of it as any one of your fellow travellers, whether poor or rich." Ja'bir said, 'we sacrificed with the Prophet (in the year of the battle of Hudaibiyah, when we had come for Omer, and the Koraish would not give us entrance into Mecca) a camel for seven people, and a bullock also for seven.' Ibn Omer said, 'verily I came near a man who had made his camel sit down, and was sacrificing it; and I said "make him stand up, and tie his left leg, as is the Sunnat of Muh'ammed; after that stab him." Ali-ibn-Ab'ut'alib said, 'the Prophet ordered me to be careful of the camels for sacrifice, and ordered me to give in alms their skins and saddles; and ordered me not give the slayer of the camel his wages from the flesh of it, and said, "I will pay him his wages myself." Ja'bir said, 'we did not use to eat of the flesh of our sacrifices more than three days; that is, in three

Part Second.

IBN-ÂBBÂS relates, that his highness sent, in the year of the battle of Hudaibiyah, in his own sacrifices, a camel which had belonged to AB'U-JAHEL; and which had been got with the plunder on the day of the battle of Bedr; and it had a silver ring in its nose, at which the polytheists were much enraged, at seeing that it had fallen into the hands of the Muslemâns to be slaughtered.' NA'JÍAH-KHUZA'Ï* said, 'his highness delivered his sacrifices, and sent them to Mecca by me; and I said, "O messenger of GOD! what shall I do with a camel that gets tired?" He said, "stab it, after that dip its collar into its blood, and let it go, that the poor may eat it, except thee and thy fellow travellers." ABDULLAH-BIN-KURT.† 'A. G. S. "Verily the greatest days near GOD are, one, the day of sacrifice, and the second, the day of kurr.‡ And there were five or six camels brought to the Prophet for sacrifice; so that he might begin with which he chose; then he sacrificed them; and when the camels fell upon their sides, on the ground, and became cold, his highness spoke some words slowly, which I did not understand; and I asked a person who was standing close to him SALMAH says, that when it was the next year, the companions said, must we do as we did last year? that is, not keep meat sacrificed more than three days? He said, "eat, and give others to eat, and lay some by; because verily there was in that year poverty and want amongst the people, and I wished to support them, and give them to eat; and this year want is removed; the orders of the past are also done away." ON SHAVING THE HAIR OF THE HEAD.

IBN-ÔMER said, his highness shaved his head in the farewell pilgrimage, and a body of his companions did the same, in following the Prophet of GOD; and some of the companions cut their hair short.' IBN-ÂBBAS told me that he cut his highness' hair with a pair of scissars.' IBN-ÔMER. The Prophet of GOD said, when coming out of Ihrâm in the farewell pilgrimage year, "O LORD! compassionate the shavers of their heads." The companions said, "supplicate for the shorteners of their hair also, O messenger of GOD!" his highness again supplicated for them; again the companions desired a supplication for the cutters of their hair; and this time his highness said, "O LORD! compassionate the shorteners." YAHIYAH-BIN-HUSAIN† relates, from his grandmother, whose name was OMM-AL-HUSAIN, that she heard his highness, in the farewell pilgrimage, supplicate for the shavers of their heads thrice, and for the shorteners of their hair once.' ANAS said, 'his highness came to Mîna, then to Jamrah, and threw pebbles into it; after that came to his place, in Mina, and stabbed his sacrifices; after that called a shaver, whose name was MUAM-

Then one or two hairs came to the lot of each.' AAYESHAH said, 'I used to rub perfume upon the Prophet before he tied on the Ihram; and I rubbed that in which was musk, on the day of sacrifice, before he encompassed the Cabah, and after his shaving and dressing.' IBN OMER relates, that 'his highness came to Mecca, on the day of sacrifice, and encompassed the Cabah; after that returned to Mina, and performed noon-day prayer there.'

CHAP. X.--PART I.

ON COMPLETING THE AFOREGOING.

ABDULLAH-BIN-AMER-BIN-AAS said, 'verily the Prophet halted, and stood in a place in Mina, in the farewell pilgrimage, to cheer men who were asking him questions; and a man came to him and said, "I was not aware, and shaved my head before slaying a sacrifice." Then his highness said, "stay; there is no fear." Then another man came to his highness, and said, "I was not aware, and sacrificed before throwing pebbles." His highness said, "throw pebbles; there is no fear." And his highness was not interrogated about any thing begun with or followed by, that he did not say, "do it, there is no fear." IBN ABBAS said, 'his highness was asked, on the day of sacrifice in Mina, and he said, "there is no fear." Then a man asked his highness, and said, "I threw pebbles in the evening; now that its time is in the morning." He said, "there is no fear."

The Prophet allowed considerable latitude regarding the order of the pilgrimage.

USÁMAH-BIN-SHARÍC* said, ' I came out with his highness, an intender of pilgrimage; and men came near him; some of them saying this, " O messenger of GOD! we run between Safa and Merwah before having encompassed the Cábah;" and some said, " we delayed doing something in its time:" or " we did it before its time:" and the Prophet would say, " there is no fear nor fault, except upon a man who has hurt the reputation of a Muslemàn by backbiting and detraction."

CHAP. XI.---PART I.

ON REPEATING THE KHUTBAH ON THE DAY OF SACRIFICE; AND ON THROWING PEBBLES ON THE THREE DAYS FOLLOWING IT, AND ON BIDDING ADIEU TO THE CÂBAH.

ABÙ-BACRAH said, ' his highness repeated the Khutbah to us, on the day of sacrifice, and said, " a year is twelve months as at the creation of them: there are four Haràm months; three of them succeed each other, Dhu'l Kâdah, Dhu'l Hajjah, Mu'harrem; and the fourth is Rajeb, and it is that month which is between the second Jemàd and Shábán. And his highness said, " what month is this?" We said, " GOD and his messenger know best."* Then the Prophet remained silent; so that we supposed his highness was near mentioning it by some other name than that by which it is well known: then his highness said,

" is not this month Dhu'l Hajjah?" We said, " yes, it is." His highness said, " what town is this?" We said, " GOD and his messenger know best." Then he remained silent, till we imagined he would mention it by some other name than that by which it is well known. His highness said, " is not this Mecca?" We said, " yes, this is the city of Mecca." His highness said, " then what day is this?" We said, " GOD and his messenger know best." Then he remained silent, till we thought he was near about calling it by some other name than that by which it is well known. Then his highness said, " is not this the day of sacrifice?" We said, " yes, this is the day of sacrifice." His highness said, " then verily your blood, property and reputations are Haràm on you (or sacred;) I mean, it is unlawful to spill the blood of any person, or take the property of any one by force, or dishonour any body; like as your day being Haràm which is the day of sacrifice; and your city, which is Mecca, and your month, which is Dhu'l Hajjah; and it is near that you will come before your LORD; and your GOD will ask about your actions; beware that you stray not after my going from the world, nor oppress one another: beware! have I delivered the mission, and the orders of the law?" The companions said, " yes you have delivered them." His highness said, " O LORD! be witness that they have confessed my delivering the mission; so that they deny not or bring excuses on the day of resurrection; then let the present carry to the absent the rules of the religion, as they have heard them from me: then may they be, and may they remember them and understand them better than those who have heard them from me." WABARAH* said, ' I asked IBN-OMER, " when shall I throw pebbles?" and when he said, " when your Imàm throws pebbles, then do you;" again I asked him the same question: he said, " we were anxiously waiting for its time, and when the sun declined from the meridian, we threw the pebbles." SA'LIM relates, from IBN-ÔMER, that he used to throw pebbles into Jamrah with seven pebbles, and repeating the Tacbîr after every pebble; then would go forward till he got upon soft ground, when he would stand a long time opposite the Kiblah and supplicate, and raise up both his hands; after that would throw pebbles, between the two Jamrâhs seven pebbles, and would repeat the Tacbir whenever he threw a pebble; after that would take into the road, and move off on his left, until he got upon soft ground, when he would stand a long time fronting the Kiblah; after that would supplicate and raise up both his hands; after which would throw pebbles into Jamrah Âkabah from the hollow of the valley, and would repeat the Tacbîr whenever he threw a pebble; and would not stand near Jamrah Âkabah; after that would return and say, "this is the way I saw the Prophet of GOD do." IBN-ÔMER relates that ÂBB'AS, the Prophet's uncle, asked him permission to remain at night in Mecca in the Mina nights, for the purpose of serving out Zemzem water; and his highness came to the place of serving out the Zemzem water, and asked ÂBB'AS for water, and ÂBB'AS told his son, whose name was FA'DL, to go to his mother, and bring water from her for his highness. Then his highness said to ÂBB'AS, "give me Zemzem water to drink, and bring no other water into the house." Then FA'DL said, "O messenger of GOD! verily people put their hands into the Zemzem water." Again his highness said, "give me water; of what consequence is their putting their hands into it?" Then his highness drank Zemzem water, and the family of ÂBDUL MUT'ALLAB served it out to people, and attended in this employment. Then his highness said, "do this work, and labour at it, because ye are at a good act; I mean giving water is a good deed." After that, his highness said, "if it was not for fear that people would overcome you in drawing up water, on account of following me, and for fear that this employment

ANAS said, 'verily the Prophet performed the prayers of noon, afternoon, sunset and evening; then slept in *Muh'as'sab; and, after sleeping, mounted, and came to the Câbah, and encompassed the farewell circuit.' ABDULÂZÌZ-BIN-RUFAÎ† said, 'I asked ANAS, and said, "inform me of the things which you know, and remember, of the Prophet, where did he perform the noon-day prayer, the eighth day of Dhu'l-Hajjah?" He said, "in Mina." I said to ANAS, "then where did he perform afternoon prayer, on the fourth day after sacrifice?" He said, "in Abt'ah'." After that, ANAS said to me, "do as your prince does; I mean his highness did as I have explained, and do you do as your sultan does; and not contrary to him; for peradventure it might be hurtful." ÂA'YESHAH said, 'the alighting of his highness at Abt'ah' is not in way of adoration; and he did not alight there but for this; that his going from that place to Medínah was easy.' ÂA'YESHAH said, 'I tied on the Ih'ràm for Úmrah at Tanâ'ïm, then came into Mecca, and performed my Úmrah: and the Prophet expected me at Abt'ah', where he had alighted, until I had finished: then he ordered the people to march towards Medínah: then he came out of Abt'ah', and went to the Câbah, and encompassed it, before morning prayer; after that came out towards Medínah.' IBN ÂBB'AS said, 'when the people finished their pilgrimage, they would go towards their homes; and did not perform the farewell circuit: then the Prophet forbade their going away, till they had finished the farewell circuit, excepting a menstruous woman.' ÂMER-BIN-AHWAS said, 'I heard his highness say, in the farewell pilgrimage, " what is this?" They said, " it is the day of the great pilgrimage." He said, " then verily your blood, property and reputation are sacred, like as the being sacred this day of yours, this city of yours, and this month of yours: beware! that no one offender commits a fault, and oppressor oppression on another, and beware that no father commits a crime upon his own son, or a son upon his own father; take heed! verily the devil is most certainly hopeless of being worshipped at Mecca; but it is near, that there will be obedience for him in a thing, which you count trifling, in your actions; that is, you will commit faults, and think them trifling, and of no moment; and committing faults is obedience to the devil, because he is pleased with it." RAFÎ-BIN-ÂMER* said, 'I saw the Prophet giving advice to people at Mina, when mounted upon his female camel, (the ends of her hair were red, and the other part of it white) beyond breakfast time; and ÂLÌ was explaining it, making people attend and understand, and would carry to those that were far off what his highness said: and some of the men were standing, and some sitting.' IN EXPLANATION OF WHAT MOHRIMS ABSTAIN FROM; THAT IS, THE DOING OF WHICH IS UNLAWFUL.

SULAIMÀN-BIN-ÂBDULLAH* said, 'I saw SÂD-BIN-AB'U-WAK-K'AS' take a man who was hunting within the sanctuary of Medínah, when the Prophet had prohibited fowling and hunting there; and SÂD took the man's clothes: and the masters of the man came and said, "give the man his clothes." Then SÂD said, "the Prophet has made sacred this boundary of Medínah, and has said, whoever takes any one hunting in this sanctuary, may take his clothes and arms: therefore I shall not give you back that which the Prophet has given to me; but, if you wish it, will give you its value." S'A'LIH' said, 'SÂD-IBN-AB'U-WAKKAS found some slaves of the people of Medínah, cutting some of the trees of Medínah; and he took their clothes and arms; and the masters of the slaves requested to have them returned: SÂD said, "I heard the Prophet forbid any of the Medínah trees being cut, and said, whoever cuts any thing from the Medínah trees, for the taker of such person are his clothes and arms." IBN-ÔMER. ' A. G. S. Whoever makes a pilgrimage, and visits my grave after my death, shall be as him who met and visited me in my life time." YAHY'A-BIN-SA'ÎD said, verily the Prophet was sitting, and a grave was digging in Medínah, and a man looked into it, and said, " the grave is a bad place of sleep for a Mómin." The Prophet said, " you have spoken badly." The man said, " verily I did not allude to the evil of death for a Mómin, and had no other allusion than the praise of being killed in the road of GOD; that is, if a Mómin be killed in the road of GOD, it is better for him than dying upon his bed." Then the Prophet said, " dying in Medínah is better than being slain in the road

Excellence of Charity

644. (a) By divine wisdom, one man is rolling in wealth while another is penniless. Why is this anomaly? It is partly due to the fact that man has to be tried either by the virtue of charity or by the sin of miserly habits. If all men would have been rich, the word 'charity' would have found no mention in the dictionary, and matters of the world would have stood at a stand still. The Holy Quran therefore says: And if Allah should give provision in abundance, they would certainly revolt in the earth but He sends it down according to a measure as He pleases (42 : 27 Q). In order, therefore, to bring the virtue of 'charity' into full play, to prevent revolution, and for smooth working of the worldy affairs economic inequality has been created. The present Bolshevik movement of Russia is thus a movement against nature and bound to fail. In order to minimise the evils of accumulation of wealth in one hand, the institution of charity has been recognised by all religions including Islam.

(b) Method and regularity: Islam, however, has given this institution a perfect, practical, methodical, regular, and organised shape. No religion other than Islam has recognised charity as one of its chief pillars. In Islam, it is the second of the five pillars on which the grand superstructure of this faith has been built up. It has been made compulsory—a binding tax upon the rich for the protection of the poor. The institution of charity has thus been made perfect in Islam with the perfection of all other ordinances.

(c) Islamic Brotherhood: In this brotherhood, the rich men enter with a condition that they shall distribute a portion of their wealth to the poor members in faith. 2½ p.c. of their net annual income shall be given away to the poor, the distressed and the needy. Thus the poorer members of this brotherhood enjoy a statutory benefit which is enjoyed nowhere in the world and the attribute of virtue has been given a scope and at the same time economic inequalities have been minimised and the rich have not been deprived of the fruits of their labour.

(d) Excellence of Charity : Islam is not content merely by making charity compulsory on the rich. It has, however, promised great rewards for optional charities. The Prophet said that nothing is stronger in the earth—mountain, iron, fire, water and wind—than the son of Adam giving alms with his right hand concealing it from his left (8 : 17). Charity will be a shade for a believer on the Resurrection Day when there will be no shade (8 : 17). Charity appeases wrath of Allah and removes pangs of death—8 : 10. Wherever the Quran speaks of prayer, it also conjointly speaks of charity thereby showing that prayer prepares a man for the service of humanity. "And spend in the way of Allah." By no means shall you attain to righteousness until you spend out of what you love and whatever thing you spend, Allah surely knows it—3 : 91 Q. They ask you as to what they should spend. Say, whatever wealth you spend, it is for the orphans and the needy and the way-farer—2 : 215 Q. Woe to the praying ones .....and those who with hold acts of charities (107 : 4—7 Q)." The other verses dealing with excellence of charity have been given in 2 : 254 Q., 247 Q., 338 Q., 177 Q.

(e) Wide meaning of Charity in Islam : In Islam, charity has been given a very wide meaning. It means any benefit done to any person or animal either economic, spiritual, moral or consolatory. Every good is charity—8 : 2. Meeting with a brother Muslim with cheerful countenance is charity (8 : 4) as it is consolatory. To advise a man to do good and to desist from wrong is charity. To remove an injurious thing from the way is charity. In this kind of charity, the poor and the needy can also participate. It is nothing but sympathy and fellow feeling. Besides the compulsory charity by payment of zakat, Islam recognises optional charities by various denominations such as Infaq (spending benevolently), Ihsan (doing of good) and Sadka (charitable deed). These words connote charity in a broad sense Infaq has been discussed in note 649, and in the head-notes of 127, 173, 198, 262 and 165. Note 649 deals with modes of expense, 127 and 173 deal with rewards in spending for wife and family, 198 with charities to the poor and the needy, 262 with service to humanity, 165 with charity by manumission of slaves and 457 with charity by giving food to the hungry and drink to the thirsty. Taking care of orphans and management of their property is charity (note 195). Nursing and visiting the sick are acts of charity (note 219). Besides Zakat and Fitra charities, all other benevolent expenses are optional.

(f) Islam fixed occasions for charity. At the time of two festival I'ds, charitable actions are compulsory on every Muslim possessing requisite qualifications (see note 675). Charity has been encouraged at the time of every calamity because charity removes an impending calamity (8 : 250 Q). If a Muslim fails to perform Zumma prayer through mistake, charity can partly compensate the sin—34 : 669.

(g) Charity increases rather than decreases. It is seen in nature that a seed of paddy, if sown in well-cultivated field, grows a number of sprouts wherefrom hundreds of paddy seeds come forth. What is true in vegetable kingdom is true also in moral kingdom. The Quran therefore says : The parable of those who spend their property in the way of Allah is as the parable of a grain growing seven ears with a hundred grains in every ear. And Allah multiplies for whom He pleases (2 : 261 Q). Therefore the seed of charity sown and nurtured carefully may yield innumerable seeds of charity Are the following divine words false ? Allah does not bless usury and gives increase in charity (2: 276 Q.). The devil threatens you with poverty and enjoins you to be niggardly and Allah promises you forgiveness from Himself and abundance, and Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing (2: 268 Q.). And whatever you lay out at usury that it may increase in the property of men, it shall not increase with Allah ; and whatever you give in charity desiring Allah's pleasure, it is these (persons) that shall get manifold—30 : 39 Q.

(h) Three classes of charitable persons. (1) The highest philanthropic man is called Siddiq (greatly truthful). Besides paying Zakat prescribed for ordinary rich Muslims, he disposes of his entire possessions in charity absolutely relying on Allah and His Apostle. This was Hazrat Abu Bakr Siddiq who brought all his wealth to the Prophet for charity when he was ordered by him. When asked, he told in reply, 'Allah and His Apostle are sufficient for me !' Hazrat Omar brought half of his wealth at that time. (2) The second man is lower in position. He pays Zakat and also pays additional charities keeping for himself sufficient means of maintenance. They have a fixed portion of their income for charity (51: 19 Q.). (3) The third kind of man is he who pays only the compulsory Zakat and no other additional charities.

(i) How to acquire high rewards in charity : (1) To give it immediately on demand ; (2) to pay it intending to seek the pleasure of Allah and not for show (2: 272 Q.); (3) to pay it secretly so that the left hand knows not what the right hand does; (4) not to give charity attended with harsh word, injury or reproach (2: 263 Q.); (5) to consider the thing given as quite insignificant; (6) to pay it from one's own hard-earned lawful savings (2 : 267 Q.); (7) to pay it to most deserving persons especially to pious learned men who are poor and do not beg as the Quran says : Alms for the poor who are confined in the way of Allah; they cannot go about in the land the ignorant man thinks them to be rich on account of abstaining (from begging). You can recognise them by their mark. They do not beg from men importunately (2 : 273 Q.); (8) to pay alms to those relatives who are poor and indigent (2: 123, 126); to pay alms of that thing which is most endearing. The Quran says : By no means, shall you attain to righteousness until you spend out of what you love (3 : 91 Q.) Alms to the poor is excellent form of charity—23 : 43. Charity from unlawful earnings is not accepted as the sources are tinged with illegality—17 : 301 W. Charity beyond ⅓rd of the property of a man having heirs is unlawful—24 : 342W., as such kind of charity leaves nothing for the maintenance of heirs. There are some kinds of charity called صدقة جارية i. e., ever-running charity which continues to bring constant rewards till the charitable object subsists, such as the foundation of an educational institution, construction of a bridge, orphanage, mosque or compilation of a good religious book guiding the people to the straight path of Islam (1: 43). The position of such kind of charitable persons near Allah is to be greatly envied-37 : 5.

(j) In charity there is no distinction between Muslims and non-Muslims except in Zakat which cannot lawfully be made on non-Muslims. Besides Zakat, every other alms and charities may be given to men without discrimination. This is based upon a precept of the Holy Prophet who advised that alms should be bestowed upon the poor and the needy.

Will anybody be called from all those doors ? 'Yes', said he, 'and I hope that you will be one of them.

6. Ayesha reported that the Ms. of Allah said : Every man of the children of Adam has been created on 360 joints. Whoever declares Allah to be the greatest, praises Allah, imputes power to Allah, glorifies Allah and begs pardon of Allah and removes from way of men either a stone or a thorn or a bone, or bids good and forbids evil, counts those 360 ; because he will certainly walk at that time after he has removed himself from the Fire. —Muslim

646. Charity appeases wrath of God just as water extinguishes fire or just as sun's rays remove darkness Pangs of death are very strong giving constant unbearable sufferings and sometimes death with disbelief. Charity gives an easy death and ensures faith for a believer at the time of his death.

Who is this (man)? They replied: He is the Ms. of Allah. I said twice: On thee peace, O prophet of Allah! He said: Don't say—on thee peace, on thee peace—a greeting of the dead. Say: Peace be on you! I enquired: Are you the Ms. of Allah? He replied: I am the Ms. of Allah; if you call him when any disaster overcomes you, he will (try to) remove it from you. If a year of famine overtakes you and then you call him, he will dispel it from you; when you are in a barren land or a desert and then your riding camel goes astray and you call him, he will return it to you. I said: Make covenant with me. He said: Never abuse any body. He said: Thereafter I rebuked neither a free man, nor a slave, nor a camel, nor a goat. He said: You must not hold in contempt any thing of good; that you talk with your brother (Muslim) extending your face towards him—that is surely a good act. And raise your trouser to half of leg. If you do not agree, than up to the ankles. Be careful of lengthening of trouser because it comes from boast, and verily Allah does not love boast. If a man rebukes you and back-bites you for what he knows about you, don't back-bite him for what you know about him, because it will then be the return of that on him. Abu Daud.

19. Jainab, wife of Abdullah-b-Mas'ud reported that the Ms. of Allah said : O congregation of women ! give alms though from your ornaments. She said : Then I returned to Abdullah and said : You are a man of little means and the Ms. of Allah has called for alms. So go to him and ask him. If that makes amends of me, (it is good) ; or else I shall spend it for others besides you. [648] She said : Abdullah said to me : Rather you go to him. Then I went when lo ! a woman of the Ansars was at the door of the prophet.

648. The womam intended to spend for her poor husband and children instead of giving alms to strangers as sought by the Prophet. Prophet promised double rewards for charity towards relatives.

My need was her need. She said that gravity was then thrown over the Prophet. She said : Bilal came out to us and we said to him: Go to the Holy Prophet and inform him : Two women at the door are asking you : will charity from them upon their husbands and upon their orphan children in their laps suffice you ? And don't tell him who we are. Then Bilal went to the Prophet and asked him. The Prophet said : Who are they ? He said : A woman of the Ansars and Jainab. Then the prophet asked : Who among Jainabs ? He replied : Wife of Abdullah. The Holy Prophet said : There will be two rewards for them—the reward of relationship and the reward of charity.

649—Niggardliness and Expenditure.

(a) Middle course is the best. Nifqa or Infaq, in the language of Islamic law, signifies expense for those things which are necessary for the support of a life ; such as food, clothing and lodging. It therefore means expenditure or maintenance of oneself and family-members consisting of wives, children, servants and slaves. It may also mean expenditure for others who are in like wants. Expenditure beyond this is extravagance. The opposite attribute of extravagance is miserliness. The miser is not one who is not charitably disposed to others, but the miser is one who does not spend what is absolutely necessary for him and his family. Such expenses vary in proportion to riches. There can be no fixed landmark of expense. Restraining of one's hand where expense is necessary means miserliness; and expense where restraint is necessary is extravagance. Therefore the two extremes—extravagance and miserliness are both bad in the eye of Islam and the middle course is the best. The Holy Quran says: The extravagants are the brothers of the devils (17 : 27 Q). Don't make your hand shackled to your neck, nor stretch it forth to the utmost of its stretching lest you should sit down, blamed, stripped off (17 : 29 Q). Those when they spend do not spend extravagantly nor are miserly, but they are standing between these two (Quran).

648a. That is the day on the 10th of Muharram It is on this day that Abraham was born and died Sufyan said that he examined the truth of this tradition and found it correct.

(b) Miserliness condemned by Islam: The Quran says: And don't think about those who are miserly with what Allah gave them out of His wealth that it is good for them, but it is bad for them. They will soon be punished with what they are miserly with on the Resurrection Day. The Holy Prophet said: There are two traits of character which do not unite in a believer—miserliness and bad conduct (1 : 48). The miser shall not enter Paradise (8 : 37). Behold! you are those who are called upon to spend in Allah's way, but among you are those who are niggardly, and whoever is niggardly is niggardly against his own soul - 47 : 38 Q.

Prophet said: Fear niggardliness, because it destroyed those who were before you. It led them to the extent that they shed their bloods and knew unlawful things as lawful-4 : 14. The first evil act of the Muslims will be miserliness - 4 : 147 w. The Holy Prophet enquired: Shall I not inform you about inmates of Hell—every ignoble miserly proud man -4 : 227. The worst of what is in man is extreme miserliness and extreme cowardice—4 : 251.

(c) Midicine to remove miserliness: The diognosis of the disease of miserliness is love for wealth which again springs from two causes —greed for wordly things and greed for the corpus of the property itself. Therefore if these things can be destroyed by a mixtured medicine of knowledge and action, the disease may be cured. Knowledge consists in the fact that one must know the evil effects of miserliness and merits of charity. Action consists in spending wealth in the way of Allah. The mixture of these two things will remove the disease. The miserly man should ponder over the fact that the treasures of the world are in the control of Allah. If He pleases, He may turn all earth into mines of gold and silver thereby enriching the owner of the earth. The Quran says: Say, if you control the treasures of the mercy of my Lord, then you would withhold (them) from fear of spending, and man is niggardly (17 : 100Q).

The recollection of punishment for miserliness goes a great way towards removing this bad attribute. The Quran says : Those who are niggardly, and teach people to be niggardly, and hide what Allah has given them out of His grace, We have prepared for the unbelievers a painful chastisement (4 : 37 Q). And as for him who is niggardly and considers himself free from want (of Allah) and rejects the best, We will faciliate for him the difficult end, and his wealth will not avail him when he perishes—92: 8-11 Q.

(d) Prophet free from greed of wealth and his dislike for hoarding—8 : 24, 44, 253w, 254w 355w ; sin of debt is great—8 : 24 ; parables of the miser and charitable men—8 : 29, 256w ; enormous wealth in latter days—8 : 31 ; best charity—8 : 32 ; charitable man is near Allah, Paradise and men, while the miserly man is far off from them—8 : 34 ; charity at death—8 : 35 ; diplomat and hard hearted shall not enter Paradise—8 : 37 ; among prophet's wives, Jainab died first after prophet—8 : 39 ; charity to committers of crimes is lawful—8 : 40 ; limit to charity—8 : 41 ; worst man is one who refuses charity when begged—8 : 252w.

24. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Had there been gold for me like the mount of Uhud, it would have pleased me that three nights should not pass over me with something with me therefrom except what I should keep in wait for debt. [650]. Bukhari

عَنْ اَبِيْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَوْكَانَ لِيْ مِثْلُ اُحُدٍ ذَهَبًا لَسَرَّنِيْ اَنْ لَّا يَمُرَّ عَلَيَّ ثَلٰثُ لَيَالٍ وَعِنْدِيْ مِنْهُ شَيْءٌ اِلَّا اَرْصَدَهُ لِدَيْنٍ * (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

25. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said: There is no day wherein a servant gets up at morning but two angels do not come down. One of them says : O Allah ! give the liberal man success. Another says : O Allah ! give the miser destruction. Agreed.

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَا مِنْ يَوْمٍ يُصْبِحُ الْعِبَادُ فِيْهِ اِلَّا مَلَكَانِ يَنْزِلَانِ فَيَقُوْلُ اَحَدُهُمَا اَللّٰهُمَّ اَعْطِ مُنْفِقًا خَلَفًا وَيَقُوْلُ الْاٰخَرُ اَللّٰهُمَّ اَعْطِ مُمْسِكًا تَلَفًا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

26. Asma'a reported that the Ms. of Allah said : Spend and don't count lest Allah counts for you, and don't

عَنْ اَسْمَاءَ قَالَتْ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَنْفِقِيْ وَلَا تُحْصِيْ

650. Debt is a more important duty than charity. Charity should not be given by a debtor who is willing to pay his debt. The Holy Prophet said that he would have given mountain-load of gold in charity if it would have come to his possession except something sufficient for payment of debt.

hoard up lest Allah withhold from you[651]. Spend what you can. Agreed.

27. Abu Hurairah reported that the Ms. of Allah said: The Almighty Allah says: O son of Adam! spend, you will then be spent for.[652] Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّعَمْ قَالَ اللّٰهُ تَعَالٰى اَنْفِقْ يَا ابْنَ آدَمَ اُنْفِقْ عَلَيْكَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

28. Abu Omamah reported that the Ms. of Allah said: O son of Adam! that you spend wealth is good for you and that you withhold it is bad for you, and you should not be backbited for miserliness. And begin with those who are in your family. Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِي اُمَامَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَا ابْنَ اٰدَمَ اِنَّ تَبْذُلَ الْفَضْلَ خَيْرٌ لَّكَ وَاِنْ تُمْسِكْهُ شَرٌّ لَّكَ وَلَا تُلَامُ عَلٰى كَفَافٍ وَابْدَءْ بِمَنْ تَعُولُ (مُسْلِمٌ)

29. Abu Hurairah reported that the Ms. of Allah said: The likeness of the miser and the charitable man is like the likeness of two men upon whom there are two helmets of iron which their hands tied

عَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَثَلُ الْبَخِيلِ وَالْمُتَصَدِّقِ كَمَثَلِ رَجُلَيْنِ عَلَيْهِمَا جُنَّتَانِ مِنْ حَدِيدٍ قَدِ اضْطُرَّتْ اَيْدِيهِمَا اِلٰى ثُدِيِّهِمَا

651. If you keep strict account of your charity, Allāh will also keep strict account of His gifts and wealth on you. This principle applies everywhere. Suppose a rich father gave his son some coins of silver and then asked for one of them. He did not return it fearing that it would fall short of purchasing sweets. His father laughed and said: How foolish is the boy! He does not understand where the money comes from. Had he returned it to him, he could have given him more, because a father, when thus pleased with his son, gives more. The case is true also in case of the Almighty Father in case of gifts to men.

652. You will be given wealth and rewards from the treasures of Allah in case you give away in charity, because a cistern which is vacated is usually filled up and that which remains filled up without consumption is not at all filled up. The Quran says: And whatever thing you spend, it will be given in exchange.

653. First of all, every man should provide the necessaries of the family members and then there is the question of charity in case of surplus. In such a case, gift to family members will bring greater rewards than gifts to the strangers.

31. Haresah-b-Wahab reported that the Ms. of Allah said: Give alms because there shall come a time over you in which a man will roam with his alms but will find no body fit to accept it. The man will say: Had you brought it yesterday, I could have accepted it. As for to-day, I have got no need of it.

Agreed.

41. Abu Hurairah reported from the Holy prophet who said : While a man was in a field of earth, he heard a voice in a cloud : Give water to the garden of so and so, then that cloud drew to a side and showered its water on a stony plain. Suddenly a drain from these drains flowed down that water, the entire of it, and then he began to follow the water, when lo ! he found a man standing in his garden changing the course of water with his instrument. He asked him : O Abdullah ! what is your name ? He said : So and so a name which he heard in the cloud. He asked him : O Abdullah ! why do you ask me my name ? He replied : Verily I heard a voice in cloud from which this water came saying : Give water to the garden of so and so of your name. What then will you do in it ? He said : When you utter this, I am certainly looking for what comes out therefrom so that I may give away its $\frac{1}{3}$rd, and I and my family may eat $\frac{1}{3}$rd, and return its $\frac{1}{3}$rd to it.

Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّعَمْ قَالَ بَيْنَا رَجُلٌ بِفَلَاةٍ مِّنَ الْاَرْضِ فَسَمِعَ صَوْتًا فِي سَحَابَةٍ اسْقِ حَدِيقَةَ فُلَانٍ فَتَنَحَّى ذٰلِكَ السَّحَابُ فَاَفْرَغَ مَاءَهُ فِي حَرَّةٍ فَاِذَا شَرْجَةٌ مِّنْ تِلْكَ الشِّرَاجِ قَدِ اسْتَوْعَبَتْ ذٰلِكَ الْمَاءَ كُلَّهُ فَتَتَبَّعَ الْمَاءَ فَاِذَا رَجُلٌ قَائِمٌ فِي حَدِيقَتِهِ يُحَوِّلُ الْمَاءَ بِمِسْحَاتِهِ فَقَالَ لَهُ يَا عَبْدَ اللّٰهِ مَا اسْمُكَ قَالَ فُلَانٌ بِالْاِسْمِ الَّذِي سَمِعَ فِي السَّحَابَةِ فَقَالَ لَهُ يَا عَبْدَ اللّٰهِ لِمَ تَسْاَلُنِي عَنِ اسْمِي فَقَالَ اِنِّي سَمِعْتُ صَوْتًا فِي السَّحَابِ الَّذِي هٰذَا مَاؤُهُ يَقُولُ اسْقِ حَدِيقَةَ فُلَانٍ لِاسْمِكَ فَمَا تَصْنَعُ فِيهَا قَالَ اَمَّا اِذَا قُلْتَ هٰذَا فَاِنِّي اَنْظُرُ اِلٰى مَا يَخْرُجُ مِنْهَا فَاَتَصَدَّقُ بِثُلُثِهِ وَ اٰكُلُ اَنَا وَ عِيَالِي ثُلُثًا وَ اَرُدُّ فِيهَا ثُلُثَهُ (مُسْلِمٌ)

656. This shows that charity should be given without any discrimination and for lawful purpose so far as it is within one's knowledge As Allah sends rain without any discrimination for benefit of all classes of men beasts, animals etc., the generous man should not likewise have any distinction in charity. Need is the principle of charity and not distinction.

42. Abu Hurairah reported that he heard the Holy prophet say: Verily there were three (persons) of the Israilites—leprous, bald-headed and blind. Allah intended to examine them. So He sent to them an angel. He came to the leprous man and said: What thing is dearest to you? He said: Beautiful colour and beautiful skin, and that dirt which people dislike of me should go away from me. Then he rubbed him and the dirt vanished from him and a beautiful colour and a good skin were given to him. He asked: What property is dearest to you? He said: Camel (or he said: Cow. Ishaq was doubtful whether he was the leprous man or the bald-headed man. One of the two said—camel, and another said—cow). Then he was given a beautiful she camel. He said: May Allah bless you therein! Then he came to the bald-headed man and said: What thing is dearest to you? He said: Fine hair, and the dirty thing which is disliking to men should go away from me. Then he rubbed him and it went away and he was given fine hair He asked: What property is dearest to you (now)? He said: Cow. Then he was given a pregnant cow He said: May Allah bless you therein! Then he came to the blindman and asked: What thing is dearest to you? He said: It is that Allah should restore my eye-sight to me, so that I might see the people. He then

A slave of Osman reported : Umme Salamah was presented a piece of meat (and the Holy Prophet used to like meat); so she said to the maid : Keep it in the house so that the Holy Prophet may eat it Then she put it in a corner of the house. Then came a bagger and took his stand at the door and said: Give alms, may Allah grant abundance to you ! They said : May Allah grant abundance to you. The beggar went away. Then came the Prophet and said : O Umme Salamah ! have you got with you anything with which I should feed him ? 'Yes,' answered she. She said to the maid, 'Go and bring that meat to the Ms. of Allah. Then she went away, but did not find in the pot but a piece of white stone Then the Prophet said : Verily that is the meat turned into a white stone on account of the fact that you did not give it to the beggar.

657—Zakat (Compulsory Charity-Tax).

(a) Zakat literally means purification. Technically, it means a contribution of a portion of property for the use of the poor and the needy as a sanctification of the reminder of the property. The Zakat was made compulsory on 1st. Ramazan in the second year of the Heigra. "Keep up prayer and pay Zakat" is the constant theme of the Holy Quran. It also says : And those who hoard up gold and silver and do not spend in the way of Allah, give them news of severe chastisement (9 : 34 Q.). This means that if Zakat is paid out of hoarded wealh, there is no fear for the believers (8 : 72). Zakat used to be regularly collected at the time of the Holy Prophet, four rightly-guided Caliphs and some other kings. But it fell into disuse after that period. Original objects have long been discarded, and what was intended as a relief for the poor is now, even in the best regulated governments, carried to the exchequer of the princes.

(b) Problems of the poor and stagnation of wealth solved by Zakat : The present unrest and revolution in the world are chiefly due to economic problems. There is, therefore, clash between capital and labour, money lenders and debtors, landlords and tenants. The trend of economic forces, even in these enlightened days of economic freedom leads to wide cleavage between capital and labour. Then again, the principle of monopoly and large production of commodities of other countries are evils in the history of economic life. In its naked form, it sets man against man, class against class opposing hostile interests and breaking the homogeneity of society. Again, accumulation of wealth in the hands of few capitalists who own machines, living and dead, is also for clashing interests. Therefore the Bolshevic movement of Russia had its birth against these capitalists. What is then the way for distribution of wealth ? Islam best solved the problem by the distribution of Zakat or compulsory distribution of wealth to those who are needy. It does not encourage extreme form of Bolshevic idea as it places all men, active and idle, illiterate and literate, fool and intelligent on an equal footing, nor does it encourage total concentration of wealth in the hands of few capitalists. It strikes a middle line, as the middle line is always the safest. By this Zakat, wealth is made to circulate and pass to those who are empty in hand

(c) Zakat is a state institution : Zakat is a contribution towards national fund for uplit of the nation and other humanitarian works. When the Holy Prophet assumed control of the Government, he made Zakat a state institution; and governors and officers used to collect Zakat and remit it to the Public Treasuries of the state. Hazrat Abu Bakr declared even war against those who refused to pay Zakat. If, however, there is nobody politic to realise Zakat, it must be paid to those as prescribed in the Holy Quran. If the Muslims would have regular and registered organisations in each town and village for collection of zakat and if they would have been managed by a managing committee, much of the problems of the community as a whole would have been solved, and Muslims would have found sufficient funds to combat with the heavy odds against Islam.

(d) Nisab. Zakat is an ordinance of Allah incumbent upon every person who is free, sane, adult and a Muslim provided he is possessed of such income amounting to nisab. The nisab consists of wealth of the value of Rs. 50 approximately, or gold of the value of about £ 2, or 200 dirhams, or $5\frac{1}{3}$ tolas in silver and 20 misqals or $7\frac{1}{2}$ tolas in case of gold. In other words, $\frac{1}{40}$th portion or $2\frac{1}{2}$ p.c. of hoarded wealth of nisab for full one year is payable as Zakat. Nisab is of two kinds—goods of increase and no increase. Objects of increase are of two kinds—real and capable of measurement. Real things are animals that increase by the young ones. Things capable of measurement are things which are gold and silver etc. which do not by themselves increase but by their good use, a profit can be acquird. Things of no increase are buildings and personal effects. Things of increase are subjects of Zakat and things of no increase are exempted from Zakat. Zakat is not due from infants or mad man, mokatib, insolvent debtor ; from the necessaries of life such as dwelling houses, articles of clothing, household furnitures, cattles kept for immediate use or slaves employed as actual servants or armours and weapons and from uncertain property.

(e) No Zakat is due upon fewer than 5 camels, 30 kine or buffaloes, 40 goats or sheep. No Zakat is due upon horses, asses or mules, unless they are articles of commerce. No Zakat is due upon the young of goats, kine or camels which are under one year. In paying Zakat of these animals, substitution of the value of animals payable is lawful. Labouring cattle are exempted from Zakat An accidental destruction of the property induces an exemption from Zakat.

(f) Zakat is due upon all articles of merchandise of whatever description when the value amounts to a nisab either of gold or silver. If a nisab be complete in the beginning of the year and also at the end, Zakat does not drop on account of its having been defective at any time within that period.

(g) Of mines discovered in lands subject to tithe or tribute, it is subject to a zakat of $\frac{1}{5}$th according to Imam Abu Hanifa but not according to Imam Shafeyi. If, however, mines are discovered in one's own house or in private lands, no zakat is payable. Regarding buried treasure, a tithe is due upon it according to to the opinion of all the doctors. No impost is leviable in case of precious stones. This does not strictly fall under Zakat but it is simply a tax as one year has not elapsed after discover.y

(h) Zakat upon fruits of the earth :

Upon everything produced from the ground, there is due a tenth called 'Oshar' whether the soil be watered by the animal, overflow of great rivers, or by periodical rains excepting the articles of wood, bamboos and grass. This 'Ushar' and Zakat were the chief sources of revenue of the 'Baitul-Mal' or State Treasury. Half tithe is due upon the product of lands watered by artficial means. This is practically land-revenue and not strictly Zakat.

658—Persons to whom Zakat is to be paid :

(a) The objects of the disbursment of Zakat are of eight different descriptions (9: 60 Q). The Quran says : Alms are only for (1) the poor, (2) the needy, (3) the officials over them, (4) those whose hearts are made to incline (to truth), (5) the (reansoming of) captives, (6) those in debt, (7) in the way of Allah, (8) and the wayfarer.

Details: (1) Faqir (poor) is he who has got property, the whole of which amounts to somewhat less than a nisab. (2) Misqin (needy) is he who has got no property whatsoever (Hedayah). Some however hold the contrary view. (3) Officials over them means collectors of Zakat. (4) With regard to this class, the law has ceased to operate since the time of the Prophet, because he used to bestow Zakat upon them as a gratuity to prevent them from molesting the Muslims, and also to secure their occasional assistance, but when Allah gave strength to the faith, the occasion of bestowing this gratuity upon them no longer remained. All the doctors and Imams unite in this opinion (see Hedayah). (5) For manumission of slaves, Zakat can he paid. Mokatib is a covenanted slave upon whom Zakat is bestowed in order to enable him to procure his freedom. (6) Debtors entitled to Zakat are persons who do not possess property amounting to a nisab. (7) 'In the way of Allah', means 'jihad' for religion or missionary activities for Islam. (8) Way-farers mean travellers in want. In items 3, 4, 7 and 8, Zakat can be paid to these persons even though they posses property amounting to a nisab at home, because they are in want abroad, and because the Zakat collector works in realisation of Zakat at the loss of his profession.

(b) The following persons cannot lawfully accept Zakat. If it paid to them, the Zakat payer will not be considered free from liability of Zakat. (1) The Tribe of Hashim who was the great grandfather of the Holy Prophet. It consists of 5 persons and their descendants who could not and still their descendants cannot accept Zakat They are :—(i) Hazrat Ali and his descendants ; (ii) Hazrat Ja'far and his descendants ; (iii) Hazrat Aqil and his descendants; (iv) Hazrat Abbas and his descendants ; (v) Hares-b Abdul Muttaleb and his descendants. Their servants and slaves also cannot accept Zakat so long as they are in their service It is unlawful to pay Zakat (1) to polytheists whether they are bound by treaty or not, (2) to servants and slaves, (3) to rich men possesing nisab property, (4) to principal relations upwards such as father, mother, grandfather, grandmother how high soever ; (5) to sons and daughters and the issues high low soever ; (6) to husband and wife according to Imam Abu Hanifa, but lawful in case of other two Imams; (7) for construction of a mosque, for burial purposes and expenses for the deceased. (8) Zakat of one city or village is not transferable to another city or village. It is necessary that the claimants of each city must be supported by that city, and that the duty towards neighbours is thus happily perfomed. There are some exceptions tothis rule ; for instance, if a poor relative lives abroad, Zakat may be sent to him.

45 Abu Abbas reported that the Holy prophet sent Mu'az to Yemen saying : Certainly you will come across a people, the people of the book. Call them to bear witness that there is no God but Allah and that Muhammad is the Ms. of Allah. If they submit to that, teach them that verily Allah has made obligatory for them prayer for five times a day and a night. If they submit to that, teach them that verily Allah has made obligatory over them charity (Zakat) which will be taken from the rich among them and will be given to the poor among them. If they then obey that, it will be your duty to take care of their lawful properties; and fear the prayer of the oppressed because between it and Allah there is no screen 659 Agreed.

(iii) The institution of Zakat has been introduced as the only means of saving the poor from dire wants and towards distribution of wealth from those who do not give to those who require.

46. Abu Hurairah reported that the Ms. of Allah said : There is no owner of gold and silver who does not pay their dues therefrom except that the plates of fire will be served for him when the Resurrection Day will come. He will be burnt thereon in the hell-fire ; and his side, fore-head and back will be cauterized therewith. Whenever they will be returned, they will be replaced for him on a day of which the measure will be 50,000 years, till he will be brought for judgment in the midst of men. Then his path will be shown to him either towards paradise or towards the fire. It was questioned : O Prophet of Allah ! (what) about camel ? He said : There is no owner of camels who does not give their dues therefrom (and of their dues, there is their milking on a day they come to drink water) except that when the Resurrection Day will come, he will be thrown upon his face in a spacious plain, as wide as possible. Not a single young one will be missing from them which will not tread upon him with its hoofs, and bite him with its mouths. 660. The substance of the passage is this that the owner of every kind of property will be punished with that property if its Zakat or fixed charity-tax is not paid, or proper use is not made with that thing in the way of Allah and for the cause of Islam. If you possess gold and silver, you will be punished with those coins on the Resurrection Day if their Zakat is not paid. They will be burnt in hell-fire and will be put upon the limbs of the owner for a length of time which will extend to 50,000 years. If you possess camels and you do not give their Zakat or even give people of their milk when you take them to the watery places where people assemble and require milk, you will be treaded upon by them on the Resurrection Day one after the other for 50,000 years. If you possess cattle, sheep and goats, and you do not give the Zakat, they will one after another tread upon you in the next world most mercilessly and knock you down till 50,000 years. If you own horses and do not make proper use of them in the way of Allah, you will get similar punishment from them. There are 3 kinds of horses; (1) one which is engaged against Islam or right cause will be a cause of punishment to the owner ; (2) one which is engaged not against but for Islam, and is not actually engaged for Islam, will be a shield for the owner against punishment ; (3) and as for the one which is engaged in zihads or religions works, the owner will get rewards equal to the number of steps, urines, drinks and grasses it takes, even though the owner is unwilling to give it drink or grass. So it is a food for reflection. What a great stress has been laid on charity by the Prophet and how it was organised !

53. Ali reported that Abbas asked the Prophet about advance payment of his zakat before a year passed. He gave him permission in that.[663]

Abu Daud, Tirmizi, Ibn Majah, Darimi

662. Ibn Jamil was at first a hypocrite and a poor man. But when he became a true Muslim, he became rich owing to the prayer of the Prophet. Under the circumstances, it is nothing but infidelity to deny zakat. Hazrat Abbas was the uncle of the Prophet. Therefore Prophet honoured him and took the dues upon himself. The like of it is with it means an equal amount is also paid for zakat-dues of next year

663. Imam Shafeyi holds that a year must elapse over a thing before its zakat becomes due and binding, but Imam Abu Hanifa says that a year must elapse over the principal thing, and if something is added in the middle of the year to the principal thing, the zakat for the total falls due though one year did not pass over the thing in the middle of the year. This is also the view of Imam Malek.

54. Abu Hurairah reported : When the Holy Prophet was dead and Abu Bakr succeeded him, and those who returned to unbelief from desert Arabs[664] returned to unbelief, Omar-b-al Khattab said to Abu Bakr : How can you fight with the people while the Ms. of Allah said : I have been ordered to fight with the people till they utter : There is no deity but Allah. So whoso utters : There is no deity but Allah, his property and life are under my protection except for its tax, and its account is upon Allah. Abu Bakr said : by Allah, I shall surely fight against him who differentiates between prayer and Zakat, because Zakat is a duty on property. By Allah, if they refuse me to deliver young goats which they used to deliver to the Prophet of Allah, I will fight against them inspite of their refusal. Omar said : By Allah, he was not except that I saw that Allah expanded the chest of Abu Bakr for fighting. Then I recognised that it was the truth.

Agreed.

666—Properties for Zakat

Things on which Zakat can be levied have been noted partly in note 657. The following is the scale of Zakat :—

	Property Numbers	Zakat to be paid
1. Camels	5 to 9	one goat
	10 to 14.....	2 goats
	15 to 19.....	3 „
	20 to 24.....	4 „
	25 to 35.....	5 „ or a young she-camel of one year.
	36 to 45..	one two year old she-camel

665. If Zakat is not regularly paid, it brings no increase in wealth. On the other hand, it goes towards destruction of wealth and properties. The Quran, therefore, says : Allah condemns usury and increases Zakat (2 : 276Q). Bukhari narrated this hadis in his history. Humaidi also narrated it. He said : If Zakat becomes binding on you, and you don't take it out, then the unlawful thing will destroy the lawful thing. Baihaqi narrated it in Shuabul I'man from Ahmad-b-Hanbal.

46 to 60..... one 3 year old she-camel
61 to 75..... one 4 year old she-camel
76 to 90..... two 2 year old she camels
91 to 120.. ... two 3 year old she camels (and after that, one she camel of the age of two years for every 40 camels or one of the age of three years for every fifty camels.)

2. Cattle ... every 30 — 1 yearling, every 40 — 2 yearlings

3. Goats and sheep 40 to 120 — 1 goat or sheep
121 to 200 — 2 goats or two sheep
201 to 300 — 3 goats or 3 sheep and after that, one for each hundred or part of hundred. The principle is that Zakat should be levied at the universal rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ p.c. (4) In modern world, machines employed in industry, mills, and other things of such kind bare the burden of Zakat at the above rate.

57. Abu Sayeed al Khodri reported that the Ms. of Allah said : There is no Zakat in what is less than five 'wasaqs' of dates ; there is no Zakat in what is less than five 'wasaqs' of silver ; and there is no Zakat in what is less than five 'zaods' of camels. [667] Agreed.

667. One 'wasaq' is equivalent to 60 sa'as ; each sa'a being 4 Indian seers. $\frac{1}{10}$ th of this quantity must be given towards Zakat ; and if less, the payment is not binding. This is the view of the three Imams'; but according to Imam Abu Hanifa, $\frac{1}{10}$ th of the gross produce, whether more or less than 5 wasaqs, must be given in Zakat. 5 'wasaqs' are equivalent to 18 mds $35\frac{1}{2}$ seers. Out of 200 dirhams, 5 dirhams are to be given as Zakat If there is less than 200 dirhams (or Rs 50 in our country), Zakat is not binding on him.

59. Anas reported that Abu Bakr wrote this letter to him when he sent him to Bahrain : In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the compassionate, this is the compulsary Zakat which has been made obligatory by the Prophet upon the Muslims, and of which Allah ordered His Prophet. So whoever among the Muslims is demanded of it to its full, let it be cleared off; and whoever is demanded in excess of it, let it not be paid. In every 24 camels or less than that, a goat out of goats is prescribed for every five camel. When they reach 25 to 35, then therein a female young camel of full one year; when they reach 36 to 45, then therein a female young camel of two years; when they reach 46 to 60, then there is in it a female young camel of 3 years. 668. If the horses and slaves are not kept for business, Zakat is not due from them but if they are kept for business, Zakat becomes compulsory on them. This is the view of the three Imams ; but according to Imam Abu Hanifa, if the horses are wild and are found in jungles, Zakat is due from them. This is however not the present rule. According to Fatwa Qazi Khan, Darre Mukhtar and Alamgiri, Zakat is not leviable from these wild horses also.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud

عَنْ عَلِيٍّ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ قَدْ عَفَوْتُ عَنِ الْخَيْلِ وَ الرَّقِيقِ فَهَاتُوا صَدَقَةَ الرِّقَةِ مِنْ كُلِّ أَرْبَعِينَ دِرْهَمًا دِرْهَمٌ وَ لَيْسَ فِي تِسْعِينَ وَ مِائَةٍ شَيْءٌ فَإِذَا بَلَغَتْ مِائَتَيْنِ فَفِيهَا خَمْسَةُ دَرَاهِمَ (التِّرْمِذِي وَ أَبُو دَاوُدَ)

669. There is $\frac{1}{10}$th of the produce to be given as Zakat if the land is watered by natural means such as rain water; but if it is watered by artificial means the tax is $\frac{1}{20}$th of the produce.

670 The meaning of this tradition is that there are three kinds of death or wound or injuries for which there is no criminal offence. If a man dies or is injured by animals, the owner of the animals is not liable; but if the injury is received by him at night, the owner is liable as he should have tied them up at night. Similarly, if a driver is engaged for driving animal and if the driver is injured the owner is liable, as a good driver should have been appointed. Well is exempted means that the owner of the well is exempted from liability in case a man engaged by him works in well and recieves injuries. Similar is the meaning of "Mines are exempted." Rukaj is a hidden treasure found by a man. Zakat of of this kind of property is to be given.

63. Ali reported: Zohair said: I take it from the Prophet who said: Bring ¼th of Oshar; there is one dirham for every 40 dirhams and there is nothing on you till it completes 200 dirhams. So when it comes up to 200 dirhams, there are 5 dirhams therein; and what is in excess is upon that (proportionate) account. And in goats, there is one goat in every forty up to 120; if they increase by one, then up to 200, two she goats (of one year); if they increase, then up to 300, 3 goats of one year; if they increase over 300, then for every one hundred one she goat; if you have no more than 39, there is nothing on you regarding them. And about cows, in every thirty there is one calf of one year, and in every forty, there is one calf of full two years, and there is nothing for the cattle engaged in labour.[671] Abu Daud.

66. Attab-b-Osaid reported that the Prophet said : In Zakat of grapes, they shall be appraised as dates are appraised and then their Zakat shall be paid after being dried up, as Zakat of fresh dates are paid after being dried up. Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَتَّابِ بْنِ اُسَيْدٍ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ فِي زَكٰوةِ الْكَرْمِ اِنَّهَا تُخْرَصُ كَمَا تُخْرَصُ النَّخْلُ ثُمَّ تُؤَدّٰى زَكٰوتُهُ زَبِيْبًا كَمَا تُؤَدّٰى زَكٰوةُ النَّخْلِ تَمْرًا (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ)

67. Sahal-b-Abi Hatmah reported that the Prophet used to say : When you appraise dates, take (them) and give up $\frac{1}{3}$rd ; if you do not give up $\frac{1}{3}$rd, then give up $\frac{1}{4}$th.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنْ سَهْلِ بْنِ اَبِيْ حَثْمَةَ حَدَّثَ اَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم كَانَ يَقُوْلُ اِذَا خَرَصْتُمْ فَخُذُوْا وَ دَعُوا الثُّلُثَ فَاِنْ لَّمْ تَدَعُوا الثُّلُثَ فَدَعُوا الرُّبُعَ (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ اَلنَّسَائِيُّ)

68. Ayesha reported that the Holy Prophet sent Abdullah-b-Rawwahah to the Jews to appraise dates on trees when they are fresh before they are eatable. Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ كَانَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَبْعَثُ عَبْدَ اللّٰهِ بْنَ رَوَاحَةَ اِلٰى يَهُوْدَ فَيَخْرُصُ النَّخْلَ حِيْنَ يَطِيْبُ قَبْلَ اَنْ يُّؤْكَلَ مِنْهُ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ)

69. Abu Omar reported that the Ms. of Allah said about (Zakat of) honey : For every ten leather bottles, one bottle.[672] Tirmizi.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فِي الْعَسَلِ فِيْ كُلِّ عَشَرَةِ اَزْقٍّ زِقٌّ (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

70. Jainab, wife of Abdullah reported : The Ms. of Allah addressed us and said : O assembly of women !

عَنْ زَيْنَبَ اِمْرَاَةِ عَبْدِاللّٰهِ قَالَتْ خَطَبَنَا رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ

672. Iman Shafeyi holds that there is no Zakat upon honey, but Imam Abu Hanifa says otherwise in view of this tradition.

give Zakat although it be from your ornaments, because you will form the majority of the dwellers of hell on the Resurrection Day. [673] Tirmizi.

71. Amr-b-Shuaib reported from his father from his grand father who said that two women came to the Holy Prophet with two bangles of gold in their hands. He asked them : Have you paid its Zakat? 'No', replied they. The Holy Prophet then asked them : Do you both like that Allah will dress you with bangles out of the bangles of the fire ? 'No', replied they. He said : Then pay its Zakat. Tirmizi.

72. Umme-Salamah reported : I used to put on 'wazh' of gold. So I enquired : O Ms. of Allah ! is it a hoarded treasure? [674] He said : What has reached us is that its Zakat should be paid. Its Zakat was paid and so it is not a hoarded treasure.

74. Rabiah-b-Abi Abdur Rahman reported from more than one that

عَنْ رَبِيعَةَ بْنِ أَبِي عَبْدِ الرَّحْمٰنِ عَنْ

673 Imams Malek and Ahmad hold that Zakat is binding upon ornaments which are unlawful for use, and it is not to be levied from ornaments lawful for use. Imams Abu Hanifa and Shafeyi stand on the tradition upon a general order of payment of Zakat on ornaments.

674. This refers to the Quranic verse—"Those who hoard up gold and silver, and donot spend in the way of Allah, give them news of severe chastisement—9 : 34Q. If Zakat is paid out of hoarded treasure, it is no longer considered as hoarded.

674a. Imam Shafeyi said that wasq as used here means a number that does not reach nisab.

675—Charity of Fitr

(a) Sadka Fitr means alms bestowed upon the poor on the occassion of I'd festival after the month of Ramazan. It is imcumbent upon every Muslim possessing of property to the amount of a nisab clear of incumbrance. Imam Shafeyi, however, maintained that it is incumbent upon every person who possesses property to the value of about one days subsistance of himself and his family. It is, however, not held to be consistent with the true precept of the Holy Prophet. It is Farz upon all mankind of both sexes to pay I'd-charity and also on behalf of their infant children and servants and slaves. It is not Farz upon a man to pay these charity on behalf of wife or adult members of the family including sons and daughters, but it is quite lawful as optional benovolence. Fitr was made binding in the second year of the Heigra.

(b) Proportion of I'd charity, and the articles in which it may be discharged. The measure of I'd charity in wheat, flower, bran and dried friuts is half Sa'a; and in dates or barley, one Sa'a (8: 80). Imam Shafeyi holds that the measure in all the above articles is one Sa'a (8: 76). But in all cases, value of the measure must be ascertained to give laxity to the above rule. In some country, it can be given in staple food crops such as rice or bread. It is also lawful to pay the equivalent price, because price satisfies the various wants of the poor and the needy. One Sa'a is equivalant to 112 ounces, nearly 3 to 4 seers. In India, it generelly comes to between 3 as. to 4 as. per head. Like Zakat, Fitr Charity was an organised institution, but it fell afterwards into disuse.

(c) Time of commencement of the obligation of I'd charity and its end. It commences with the early dawn of the I'd day, and ends before the I'd prayer commences. It may, however, be paid after prayer or any subsequent day provided the persons to whom it would be paid be kept ascertained in mind. If any son or daughter is born to the family before the early dawn, Fitr becomes compulsory on the guardians to be paid on behalf of the newly born child. Imam Shafeyi maintains that it commences with the sun-set of the last day of Ramazan. It is mustahab (laudable) to pay I'd charity befor one proceeds to the I'd place for the festival prayer. This is with this view that this charity might relieve the wants of the poor and thereby enable them to enjoy the festival. It may be paid on the previous day of the festival.

75. Ibn Omar reported that the Ms. of Allah made obligatory the charity of 'Fitr'—one sa'a of dates or one sa'a of wheat upon the slave and the free, male and female, young and old from among the Muslims. He directed its payment before the people go out for the prayer. Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ فَرَضَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ زَكٰوةَ الْفِطْرِ صَاعًا مِّنْ تَمْرٍ اَوْ صَاعًا مِّنْ شَعِيْرٍ عَلَى الْعَبْدِ وَالْحُرِّ وَالذَّكَرِ وَالْاُنْثٰى وَالصَّغِيْرِ وَالْكَبِيْرِ مِنَ الْمُسْلِمِيْنَ وَاَمَرَ بِهَا اَنْ تُؤَدّٰى قَبْلَ خُرُوْجِ النَّاسِ اِلَى الصَّلٰوةِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

76. Abu Sayed al-Khodri reported: We used to levy charity of Fitr —one sa'a from food-crops or one sa'a from wheat, or one sa'a from dates, or one sa'a from 'cheese', or one sa'a from raisins. Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِيْ سَعِيْدِنِ الْخُدْرِيِّ قَالَ كُنَّا نُخْرِجُ زَكٰوةَ الْفِطْرِ صَاعًا مِنْ طَعَامٍ اَوْ صَاعًا مِّنْ شَعِيْرٍ اَوْ صَاعًا مِّنْ تَمْرٍ اَوْ صَاعًا مِنْ اَقِطٍ اَوْ صَاعًا مِّنْ زَبِيْبٍ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

77. Ibn Abbas reported that he said in the last of Ramazan : Take out alms of your fast. The Ms. of Allah made this charity compulsory : One sa'a from dates, or barley or half a sa'a from flour upon every free man or slave, male or female, young or old. Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ فِيْ اٰخِرِ رَمَضَانَ اَخْرِجُوْا صَدَقَةَ صَوْمِكُمْ فَرَضَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ هٰذِهِ الصَّدَقَةَ صَاعًا مِّنْ تَمْرٍ اَوْ شَعِيْرٍ اَوْ نِصْفَ صَاعٍ مِّنْ قَمْحٍ عَلٰى كُلِّ حُرٍّ اَوْ مَمْلُوْكٍ ذَكَرٍ اَوْ اُنْثٰى صَغِيْرٍ اَوْ كَبِيْرٍ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ وَالنَّسَائِيُّ)

78. Same reported that the Ms of Allah made charity of Fitr compulsory as a purification of fast from vile discourse and vain talks and as food to the poor. Abu Daud.

عَنْهُ قَالَ فَرَضَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ زَكٰوةَ الْفِطْرِ طُهْرَةً لِّلصِّيَامِ مِنَ اللَّغْوِ وَالرَّفَثِ وَطُعْمَةً لِّلْمَسَاكِيْنِ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ)

79. Amr-b-Shu'aib reported from his father from his grandfather who said that the Prophet sent a proclaimer in the lanes of

عَنْ عَمْرِو بْنِ شُعَيْبٍ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ عَنْ جَدِّهٖ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بَعَثَ مُنَادِيًا فِيْ

فَجَاجِ مَكَّةَ اَلَا اِنَّ صَدَقَةَ الْفِطْرِ وَاجِبَةٌ عَلَى كُلِّ مُسْلِمٍ ذَكَرٍ اَوْ اُنْثٰى حُرٍّ اَوْ عَبْدٍ صَغِيْرٍ اَوْ كَبِيْرٍ مُدَّانِ مِنْ قَمْحٍ اَوْ سِوَاهُ اَوْ صَاعٌ مِّنْ طَعَامٍ (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

80. Abdullah-b-Sa'labah (or Sa'labah-b-Abdullah) reported from his father that the Ms. of Allah said: One sa'a from barley or wheat from every two—young or old, free man or slave, male or female. As for your wealthy man, Allah will purify him; and as for your poor man, Allah will return to him more than what He gave him. Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ بْنِ ثَعْلَبَةَ اَوْ ثَعْلَبَةَ بْنِ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ صَاعٌ مِنْ بُرٍّ اَوْ قَمْحٍ عَنْ كُلِّ اثْنَيْنِ صَغِيْرٍ اَوْ كَبِيْرٍ حُرٍّ اَوْ عَبْدٍ ذَكَرٍ اَوْ اُنْثٰى اَمَّا غَنِيُّكُمْ فَيُزَكِّيْهِ اللّٰهُ وَ اَمَّا فَقِيْرُكُمْ فَيَرُدُّ عَلَيْهِ اَكْثَرَ مِمَّا اَعْطَاهُ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ)

Persons entitled to Zakat

The persons who are entitled to receive Zakat have been written in previous note No. 658. For fear of repetition, it has been omitted here.

81. Anas reported that the Holy Prophet passed by a date on the way and said: Had I not had feared that it belonged to Zakat,

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ مَرَّ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بِتَمْرَةٍ فِي الطَّرِيْقِ فَقَالَ لَوْلَا اَنِّيْ اَخَافُ

676. It appears from this that out of principal food-crops of each country, Fitr charity can be given. It is not confined within barley, wheat and other things. Too literal meaning of religious doctrines makes a religion dead, and there remains no enthusiasm for it. This is also the case with Islam. The spirit of its doctrines has been given a go-by. The true object of Fitr charity is to help the poor and the needy, so that they may join in the festival with the rich in equal spirit. If it is rendered by the gift of rice, pice or any other thing equal to the quantity prescribed, it will be sufficient.

I would have devoured it.[677] Agreed.

أَنْ تَكُونَ مِنَ الصَّدَقَةِ لَأَكَلْتُهَا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

82. Abu Hurairah reported that Hasan-b-Ali took a date out of the dates of Zakat and put it in his mouth. To throw it off, the Prophet, said : Vomit, vomit,' He said : Do you not know that we do not devour Zakat ?[678] Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ أَخَذَ الْحَسَنُ ابْنُ عَلِيٍّ تَمْرَةً مِنْ تَمْرِ الصَّدَقَةِ فَجَعَلَهَا فِي فِيهِ فَقَالَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ كِخْ كِخْ لِيَطْرَحَهَا ثُمَّ قَالَ أَمَا شَعَرْتَ أَنَّا لَا نَأْكُلُ الصَّدَقَةَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

83. Abdul-Mottalib-b-Rabiah reported that the Ms. of Allah said : Surely these Zakats—they are indeed the impurities of men, and they are not lawful for Muhammad, nor for the family of Muhammad. Muslim.

عَنْ عَبْدِ الْمُطَّلِبِ بْنِ رَبِيعَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِنَّ هٰذِهِ الصَّدَقَاتِ إِنَّمَا هِيَ أَوْسَاخُ النَّاسِ وَإِنَّهَا لَا تَحِلُّ لِمُحَمَّدٍ وَلَا لِآلِ مُحَمَّدٍ (مُسْلِمٌ)

84. Abu Hurairah reported that whenever any food was brought to the Holy Prophet, he used to enquire about it : Is it a present or charity ? If it was said—charity, he would say to his followers : Eat. He did not eat; and if it was said—present, he stroke it with his hand and ate with them. Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذَا أُتِيَ بِطَعَامٍ سَأَلَ عَنْهُ أَهَدِيَّةٌ أَمْ صَدَقَةٌ فَإِنْ قِيلَ صَدَقَةٌ قَالَ لِأَصْحَابِهِ كُلُوا وَلَمْ يَأْكُلْ وَإِنْ قِيلَ هَدِيَّةٌ ضَرَبَ بِيَدِهِ فَأَكَلَ مَعَهُمْ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

85. Ayesha reported that there were three injunctions about Barirah. One of the injunctions was that she was set free and then

677. It appears from this that it was unlawful for the Prophet to enjoy Zakat property, as it is a refuge of property just as dirt is a refuge of man. It is seen that Zakat was not therefore a source of income to the Prophet himself but to the Estate for protection of the poor and defence of state Indeed, Zakat, Oshar and Fai were the main sources of income of the Muslim estate. It is also deduced from this that it is lawful to take a thing of small value if found in the way and if its owner is not easily found.

678. It is evident from this that Zakat was not lawful to the Prophet and his descendants though poor, and that it is the duty of parents and guardians to prevent their wards and sons from doing things opposed to Shariat, such as wearing silk or gold etc.

she chose (to remain with) her husband. The Ms. of Allah said : Mastery is for one who emancipates. The Ms. of Allah entered while the kettle was boiling with meat. Then loaf and lentils from the lentils of the house were brought to him. He said : Have I not seen kettle wherein there was meat? 'Yes' said they 'but that is meat given as Zakat to Barirah, and you cannot eat Zakat. He said : That is Zakat to her but present to us. Agreed.

زَوْجِهَا وَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ الْوَلَاءُ لِمَنْ اَعْتَقَ وَدَخَلَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ وَالْبُرْمَةُ تَفُوْرُ بِلَحْمٍ فَقُرِّبَ اِلَيْهِ خُبْزٌ وَاُدْمٌ مِنْ اُدْمِ الْبَيْتِ فَقَالَ اَلَمْ اَرَ الْبُرْمَةَ فِيْهَا لَحْمٌ قَالُوْا بَلٰى وَلٰكِنْ ذٰلِكَ لَحْمٌ تُصُدِّقَ بِهٖ عَلٰى بَرِيْرَةَ وَاَنْتَ لَا تَاْكُلُ الصَّدَقَةَ قَالَ هُوَ عَلَيْهَا صَدَقَةٌ وَلَنَا هَدِيَّةٌ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

86. Abu Hurairah reported that the Ms. of Allah said : The penniless is not he who turns round men, and whom a morsel or two and a date or two turns back, but the penniless is he who does not find wealth to make him free from want, nor does he disclose so as to invoke charity upon him, nor does he stand up and beg of men.. Agreed

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَيْسَ الْمِسْكِيْنُ الَّذِىْ يَطُوْفُ عَلَى النَّاسِ تَرُدُّهُ اللُّقْمَةُ وَاللُّقْمَتَانِ وَالتَّمْرَةُ وَالتَّمْرَتَانِ وَلٰكِنَّ الْمِسْكِيْنَ الَّذِىْ لَا يَجِدُ غِنًى يُغْنِيْهِ وَلَا يُفْطَنُ بِهٖ فَيُتَصَدَّقُ عَلَيْهِ وَلَا يَقُوْمُ فَيَسْاَلُ النَّاسَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

87. Abu Rafe' reported that the Ms. of Allah sent a man of Banu Makhzum to levy Zakat. He said to Abu Rafe :[679] Come with me ; so that you may get something of it (Zakat). "No" said he, till it (Zakat) was brought to the Prophet. Then he asked him and went to the Prophet and begged of him. He said : Verily

عَنْ اَبِىْ رَافِعٍ اَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بَعَثَ رَجُلًا مِّنْ بَنِىْ مَخْزُوْمٍ عَلَى الصَّدَقَةِ فَقَالَ لِاَبِىْ رَافِعٍ اصْحَبْنِىْ كَيْمَا تُصِيْبَ مِنْهَا فَقَالَ لَا حَتّٰى اٰتِىَ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فَاَسْاَلَهٗ فَانْطَلَقَ اِلَى النَّبِىِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ

679. Abu Rafe' was the freed man of the Holy Prophet who prohibited him from accepting Zakat. It appears from this that it is unlawful even for the slaves of Banu Hashim to accept Zakat though they may be deserving of charity. The same rule governs both the masters and the slaves.

وَسَلَّمَ فَسَأَلَهُ فَقَالَ إِنَّ الصَّدَقَةَ لَا تَحِلُّ لَنَا وَإِنَّ مَوَالِيَ الْقَوْمِ مِنْ أَنْفُسِهِمْ. (التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَأَبُو دَاوُدَ)

Zakat is not lawful for us and verily the freed slaves of a people are from themselves.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud,

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللهِ بْنِ عَمْرٍو قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَا تَحِلُّ الصَّدَقَةُ لِغَنِيٍّ وَلَا لِذِي مِرَّةٍ سَوِيٍّ (التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ أَبُوْدَاوُد وَ الدَّارِمِيُّ وَ أَحْمَدُ وَ النَّسَائِيُّ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ

88. Abdullah-b-Amr reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Zakat is not lawful for the rich, nor for one possessing health and strength. [680]

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Darimi, Ahmad, Nisai and Ibn Majah from Abu Hurairah.

عَنْ عُبَيْدِ اللهِ بْنِ عَدِيِّ بْنِ الْخِيَارِ قَالَ أَخْبَرَنِي رَجُلَانِ أَنَّهُمَا أَتَيَا النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ وَهُوَ فِي حَجَّةِ الْوَدَاعِ وَهُوَ يَقْسِمُ الصَّدَقَةَ فَسَأَلَاهُ مِنْهَا فَرَفَعَ فِينَا النَّظَرَ وَخَفَضَهُ فَرَآنَا جَلْدَيْنِ فَقَالَ إِنْ شِئْتُمَا أَعْطَيْتُكُمَا وَلَا حَظَّ فِيهَا لِغَنِيٍّ وَلَا لِقَوِيٍّ مُكْتَسِبٍ (أَبُو دَاوُدَ وَ النَّسَائِيُّ)

89. Obaidullah-b-Adi-b-Khiyar reported : about two men, that they came to the Prophet while he was in the Farewell Pilgrimage and while he was distributing Zakat. They both begged him therefrom. He raised up his look towards us and then lowered it, and found us robust. So he said: If you like, I shall give you; but there is no share therein for the rich, nor for the able-bodied capable of earning.

Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنْ عَطَاءِ بْنِ يَسَارٍ مُرْسَلًا قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَا تَحِلُّ الصَّدَقَةُ لِغَنِيٍّ إِلَّا لِخَمْسَةٍ لِغَازٍ فِي سَبِيلِ اللهِ أَوْ لِعَامِلٍ عَلَيْهَا أَوْ لِغَارِمٍ أَوْ لِرَجُلٍ اشْتَرَاهَا بِمَالِهِ أَوْ لِرَجُلٍ كَانَ لَهُ جَارٌ مِسْكِينٌ فَتُصُدِّقَ عَلَى

90. Ata'a-b-Yasar reported a defective tradition saying that the Ms. of Allah said : Charity is not lawful for the rich but for five persons (1) for a warrior in the way of Allah, (2) or for its collector,(3) or for a debtor, (4) or for a man who purchased it with his property, (5) or for a man who has got a poor neighbour and so charity is

680. The rich are of three kinds ; (1) those on whom Zakat is Farz or compulsory ; (2) those who cannot receive Zakat, and on whom charity of fast-breaking is binding ; (3) those for whom it is unlawful to beg. It appears from this tradition that it is unlawful for those who are stout and strong and able to earn to receive Zakat. This is the view of Imam Shafeyi ; but Imam Abu Hanifa says that this tradition has been abrogated and that the Holy Prophet used to pay Zakat to poor refugees who were able-bodied.

91. Ziyad b-al-Hares Sodayi reported : I came to the Prophet and took oath of allegiance to him. He narrated a long tradition. Then a man came to him and said : Give me something of Zakat. The Ms. of Allah said to him : Allah was not pleased with the order of the Prophet or of those beside him about charities till He passed order thereabouts. It is that He divided it into eight divisions. If you then come within those divisions, I shall give you. Abu Daud.

92. Zaid-b-Aslam reported that Omar-b-al-Khattab drank milk which pleased him. He asked one who had given him drink: Wherefrom is this milk ? He informed him that he went to a well which he named when lo ! there were camels from the camels of Zakat. They were then drinking water. They took milk from them. I put it in my bag of water and so it is this. Omar then entered his hand (into his throat) and took out the drink (by vomitting).[682]

681. There are five rich men for whom Zakat is lawful. The debtor whose property is not sufficient to liquidate the debt can receive charity. Regarding the rich Gazi, Imam Shafeyi holds that it is lawful to give him Zakat, while Imam Abu Hanifa differs from him on the authority of some traditions.

682. This is by way of too much piety on the part of Hazrat Omar. But to enjoy a gift from third person who receives Zakat is lawful (8 : 85).

683—Irrevocable Charity.

Charity or gift once given can not be revoked. Charity or gift is not valid unless attended with seisin as it is gratutious, neither is alms lawful where it consists of an undivided part of a thing capable of division. Retraction of alms is unlawful, because the object of alms is merit in the sight of Allah and that has been obtained by alms. If alms is bestowed upon a rich man, it cannot be revoked for the same reason. Gifts, however, may be revoked in some cases dealt with under the chapter of gift in note 966. In order to safeguard revocation, the secular law is that none can validly give in charity the whole of his property except to the extent of one-third. The remainder of the property is necessary for the maintenance of his family consisting of wife, children and servants. The Holy Prophet once instructed one of his companions to make such kind of charity (see Hedayah).

93. Omar-b-Khattab reported : I let out a horse for riding in the way of Allah, but then he reduced that which was with him lean and thin. I intended to purchase it and thought that he would sell it with cheap price. I then asked the Prophet who said: Don't buy it and don't take back your charity, even though he gives you a dirham in exchange, because he who takes back his charity is like a dog who takes back his vomitted thing. In another narration: Don't take back your charity, because he who takes back his charity is like one who takes back his vomitted thing.[684]

Agreed.

عَنْ عُمَرَ بْنِ خَطَّابٍ قَالَ حَمَلْتُ عَلَى فَرَسٍ فِي سَبِيلِ اللّٰهِ فَاَضَاعَهُ الَّذِي كَانَ عِنْدَهُ فَاَرَدْتُ اَنْ اَشْتَرِيَهُ وَظَنَنْتُ اَنَّهُ يَبِيعُهُ بِرُخْصٍ فَسَاَلْتُ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فَقَالَ لَا تَشْتَرِهِ وَلَا تَعُدْ فِي صَدَقَتِكَ وَاِنْ اَعْطَاكَهُ بِدِرْهَمٍ فَاِنَّ الْعَائِدَ فِي صَدَقَتِهِ كَالْكَلْبِ يَعُودُ فِي قَيْئِهِ وَفِي رِوَايَةٍ لَا تَعُدْ فِي صَدَقَتِكَ فَاِنَّ الْعَائِدَ فِي صَدَقَتِهِ كَالْعَائِدِ فِي قَيْئِهِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

684. Some say on the basis of this tradition that even to buy a gifted thing from the donee is unlawful, but the majority of the learned men hold it to be Makruh-Tanjihi (not commendable thing) but not unlawful.

94. Boraidah reported : I was seated near the Prophet when a woman came to him and said : O Ms. of Allah ! I have certainly given a slave-girl to my mother in charity, but she (mother) died. He said : Your reward has become obligatory, and heritage has returned her to you. She said : O Ms. of Allah ! there was fasting of a month due from her. Shall I fast for her ? He said : Fast for her. She said : She did never make pilgrimage. Shall I make pilgrimage for her ? 'Yes', said he, 'make pilgrimage for her'.[685] Muslim.

عَنْ بُرَيْدَةَ قَالَ كُنْتُ جَالِسًا عِنْدَ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذْ أَتَتْهُ امْرَأَةٌ فَقَالَتْ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللهِ إِنِّي تَصَدَّقْتُ عَلَى أُمِّي بِجَارِيَةٍ وَإِنَّهَا مَاتَتْ قَالَ وَجَبَ أَجْرُكِ وَرَدَّهَا عَلَيْكِ الْمِيْرَاثُ قَالَتْ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللهِ إِنَّهُ كَانَ عَلَيْهَا صَوْمُ شَهْرٍ أَفَأَصُوْمُ عَنْهَا قَالَ صُوْمِي عَنْهَا قَالَتْ إِنَّهَا لَمْ تَحُجَّ قَطُّ أَفَأَحُجُّ عَنْهَا قَالَ نَعَمْ حُجِّي عَنْهَا - (مُسْلِمٌ)

686—Zakat Collector

Collectors of Zakat in the Islamic Regime were just like collectors of revenue of the present time. They were paid from the Baitul-Mal or Public Treasury from the item of Zakat. They were, therefore, public servants, and as such commanded public respect. These public servants received nothing from the public as bribe or presents, because by virtue of their position, presents came to them in order to arrest their favour and consequently of remission of Zakat-tax. Zakat payment was complete when the collector was satisfied in his honest demand from the debtor.

95. Jarir-b-Abdullah reported that the Ms. of Allah said: When the Zakat collector comes to you, let him come out from you while he is pleased with you.[687] Muslim.

عَنْ جَرِيْرِ بْنِ عَبْدِ اللهِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صلعم إِذَا أَتَاكُمُ الْمُصَدِّقُ فَلْيَصْدُرْ عَنْكُمْ وَهُوَ عَنْكُمْ رَاضٍ - (مُسْلِمٌ)

685. It is held by majority of learned theologians that a Muslim is not allowed to keep fast for another, but he is allowed to make pilgrimage for another.

687. Pay full dues, so that the collector may return pleased .

96. Abu Humaid-as-Sayidi reported: The Prophet appointed a man of Azd tribe called Ibnul Lutbiyyah as a Zakat-collector. When he returned (to Medina), he said : This is for you (Muslims) and these are presents to me. Then the Holy Prophet delivered sermon, praised Allah and eulogised Him and said : As for what is next, surely I have appointed some men among you in some affairs of which I am a deputy to Allah. One of them comes and says : This is for you and this is a present given to me. Why then does he not sit down in the house of his father or in the house of his mother and then see whether he is given presents or not ? By Him in whose hand there stands my life, nobody will take anything out of it but he will not be brought on the Resurrection Day carrying it on his shoulder. If he had any mule, there will be braying ; if he had a cow for him there will be bellowing for him; or a goat, he will make like voice. Then he raised up his hands, till we saw the whiteness of his two armpits. Then he said : O Allah ! have I communicated ? O Allah ! have I communicated ? [688]

عَنْ اَبِي حُمَيْدِ نِ السَّاعِدِيِّ قَالَ اسْتَعْمَلَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ رَجُلًا مِّنَ الْاَزْدِ يُقَالُ لَهٗ ابْنُ اللُّتْبِيَّةِ عَلَى الصَّدَقَةِ فَلَمَّا قَدِمَ قَالَ هٰذَا لَكُمْ وَهٰذَا اُهْدِيَ لِيْ فَخَطَبَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فَحَمِدَ اللّٰهَ وَاَثْنٰى عَلَيْهِ ثُمَّ قَالَ اَمَّا بَعْدُ فَاِنِّيْ اَسْتَعْمِلُ رِجَالًا مِّنْكُمْ عَلٰى اُمُوْرٍ مِّمَّا وَلَّانِيَ اللّٰهُ فَيَاْتِيْ اَحَدُهُمْ فَيَقُوْلُ هٰذَا لَكُمْ وَهٰذِهٖ هَدِيَّةٌ اُهْدِيَتْ لِيْ فَهَلَّا جَلَسَ فِيْ بَيْتِ اَبِيْهِ اَوْ بَيْتِ اُمِّهٖ فَيَنْظُرَ اَيُهْدٰى لَهٗ اَمْ لَا وَالَّذِيْ نَفْسِيْ بِيَدِهٖ لَا يَاْخُذُ اَحَدٌ مِّنْهُ شَيْئًا اِلَّا جَاءَ بِهٖ يَوْمَ الْقِيٰمَةِ يَحْمِلُهٗ عَلٰى رَقَبَتِهٖ اِنْ كَانَ بَعِيْرًا لَّهٗ رُغَاءٌ اَوْ بَقَرًا لَّهٗ خُوَارٌ اَوْ شَاةً تَيْعَرُ ثُمَّ رَفَعَ يَدَيْهِ حَتّٰى رَاَيْنَا عُفْرَةَ اِبْطَيْهِ ثُمَّ قَالَ اَللّٰهُمَّ هَلْ بَلَّغْتُ اَللّٰهُمَّ هَلْ بَلَّغْتُ ۔ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

97. Jaber-b-Atik reported that the Ms. of Allah said: There will soon come to you small groups (of Zakat-collectors) who will not be liked. When they come to you, welcome them and leave them between them and between what they seek (Zakat). If they are just, they are so for

عَنْ جَابِرِ بْنِ عَتِيْكٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ سَيَاْتِيْكُمْ رَكْبٌ مُّبْغَضُوْنَ فَاِذَا جَاءُوْكُمْ فَرَحِّبُوْا بِهِمْ وَخَلُّوْا بَيْنَهُمْ وَبَيْنَ مَا يَبْتَغُوْنَ فَاِنْ عَدَلُوْا فَلِاَنْفُسِهِمْ وَاِنْ ظَلَمُوْا فَعَلَيْهِمْ

101. Anas reported that the Ms. of Allah said: The collector who levies excess Zakat is like one who denies it. Abu Daud, Tirmizi.

689. "There's no shilly-shallying" means that the collector should not be forced to go to search for the payer when there is the flock of sheep or cattle and that the collector should not put up his camp at a remote place. Collection should be made from door to door by the collectors and the payers should not be forced to come to the head-quarters of the collector for payment.

CHAPTER IX

SECTION I

690—Diseases and Treatment

(a) Medicine is in accordance with God's law: There are some persons who absolutely rely on Allah and do not take any kind of medicine for treatment of their diseases on the following grounds—(1) when there is the fixed time of death, medicines will be of no use; (2) when there are rewards in diseases, cure should not be hastened; (3) when there is expiation of sins in diseases and disasters, their continuation is a blessing. The answer to these grounds are that these conceptions against medicines at thetime of diseases are opposed to God's laws which are nothing but natural laws of the universe. Had the order been against medicine, the Holy Prophet, the greatest of those who rely upon God, would not have taken medicines. The rule is that a natural law must operate and there is no changing of such law (17 : 77Q). Nature is not at all arbitrary. It is cosmos but not chaos. In other words, if a man feels the pangs of hunger, he must take the medicine of food in order to counteract it; if he feels thirsty, he must take the medicine of water. Similarly, if he is bitten by a poisonous snake, something must be taken in order to counteract the effect of poison on system. The Holy Prophet himself cured a snake-bitten man by giving him salt and hot water to drink (9 : 264w). 'Mutawakkel' or one who relies absolutely upon God cannot give up food and drink. It is not also in keeping with the wishes of God. On the contrary, if one believes in the efficacy of God's law, he believes in Allah. If he disbelieves it, he disbelieves in Allah. Allah's power is manifested in the created things. To take fullest advantage of these created things is to recognise Allah's power. There is another ground for taking medicine. Diseases and disasters are injurious things. Therefore, a pious man must remove these injurious things by the counteracting forces of good (i.e. medicines) given by Allah. As heat is removed by cold, and cold by heat, so also forces of good like medicine remove forces of bad. The Holy Prophet used to pray: O Allah! give me good of this world and good of the Next as well. The medicines should also be taken by a 'Mutawakkil' (God-relying man) in order to gain health which is essentially necessary for 'abadat' (divine service).

(b) 'For every disease, there is a medicine' is the message of the H ly Prophet of A-abia. There is, therefore, no incurable disease in the world. What was thought incurable some years back, has become curable by lapse of years in recent times, and what was thought incurable some 500 years ago, became curable sometimes after that. There will come a time when the diseases, now taken as incurable, will prove curable in like manner, thereby proving the truth of the message of the Ms. of Allah.

(c) 'There is no contagious disease' is another message of the Holy Prophet. He means by contagious disease any disease which is caught by touch or air. The Prophet, however, declared that there are some wide-spread and infectious diseases which are known by the general name of Ta'un (cholera, small-pox, plague). These diseases generally spread rapidly, not by touch but on account of the rapid spread of germs in the infected house or locality. In this sense, cholera stands on the same footing with small-pox and other diseases of such virulent type except in the degree of spread of germs. The Holy Prophet prohibited men of the infected places to go out of their localities to other localities and men of the outside localities from coming to the infected localities (3 : 44). This proves that germs of some diseases rapidly spread and are dangerously poisonous like some special poisonous reptiles. If there is any disease which is caught by touch or air, the question remains to be solved—by whose touch did the first man catch the the disease (9 : 64) ? 'Flee away from leprosy' said the Prophet in the above sense (9 : 63) See notes 302 and 252 for causes or wide spread pestilence and epidemics.

(d) Best modes of treatment. Broadly speaking, the best modes of treatment are four—Hizamat, Lodud, Saut and Mash'ye (6 ; 41). Hizamat is cupping. Lodud is a medicine used through mouth ; Saut is a medicine used through nose and Mash'ye is a medicine for purgation of bowels. Cupping has been very much recommended by the Holy Prophet, and he himself took cupping regularly in every month. Cupping is specially useful in cases of rheumatism and headache and other pains of general nature It is also useful in blood-pressure. It is the easiest, cheapest and the most useful method of treatment. If it is regularly taken as prescribed in the Hadis, there would remain no general complaint of the body.

(e) Enchantments and charms. These are unlawful if inconsistent with the Quran and Hadis. In other words, if there is any word in an enchantment which smacks of polytheism or contains names of idols or partners with Allah, it is disallowed. If, however, the verses of the Quran or supplications in some form or other, or names of Allah are recited, they are allowed. Enchantment is specially necessary in case of diseases caused by bad and inauspicious look of men and ginn and in bites of snakes and other poisonous reptiles and animals. Some enchantments have been prescribed in the following traditions :— (9 : 51, 52, 53, 55, 56, 58, 59, 61).

(f) Impure medicines : The following things even for medicinal purposes are unlawful—filth, semen of men, stool, urine etc. (9 : 26) Unlawful animals such as swine and unlawful things such as wine are, however, lawful to be taken when pressed by extreme necessity of saving life. Speaking of unlawful food, the Holy Quran says : Whoever is compelled by hunger not inclining wilfully to sin, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful (5 : 3 Q.)

(g) The Arabs gave a tremendous impetus to the science of medicine. They invented chemical pharmacy and founded dispensaries. They were the first to establish regular hospitals. Abbucasis (Abdul Kalaf-b-Abbas) was not only a physician but a surgeon of the first rank. Avicenna (Ibn Sina) was a great astronomer and physician. His great works are the Canoon and Arjuza, the works of medical knowledge. It is stated that at Bagdad alone, there were 380 medical men. It is to be inferred from this the great number of physicians in the prosperous cities of Cardova, Sevile and Cairo.

(i) Honey is a cure for many diseases. The holy Quran says about honey : There comes from within it a drink of many colours in which there is healing for men—16 : 69 Q. Therefore the thing which has been recommended by the Quran must be taken as useful. Honey has the property of heat. So a man of hot temper should not take it, as in that case there will be further heat in his system. The rule is that one thing is destroyed by its opposite. Heat destroys cold and vice-versa. If a man gets cold and cough he must remain in warm cloth. Similar is the use of honey. The Holy Prophet said that honey, if used thrice in a month in the morning, will save a man from many diseases.

(ii) Black-seed is also a cure for some general diseases—9 : 7. It has the property of making things dry and contracted. Therefore it is specially useful in cases of women just after child-birth, and in cold and cough.

(iii) Costus of sea : It is white substance of sea. It is a panacea for all diseases of general type. It has got the property of dryness like the black-seed. It is specially useful in pleurisy. Olive oil is also useful in case of pleurisy (9 : 22).

(IV) Henna cures some diseases such as wounds, cuts, bruises and other pains, as henna has got soothing and cooling effect. (9 : 26, 28)

(V) Dates: The Holy Prophet said: Whoever takes seven best dates in the morning, neither poison nor insomnia will injure him that day—11 : 48. Dates are antidotes and cure may diseases—11 : 49, 63. They destroy poison.

(VI) Fever is nothing but heat. So the law of opposite will apply. In other words, heat is destroyed by cold. Therefore cold things such as bath has been recommended (9 : 12, 61). Recently doctors advice that water and ice should be used. In special cases of fever such as typhoid fever, nothing is so useful as cold bath from head to foot. This proves the truth of the Holy Prophet's word. In cases of cold, cough, paralysis and other diseases arising out of cold, heat or hot things should be applied:

(h) Operation: Operation is lawful in case of wounds, cuts and other pains or diseases which require operations according to expert men of medical science (9 : 5). The Holy Prophet himself operated some of his companions in cases of bullet or arrow wounds.

(i) Stomach: Stomach is the most important place of body for health. It is, as it were, the fountain of health. If the stomach is healthy, the veins connecting with it carry healthy and pure blood throughout the body; and if the stomach is unsound, the veins carry diseases. Hence special care should be taken of stomach, and clearance of bowels.

(j) Nursing patients. How to nurse and how to get rewards by nursing have been fully discussed in note 219. Complete rest and diet mostly desired by patients should be given. Prayer for the sick should be made and blessing from him be taken, because blessing of a sick man is mostly accepted. Along with the use of medicines, prayer for recovery of the patient shall be sincerely offered as "more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." The following prayer has been recommended: O Lord of men! remove this trouble. O Thou Healer! heal. There is no cure execpt Thy cure, such a cure as will leave no disease (3 : 43). The man who nurses is felicitated by angels from heaven. They say: Happy are you! happy are you!—3 : 50

2 Ja'ber reported that the Messenger of Allah said : For every disease, there is a medicine. So when the medicine is applied to the disease, he becomes cured by permission of Allah. [692]. Muslim.

عن ابن عباس قال قال رسول الله صلى الله عليه و سلم الشفاء في ثلث في شرطة محجم او شربة عسل او كية بنار و انا انهى امتي عن الكي (البخاري)

3 Abn Abbas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Cure is in three things—in the incision of a cupper [693] or in the drink of honey or in the cauterization with fire. And I have forbidden my people from cauterization. Bukhari.

عن جابر قال رمي ابي يوم الاحزاب على اكحله فكواه رسول الله صلعم - (مسلم)

4 Jaber reported that Ubay was struck by an arrow in the battle of the Allies on his arm-vein. The Ms. of Allah cauterized him. Muslim.

world for cure of diseases. It is only our want of knowledge or ignorance in the properties of things or in harmonious proportion of things that we can't apply a particular thing to a particular disease There is no ground to hold that there is no medicine for a particular disease.

692. Two things are necessary for the cure of a disease, medicine and Allah's wish Muslims should entertain an idea that medicines and Allah's wish should combine to bring a cure. To use medicine in case of disease is commendable (Mustahab). If a man dose not use medicine, he is just like one who refuses food if it comes to him at the time of hunger,

693. Cupping is most useful in blood-pressure, rheumatism, head-ache, pain and other diseases, because most of the common diseases spring from defect in blood, want of free circulation of blood or congestion in blood in particular parts of the body. If injurious blood or injurious juice or sweat of the body is taken out by means of cupping, great many diseases are cured But it is to be regretted that this important mode of treatment is out of use in modern times. Honey is admittedly a most potent factor in curing diseases of various kinds. Its property of cure has even been guaranteed by the Holy Quran (16 : 69 Q.) Qai means cauterization. In other words, this is the extraordinary form of treatment when wounds, cuts and bruises are not cured by ordinary means. This takes the place of surgery in modern times.

a scissor with his own hand. Afterwards it got swollen. So he operated it for the second time.[694] Muslim

بمشقص ثم ورمت فحسمه الثانية - (مسلم)

6. Ja'ber reported that he Messenger of Allah sent a physician for Obai-b-Ka'ab. He took out a vein from him (by operation) and then cauterized him over it. Muslim.

عن جابر قال بعث رسول الله صلى الله عليه و سلم الى ابي بن كعب طبيبا فقطع منه عرقا ثم كواه عليه - (مسلم)

7. Abu Hurairah reported that he heard the Messenger of Allah say : There is cure in black seed[695] for every disease except death. Agreed

عن ابي هريرة انه سمع رسول الله صلى الله عليه و سلم يقول في الحبة السوداء شفاء من كل داء الا السام - (متفق عليه)

8. Abu Sayeed al-Khodri reported that a man came to the Holy Prophet and said : Verily my brother has got looseness of bowels. The Messenger of Allah said : Give him honey. So he gave him honey.[696] Afterwards he came and said : I gave him honey but it did not increase but motions. He directed him three times. Then he came for the fourth time. He said : Give him honey to drink. He said : I gave him to drink, but it did not increase but motions. Then the Ms. of Allah said : Allah has spoken the truth and the belly of your brother has proved false. He gave him drink and then he recovered. Agreed.

عن ابي سعيد الخدري قال جاء رجل الى النبي صلى الله عليه و سلم فقال ان اخي استطلق بطنه فقال رسول الله صلعم اسقه عسلا فسقاه ثم جاء فقال سقيته فلم يزده الا استطلاقا فقال له ثلاث مرات ثم جاء الرابعة فقال اسقه عسلا فقال لقد سقيته فلم يزده الا استطلاقا فقال رسول الله صلعم صدق الله و كذب بطن اخيك فسقاه فبرأ (متفق عليه)

694. Surgery and operation in case of wounds and cuts are allowed by this tradition.

695. Black seed called in Bengali 'Kalazira' is taken by women generally after child-birth. It is a general medicine for all diseases, and special medicine for cold and cough and such kind of diseases, because it has the property of making everything dry. The law of opposite will apply-cold is cured by heat and vice-versa. Ibn Shihab explained Sa'am as death and black seed as Shaonij.

696. Looseness of bowels is due to indigestion, and indigestion means too much hard things in belly which are incapable of being used by bowels. Honey takes out the indigested things by purgation and gives digestive power to bowels.

9. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The best of what you treat with is cupping and maritime costus.[697]

Agreed.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اِنَّ اَمْثَلَ مَا تَدَاوَيْتُمْ بِهِ الْحِجَامَةُ وَ الْقُسْطُ الْبَحْرِيُّ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

10. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Give no trouble to your children by introducing hand into their throat for throat diseases, you should take to costus. Agreed.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَا تُعَذِّبُوْا صِبْيَانَكُمْ بِالْغَمْزِ مِنَ الْعُذْرَةِ وَ عَلَيْكُمْ بِالْقُسْطِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

11. Umme-Qais reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Give no trouble to your children with this treatment. You should take to this Indian costus, because therein there are seven cures ; one of them is pleurisy arising out of throat-disease which then gives rise to pleurisy. Agreed.

عَنْ اُمِّ قَيْسٍ قَالَتْ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ عَلَى مَا تَدْغَرْنَ اَوْلَادَكُنَّ بِهٰذَا الْعَلَاقِ عَلَيْكُنَّ بِهٰذَا الْعُوْدِ الْهِنْدِيِّ فَاِنَّ فِيْهِ سَبْعَةَ اَشْفِيَةٍ مِنْهَا ذَاتُ الْجَنْبِ يُسْعَطُ مِنَ الْعُذْرَةِ وَ يُلَدُّ مِنْ ذَاتِ الْجَنْبِ - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

12 Ayesha and Rafe-b-Khadiz reported from the Prophet who said : Fever comes from smoke of hell. So make it cold with water.[698]

Agreed.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ وَرَافِعِ بْنِ خَدِيْجٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ قَالَ الْحُمّٰى مِنْ فَيْحِ جَهَنَّمَ فَاَبْرِدُوْهَا بِالْمَاءِ - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

13. Anas reported that the Prophet permitted enchantment from bad look, snake-bites and small pustules.[699]

Muslim.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ رَخَّصَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ فِى الرُّقْيَةِ مِنَ الْعَيْنِ وَ الْحُمَةِ وَ النَّمْلَةِ (مُسْلِمٌ)

697. Costus of sea : It makes menstrual blood flow, secrets urine, removes poisonous things in system and excites sexual passion. Its drink kills worms of belly Bath with its water is of some use to sleeplessness.

698. As cold is removed by heat in accordance with the law of opposites, so also the heat of fever can be removed by cold water in the form of washing of head and other limbs of the body. Of course, sudden heat and sudden cold may bring injury. Therefore fever can not be suddenly removed but by slow degrees.

699. Enchantment by Quranic verses and with the names of Allah

14. Ayesha reported that the Holy Prophet gave direction that we should use charms from (bad) look.[700] Agreed.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ اَمَرَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَنْ نَسْتَرْقِيَ مِنَ الْعَيْنِ - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

15. Umme Salama reported that the Holy Prophet saw a girl in her house who had yellow-colour meaning jaundice in her face. He said : Seek enchantment for her, because there is surely (bad) look with her. Agreed.

عَنْ اُمِّ سَلَمَةَ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ رَاَى فِيْ بَيْتِهَا جَارِيَةً فِيْ وَجْهِهَا سَفْعَةٌ تَعْنِيْ صُفْرَةً فَقَالَ اسْتَرْقُوْا لَهَا فَاِنَّ بِهَا نَظْرَةً - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

16. Ja'ber reported that the Messenger of Allah prohibited charms. So the family of Amr-b-Hajam came and said : O Ms. of Allah ! he was a charmer to us, healing us therewith from snake-bites, but you prohibited charms. They submitted it to him and then he said : I don't find any fault in it. Whoever among you is capable of doing benefit to his brother, let him do him benefit. Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ نَهَى رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ عَنِ الرُّقٰى فَجَاءَ اٰلُ عَمْرِو بْنِ حَزْمٍ فَقَالُوْا يَا رَسُوْلَ اللهِ اِنَّهٗ كَانَتْ عِنْدَنَا رُقْيَةٌ نَرْقِيْ بِهَا مِنَ الْعَقْرَبِ وَاَنْتَ نَهَيْتَ عَنِ الرُّقٰى فَعَرَضُوْهَا عَلَيْهِ فَقَالَ مَا اَرٰى بِهَا بَاْسًا مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ مِنْكُمْ اَنْ يَنْفَعَ اَخَاهُ فَلْيَنْفَعْهُ - (مُسْلِمٌ)

17. Auf-b-Malek Al-Ash'jayi reported : We used to use charms in the days of Ignorance. So we enquired : O Ms. of Allah ! how do you consider about it ? He replied : Present your charmers to me. There's no harm in charm, so long as there is no polytheism in it.[701] Muslim.

is allowed in all kinds of diseases, but it is more useful in these three cases : (1) diseases which spring f rom evil look of men and ginn, (2) diseases from snake and poisonous animals, and (3) namlah.

700. It is seen how charms are wonderfully useful in snakbites. Even doctors cannot successfully cure such cases with the advanced science of medicine.

701. The best kind of charm that can be made is with the verses of the Quran ; and among the verses, charm by the first chapter 'Fatehah' (1 : 1 Q), the last two chapters, (113, 114 Q), Ayatul Kursi (2 : 255 Q) and those verses which deal with refuge to Allah and those verses and names

18. Ibn Abbas reported from the Holy Prophet who said : (Bad) look is true. Had there been anything which could have preceded pre-measurment, it would have been (bad) look ; and when you want to wash, then wash.[702] Muslim.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ الْعَيْنُ حَقٌّ وَلَوْ كَانَ شَيْءٌ سَابَقَ الْقَدَرَ سَبَقَتْهُ الْعَيْنُ وَ اِذَا اسْتُغْسِلْتُمْ فَاغْسِلُوْا (مُسْلِمٌ)

19. Osamah-b-Sharik reported that they enquired : O Ms. of Allah! shall we not use medicine? 'Yes' replied he,'O servants of Allah, use medicine because surely Allah did not create any disease but for which He has not created cure except one disease —old age, Abu Daud, Tirmizi, Ahmad.

عَنْ اُسَامَةَ بْنِ شَرِيْكٍ قَالَ قَالُوْا يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ اَنَتَدَاوٰى قَالَ نَعَمْ يَا عِبَادَ اللّٰهِ تَدَاوَوْا فَاِنَّ اللّٰهَ لَمْ يَضَعْ دَاءً اِلَّا وَضَعَ لَهٗ شِفَاءً غَيْرَ دَاءٍ وَاحِدٍ الْهَرَمُ - (اَحْمَدُ وَ التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ) of Allah which were recommended by the Prophet in Hadis, is the best. The following verses of the Quran dealing with cures are also the well-known charms for recovery. It is narrated from Sheikh Abdul Qasam Qushairi that his son was seriously ill. Nothing could cure it. One night he dreamed the Prophet who said that the verses dealing with cure in the Quran might heal the disease of his son. He did accordingly and his son was cured. (Mawaheb Laduniah). The verses of cure are six and they are the following in respect of order—9 : 15 ; 10 : 57 ; 16 : 69 ; 17 : 82 ; 26 : 80 ; 41 : 44.

702. It was the practice of the pre-Islamic Arabs that the object of bad look would have been washed with water. Prophet allowed it as lawful.

703. Allah will give him food and drink means as follows Food and drink are necessary for maintenance of the body in normal circumstances when body requires them. In case of health, food and drink should not be taken if they are not wanted by body If they are taken by undue request of another as in a feast, it will be injurious to body. Therefore in illness, when the body does not want food, it should not be admitted to him forcibly because forcible feeding will make him injury. Allah will sustain his body during such unwillingness even without food and drink or with something which will save the purpose of feeding.

25. Abu Darda'a reported that the Ms. of Allah said : Verily Allah sent diseases and medicines and created medicine for every disease So take medicine but do not be treated with unlawful things.[705]

Abu Daud.

عَنْ اَبِي الدَّرْدَاءِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ اَنْزَلَ الدَّاءَ وَ الدَّوَاءَ وَ جَعَلَ لِكُلِّ دَاءٍ دَوَاءً فَتَدَاوَوْا وَلَا تَدَاوَوْا بِحَرَامٍ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ)

704. Shobram is a kind of grass having properties of purgation Some say it is a hew of seed-water boiled with seed and is taken for purgation.

705. Unlawful things are wine, pork and other things. Medicines of these things are unlawful for use.

26. Abu Hurrairah reported that the Ms. of Allah forbade use of impure medicines.[706]

Ahmad, Abu Daud, Tirmizi, Ibn Majah,

706. Impure medicines are those that are uncongenial to nature, such as dungs, wines, semen, filth etc.

707. The most useful medicine of headache is cupping, because cupping purifies the impurities of head and thus helps for circulation of pure blood. It appears from this that 'mehdi-leaves' or henna-leaves are cures for pain in legs ; and henna-leaves have also cooling effect.

31. Ibn Mas'ud reported that the Ms. of Allah talked of the night wherein he was taken to heaven. He did not pass any place of the angels but they did not tell him : Tell your people to get cupping.

36. Juhri reported a defective tradition from the Prophet who said : Whoever gets cupping on Wednesday or Saturday

عَنِ الزُّهْرِيِّ مُرْسَلًا عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم مَنِ احْتَجَمَ يَوْمَ الْأَرْبِعَاءِ أَوْ يَوْمَ السَّبْتِ فَأَصَابَهُ and then gets pain, he must not blame other than himself. Ahmad, Abu Daud.

وضع فلا يلومن الا نفسه - (احمد و ابو داود)

37. Jainab, wife of Abdullah-b-Mas'ud reported that Abdullah found a thread in my neck and said : What is this ? I replied : Thread in which charms have been recited for me.[708] Then he took and cut it and afterwards said : You are wives of Abdullah free from polytheism. I heard the Ms. of Allah say: Verily charms, amulets and witchcraft amount to polytheism. I enquired : Why do you say like this ? My eyes were giving me trouble and I was following a certain Jew. When he recited charms over it, they became cool. Abdullah said : That is surely the work of the devil who was pricking them with his own hand, but when 'charms' were recited, he withheld from it. It would suffice you if you said what the Holy Prophet used to say : O Lord of men ! remove this trouble ; and heal, O Thou Healer. There is no cure except Thy cure, a cure which does not leave any ailment. Abu Daud.

708. This is a charm peculier to pre-Islamic Arabs. In those charms, the names of idols and devils were taken.

709 I shall be one of those who do not care anything or guard themselves from unlawful things, provided I take wine, or hung up amulet or recite poetry. In other words, these things are bad. Tiryaq is a kind of food consisting of meat of snakes and wine. Amulets are not prohibited but amulets of the days of Ignorance have been prohibited. Good poetry also is not prohibited (See note 797.)

712. The Quran says about honey — Therein there is cure for men (16 : 69 Q). Regarding the Quran, there is the verse : It is a guide and a cure for what is in chests (41 : 44 Q). It appears therefore that honey is a medicine for cures of bodily diseases and the Quran is a medicine for cures for diseases of the soul. Indeed the Quran wrought wonderful temporal and spiritual transformation of the Arabs.

there is pressure of blood in me, so call for me a cupper, and choose a youth, and don't choose an old man or a boy. Ibn Omar said : I heard the Messenger of Allah say : Cupping over sleeve is best, and that increases knowledge and increases memory and increases the retentive power of a hafiz. So whoever gets cupping, (take it) on Tuesday in the name of Allah, and avoid cupping on Friday and Saturday and Sunday, and take cupping on Monday and Tuesday and avoid cupping on Wednesday because that is a day on which Jacob was afflicted with disease, and plague or pox does not break out but on Wednesday or Wednesday night.—Ibn Majah.

714. Omens and Superstitious beliefs.

Bad omens and superstitious beliefs are unlawful and were greatly condemned by the Holy Prophet. The pre-Islamic Arabs were a greatly superstitious people, but the Holy Prophet abolished all these beliefs and ideas, and established pure monotheism in the peninsula of Arabia. A people engrossed in grossest idolatry and superstitions were turned suddenly into a band of angels as if by the touch of a magic wand. It is unlawful to take bad omens from the sound of animals and from knockings of doors (9 : 68) and to believe in the existence of ghosts (9 : 66). Belief in bad omen amounts to polytheism (9 : 69). Had there been any bad omen, it would have been in houses, horses and women which are the objects of taste for men. The following are some of the superstitions of the pre-Islamic Arabs that were abolished by the Prophet.

(a) Hamah and Safar explained in note 716.

(b) Belief in noa as cause of rain explained in note 717.

(c) When a pre-Islamic Arab cherished an intention to get an object and was unable to get it, he would not enter into his house by the front door, but enter it by the back door and continue in doing so for a year. There is a reference to this in the Quran : "but righteousness is this that one should guard against evil and go into the houses by their doors." (2 : 189 Q).

(d) When a pre-Islamic Arab desired to make a journey or to take a wife, or to engage in a warfare, or to undertake other important tasks, he used to draw out arrows, on one of which was written "My Lord has commanded me'; on another 'My Lord has forbidden me' while a third arrow was blank. The Quran speaks of such suprestitions : And what was sacrificed on stones set up (for idols) and that you divide by the arrows, that is a transgression (5 : 3 Q).

(e) The pre-Islamic Arabs used to set free certain animals in honour of their idols believing that they would get prosperity by such liberation. The Quran speaks of such practice : Allah has not ordained (the making of) a Bahirah or a Saibah or a Hami (5 : 103 Q). Bahirah is a she-camel having her ear slit. Saibah signifies any beast which having brought forth females at 10 successive births was set at liberty to pasture where she liked and was not used for riding, nor was her milk taken. Wasilah means a she-goat which brought forth twins. Hami is a stallion-camel that was considered unlawful for riding or being used as a beast of burden.

(f) The Arabs had faith in the existence of evil spirits whom they would conjure up in solitary places. To these spirits, they attributed certain kinds of diseases. They said that the Queen Sheba's mother was a ginn and the father of Alexander was a ginn. Those who believed in a life after death would tie a camel at a tomb and starve it to death thinking that the deceased would mount on its back on the Day of Resurrection.

(g) They believed in sooth-sayers and fortune-tellers and had implicit faith in their utterances.

(h) It was a superstitious belief of the Arabs that whenever they would be going out intending a work, they used to take omen by sending birds to fly. If it flew by the right side it was a good omen, if by the left side it was a bad omen.

(i) The Arabs used to attribute particular supernatural powers to their respective idols which were stationed within the Holy Ka'ba. They thought that the Almighty God entrusted the discharge of the various functions of the universe to different gods and goddesses and idols. Therefore they invoked blessings of idols, specially of those that were stationed in the Holy Ka'ba. There were 360 idols within this ancient shrine belonging to different tribes. The Prophet broke these idols to pieces and abolished idolatry attendant with superstitious beliefs from the soil of Arabia within the short period of 22 years and planted in its place the doctrine of pure monotheism. Is it not the mightiest miracle the world ever witnessed up to this day ? *

715. Superstitious belief or omen is disallowed in Islam. If it would have been lawful a good omen would have been lawful, because it cheers up the mind and helps towards the onward progress of actions.

716. No disease is caught by touch, but there are epidemics prevailing widely in a locality. None should go out of the locality in which such diseases are prevalent and none from outside should come within it, (3 : 44). Hamah is the name of an animal or bird. The Pre-Islamic Arabs believed that the soul of a man who was killed by another takes the form of a bird and cries over the grave of the dead man saying "Give me drink, give me drink (of blood). It remained crying for days and nights till the blood of the dead man was avenged by men of his family and tribe. The Prophet abolished this superstitious belief. 'Safar' is also a superstitious belief which the Prophet abolished like the former one. The Pre-Islamic Arabs believed that after the month of Muharrum calamities and disasters befell on men. Some say that they believed that there are worms in belly which bite men and produce jaundice.

717. Noa means setting down of one star and rising of another star. The Pre-Islamic Arabs believed that owing to this change of stars, rain falls down. The Holy Prophet abolished this belief and said that rain is not dependent on change of stars or moon but it is owing to the decree of Lord Therefor the Almighty Allah is to be praised for rain and not stars

718. Ghost is a kind of ginn and devils. The pre-Islamic Arabs believed that these kinds of ginn and devils called ghosts take sometimes form of men and women and lead men astray to wrong path and thus destroy them. The Holy Prophet abolished this superstitious belief of ghosts though, he told, there is existence of ginn.

719. The Holy Prophet abolished the superstitious beliefs in sounds of animals like lizards, crows, brays of ass etc. Evil omen used to be taken also from knockings of doors at night. These beliefs still prevail mostly in India.

SECTION 3.

723. Fore-telling

Foretelling is to tell news of the future. The foretellers claim to possess knowledge of the future, while in fact none knows its knowledge except the Most High. Foretelling is haram (unlawful), and he who goes to a sooth-sayer is also cursed. Both the seeker and the sought are transgressors. The Holy Prophet said that the devils catch words from the discussions of the angels and then inform them to men after mixing thousand lies therewith. In this way, some sayings come out to be true, and in most cases false. Secondly the sooth-sayers used to utter such words as conveyed double meanings. The Quran says : Except him who snatches off but once, then there follows him a brightly shining flame (37 : 10 Q). It is not the word of a poet, nor the word of a sooth-sayer. It is a revelation from the Lord of the worlds (69 : 42 Q.) ; or have they (knowledge of) the unseen, so that they write down (68 : 47 Q) ? He who comes to a fortune-teller and asks any question to him of the future, his prayers for 40 days will not be accepted—9 : 80. Some branch of learning in astrology is sorcery which is unlawful—9 : 268w. In pre-Islamic Arabia, Banu Mariyah-b-Kalb and Banu Murrah-b-Hammam were noted for this branch of learning. The Pre-Isamic Arabs used to consult the sooth sayers in their important businesses, and their position was high in their estimation. For this reason, the Holy Prophet was termed by them a sooth-sayer or a poet. Urwah-b-Huzaim, Toraifah, Zubrah, Fatemah Kharhamiyah and others were noted sooth-sayers.

there are affairs which we used to do in the Days of Ignorance. We used to come to the fore-tellers. He said · Don't come to the fore-tellers. I said : We used to take bad omen. He said : That is a thing which any of you finds within yourself ; so let it not prevent you. I asked : And there are men from us who write letters. He said : There was a prophet (Daniel) from among the Prophets who used to write letters. So whoever agreed with his letter, that was (lawful.) Muslim.

79. Sama reported : I heard the Messenger of Allah say : Verily the angels come down in anan (and that is rain-cloud) and talk of affairs which were decreed in heaven. The devils then steal hearing and hear it and then communicate it to the fore-tellers. They tell hundred lies therewith from themselves. Bukhari.

comes to fortune-tellers, and ask him about something, his prayer is not accepted for forty nights. —Muslim.

81. Zaid-b-Khalid Johani reported that the Prophet prayed with us the morning prayer at Hudaibiyyah upon the shade of cloud which prevailed at night. When it went away, he came to men and said : Do you know what your Lord said ? They said : Allah and His Messenger know best. He said that He : A believer and an unbeliever in Myself among My servants get up at dawn. As for one who says— We have got rain on account of grace of Allah and His mercy— that is a believer in Me and disbeliever in stars. And as for one who says : We have got rain owing to change of such and such orbit, that is an unbeliever in Me and a believer in stars. —Agreed.

82. Abu Hurairah reported from the Messenger of Allah who said : Allah does not send down blessing from heaven except that a party of men turn disbelievers about it. Allah sends down rain, but they say : (It is) owing to such and such star. —Muslim.

85. Abu Hurairah reported that the Prophet said : When Allah decrees an affair in heaven, the angels strike their wings by way of submission to His order as if it is a chain upon a white stone. When dread goes out of their hearts, they say what your Lord did say. They say to him about what Allah has said. He is the Most High, the Almighty. Those who steal hearing hear them, and the stealers of hearing—some of them remain thus above others. (Sufyan describes (their fear) with his hand. He turned them and made openings between his fingers). Then he hears the words and throws them to one below him. Then another throws them to him who is below him till he throws them upon the tongue of a sorcerer or a sooth-sayer. 86. Ibn Abbas reported : A man of the Ansar-companions of the Prophet informed me that while they were sitting one night with the Prophet, a star was shot and it became brightened. Then the Messenger of Allah asked them : What did you say in Days of Ignorance when shot is thrown like this ? They replied : Allah and His Apostle know best. We used to say : In this night, a great man is born and a great man has died. The Prophet said : Surely it is not shot for death of anybody, nor for his birth, but when our Lord whose name is Blessed, decrees an affair, the bearers of the Throne read 'tasbih', and then the dwellers of heaven who are next to them read 'tasbih' (glorification of Allah) till the 'tasbih' reaches the dwellers of the nearest heaven. Then those who are next to the bearers of the Throne ask the bearers of the Throne : What did your Lord say ? They then inform them what He said. Some of the dwellers of heavens seek information from others till it reaches the nearest heaven. Then ginn catch hold of the hearing and throw it to their friends and shot is thrown (at them). What they bring exactly as it is is truth, but they invent lies therein and add.

Dream is quite a mystery to us. It proves that even when a man is dead, he may be punished or given enjoyment according as he acted during his life-time. It is generally seen that when a particular thing captures the mind of a man at a particular time, it is seen in dream in various aspects. Similarly what a man does in his life's span, will appear in his death in the form of joys or punishments. It reminds us also that Resurrection of men is a truth. Just as a man rises from joy or punishment at the time of dream in sleep, he will similarly rise for the Judgment day after punishment or joy in the grave in whatever form it is given. Man feels relief from troubles or horrors of dream as soon as he gets up from sleep. Imagine his horror if he does not rise up from sleep as long as the world remains. Similar will be the punishment just after death until the Resurrection.

Prophecy, along with the prophets, was abolished. At present, there is only correct dream to know the truth of the past, present and future. Correct dreams cannot but emanate from the truthful and pious men. Therefore in majority of cases, pious men's words come out to be true. The devil cannot present itself to pious men. He fears them as he fears the throwing of a gun or arrow from heaven. When a man sees the Holy Prophet in dream, it is correct because the devil cannot take his form. If dream is favourable, it should be disclosed to nobody except to dear ones, and if unfavourable it shall never be disclosed to anybody. If unfavourable things are dreamt, everybody shall turn to another side thrice and seek refuge to Allah. Correct dream is seen mostly in the latter part of the night. There are 3 kinds of dreams—dictation of soul, dictation from Allah and the angels, and dictation from the devil.

89. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: There is nothing remaining of prophet-hood except good news. They enquired : And what are good news ? He said : Good dream.[725] Bukhari.

725. Malek added with a narration of Ata-b-yasar اَوْ یَرَاهَا الرَّجُلُ الْمُسْلِمُ اَوْ تُرٰی لَهٗ (which a Muslim sees and which is shown to him).

وَأَرْبَعِينَ جُزْءٌ مِنَ النُّبُوَّةِ (متفق عليه)

91. Abu Hurairah reported that the Prophet said : Whoever has seen me in dream, he has indeed seen me because the devil cannot take my figure.[728] Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ أَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ مَنْ رَآنِي فِي الْمَنَامِ فَقَدْ رَآنِي فَإِنَّ الشَّيْطَانَ لَا يَتَمَثَّلُ فِي صُورَتِي (متفق عليه)

93. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoever saw me in dream, he will soon see me awake and the devil cannot imitate my form.[729] Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَنْ رَآنِي فِي الْمَنَامِ فَسَيَرَانِي فِي الْيَقَظَةِ وَلَا يَتَمَثَّلُ الشَّيْطَانُ بِي (متفق عليه)

94. Abu Qatadah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Good dream is from Allah, and false dream from the devil. So whenever any of you sees what he likes, he should not disclose it except to him whom he loves, and when he sees what he dislikes, let him seek refuge to Allah from its evil and from the evil of the devil, and let him turn aside thrice. Let him not disclose it to anybody, as it will never injure him.[730] Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي قَتَادَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ الرُّؤْيَا الصَّالِحَةُ مِنَ اللّٰهِ وَالْحُلُمُ مِنَ الشَّيْطَانِ فَإِذَا رَأَى أَحَدُكُمْ مَا يُحِبُّ فَلَا يُحَدِّثْ بِهِ إِلَّا مَنْ يُحِبُّ وَإِذَا رَأَى مَا يَكْرَهُ فَلْيَتَعَوَّذْ بِاللّٰهِ مِنْ شَرِّهَا وَمِنْ شَرِّ الشَّيْطَانِ وَلْيَتْفُلْ ثَلَاثًا وَلَا يُحَدِّثْ بِهَا أَحَدًا فَإِنَّهَا لَنْ تَضُرَّهُ (متفق عليه)

727. This number of 46 is not by actual count but by way of attaching importance to good dream. These numbers will differ in different traditions.

728. The dream at that time is surely correct and not the ravings of a mad man. The devil cannot take the form of the Holy Prophet as the devil is a model for sins and the Prophet a model for virtues which are diametrically opposite to one another. These two opposite things cannot unite together at any time. Similarly the devil scarcely can take form of saints and pious men and present himself in dream of such men. When any pious man appears in dream, that should be taken to be correct.

729. He will see the Prophet when he will be awake on the Resurrection Day.

730. Good dreams should be disclosed to dear ones, but bad dream

95. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When any of you sees dream which is disliking to him, let him turn to his left side thrice, and let him seek refuge to Allah thrice from the devil, and let him turn from his side on which he was before. Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذَا رَأَى أَحَدُكُمُ الرُّؤْيَا يَكْرَهُهَا فَلْيَبْصُقْ عَنْ يَسَارِهِ ثَلَاثًا وَلْيَسْتَعِذْ بِاللّٰهِ مِنَ الشَّيْطَانِ ثَلَاثًا وَلْيَتَحَوَّلْ عَنْ جَنْبِهِ الَّذِي كَانَ عَلَيْهِ (مُسْلِمٌ)

96. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When time (death) will draw near,[781] the dream of the believer will be scarcely false, and the dream of the believer is a part out of the 46 parts of prophet-hood ; and there will remain nothing of prophet hood, because he will not speak false-hood. Muhammad-b-Sirin said : I say that dream is of three kinds : Talk of oneself, threatening of the devil and good news from Allah. Whoever sees a thing which he dislikes he should not disclose it to anybody. Let him get up and pray. He said that he(Prophet) used to dislike extreme thirst in dream, and confinement used to please him. It was said : Confinement is confirmation in religion. Agreed

97. Jaber reported that a man came to the Prophet and said : I have seen in a dream as if my head has been severed. He said : Then the Prophet laughed at this and said : When the devil plays with any of you in his sleep, he should not talk of it to men. Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ جَاءَ رَجُلٌ إِلَى النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فَقَالَ رَأَيْتُ فِي الْمَنَامِ كَأَنَّ رَأْسِي قُطِعَ قَالَ فَضَحِكَ النَّبِيُّ صلعم وَقَالَ إِذَا لَعِبَ الشَّيْطَانُ بِأَحَدِكُمْ فِي مَنَامِهِ فَلَا يُحَدِّثْ بِهِ النَّاسَ (مُسْلِمٌ)

should never be disclosed. They will not be correct as they come from the devil. Good dreams generally come out to be true.

781. When time will draw near means two things (1) when a man is near death, (2) and when the days of the world will draw near. Muslim

98. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : I dreamt in one night what a sleeper sees as if we were at the door of Uqbah-b-Rafe and the fresh dates out of the dates of Ibn Ta'b were brought to us. Then I explained that there is security for us in this world and peace in the next world and that our religion is agreeable. Muslim.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ رَاَيْتُ ذَاتَ لَيْلَةٍ فِيمَا يَرَى النَّائِمُ كَاَنَّا فِيْ دَارِ عُقْبَةَ بْنِ رَافِعٍ فَاُتِيْنَا بِرُطَبٍ مِنْ رُطَبِ ابْنِ طَابٍ فَاَوَّلْتُ اَنَّ الرِّفْعَةَ لَنَا فِي الدُّنْيَا وَالْعَافِيَةَ فِي الْاٰخِرَةِ وَاَنَّ دِيْنَنَا قَدْ طَابَ (مُسْلِمٌ)

99. Abu Musa reported from the Prophet who said : I saw in dream that I am emigrating from Mecca to a land where there are dates. My imagination went that it was towards Yamamah or Hajr when lo ! it was Medina Yasreb. In this dream I saw that I prepared my sword but its middle part was broken, when lo! it was what the believers were afflicted with in the battle of Uhud. Then I prepared another and then it returned better than what it was ; when lo ! it was what Allah brought therewith regarding victory and unity of the believers.[732] Agreed.

the age of 25 years was going to Syria as an agent of the widow Khadija, he met this monk Waraqa who perceived prophet-hood in him from the descriptions given about him in the original Bible and believed him to be a prophet, before the Prophet reached the age of prophet-hood at 40 years of age. This Waraqa went to paradise according to the Prophet, because the previous religion christianity existed good for all before the birth of Islam. This Waraqa translated the Bible in Arabic. He became blind at the end of his life.

CHAPTER X

736. Journey.

(a) Journey. The Quran and Hadis did not leave travels and journeys untouched. They have given an incentive to the Muslims to undertake journey for adding to the store-house of knowledge and experience and to broadcast the divine light that shone in the central horizon of Arabian peninsula, these are some of the verses of the Quran. Have they not travelled in the earth and seen how was the end of those who were before them ? Mightier than these were they in strength and in fortifications in the land, but Allah destroyed them for their sins (40 : 21 Q). Say, Travel in the earth, then see how was the end of the guilty (27 : 69 Q). Say, travel in the earth, then see how was the end of those before. Most of them were polytheists—30 : 42 Q. Say, travel in the earth and see how He began creation and then how Allah creates latter creations—29 : 20 Q.

(b) Two kinds of journey. There are two kinds of journey—journey of body and journey of mind. Mind can journey very swiftly, swifter than all the methods for speedy communication hitherto discovered by scientists. Mind's journey towards the highest goal and concentration of thoughts about Him lead one to salvation. Such is the journey spoken of in the Quran about Abraham. And thus We showed Abraham the secrets of heaven and earth (4 : 76 Q). In the present chapter, we shall deal briefly with the journey of body.

(c) Motive for journey. Motive for journey plays a great part in bringing rewards for journey as actions are judged by motives (1 : 1). If it is undertaken, it is only for either of the two motives —from a religious point of view or from worldly point of view. Acquisition of property or fame is from worldly motive. Acquisition of knowledge, action in order to gain experience from outside world, to appreciate the workmanship of the Almighty, and to carry out divine behests are some of the objects of journey from a religious point of view.

(d) Journey for learning is compulsory or optional according as the learning to be acquired is compulsory or optional. This may be for acquisition of knowledge in religious affairs, for formation of good conduct and true religious life, and for widening the out-look after seeing the wonderful phenomena of nature in diversities of creation of the Most High. Man remains at ease at home and therefore occasion does not arise for his virtues or sins as in a journey. True character is manifested in the hardship and toils of journey, and hence there is a great chance of formation of true character abroad. About phenomena of nature, there are mountains, plains, seas, oceans, rivers, planets and other things which supply food for reflection for those who understand.

(e) Journey for divine service. This kind of journey is undertaken for pilgrimage, Umrah, Jihad, visiting holy places and tombs of the Prophet and his companions and other pious souls, and visiting the living pious men and friends of Allah. The Holy Prophet prohibited to take journey for Ziarat except for praying in three mosques—mosques of Mecca, Medina and Jerusalem.

(f) Journey by way of flight for saving religion. This is called Hijrat or emigration for upkeeping the true faith Islam. The Holy Prophet showed this by fleeing from Mecca to Medina, and some of his companions fled to Abyssinia rather than abjure their religion.

(g) Journey fleeing away from epidemics and violent diseases. The Holy Prophet passed order that people should not go out of the areas infected with epidemics and mortal diseases and they should not come in to this infected areas (3 : 44).

(h) Journey, condemned and praise-worthy. Among the condemned journeys, there are unlawful and abominable journeys. The former applies in the case of a fugitive slave, and the latter is in the case of a man fleeing from infected areas. Among the praise-worthy journeys, there are compulsory and simple lawful journeys. The former is in the case of pilgrimage and search for learning, and the second for acquisition of wealth for maintenance of family-members.

(i) Journey or residence is better. Surely journey is better than the latter. The Almighty Allah exhorts the people to undertake journey for taking lessons from previous historical sites. Besides, the Prophet said that mixing is better than loneliness if mixing is allied with patience and observance of religious duties

(j) There are eleven duties of a traveller.

(1) He must return all rights of the oppressed men and the just dues and debts of others. He shall provide for timely expenses durning his absence from home. He shall return all trusts deposited w th him.

(2) He shall take at least one companion for journey, for there are many occasions when the necessity of a companion is urgently felt, for instance in case of illness. Journey has been spoken of as a sort of punishment, as the traveller has to live often without food, drink and accomodation (10 : 8). The general rule for number of companions is three (10 : 19). None should undertake long journey alone (10 : 268 w). One of them should be made leader, as the leader is the servant of fellow-travellers.

(3) He shall take leave of friends, companions, relatives and family members. He shall ask for their blessing and they should also pray for his safety in journey by saying—May Allah give you provision of piety, may He forgive your sins, and may He turn your face towards God wherever you remain.

(4) He shall say prayer of Istikharah for good journey by reading the first verse of the Quran and chapter Ikhlas.

(5) When he steps out at the door, he should praise Allah by saying—In the name of Allah, I resign to Allah, there is no power and strength except with Allah. O Allah ! I seek refuge to Thee from the troubles of the journey.

(6) He shall start just after sunrise preferably on Thursday because the Holy Prophet used to undertake journey in most cases on Thursday and in the morning (10 : 1, 17, 29).

(7) He shall not desert the company. Each of the party shall, by turn, guard the baggages and other things of the travellers. If any danger is confronted, 'Ayatul Kursi, chapter Ikhlas, and refuging verses should be read.

(8) He shall be kind to conveying animals and give them rest Beating is strictly prohibited (10 : 6, 24).

(9) He shall take six necessary things. The Holy Prophet used to take them always with him in a journey ; these are mirror, eye-paint stick, scissor, tooth-stick or brush, comb and pot.

(10) In returning from journey, he should offer praise of Allah and express thanks to those who took care of him. He shall not stay for more than 3 days in a house as a guest..

(11) After returning home, he shall first go to the mosque and offer two rakats prayer and make delay in going into the house. He should receive the children affectionately (10 : 19) and return generally in the morning or evening (10 : 19). On return, he should give a feast to friends and relatives (10 : 14).

(k) The following four concessions have been granted by Islam to a traveller

(1) In wazu ; rubbing over socks is sufficient for three days and three nights in journey. If water is not easily available, cleanliness by Tayyamamum by earth can be made even in case where bath becomes compulsory.

(2) In obligatory duties ; the compulsory prayers of noon, afternoon, and night can be curtailed by two rakats, and the noon and afternoon prayers, and sun-set and night prayers can be united and performed at a time.

(3) In optional and sunnat prayers ; they can be said, while riding and walking, by signs and gestures if halting injures the progress of journey.

(4) In fasting ; fasting can be broken in actual journey without incurring any sin. It may be performed at other times.

H. with Prophet on one side and the Romans on the other, cause of the fight being the murder of Prophet's ambassador sent to the governor of Syria with an invitation letter for accepting Islam. This was the last battle of the Prophet.

738 There are great difficulties and hardships in journey. There are anxieties of absence from home and from dear and near ones, of helplessness in foreign lands in times of distress and hardships, and of food and drink and sleep which he used to take regularly before he started from home. There is also laxity in religious observances.

عن صخر بن وداعة قال قال رسول الله صلى الله

742. This shows that after journey, feast should be given to dear ones. This was also the practice of the Prophet.

743. This is fore-noon prayer which the Prophet often used to say. This is applicable especially in Arabia where, owing to intense heat, it is impossible to walk at day-time.

Allah said : O Allah, give blessing to my people in their morning (attempts), and whenever he sent any army or battalion, he used to send them at the first part of the day. Sakhr was a merchant and he used to send merchandise at the early part of the day. So he became wealthy and his wealth was enormous. —Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اللّٰهُمَّ بَارِكْ لِاُمَّتِي فِي بُكُورِهَا وَكَانَ إِذَا بَعَثَ سَرِيَّةً أَوْ جَيْشًا بَعَثَهُمْ مِنْ أَوَّلِ النَّهَارِ وَكَانَ صَخْرٌ تَاجِرًا فَكَانَ يَبْعَثُ تِجَارَتَهُ أَوَّلَ النَّهَارِ فَأَثْرَى وَكَثُرَ مَالُهُ ۔
(التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَأَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

18. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : You should take journey at night, because the earth becomes narrow at night. —Abu Daud.

عَنْ أَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم عَلَيْكُمْ بِالدَّلْجَةِ فَإِنَّ الْأَرْضَ تُطْوٰى بِاللَّيْلِ (أَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

19. Amr-b-Shuaib reported from his father from his grand-father that the Messenger of Allah said : One rider is a devil and two riders are two devils, and the three are riders (in journey).[744] —Malek, Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنْ عَمْرِو بْنِ شُعَيْبٍ عَنْ أَبِيْهِ عَنْ جَدِّهِ أَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ الرَّاكِبُ شَيْطَانٌ وَالرَّاكِبَانِ شَيْطَانَانِ وَالثَّلٰثَةُ رَكْبٌ
(مَالِكٌ وَالتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَأَبُوْدَاوُدَ وَالنَّسَائِيُّ)

20. Abu Sayeed al-Khodri reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When there are three in a journey, make one of them a leader.
—Abu Daud.

عَنْ أَبِيْ سَعِيْدِ نِ الْخُدْرِيِّ أَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ إِذَا كَانَ ثَلٰثَةٌ فِيْ سَفَرٍ فَلْيُؤَمِّرُوْا أَحَدَهُمْ (أَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

21. Ibn Abbas reported from the Prophet : The best company is of four, and the best army is of 400 strong,[745] and the best battalion is of 4000 strong, and 12000 soldiers will never be defeated though few (in comparison with enemy).
—Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ خَيْرُ الصَّحَابَةِ أَرْبَعَةٌ وَخَيْرُ السَّرَايَا أَرْبَعُمِائَةٍ وَخَيْرُ الْجُيُوْشِ أَرْبَعَةُ آلَافٍ وَلَنْ يُغْلَبَ اِثْنَا عَشَرَ أَلْفًا مِنْ قِلَّةٍ (التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَأَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

22. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah used to keep behind in a journey that

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَتَخَلَّفُ

744. The rule is that in a journey, there should be three companions. Single journey is bad as, in case of illness and disaster, no help is at hand.

745. This was the principle of the units of the Prophet's soldiers.

he might help the weak and take him on back (of animal) and pray for them. —Abu Daud.

23. Abu Sa'labah Khushani reported: When men landed at a place, they used to become separate in meadows and valleys. So the Messenger of Allah said: Verily your parting in these meadows and valleys—that is surely from the devil. After that, they did not land at a place but some of them certainly clung to others till it was said that if a cloth was spread out for them, it was certainly sufficient for them. —Abu Daud.

24. Abu Hurairah reported from the Prophet who said: Don't take the backs of your beasts as pulpits, because Allah made them subservient to you that they take you to the cities to which you cannot reach except by giving trouble to yourselves, and He made the earth for you. So fulfil your needs (riding) upon them.—Abu Daud.

25. Boraidah reported that the Messenger of Allah was walking when lo! there came to him a man with an ass. He said: O Messenger of Allah! ride. The man made some delay. The Messenger of Allah said: No, you are entitled more to the back of your beast except when you make it over to me. He said: I have made it over to you. Then he rode. —Trimizi, Abu Daud.

فَقَالَ يَا رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ ارْكَبْ وَتَأَخَّرَ الرَّجُلُ فَقَالَ

رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَا أَنْتَ أَحَقُّ بِصَدْرِ دَابَّتِكَ إِلَّا أَنْ

تَجْعَلَهُ لِي قَالَ جَعَلْتُهُ لَكَ فَرَكِبَ

(التِّرْمِذِيُّ وَأَبُو دَاوُد)

26. Sahl-b-Mu'az reported from his father who said : We fought along with the Prophet. People made the houses insufficient and cut off the ways. Then the Prophet of Allah sent a proclaimer to proclaim among men (saying) : Whoever makes a house narrow or cuts off a way, there is no (reward of) jihad for him. —Abu Daud.

عَنْ سَهْلِ بْنِ مُعَاذٍ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ قَالَ غَزَوْنَا مَعَ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ فَضَيَّقَ النَّاسُ الْمَنَازِلَ وَ قَطَعُوا الطَّرِيْقَ فَبَعَثَ نَبِيُّ اللّٰهِ صلعم مُنَادِيًا يُنَادِيْ فِى النَّاسِ اَنَّ مَنْ ضَيَّقَ مَنْزِلاً اَوْ قَطَعَ طَرِيْقًا فَلَا جِهَادَ لَهٗ

عَنْ جَابِرٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ اِنَّ اَحْسَنَ مَا دَخَلَ الرَّجُلُ اَهْلَهٗ اِذَا قَدِمَ مِنْ سَفَرٍ اَوَّلَ اللَّيْلِ (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ)

28. Abu Qatadah reported that whenever the Messenger of Allah was in a journey and passed a night, he used to lay down upon his right hand, and whenever he took rest a little before dawn, he used to fix his fore-arm and place his head upon his palm. —Muslim

عَنْ اَبِىْ قَتَادَةَ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِذَا كَانَ فِيْ سَفَرٍ فَعَرَّسَ بِلَيْلٍ اِضْطَجَعَ عَلٰى يَمِيْنِهٖ وَاِذَا عَرَّسَ قُبَيْلَ الصُّبْحِ نَصَبَ ذِرَاعَهٗ وَ وَضَعَ رَأْسَهٗ عَلٰى كَفِّهٖ

(مُسْلِمٌ)

29. Ibn Abbas reported that the Prophet sent Abdullah-b-Rawahah in an army, and that coincided with the Jumma-day. His companions marched at dawn and he said : I shall keep behind and say prayer with the Messenger of Allah and then I shall reach them. When he prayed with the Messenger of Allah, he saw him and then said : What did prevent you to march at dawn with your companions ? He replied : I wished to say

CHAPTER XI

SECTION I.

746—Manners of eating

(a) Manners of eating. There are three times for observance of these manners: before eating, at the time of eating and after eating. The manners which should be observed at each time according to the Holy Quran and Hadis are given below.

(1) Manners to be observed before eating. (i) Everyone should see beforehand whether the food he is going to take is lawful or unlawful according to Islam. If it is unlawful, it shall not be taken at all, because prayer of a man eating unlawful things is not at all accepted. (ii) Secondly, everybody should wash his hands before going to take food, thereby removing the dirts that might have possibly stuck to his hands in busy pursuits of life. This is good from a hygienic point of view. Blessing of food also depends on washing and cleanliness before and after eating (11 : 18). (iii) Food should be placed on the dining cloth on the ground and not on tables as is now the custom. (iv) Sitting on dining cloth should be according to convenience of the eaters, either cross-legged, or sitting upon one leg, or sitting upon backs of legs, but eating should never be taken leaning against anything or in lying posture. The former does not befit a servant before his Master and the latter is injurious from hygienic point of view (11 : 20, 21). (v) To make niyyat of taking food for enabling the body to do religious duties ordered by Islam and not for simple relish. (vi) To satisfy oneself with ready-made food and not to give trouble to hosts for better diet. (vii) To ask many hands to participate in the food, as blessing lies in the united body (4 : 328).

(2) Manners to be observed at the time of actual eating. (i) The first and foremost duty of a man before eating is to take the name of Allah saying—In the name of Allah, the Most Beneficient and Merciful, because remembrance of Allah in every affair is the key-note of Islam. (11 : 2, 13, 14). (ii) Everyone shall eat with his right hand and not with his left unless on the ground of excuse (11 : 14), and hand should be used in actual eating and not knife or spoon, as the former is the easiest way of digestion and relish (11 : 24). (iii) Eating shall begin with salt for it is the chief of the condiments (11 : 74), and it shall be ended with salt. Salt also saves a man from some calamities. (iv) Short morsels should be taken slowly, and chewing should be made well, as it greatly helps digestion. (v) Food should be taken from one side of dish or plate and not from the middle or any and every direction (11 : 20). (vi) If by chance any morsel falls on dining cloth, it shall be eaten as the devil uses it afterwards. (vii) None should puff breath on hot-food for cooling, or take drink before finishing meal unless pressed by necessity. (viii) At the time of drink, the name of Allah should be taken and the drink should be finished within three breaths (11 : 12).

(3) Manners to be observed after meal. (i) Everybody should stop eating before full satisfaction and with $\frac{1}{3}$rd of the belly empty for sufficient breath, because over-eating makes the bowels weak causing looseness of bowels. (ii) He shall lick his hand and plate before going to wash his hand, because there is blessing therein. This blessing consists in the fact that it causes saliva to come out and it helps digestion (11 : 6, 7). (iii) He shall rub his hand with handkerchief and then wash. (iv) He shall then praise Allah who has given him food and drink by uttering : All praise is due to Allah who has given me food and drink (11 : 15, 11). (v) He may make 'khilal' if necessary, but the remnants of food in teeth, if extracted, should not be swallowed.

(b) Eating in Jama'at or congregation. The following manners should be observed in congregational meal or feast. (i) Nobody shall begin eating till others begin. (2) He shall not hasten in swallowing food, but make conversations with others regarding the lives of pious men or moral and religious matters. (3) He shall not take more food than his other companions. (4) He shall not compell others to take a dish which is not liking to him. (5) He shall not look while eating to the plates of others or to the manner of eating of others. (6) He shall not express any opinion about food or cooking in the assembly (11 : 33).

(c) Manners of serving. (1) Serving shall be made in haste. (2) Fruits should be served first and then meat because the Quran says : And fruits out of which they choose and flesh of birds out of which they desire—51 : 26 Q. Prophet Abraham also entertained guests with meat (51 : 26 Q). The Israilites were given meat from heaven as food. The Holy Prophet said that meat is the chief of foods. (3) Cold drink shall then be taken. (4) After that, sweets should be served. (5) Delicious dish should not be reserved for the last touch of feast. (6) Sufficient quantity shall be placed before guests.

1. Amr-b-Abi Salamah reported I was a boy under the care of the Messenger of Allah, and my hand was unsteady in the cups; so he said to me: Eat with your right hand and eat from what is near you (front side). —Agreed.

عَنْ عَمْرِ بْنِ اَبِي سَلَمَةَ قَالَ كُنْتُ غُلَامًا فِي حَجْرِ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم وَ كَانَتْ يَدِي تَطِيْشُ فِي الصَّفْحَةِ فَقَالَ لِي رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ كُلْ بِيَمِيْنِكَ وَ كُلْ مِمَّا يَلِيْكَ

(مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

2. Huzaifah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Verily the devil makes the food lawful whereupon Allah's name has not been taken. —Muslim

عَنْ حُذَيْفَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِنَّ الشَّيْطٰنَ يَسْتَحِلُّ الطَّعَامَ اَنْ لَا يُذْكَرَ اسْمُ اللّٰهِ عَلَيْهِ (مُسْلِمٌ)

3. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah said: When a man enters his house and then remembers Allah at the time of entering it and taking his food, the devil says: No shelter for you for the night and no supper. And when he enters it and does not remember Allah at the time of entering it, the devil says: You have taken shelter for the night. And when he does not remember Allah at the time of taking food, the devil says: You have taken shelter for the night and also supper.[747] —Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِذَا دَخَلَ الرَّجُلُ بَيْتَهٗ فَذَكَرَ اللّٰهَ عِنْدَ دُخُوْلِهٖ وَ عِنْدَ طَعَامِهٖ قَالَ الشَّيْطٰنُ لَا مَبِيْتَ لَكُمْ وَ لَا عَشَاءَ وَ اِذَا دَخَلَ فَلَمْ يَذْكُرِ اللّٰهَ عِنْدَ دُخُوْلِهٖ قَالَ الشَّيْطٰنُ اَدْرَكْتُمُ الْمَبِيْتَ وَ اِذَا لَمْ يَذْكُرِ اللّٰهَ عِنْدَ طَعَامِهٖ قَالَ اَدْرَكْتُمُ الْمَبِيْتَ وَ الْعَشَاءَ

747. Before going to take food, every Muslim shall take the name of Allah and remember Allah who supplies the needs and provisions of men Had He not allowed seeds or crops to grow, we would have all starved. Therefore food must be taken with—In the name of Allah, the Beneficent and Compassionate. The same principle applies in the sacrifice of animals which supply human needs of sustenance. If name of Allah is not taken in any of these things, they become unlawful. That is why the Muslims do not take meat cooked by the Hindus.

4. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When one of you eats, let him eat with his right hand, and when he drinks, let him drink with his right hand.[748] Muslim.

5. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said : None of you shall ever take food with his left hand nor shall he drink therewith, because the devil eats with his left-hand and drinks therewith. —Muslim.

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَا يَاْكُلَنَّ اَحَدُكُمْ بِشِمَالِهٖ لَا يَشْرَبَنَّ بِهَا فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطَانَ يَاْكُلُ بِشِمَالِهٖ وَيَشْرَبُ بِهَا (مُسْلِمٌ)

6. Ka'ab-b-Malek reported that the Messenger of Allah used to eat with three fingers and to lick his hand before he washed it. —Muslim.

عَنْ كَعْبِ بْنِ مَالِكٍ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَاْكُلُ بِثَلٰثَةِ اَصَابِعَ وَيَلْعَقُ يَدَهٗ قَبْلَ اَنْ يَّمْسَحَهَا (مُسْلِمٌ)

7. Jaber reported that the Prophet used to lick the fingers and the plates and said : You don't know wherein there is blessing. —Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَمَرَ بِلَعْقِ الْاَصَابِعِ وَالصَّحْفَةِ وَقَالَ اِنَّكُمْ لَا تَدْرُوْنَ فِيْ اَيَّتِهَا الْبَرَكَةُ (مُسْلِمٌ)

8. Ibn Abbas reported that the Prophet said : When any of you takes food, he shall not rub his hand till he licks it. —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ اِذَا اَكَلَ اَحَدُكُمْ فَلَا يَمْسَحْ يَدَهٗ حَتّٰى يَلْعَقَهَا (اَوْ يُلْعِقَهَا) (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

9. Jaber reported : I heard the Messenger of Allah say : Surely the devil presents his case to everyone of you at the time of everything, till he presents it at the time of his food. When

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ سَمِعْتُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَقُوْلُ اِنَّ الشَّيْطَانَ يَحْضُرُ اَحَدَكُمْ عِنْدَ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ مِّنْ شَاْنِهٖ حَتّٰى يَحْضُرَهٗ عِنْدَ طَعَامِهٖ فَاِذَا

748. It appears from this that the right-hand only shall be used for taking food and no spoon, because food taken by hand is easily digestible and gives much relish. Those who take food with spoon are deprived of these advantages, and neglect the sunnat of the Holy Prophet.

سَقَطَتْ مِنْ اَحَدِكُمُ اللُّقْمَةُ فَلْيُمِطْ مَا كَانَ بِهَا مِنْ اَذًى ثُمَّ لِيَاْكُلْهَا وَلَا يَدَعْهَا لِلشَّيْطَانِ فَاِذَا فَرَغَ فَلْيَلْعَقْ اَصَابِعَهُ فَاِنَّهُ لَا يَدْرِىْ فِىْ اَىِّ طَعَامِهِ تَكُوْنُ الْبَرَكَةُ (مُسْلِمٌ)

a morsel slips down from any of you, let him throw off what has stuck thereto from dust and then eat it and not leave it for the devil. When he finishes his meal, let him lick his fingers, because he does not know wherein of his food, there is blessing.[749] —Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِىْ جُحَيْفَةَ قَالَ قَالَ النَّبِىُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَا اٰكُلُ مُتَّكِئًا (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

10. Abu Juhaifah reported that the Prophet said : I don't take meal in a leaning state.[750] —Bukhari.

عَنْ اَبِىْ اُمَامَةَ اَنَّ النَّبِىَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ كَانَ اِذَا رُفِعَ مَائِدَتُهٗ قَالَ اَلْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ حَمْدًا كَثِيْرًا طَيِّبًا مُبَارَكًا فِيْهِ غَيْرَ مَكْفِىٍّ وَلَا مُوَدَّعٍ وَلَا مُسْتَغْنًى عَنْهُ رَبَّنَا (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

11. Abu Omamah reported that whenever the meal of the Prophet was raised (after he finished) he used to say: All praise is for Allah—abundant, sincere praise, blessing therein, without being sufficient and without being abandoned and without being free from want of it, O our Lord.[751] —Bukhari.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ تَعَالٰى لَيَرْضٰى عَنِ الْعَبْدِ اَنْ يَّاْكُلَ الْاَكْلَةَ فَيَحْمَدَهٗ عَلَيْهَا اَوْ يَشْرَبَ الشَّرْبَةَ فَيَحْمَدَهٗ عَلَيْهَا (مُسْلِمٌ)

12. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Verily Allah is certainly pleased with a servant who takes food and then praises Him therefor, or takes drink and then praises Him there-for. —Muslim.

749. Food, however insignificant it might be, should not be wasted. If there is slight dust attached to a morsel of food falling suddenly from mouth, it should be taken up after the dust is cast off therefrom, and if it is impossible, it should be given to cats and dogs. The reason is to smash the sense of pride in man and to bring religious meekness in him.

750. To take food in any form of leaning has been discarded. Leaning is of various kinds—leaning against a wall, against a pillow or anything of this kind, resting the back on it, leaning upon one hand and taking food by another. There is truth in it according to medical jurisprudence There are veins in body which should be given free scope at the time of meal. If leaned against, there is obstruction of these veins and therefore some kind of injury follows from it.

751. It means that however great we praise Allah, we shall not think that it is sufficient for Him as He is above sufficient praise. It should not be given up with an idea that Allah has been sufficiently praised and glorified and that there is no further need of His being praised. We should never entertain such idea that we are free from wants of Him Allah alone is free from wants and we, being His creatures, stand in need from the Creator. Allah is rich and we are poor (29 : 6 Q.).

13. Ayesha reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When any of you eats but forgets to remember Allah over his food, let him say : In the name of Allah in its beginning and in its end.

—Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذَا أَكَلَ أَحَدُكُمْ فَنَسِيَ أَنْ يَذْكُرَ اللّٰهَ عَلٰى طَعَامِهٖ فَلْيَقُلْ بِسْمِ اللّٰهِ أَوَّلَهٗ وَ آخِرَهٗ

(اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

14. Omayyah-b-Makhshi reported that a man was eating but he did not take the name (of Allah) till there remained nothing of his food except a morsel. When he raised it up to his mouth he said : In the name of Allah in its first and last. The Prophet then laughed and said : The devil continued to eat with him, but when he remembered the name of Allah he vomitted what was in his belly.

—Abu Daud.

(اَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

15. Abu Sayeed-al-Khodri reported that when the Prophet finished taking his food, he used to say : All praise is for One who fed us and gave us drink and made us Muslims.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ أَبِيْ سَعِيْدِ نِ الْخُدْرِيِّ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم إِذَا فَرَغَ مِنْ طَعَامِهٖ قَالَ اَلْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ الَّذِيْ أَطْعَمَنَا وَ سَقَانَا وَ جَعَلَنَا مُسْلِمِيْنَ

(اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْدَاوُدَ وَ اَبْنُ مَاجَةَ)

16. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The thankful eater is like the patient fasting man.

Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ أَبِيْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَلطَّاعِمُ الشَّاكِرُ كَالصَّائِمِ الصَّابِرِ

(اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَاَبْنُ مَاجَةَ)

17. Abu Ayyub reported that whenever the Prophet took food and drink, he used to say : All praise is for Allah who fed and gave drink and made it to be swallowed easily and made for it an opening.

—Abu Daud.

عَنْ أَبِيْ أَيُّوْبَ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذَا أَكَلَ أَوْ شَرِبَ قَالَ اَلْحَمْدُ لِلّٰهِ الَّذِيْ أَطْعَمَ وَسَقٰى وَسَوَّغَهٗ وَجَعَلَ لَهٗ مَخْرَجًا

(اَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

18. Salman reported : I read in the Torah that the blessing of food is (in) the ablution after it. I mentioned it to the Prophet. The Apostle Allah said : The blessing of food is (in) ablution before it and ablution after it.[752]

Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

عن سلمان قال قرأت في التوراة ان بركة الطعام الوضوء بعده فذكرت للنبي صلى الله عليه وسلم فقال رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم بركة الطعام الوضوء قبله والوضوء بعده (الترمذي وابو داود)

19. Ibn Abbas reported that the Prophet came out of privy. Food was then served before him. They enquired : Shall we not come to you with ablution (water) ? He replied : I have been ordered for ablution when I stand up for prayer.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai, Ibn Majah from Abu Hurairah

عن ابن عباس ان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم خرج من الخلاء فقدم اليه طعام فقالوا الا نأتيك بوضوء قال انما امرت بالوضوء اذا قمت الى الصلوة (الترمذي وابو داود والنسائي وابن ماجة عن ابي هريرة)

20. Ibn Abbas reported that a cup of soup was brought to the Prophet. Then he said : Eat from its sides and don't eat from its middle because blessing comes down in its middle.

Tirmizi, Ibn Majah, and Darimi

In narration of Abu Daud, he said : When any of you eats, he shall not eat from the top most portion of the plate, but he shall take from its lowest portion because blessing descends from its topmost portion.

عن ابن عباس ان النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم انه اتى بقصعة من ثريد فقال كلوا من جوانبها ولا تاكلوا من وسطها فان البركة تنزل في وسطها - (الترمذي وابن ماجة والدارمي في رواية ابي داود وقال اذا اكل احدكم فلا ياكل من اعلى الصحفة ولكن ياكل من اسفلها فان البركة تنزل من اعلاها

752. Here ablution means wash. If hands are washed before and after food is taken there are blessing and increase in food. Food remains the same but it supplies the needs of more men than what was originally intended therewith.

21. Abdullah-b Amr reported : The Messenger of Allah was never seen to eat leaning against, nor has he joined the heels of his two legs.

—Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ بْنِ عَمْرٍو قَالَ مَا رُئِيَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَاْكُلُ مُتَّكِئًا قَطُّ وَلَا يَطَأُ عَقِبَهُ رَجُلَانِ (ابو داود)

22. Abdullah-b-Hares-b-Jazain reported that loaf and meat were brought to the Messenger of Allah while he was within the mosque. Then he ate and we also ate with him. Afterwards he got up and prayed and we also prayed with him. We did not do more than that we rubbed our hands with stones.

—Ibn Majah.

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ بْنِ الْحَارِثِ بْنِ جَزْءٍ قَالَ اُتِيَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بِخُبْزٍ وَلَحْمٍ وَهُوَ فِي الْمَسْجِدِ فَاَكَلَ وَاَكَلْنَا مَعَهُ ثُمَّ قَامَ فَصَلّٰى وَصَلَّيْنَا مَعَهُ وَلَمْ نَزِدْ عَلٰى اَنْ مَسَحْنَا اَيْدِيَنَا بِالْحَصْبَاءِ (ابن ماجة)

23. Abu Hurairah reported that meat was brought to the Messenger of Allah, and hand was raised to it and it gave him satisfaction. He then tore it up with teeth.

—Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ اَبِيْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ اُتِيَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بِلَحْمٍ فَرُفِعَ اِلَيْهِ الذِّرَاعُ وَكَانَتْ تُعْجِبُهُ فَنَهَسَ مِنْهَا (التّرمذي وابن ماجة)

24. Ayesha reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Don't cut meat with knife, because it is of the acts of the foreigners,[753] but tear it off with teeth, because it is more tasteful and easy.

— Abu Daud, Baihaqi.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَا تَقْطَعُوا اللَّحْمَ بِالسِّكِّيْنِ فَاِنَّهُ مِنْ صُنْعِ الْاَعَاجِمِ وَانْهَسُوْهُ فَاِنَّهُ اَهْنَاُ وَاَمْرَاُ (ابو داود والبيهقي)

25. Nubshah reported from the Messenger of Allah who said : Whoso eats in a plate and then licks it up, the plate seeks forgiveness for him.

Ahmad, Tirmizi, Ibn Majah Darimi (Rare).

عَنْ نُبَيْشَةَ عَنْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ مَنْ اَكَلَ فِيْ قَصْعَةٍ فَلَحِسَهَا اسْتَغْفَرَتْ لَهُ الْقَصْعَةُ احمد والتّرمذي وابن ماجة والدّارمي (غريب)

26. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah

753. Foreigners meant here are the non-Arabs Saliva helps digestion. Therefore meat should be teared with teeth-natural knives. In the process of tearing, saliva comes up and thus helps digestion. Besides this, there are other reasons narrated in this hadis.

said : Whoso passed the night while there was dirtiness in his hand which he did not wash and which afflicted him, must not blame but himself.

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

27. Ekrash-b-Jowaib reported : A heavy dish of many soups and boneless meat were served before us. Then I took from its sides with my hand and the Prophet also ate from its front. He put his left hand upon his right-hand and said : O Ekrash ! eat from one place because it is the same food. Then a tray with many kinds of dates therein was brought before us, and then I began to eat from my front side and the hand of the Messenger of Allah roamed in the tray. He said : O Ekrash ! eat from whichever side you like, as it is not the same dish. Then water was brought to us and the Prophet washed his hands and rubbed his face, and his hands and his head with the moisture of his palms and said : O Ekrash, this is the ablution from what the fire changed.[754] —Tirmizi

28. Mugirah-b-Shu'bah reported : One night, I was a co-guest with the Messenger

اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَنْ بَاتَ وَفِي يَدِهِ غَمَرٌ لَمْ يَغْسِلْهُ فَاَصَابَهُ فَلَا يَلُوْمَنَّ اِلَّا نَفْسَهُ

29. Huzaifah reported: Whenever we were present with the Prophet in a meal, we used not to put our hands till the Messenger of Allah began and placed his hand. We were present with him in one meal. Then a slave-girl came as if she was pushed in (out of hunger). She was going to place her hand in the food. The Messenger of Allah caught hold of her hand. Afterwards a desert Arab came as if he was pushed in (out of hunger). He also caught hold of his hand. Then the Messenger of Allah said: Verily the devil makes the food lawful in which the name of Allah has not been taken and verily he has come with this girl in order to make it lawful on her account. Therefore I caught her by the hand. Then he has come with this desert Arab in order to make it lawful. Therefore I caught him by the hand. By Him in whose Hand there stands my life, verily his hand is in my hand with her hand. (He adds in a narration that he remembered the name of Allah and ate). Muslim.

755. Food

(a) Object of Food. The great object of food is to upkeep the body. Therefore all that is necessary for such a purpose is to supply sufficient food and drink to the body that it may go on properly. As water is necessary for crops and vegetables, food is also necessary for human life. As excessive water injures the crops and vegetables, excessive food also injures the body. Therefore the golden mean is the best. In other words, food and drink in a moderate quantity is highly beneficial for upkeep of the body.

(b) Quantity of food. There can't be any hard and fast rule with regard to the moderate quantity of food which a man should take, because it differs with different individuals according to long-continued habits and practices. What is considered sufficient to an idle rich man may be quite insufficient for a poor day-labourer, and what is considered as a moderate quantity for a strong healthy man may be an excessive quantity for a diseased man. The Holy Prophet therefore recommended for a normal man the following quantity of food. One portion of his belly may he filled up with solid food, and one portion with drink, and the remaining portion must be left empty (29 : 22). This is strictly in conformity with the medical jurisprudence which advises that a man should get up from his dinner with a little hunger because that helps digestion. The prescribed quantity must not be exceeded. For a self-denying and pious man, the Holy Prophet recommended a quantity of food which is just sufficient to keep his back-bone erect (29 : 22), because a hungry belly is the fountain of wisdom and sharp intellect. Moderate quantity of food depends on practice. The greater are the self-denying practices regarding food and drink, the lesser is the quantity required, because howsoever we increase our food, sleep and fear, they go on increasing. There are many advantages of a man remaining a little hungry. They have been narrated in note 2035 in connection with fasting. In short by this method, intellect is sharpened, passions are brought under control, body is made fit for constant work, sleep is lessened, time is saved, health is maintained and sincere divine service can flow from mind. The Quran gives sanction to moderate food by saying : Eat and drink and be not immoderate—7 : 31 Q.

(c) Kinds of Food. There are various kinds of food, some of which have been declared unlawful and some lawful. Notes 781 and 785 deal with them. The chief of the foods is said by the Holy Prophet to be the meat, because it grows flesh in the body. In cold countries it is specially suitable as it increases the heat of the body. The Quran says by way of recommendation of meat : Flesh of birds of which they desire—51 : 26 Q. Moses asked the Israilites when they asked him for food other than meat : Will you exchange which is better for that which is worse ? —2 : 61 Q. Bread, fruits and dates are the staple foods of the Arabs. These things with green vegetables, gourds, and dates have been recommended. The Quran says : Then eat of all the fruits—16 : 69 Q. And of the fruits of the palms and the grapes—you obtain from them intoxication and goodly provision —16 : 67 Q. Fish can be eaten but it is not so useful as meat as it melts the body (7 : 160). Onions and garlic have not been recommended for eating, but a little quantity when cooked may lawfully be taken—11 : 53. Salt and vinegar are the best condiments and they are cures for poison—11 : 42. Milk serves the purpose of both food and drink and hence it is highly efficacious. 30. Qatadah from Anas reported that the Prophet did عَنْ قَتَادَةَ عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ مَا اَكَلَ النَّبِىُّ take neither food in plates, nor in cups, and no thin bread was baked for him. It was questioned to Qatadah : On what thing did they take food ? He replied : On dining tray [755a] —Bukhari.

صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ عَلٰى خِوَانٍ وَلَا فِى سُكُرُّجَةٍ وَلَا خُبِزَ لَهُ مُرَقَّقٌ قِيْلَ لِقَتَادَةَ عَلٰى مَا يَأْكُلُوْنَ قَالَ عَلَى السُّفَرِ (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

31. Anas reported : I do not know the Prophet to have ever seen thin bread, till he reached Allah, or to have ever seen roasted kid with his own eyes. [756] —Bukhari.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ مَا اَعْلَمُ النَّبِىَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ رَاٰى رَغِيْفًا مُرَقَّقًا حَتّٰى لَحِقَ بِاللّٰهِ وَلَا رَاٰى شَاةً سَمِيْطًا بِعَيْنِهٖ قَطُّ (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

32. Sahl-b-Sa'ad reported : I did never see the Prophet to have taken fresh date ever since Allah sent him (as a Prophet) till Allah took his breath. He said : I did not see the Messenger of Allah to have taken sifted flour ever since Allah sent him (as a Prophet) till Allah took his breath. He was questioned : How did you take flour without sifting it ? He said : We used to grind it and blow it off. So what flew would fly and we cooked what remained and then we ate it [757] Bukhari

عَنْ سَهْلِ بْنِ سَعْدٍ قَالَ مَا رَاٰى رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ النَّقِىَّ مِنْ حِيْنِ اَبْعَثَهُ اللّٰهُ حَتّٰى قَبَضَهُ اللّٰهُ وَقَالَ مَا رَاٰى رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مُنْخُلًا مِنْ حِيْنِ اَبْعَثَهُ اللّٰهُ حَتّٰى قَبَضَهُ اللّٰهُ قِيْلَ كَيْفَ كُنْتُمْ تَاْكُلُوْنَ الشَّعِيْرَ غَيْرَ مَنْخُوْلٍ قَالَ كُنَّا نَطْحَنُهُ وَنَنْفُخُهُ فَيَطِيْرُ مَا طَارَ وَمَا بَقِىَ ثَرَّيْنَاهُ فَاَكَلْنَاهُ (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

33. Abu Hurairah reported that the Prophet did never speak ill of any food. If he liked it he took it, and if he did not like it he left it.[758] —Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ مَا عَابَ النَّبِىُّ صلعم طَعَامًا قَطُّ اِنِ اشْتَهَاهُ اَكَلَهُ وَاِنْ كَرِهَهُ تَرَكَهُ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

755a. This dining tray was usually big and many people could participate in it. No separate plate was necessary for the Prophet. But this does not prohibit us from taking food in plates and cups if there is no sense of pride and boast therein.

756. Samit is that goat which is stripped of hairs and then fried tastefully This is the practice of the Chineese. The Prophet thought it a luxury and therefore avoided it.

757. This was by way of extreme pietv of the Prophet and abandonment of all worldly relishes. Had he wished wealth and fineries of the world, he would not have led such a life.

758. It is against the rule of formality and etiquette to speak ill of any soup or food in a feast, because this offends the host, and no Muslim shall give offence to any body without reason.

34. Same reported that a man used to take much food. Then he accepted Islam and used to eat little. This was mentioned to the Prophet who said : Verily the believer eats in one gutt and the unbeliever eats in seven gutts.

Bukhari narrated it, Muslim narrated it from Abu Musa and Ibn Omar.

عَنْهُ اَنَّ رَجُلًا كَانَ يَاكُلُ اَكْلًا كَثِيرًا فَاَسْلَمَ وَكَانَ يَاكُلُ قَلِيلًا فَذُكِرَ ذٰلِكَ لِلنَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ اِنَّ الْمُؤْمِنَ يَاكُلُ فِي مِعًى وَاحِدٍ وَاِنَّ الْكَافِرَ يَاكُلُ فِي سَبْعَةِ اَمْعَاءٍ (رَوَاهُ الْبُخَارِيُّ وَرَوَى مُسْلِمٌ عَنْ اَبِي مُوسٰى وَابْنِ عُمَرَ)

35. Abu Hurairah reported that the Prophet entertained a guest who was an infidel. The Prophet ordered a goat (to be milked) and so it was milked. He then drank its milk. Then another (was milked) and he drank it. Then another, and he drank it, till he drank the milk of seven goats. Afterwards he got up at dawn and accepted Islam. The Messenger of Allah ordered for a goat to be brought and it was milked. Then he drank its milk. Afterwards he ordered for another, but he could not finish it. Then the Messenger of Allah said : The believer drinks in one intestine, and the infidel in seven intestines.[759] —Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ اَنَّ رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ صلعم ضَافَهُ ضَيْفٌ وَهُوَ كَافِرٌ فَاَمَرَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم بِشَاةٍ فَحُلِبَتْ فَشَرِبَ حِلَابَهَا ثُمَّ اُخْرٰى فَشَرِبَهُ ثُمَّ اُخْرٰى فَشَرِبَهُ حَتّٰى شَرِبَ حِلَابَ سَبْعِ شِيَاهٍ ثُمَّ اِنَّهُ اَصْبَحَ فَاَسْلَمَ فَاَمَرَ لَهُ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم بِشَاةٍ فَحُلِبَتْ فَشَرِبَ حِلَابَهَا ثُمَّ اَمَرَ بِاُخْرٰى فَلَمْ يَسْتَتِمَّهَا فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ الْمُؤْمِنُ يَشْرَبُ فِي مِعًى وَاحِدٍ وَالْكَافِرُ يَشْرَبُ فِي سَبْعَةِ اَمْعَاءٍ (مُسْلِمٌ)

36. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The food of two men is sufficient for three and the food of three is sufficient for four. —Agreed.

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ طَعَامُ الْاِثْنَيْنِ كَافِي الثَّلٰثَةِ وَطَعَامُ الثَّلٰثَةِ كَافِي الْاَرْبَعَةِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

759. The Muslims do not hanker after much quantity of food, because they understand that by keeping the belly a little hungry, the power of soul is increased. There is also blessing in disguise in a Muslim's food as he begins it in the name of Allah. It is deduced from this that eating up to heart's content and bellyful is strictly condemned, as it is a standing menance to spiritual progress and shuts up the door of knowledge.

37. Jaber reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: The food of one is sufficient for two, and the food of two is sufficient for four, and the food of four is sufficient for eight.[760] —Muslim

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ سَمِعْتُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَقُوْلُ طَعَامُ الْوَاحِدِ يَكْفِي الْاِثْنَيْنِ وَ طَعَامُ الْاِثْنَيْنِ يَكْفِي الْاَرْبَعَةَ وَ طَعَامُ الْاَرْبَعَةِ يَكْفِي الثَّمَانِيَةَ (مُسْلِمٌ)

38. Ayesha reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: Talbinah gives relief to the heart of the sick after removing some of the complaints.[761] —Agreed.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ سَمِعْتُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَقُوْلُ التَّلْبِيْنَةُ مُجِمَّةٌ لِفُؤَادِ الْمَرِيْضِ تَذْهَبُ بِبَعْضِ الْحُزْنِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

39. Anas reported that a tailor invited the Prophet for a feast he prepared. I accompanied the Prophet. Then the loaf of wheat and broth with gourd and roasted mutton were brought. I noticed the Prophet seeking gourd from the sides of the cup. Thereafter I did not cease to like gourd. —Agreed.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ اَنَّ خَيَّاطًا دَعَا النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لِطَعَامٍ صَنَعَهُ فَذَهَبْتُ مَعَ النَّبِيِّ صلعم فَقَرَّبَ خُبْزَ شَعِيْرٍ وَمَرَقًا فِيْهِ دُبَّاءٌ وَقَدِيْدٌ فَرَاَيْتُ النَّبِيَّ صلعم يَتَتَبَّعُ الدُّبَّاءَ مِنْ حَوَالَيِ الْقَصْعَةِ فَلَمْ اَزَلْ اُحِبُّ الدُّبَّاءَ بَعْدَ يَوْمِئِذٍ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

40. Amr-b-Umayyah reported that he saw the Prophet cutting meat from the shoulder of a goat in his hand. He was then called for prayer. He threw it off and the knife with which he was cutting. Afterwards he got up and prayed[762] and did not make ablution. —Agreed.

عَنْ عَمْرِو بْنِ اُمَيَّةَ اَنَّهُ رَاَى النَّبِيَّ صلعم يَحْتَزُّ مِنْ كَتِفِ شَاةٍ فِيْ يَدِهِ فَدُعِيَ اِلَى الصَّلٰوةِ فَاَلْقَاهَا وَالسِّكِّيْنَ الَّتِيْ يَحْتَزُّ بِهَا ثُمَّ قَامَ فَصَلّٰى وَلَمْ يَتَوَضَّاْ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

41. Ayesha reported that the Messenger of Allah used to like sweetmeats and honey. —Bukhari

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يُحِبُّ الْحَلْوَاءَ وَالْعَسَلَ (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

SECTION 3.

772. Drink.

(a) Drink essential. Drink is essentially necessary for everything in the world as without it nothing can live. Plants die without watery nurishment. Man is also not free from that law The Quran says : And Allah created every living thing from water (24 : 45 Q).

(b) Manner of Drink. Drinking should always be made in sitting posture and not in standing or lying condition. The Holy Prophet prohibited it (11 : 78). Before drinking, the name of Allah should be taken by uttering. "In the name of Allah, the Most Merciful and Beneficent," and after drink the Almighty Allah should be praised by saying "All praise is for Allah, the Lord of the worlds (11 : 89). At the time of actual drink, no breath should be thrown into the cup or vessel (7 : 44, 11 : 88) and generally water should be taken in three breaths (11 : 75). Drink during actual eating should be avoided as far as possible. This will be a finishing touch to meal.

(c) Kinds of drink. There are various kinds of drink in the world, some are lawful and some unlawful. Of the lawful drinks, the Holy Prophet loved sweet cold drink very much (11 : 93). The drink of milk and honey were also greatly in favour with him. The usefulness of milk both as drink and food has been guaranteed by the Quran. "And We give you to drink of what is in their bellies from between the facæs and blood-pure milk very agreeable for those who drink—16 : 66 Q.

(d) Drinking of juice of fruits and leaves. With regard to punishment and sin of unlawful drinks such as wine and other intoxicating liquors, they have been dealt with in notes 1218 and 1219. Anything intoxicating is unlawful. The Quran says : And they ask you about intoxicants and games of chance. Say : In both of them, there is a great sin, and means of profit for men, and their sin is greater than their profit (2 : 219 Q). This word was sufficient enough to abolish the age-long custom of the Arabs in drinking intoxicants. It is said that when wine was prohibited, the streets of Medina were flooded with wines and bottles. There are four prohibited intoxicants. (1) Khamar i.e. crude juice of the grapes which being fermented becomes intoxicating. Khamar is produced from two trees, namely vine and date. It is unlawful in its small and great quantities. It is also unlawful to derive any use from Khamar (wine) either as a medicine or in any other manner because the use of filth is forbidden. (2) The second prohibited liquor is the boiled juice of grapes called Bazik and Monissaf The juice of grapes when boiled until a quantity less than $\frac{2}{3}$rds evaporate is called Bazik, and when it is evaporated to the extent of one half, it is called Monissaf. The third kind of prohibited liquor is Sikker and is made by steeping fresh dates in water until they take effect in sweetening it. The fourth kind is Nookoo Zabeeb which is a water in which raisins are steeped until it becomes sweet. This is prohibited only when it becomes spirituous.

See Hedayah for details.

Contents. Drink and eating in cups and plates of gold or silver is unlawful—11 : 82, 83 ; silk dress is unlawful—11 : 83 ;

it is unlawful in Islam to take food and drink in plates or cups of gold or silver. These vessels for any use whatsoever are strictly prohbiited. Thus utmost simplicity in a Muslim's life has been introduced. For a traveller in a life-journey, these things are not at all necessary, but on the contrary they put forward temptations to others for the vices of theft, docoity and robbery.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ نَهٰى رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَنْ يُّتَنَفَّسَ فِى الْاِنَاءِ اَوْ يُنْفَخَ فِيْهِ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

89. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Don't take drink in one breath like the drinking of camel, but take drink twice or thrice and utter Bismillah (in the name of Allah) when you drink and utter 'Alhamdolillah' (all praise is for Allah) when you finish.
—Tirmizi.

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ لَا تَشْرَبُوْا وَاحِدًا كَشُرْبِ الْبَعِيْرِ وَلٰكِنِ اشْرَبُوْا مَثْنٰى وَثُلٰثَ وَسَمُّوْا اِذَا اَنْتُمْ شَرِبْتُمْ وَاحْمَدُوْا اِذَا اَنْتُمْ رَفَعْتُمْ (التِّرْمِذِىُّ)

90. Abu Sayeed-al-Khodri reported that the Prophet prohibited puffing off breath in drink. A man said: I find a dirt in the pot. He said: Throw it off. He said: Verily I shall not be able to throw it off with one breath. He said: Take the cup to a side from your mouth and then put off breath.
—Tirmizi

777. Drinks of Grape or date juice

Naqi is a kind of drink prepared with dates or grapes or dried grapes which are kept drenched in water without being cooked. This kind of drink conduces to the health of the body. Drink with 'khorma' helps digestion. Drink with grape-juice removes heat of the body and has got cooling effect. Nabiz is the above kind of drink, but it is prepared in such a way that its colour becomes changed. It is usually the result of dates or grapes being drenched in water for at least 3 days. Such kind of drink gives strength to the body and preserves health. It can be prepared from other materials. These kinds of drinks are allowed and lawful as they have got no intoxicating effect. It is, however, agreed that a small quantity of anything intoxicating is unlawful. There are three principles to be observed with respect to drink of grape-juice. The first principle is that whatever quantity may run over the pot from the agitation in boiling or from the foaming of the juice is not taken into account and that the residue is to be boiled until $\frac{2}{3}$rds of it evaporate in order that the remaining one-third may be rendered lawful. For example, out of ten cups of juice, one cup is lost over the pot and out of remaining 9 cups, 6 cups must be evaported so as to legalise the remaining 3 cups of juice. The second principle is that if water be first poured into the juice it should be evaporated along with the remaining $\frac{2}{3}$rds of this quantity in the pot. The remaining $\frac{1}{3}$rd will be lawful. The third principle is illustrated in the following example. A person boils ten cups of juice and after one cup has evaporated, three cups more are poured out; then three cups and one-third being multiplied into six, the number which remains after the loss of evaporation and pouring out amounts to twenty, and this sum being divided by nine, there remains two cups and two ninths, the quantity which is lawful when the rest has evaporated. See Hedayah for details.

96. Anas reported : I have certainly given the Messenger of Allah to drink a cup of this drink which was solely of honey, dates, water and milk.

—Muslim.

97. Ayesha reported: We used to prepare 'nabiz' for the Messenger of Allah in a skin whose front portion was kept closed; and it got mouth. We used for him to prepare 'nabiz' at dawn and he used to drink it at night, and we used for him to prepare 'nabiz' at night and he used to drink it at dawn.

—Muslim.

98. Ibn Abbas reported that 'nabiz' used to be prepared for the Messenger of Allah by the first part of the night, and he used to drink it when that day dawned upon him and the following night and the morning of another night and the next day up to the after-noon. If anything remained, he used to give it to his servant to drink and ordered it (to be thrown off) and so it was thrown. —Muslim,

99. Jaber reported that 'nabiz' used to be prepared for the Messenger of Allah in a water-skin. When they did not find any water-skin, it was prepared in a vessel of iron.

—Muslim.

100. Boraidah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : I prohibited you (to drink) from reservoirs of skin, because the reservoirs of skin can not make a thing lawful, nor can make it unlawful, and every in toxicant is unlawful. (In another narration, he said : I prohibited you from drinks except in reservoirs of skin. So drink in every pot except that you shall not drink intoxicants. —Muslim.

778. Hygienic rules for food

Note 542 deals with health and hygiene. This note is concerned only with hygienic rules for food and drink. The Holy Prophet as a world-teacher did not leave this question unsolved. He ordered us to keep our utensils of food and drinking jars and pots covered at all times and specially at night. This is of inestimable value from sanitary point of view as many worms or flies carrying germs of various diseases may fall in water unnoticed and undetected. Modern medical opinion also lays special stress upon the covering of utensils and jars and articles of food. Owing to the neglect of this instruction said by the illiterate Prophet 14 hundred years ago, the Muslims mostly fall victims to infectious diseases. They should remember that their beloved Master taught them even the minutest thing necessary in respect of clean eating, clean drinking, clean dressing, clean appearance and clean habits of all kinds. These habits of cleanliness will lead to cleanliness of mind which will ultimately take us to the goal. So great an emphasis was laid on this question that he said that there is a night in each year in which epidemic comes down and it falls down in a vessel or a jar upon which there is no covering.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِذَا كَانَ جُنْحُ اللَّيْلِ اَوْ اَمْسَيْتُمْ فَكُفُّوا صِبْيَانَكُمْ فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطٰنَ يَنْتَشِرُ حِيْنَئِذٍ فَاِذَا ذَهَبَ سَاعَةٌ مِنَ اللَّيْلِ فَخَلُّوهُمْ وَاَغْلِقُوا الْاَبْوَابَ وَاذْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللّٰهِ فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطٰنَ لَا يَفْتَحُ بَابًا مُغْلَقًا وَاَوْكُوا قِرَبَكُمْ وَاذْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللّٰهِ وَخَمِّرُوا اٰنِيَتَكُمْ وَاذْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللّٰهِ وَلَوْ اَنْ تَعْرُضُوا عَلَيْهِ شَيْئًا وَاَطْفِئُوْا مَصَابِيْحَكُمْ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ) وَفِيْ رِوَايَةٍ لِلْبُخَارِيِّ قَالَ خَمِّرُوا الْاٰنِيَةَ وَاَوْكُوا الْاَسْقِيَةَ وَاَجِيفُوا الْاَبْوَابَ وَاكْفِتُوْا صِبْيَانَكُمْ عِنْدَ الْمَسَاءِ فَاِنَّ لِلْجِنِّ انْتِشَارًا وَخَطْفَةً وَاَطْفِئُوا الْمَصَابِيْحَ عِنْدَ الرُّقَادِ فَاِنَّ الْفُوَيْسِقَةَ رُبَّمَا اجَّرَّتِ الْفَتِيْلَةَ فَاَحْرَقَتْ اَهْلَ الْبَيْتِ وَفِيْ رِوَايَةٍ لِمُسْلِمٍ قَالَ غَطُّوا الْاِنَاءَ وَاَوْكُوا السِّقَاءَ وَاَغْلِقُوا الْاَبْوَابَ وَاَطْفِئُوا السِّرَاجَ فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطٰنَ لَا يَحُلُّ سِقَاءً وَلَا يَفْتَحُ بَابًا وَلَا يَكْشِفُ اِنَاءً فَاِنْ لَمْ يَجِدْ اَحَدُكُمْ اِلَّا اَنْ يَعْرُضَ عَلٰى اِنَائِهِ عُوْدًا وَيَذْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللّٰهِ فَلْيَفْعَلْ فَاِنَّ الْفُوَيْسِقَةَ تُضْرِمُ عَلٰى اَهْلِ الْبَيْتِ بَيْتَهُمْ (وَفِيْ رِوَايَةٍ لَهُ) قَالَ لَا تُرْسِلُوْا مَوَاشِيَكُمْ وَصِبْيَانَكُمْ اِذَا غَابَتِ الشَّمْسُ حَتّٰى تَذْهَبَ فَحْمَةُ الْعِشَاءِ فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطٰنَ يَبْعَثُ

103. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah said: When darkness of the night appears or you enter into evening, keep your children within (doors) because the devil spreads at that time. When one hour of the night passes, let them be free and shut up the doors and take the name of Allah, because the devil does not open up a closed door. And shut up the mouths of your reservoirs and take the name of Allah, and cover your vessels and take the name of Allah though you have placed something upon it, and extinguish your lights. Agreed upon it. And in narration of Bukhari, he said: Cover the utensils and shut up the jars of drinking water and close the doors and keep your children within in the evening because there is spread and attack of the ginn and put out the lights at the time of sleep, because the mouses often draw out the candle-threads and burn the inmates of the house. And in a narration of Muslim, he said: Cover the vessels and drinking jars, shut up the doors, and put out the lights because the devil does not think it lawful to take drink, nor does open a door, nor uncover a vessel. If any of you does not find but a (piece of) wood to put it upon his vessel, let him do it and remember Allah, because mouses roam about the house upon the inmates of the house. In another narration of him, he reported: Don't send your quadruped animals and your children when the sun sets in, till the first part of night disappears, because the devil roams about when the sun sets in, till the first part of night disappears. In his another narration he said: Cover the utensils and shut up the drinking jars, because thereis a night in a year in which epidemic comes down It does not pass by any vessel on which there is no covering, or by any drinking jar on which there is no pot but it comes down therein from that epidemic.[779]

إِذَا غَابَتِ الشَّمْسُ حَتَّى تَذْهَبَ فَحْمَةُ الْعِشَاءِ (وَفِي رِوَايَةٍ لَهُ) قَالَ غَطُّوا الْإِنَاءَ وَأَوْكُوا السِّقَاءَ فَإِنَّ فِي السَّنَةِ لَيْلَةً يَنْزِلُ فِيهَا وَبَاءٌ لَا يَمُرُّ بِإِنَاءٍ لَيْسَ عَلَيْهِ غِطَاءٌ أَوْ سِقَاءٍ لَيْسَ عَلَيْهِ وِكَاءٌ إِلَّا نَزَلَ فِيهِ مِنْ ذَلِكَ الْوَبَاءِ

104. Jaber reported that Abu Humaid—a man of the Ansars—came from Naqi with a pot of milk to the Prophet The Prophet said : Why have you not covered it although by placing a wood thereon ? —Agreed.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ جَاءَ أَبُو حُمَيْدٍ رَجُلٌ مِنَ الْأَنْصَارِ مِنَ النَّقِيعِ بِإِنَاءٍ مِنْ لَبَنٍ إِلَى النَّبِيِّ صلعم فَقَالَ النَّبِيُّ صلعم أَلَا خَمَّرْتَهُ وَلَوْ أَنْ تَعْرِضَ عَلَيْهِ عُودًا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

105. Ibn Omar reported from the Prophet : Don't leave fire in your houses while you sleep.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ لَا تَتْرُكُوا النَّارَ فِي بُيُوتِكُمْ حِينَ تَنَامُونَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

106. Abu Musa reported that a house at Medina was burnt over his family at night (by fire). The Prophet was informed of this matter. He said : Surely this fire—this it is that is an enemy for you. So when you sleep, put it out from you.

عَنْ أَبِي مُوسَى قَالَ احْتَرَقَ بَيْتٌ فِي الْمَدِينَةِ عَلَى أَهْلِهِ مِنَ اللَّيْلِ فَحُدِّثَتْ بِشَأْنِهِ النَّبِيَّ صلعم قَالَ إِنَّ هٰذِهِ النَّارَ إِنَّمَا هِيَ عَدُوٌّ لَكُمْ فَإِذَا نِمْتُمْ فَأَطْفِئُوهَا عَنْكُمْ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

779. There is the injunction of putting out lights at night at the time of going to bed, because fire may be handled by roaming animals at night and thus the whole house or something of its contents may be set ablaze with fire causing irreparable loss of lives and properties. If, however, fire or light is well-protected from being handled, it is not necessary to be put out. The Holy Prophet did not leave the ordinary rules of hygiene untouched. He laid great emphasis for covering of utensils, vessels and jars, because many epidemics may break out from water or other things in vessels which may be handled by roaming animals and flies in which there is disease.

107. Ibn Abbas reported that a rat came drawing a candle and threw it in presence of the Messenger of Allah upon a mat of palm tree on which he was then sitting. Then something was burnt therefrom like the place of a dirham. So he said : When you sleep, put up your lamps, because the devil may set you like this upon this and then may burn you. —Abu Daud.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ جَاءَتْ فَارَةٌ تَجُرُّ الْفَتِيلَةَ فَاَلْقَتْهَا بَيْنَ يَدَىْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ عَلَى الْخُمْرَةِ الَّتِىْ كَانَ قَاعِدًا عَلَيْهَا فَاَحْرَقَتْ مِنْهَا مِثْلَ مَوْضِعِ الدِّرْهَمِ فَقَالَ اِذَا نِمْتُمْ فَاَطْفِئُوْا سُرُجَكُمْ فَاِنَّ الشَّيْطَانَ يَدُلُّ مِثْلَ هٰذِهٖ عَلٰى هٰذِهٖ فَيُحْرِقُكُمْ (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ)

108. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When a fly falls in pot of some one of you, let him immerge it entirely and then throw it off because there is cure in one of its wings and disease in another.[780] Bukhari.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ اَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم قَالَ اِذَا وَقَعَ الذُّبَابُ فِىْ اِنَاءِ اَحَدِكُمْ فَلْيَغْمِسْهُ ثُمَّ لِيَطْرَحْهُ فَاِنَّ فِىْ اَحَدِ جَنَاحَيْهِ شِفَاءً وَفِى الْاٰخَرِ دَاءً (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

109. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: When a fly falls in the utensil of some one of you, then immerge it, because there is disease in one of its wings and cure in another, and also because it first throws its wing wherein there is disease. So immerge it entirely. —Abu Daud.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِذَا وَقَعَ الذُّبَابُ فِىْ اِنَاءِ اَحَدِكُمْ فَامْقُلُوْهُ فَاِنَّ فِىْ اَحَدِ جَنَاحَيْهِ دَاءً وَفِى الْاٰخَرِ شِفَاءً فَاِنَّهٗ يَتَّقِىْ بِجَنَاحِهِ الَّذِىْ فِيْهِ الدَّاءُ فَلْيَغْمِسْهُ كُلَّهٗ (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ)

277w. Abu Sayeed-al-Khodri reported from the Messenger of Allah who said : When a fly falls in food drown it, because there is poison in one of its wings and cure in another, and also because it takes out poison first and then cure last.

عَنْ اَبِىْ سَعِيْدِ نِ الْخُدْرِىِّ عَنِ النَّبِىِّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ قَالَ اِذَا وَقَعَ الذُّبَابُ فِىْ

780. Owing to diseases that are in the wings of flies, the Holy Prophet instructed men to cover their vessels and utensils. It would not have come from the Prophet had the bees and flies would not have carried germs of diseases ' This is the opinion also of the modern medical men after a lapse of 14 hundred years.

الطَّعَامَ فَامْقُلُوهُ فَإِنَّ فِي إِحْدَى جَنَاحَيْهِ سُمًّا وَفِي الْأُخْرَى شِفَاءً فَإِنَّهُ يُقَدِّمُ السُّمَّ وَيُؤَخِّرُ الشِّفَاءَ

781. Unlawful food

(a) Hilal, Haram, Makruh, Mubah. The great principle for knowing what is lawful and what is unlawful in food is that what the Quran and Hadis prohibited is unlawful and what is besides that is lawful. There are certain things which have not been expressly permitted or prohibited. These are doubtful things (شبهات). These are considered as Mubah or simply lawful (11 : 135). There are two things introduced by jurists between lawful and unlawful things: One Mubah near the lawful thing and another Makruh (abominable) near the unlawful thing but nevertheless lawful. The abominable things being near unlawful things should be avoided as far as possible by pious Muslims, as none should even go to the neighbourhood of the places of destruction and epidemics. In that case, there is but little space to fall into illegality. The pious Muslims should not go even to the border line of illegality. The 'Mubah' things are lawful and can be taken if health, constitution and climate permit. See page 50 of the Introduction.

(b) Causes of prohibition and permission. Retrogression and progress of soul is the chief cause for prohibition and permission of things. There can be no gainsaying the fact that the effect of food and drink upon the body and temperaments is wonderful. The medical men therefore prescribe special diets for patients, so that indiscriminate diet may not injure the body. Different things have got different properties for different uses according to the requirements of men, and they have naturally got different effects on body. The Almighty Allah knows our constitution perfectly well and He knows how to keep it best in health. As soundness of mind depends on soundness of body, therefore food and drink may be said to be one of the principle causes which lead a man to vice and virtue. The control of food and drink is the control of the vices and promotion of virtues. It is therfore seen that carnivorous animals are more ferocious than herbivorous animals. Among men, it is found that those who live on vegetables are generally coward and cool-tempered, while those who live on meat of animals are courageous, brave and hot-tempered. The Almighty Allah and His Prophet therefore presented such food for men as are conducive to them from a temporal and religious point of view. This is also the reason why lawful food, unlawfully acquired, has been made unlawful, as it greatly affects the moral tendency of a man.

(c) Unlawful foods. The following foods and things have been expressly prohibited by the Quran and Hadis.

i. Food on which Allah's name is not taken or meat of a lawful animal or bird which is not slaughtered over the name of Allah. The Quran says : And don't eat of that on which Allah's name has not been mentioned. That is surely a transgression—6 : 122 Q ; ii. Everything which is offered to idols. iii. All animals which die of themselves without slaughter in the name of Allah. These include also animals strangled to death, or beaten to death, or killed by a fall, or attacked by horns and killed, or torn to death by beasts. iv. All bloods flowing. v. All beasts and birds of prey ; all quardrupeds that seize prey with teeth, and all birds which seize it with their talons, viz, foxes, hyenas, elephants, weasels, kites, crows, ravens, crocodiles, insects, domestic asses, mules, swines and men. vi. All unclean things redugnant to health and morality, viz, dogs, cats, mules, horses, asses, lizards, swines etc. In support of these the following Quranic verses are quoted. Forbidden to you is that which dies of itself, and blood, and flesh of swine, and that on which any other than Allah has been invoked, and the strangled animal, and that beaten to death, and that killed by a fall, and that killed by being smitten with horn, and that which wild beasts have eaten except what you slaughter (5 : 3 Q.). There is a reservation in case of extreme necessity, such as possibility of death for want of food. In that circumstance a small quantity of unlawful things which can barely save life becomes lawful. The Quran recites : But whoever is driven to necessity, not desiring, nor exceeding the limit, no sin shall be upon him (2 : 173 Q).

785. Lawful Food

Everything is lawful which has not been prohibited. There are three kinds of things which are generally used by men, viz., (1) things of mines ; (2) vegetables and crops grown from the earth ; (3) and animals. The first two kinds are lawful except what is injurious to health, life, and intelligence. Intoxicating drugs cause harm to intelligence and are therefore unlawful. Poisonous plants are injurious to life and they are therefore unlawful. Among animals, there are lawful and unlawful animals. The case of unlawful animals has been dealth with in the previous section. The present section is devoted to lawful food. Among lawful things, there should be some sort of discrimination for the sake of health according to taste and repugnance. Anything distasteful or repugnant to nature should not be eaten, as it may injure health although the thing to be eaten is lawful. This version finds corroboration in the Quran. It says : O people ! eat the lawful and good things out of what is in the earth—2 : 57Q. It appears from this verse that the thing to be eaten should not only be lawful but it should also be liking to taste and not repugnant to individual nature, because forced feeding and drinking bring diseases. Many things of this class come under the heading of Makruh (abominable). Hares, locusts, cocks, cows, fishes, wild asses etc. can lawfully be eaten without any abomination.

Imam Malek and others hold that all aquatic animals are lawful (11 : 279w) except sea-dog, sea-hog and mairmen. Imam Shafeyi maintains that all aquatic animals are lawful (7 : 160) without discrimination. Imam Abu Hanifa holds that fishes which die by accident and float are lawful but abominable.* According to Imams Abu Hanifa and Malek, the flesh of horses is lawful but abominable. There is also difference of opinion with regard to lizard. See note 788. Condensed ghee is lawful even though a rat might have fallen in it (11 : 129, 130), but liquid ghee in which a rat has fallen is not lawful.

* There are differences of opinion with regard to fishes. Imam Abu Hanifa maintains that no aquatic animal is lawful except fish and that fish which perishes of itself and floats above water is not lawful. This is on the basis of hadis no 11 : 133 and the Quranic verse—2 : 57Q.

123. Anas reported: I chased at a hare at Marre-Jahran.[786] I overtook it and brought it to Abu Talha who sacrificed it and sent to the Messenger of Allah its hip-bone and two thighs. He accepted it.[787] —Agreed.

عَنْ أَنَسٍ قَالَ أَنْفَجْنَا أَرْنَبًا بِمَرِّ الظَّهْرَانِ فَأَخَذْتُهَا فَأَتَيْتُ بِهَا أَبَا طَلْحَةَ فَذَبَحَهَا وَبَعَثَ إِلَى رَسُولِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بِوَرِكِهَا وَفَخِذَيْهَا فَقَبِلَهُ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

124. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said: I do not eat lizard, nor do I make it unlawful. —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ الضَّبُّ لَسْتُ آكُلُهُ وَلَا أُحَرِّمُهُ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

125. Ibn Abbas reported that Khaled-b-Walid imformed him that he went to Maimunah with the Messenger of Allah, and she was his maternal aunt or aunt of Ibn Abbas. He found a cooked lizard near her and she brought the lizard for the Messenger of Allah. The Prophet raised up his hand from the lizard. Khaled asked: O Messenger of Allah! is lizard unlawful? He said: No, but it does not exists in the land of my people, so I find myself excused from it. Khaled said: Then I pressed and ate it while the Messenger of Allah was looking at me.[788] —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ أَنَّ خَالِدَ بْنَ الْوَلِيدِ أَخْبَرَهُ أَنَّهُ دَخَلَ مَعَ رَسُولِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ عَلَى مَيْمُونَةَ وَهِيَ خَالَتُهُ خَالَةُ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ فَوَجَدَ عِنْدَهَا ضَبًّا مَحْنُوذًا فَقَدَّمَتِ الضَّبَّ لِرَسُولِ اللّٰهِ صلعم فَرَفَعَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَدَهُ عَنِ الضَّبِّ فَقَالَ خَالِدٌ أَحَرَامٌ الضَّبُّ يَا رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ قَالَ لَا وَلٰكِنْ لَمْ يَكُنْ بِأَرْضِ قَوْمِي فَأَجِدُنِي أَعَافُهُ قَالَ خَالِدٌ فَاجْتَرَرْتُهُ فَأَكَلْتُهُ وَرَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَنْظُرُ إِلَيَّ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

786. Marre-Jahran is a place between Mecca and Medina.

787. Hare's meat is unanimously lawful.

788. This is by way of distaste to lizard-meat Any body willing may lawfully eat it. Imam Abu Hanifa held it to be unlawful (11 : 116), but Imams Ahmad and Shafeyi held it lawful in accordance with this tradition. It is said that lizards live up to 100 years and that in every 40 days they pass a drop of urine.

126. Abu Musa reported : I saw the Messenger of Allah eating the meat of fowls. —Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِیْ مُوْسٰی قَالَ رَاَیْتُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّی اللّٰهُ عَلَیْهِ وَسَلَّمَ یَاْکُلُ لَحْمَ الدَّجَاجِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ)

127. Ibn Aufa reported : We fought along with the Messenger of Allah seven fights. We used to eat locusts with him. —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ اَوْفٰی قَالَ غَزَوْنَا مَعَ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّی اللّٰهُ عَلَیْهِ وَسَلَّمَ سَبْعَ غَزَوَاتٍ کُنَّا نَاْکُلُ مَعَهُ الْجَرَادَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ)

128. Jaber reported : I fought with the army of Khabat[789] of which Abu Obaidah was placed in command. Then we became too much hungry. The sea threw aside a dead fish called whale the like of which we did not see before. We ate a part of it in half a month. Abu Obaidah took a bone out of its bones under which a rider could pass. When we arrived (at Medina), we mentioned it to the Prophet. He said : Eat the provision which Allah took out to you, and feed us if there is something with you. So we sent something out of it to the Prophet and he ate it. —Agreed.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ غَزَوْتُ جَیْشَ الْخَبَطِ وَاُمِّرَ اَبُوْ عُبَیْدَةَ فَجُعْنَا جُوْعًا شَدِیْدًا فَاَلْقَی الْبَحْرُ حُوْتًا مَیِّتًا لَمْ نَرَ مِثْلَهٗ یُقَالُ لَهُ الْعَنْبَرُ فَاَکَلْنَا مِنْهُ نِصْفَ شَهْرٍ فَاَخَذَ اَبُوْ عُبَیْدَةَ عَظْمًا مِنْ عِظَامِهٖ فَمَرَّ الرَّاکِبُ تَحْتَهٗ فَلَمَّا قَدِمْنَا ذَکَرْنَا لِلنَّبِیِّ صلعم فَقَالَ کُلُوْا رِزْقًا اَخْرَجَهُ اللّٰهُ اِلَیْکُمْ وَاَطْعِمُوْنَا اِنْ کَانَ مَعَکُمْ فَاَرْسَلْنَا اِلٰی رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم مِنْهُ فَاَکَلَهٗ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ)

129. Maimunah reported that a rat fell in ghee and died. The Messenger of Allah was then asked about it. He said : Throw it off and what is around it, and eat it (rest).[790] —Bukhari.

عَنْ مَیْمُوْنَةَ اَنَّ فَاْرَةً وَقَعَتْ فِیْ سَمْنٍ فَمَاتَتْ فَسُئِلَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم عَنْهَا فَقَالَ اَلْقُوْهَا وَمَا حَوْلَهَا وَکُلُوْهُ (اَلْبُخَارِیُّ)

789. The expedition of Khabat was undertaken in the 6th year of the Heizra. In this expedition food was so much wanting that the soldiers began to eat leaves of trees and grasses. Thereafter a big fish rose dead on the surface of the sea and they lived on it for more than 15 days. It appears from this that big fishes of sea or ocean can lawfully be taken.

790. This order is in the case of condensed ghee, but in case of dissolved ghee, all are unanimous that it is unlawful in this circumstance. In case of the latter, there is difference of opinion about its sale. All the Imams held it unlawful except Imam Abu Hanifa who held it lawful for the purpose of lightening lamps and similar objects.

130. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When a rat falls in ghee throw it if it is condensed and what is around it, and if it is diffused, don't come to it.
Ahmad, Abu Daud, Darimi from Ibn Abbas.

عَنْ اَبِی هُرَیْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّی اللّٰهُ عَلَیْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِذَا وَقَعَتِ الْفَاْرَةُ فِی السَّمْنِ فَاِنْ کَانَ جَامِدًا فَاَلْقُوْهَا وَ مَاحَوْلَهَا وَ اِنْ کَانَ مَائِعًا فَلَا تَقْرَبُوْهُ down His book and made lawful His lawful things and made unlawful His unlawful things. So whatever He made lawful is lawful, and whatever He made unlawful is unlawful and whatever he remained silent from is pardonable. He recited—say : I don't find anything prohibited in what was revealed to me for an eater to eat except what dies of itself, the verse (6 : 146 Q).

791. Inter-dining

As a necessary corrolary to the recognition of the universal brotherhood of the human race under the common fatherhood of God, Islam throws open its dining cloth to all irrespective of caste, creed, colour and social position. Islam is, however, not responsible for the tremendous havoc that has been wrought by human hand. There is no touchability or untouchability in Islam. Every member of its commonwealth is equally entitled to partake of his food in the same dinner-cloth. Nay, it extends its hand to everybody—the Jews, the Christians and the followers of every other religion. The Apostle of Allah had a big tray which could be carried by four men. All the Muslims present used to partake of food in this tray, each eating from its side (4 : 328). This was a practical teaching of brotherhood in dining at a time when the uncivilized Arabs like the civilized nations of the present day used to take boast in tribal honour and created differences in society in all matters. This practical illustration of real brotherhood attracted the attention of the then Arabs, and so they all threw themselves to the cause of Islam heart and soul with inflinching devotion to the Holy Prophet. So far as the dining table of the followers of other religions is concerned, the Muslims are allowed to partake of their food except what has been made unlawful to be placed in the dining cloth of the Muslims themselves. The Quran has not at all prohibited this inter-dining, nor the hadis. On the contrary, the Quran declares: This day all the good things are allowed to you, and the food of those who have been given the book is lawful for you, and your food is lawful for them (5 : 5 Q). The Holy Prophet himself used often to take food in the houses of non-Muslims and issued instructions to the Zimmis (protected non-Muslims) to entertain the Muslims in their journey in the ways of Allah.

136. Abu Sa'laba reported: I asked: O Messenger of Allah! we are certainly travellers and pass by the Jews, Christians and the Magians. So we don't find but their utensils. He replied: If you do not find other than those things, wash them with water and eat and drink in them. —Tirmizi.

عَنْ اَبِیْ ثَعْلَبَةَ الْخُشَنِیِّ قَالَ قُلْتُ یَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ اِنَّا اَهْلُ سَفَرٍ نَمُرُّ بِالْیَهُوْدِ وَالنَّصٰرٰی وَالْمَجُوْسِ فَلَا نَجِدُ غَیْرَ اٰنِیَتِهِمْ قَالَ فَاِنْ لَّمْ تَجِدُوْا غَیْرَهَا فَاغْسِلُوْهَا بِالْمَاءِ ثُمَّ کُلُوْا فِیْهَا وَاشْرَبُوْا (اَلتِّرْمِذِیُّ)

137. Qabiswah-b-Hulb reported from his father who said: I asked the Prophet about food of the Christians (In another narration—a man asked him) and said: There is a food of foods from which I guard myself. The Prophet said: Nothing must raise doubt in your mind wherein Christianity is likened. Tirmizi, Abu Daud.

792. Birth ceremony (عَقِيقَة)

Aqiqah is the birth-ceremony of a child. It is an animal, preferably a goat sacrificed on the 7th day of birth. One goat has been prescribed for a female child and two for a male child. Meat should be distributed among the poor and the needy. On the 7th day, the child shall be shaved, and the hairs should be weighed. Silver to the extent of the weight of hairs should be distributed to the poor and the needy for invocation of blessing for the child. The Pre-Islamic Arabs used to sacrifice a goat on the birth of a child, and to besmear the head of the child by its blood. This was abolished by the Holy Prophet. He recommended in its place the giving of alms to the poor and the distressed. As soon as a child is born, azan or prayer-call should be made either within ears of the newly-born child or in the birth room. After that, the child shall be given to drink "Tahnik". It is the giving of honey or other sweet drink or juice of dates after being pressed to the lip of the child. This should be attended with prayer for good of the child. On the day of Aqiqah ceremony, a good name should be given to the child.

141. Asma'a-bn-Abi Bakr reported that she conceived Abdullah-b-Zubair at Mecca. She said: I gave birth to a child at Qubba'a and then came to the Prophet with it and placed it in his lap. He called for a date and mixed it (with saliva) and afterwards applied it to its mouth and then made 'tahnik'. He prayed for it and sought blessing. It was the first child that was born in Islam. —Agreed.

142. Umme-Kurj reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: Keep the birds in their nests. She said: I heard him say: There are two goats for a boy and one goat for a girl. It will not harm you whether they are males or females.

—Abu Daud, Tirmizi (Correct), Nisai.

143. Hasan reported from Samorah who narrated that the Messenger of Allah said: A boy is pawned with his goat sacrificed on the seventh day for him, and he is given a name and his head shaved.

—*Ahmad, Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai.

144. Muhammad-b-Ali-b-Hussain reported from Ali-b-Abi Taleb who said that the Messenger of Allah sacrificed a goat for Hasan and said: O Fatimah! shave his head and give away silver in charity to the weight of his hairs. He then took his weight, and his weight

793. Slaying (ذبح)

(a) Slaying. Zabhun signifies in the literal sense to cut the throat. In the language of the law, it signifies the act of slaying an animal agreeably to the prescribed forms without which it is not considered as eatable. All animals the flesh of which is eatable except fish and locusts, must be slain by Zabah, as by means of Zabah the unclean blood is separated from the clean flesh. Questions may arise why, in face of such humanitarian laws of the Prophet of Islam, permission for slaying of animals was given. The reasons have been discussed in notes 265 and 2112. Zabah is of two kinds, by choice (اختیاری) and out of necessity (استخاری). The former is done by cutting the throat above the chest, and the latter by effecting a wound on any part of the animal's body. The latter kind is the exeptional mode of slaying when the first kind is not easily available. Zabah, in order to be lawful, must be performed in the name of Allah and with the utterance of Tasmeea (بسم الله الرحمن الرحیم) by Muslims or the people of the Book like the Christians, Jews and Sabians provided they be persons acquainted with the form of invocation. There is no distinction between a man, woman, infant or idiot in the act of Zabah. It cannot be performed by an idolater, or an worshipper of deities besides Allah, or a Magian because he does not believe in the unity of Allah. The reason is that polytheisn is the greatest uncleanliness in man, and as such a polytheist is not expected to make the object of Zabah clean. Any species of game slain by a Muhrim (a pilgrim within the fixed boundary of Mecca) is unlawful, although it is not slain within the holy territory. To slay any game in the holy territory is quite unlawful.

(b) Zabah may be performed with nails, horns or teeth provided no sharp instrument is available, because it is not lawful to give too much pain to the animal. Zabah must be made in such a manner as gives ease to the animal. It is lawful to slay with the rind of a reed, or a sharp stone or with everything capable of cutting the vessels and drawing of blood Everybody should sharpen his knife before Zabah is made, because the Prophet odered to be merciful in the act of slaying. It is abominable (Makruh) first to throw the animal down on its side and then to sharpen the knife. It is also abominable to let the knife reach the spinal marrow or cut off the head of the animal. It is abominable to detain an animal for slaughter or to break its neck while it is in the struggles of death. Wild animals may be slain by chasing and shooting them. The foetus of a slain animal is not lawful. The place for slaying is between the throat and the libba (the head of the breast bone), because the blood freely issues when a wound is given in that place. Four things must be cut: Hulkum or wind pipe, gullet and two jugular veins. Nothing must be said except Bismillah (In the name of Allah, the Most Beneficient and Merciful). Any language may be said in invocation.

149. Rafe-b-Khadij reported: I asked: O Messenger of Allah! we shall encounter the enemy to-morrow but we have got no knife with us. Shall we slaughter with rod? He replied: Eat what strikes out blood and on which Allah's name is taken, not (what is bitten by) teeth and claws of which I am informing you just now. As for tooth, it is a bone, and as for claws, it is a knife of the Negroes. Then we got some booty of camels and sheep. Out of these, a camel fled away and a man threw arrow at it and kept it confined. Then the Prophet said: Verily there is wildness for this camel like the wildness of beasts. So when anything of it overcomes you, do with it like this. —Agreed.

عَنْ رَافِعِ بْنِ خَدِيجٍ قَالَ قُلْتُ يَا رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ إِنَّا لَاقُوا الْعَدُوَّ غَدًا وَلَيْسَتْ مَعَنَا مُدًى أَفَنَذْبَحُ بِالْقَصَبِ قَالَ مَا أَنْهَرَ الدَّمَ وَذُكِرَ اسْمُ اللّٰهِ فَكُلْ لَيْسَ السِّنَّ وَالظُّفُرَ سَأُحَدِّثُكَ عَنْهُ أَمَّا السِّنُّ فَعَظْمٌ وَأَمَّا الظُّفُرُ فَمُدَى الْحَبَشِ وَأَصَبْنَا نَهْبَ إِبِلٍ وَغَنَمٍ فَنَدَّ مِنْهَا بَعِيرٌ فَرَمَاهُ رَجُلٌ بِسَهْمٍ فَحَبَسَهُ فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِنَّ لِهٰذِهِ الْإِبِلِ أَوَابِدَ كَأَوَابِدِ الْوَحْشِ فَإِذَا غَلَبَكُمْ مِنْهَا شَيْءٌ فَافْعَلُوا بِهِ هٰكَذَا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

794. Hunting

(a) Lawful game. It is lawful to hunt with all the instruments of hunting such as gun, arrow or pistol, and with all the animals of the hunting tribe that are trained in hunting such as dogs, hawks or falcons. If a game is caught by animals not trained in hunting, it is unlawful, unless slain by Zabah. In the case of trained animals, no Zabah is necessary. The sign of a trained dog is his catching game three times without eating it. The sign of a trained hawk is to return the game to its master. A hunting quadruped eating any part of the game renders it unlawful. Game caught by a hawk after it has returned to its wild state is not lawful. A dog does not render its game unlawful by taking its blood, or by eating a piece of the flesh cut off and thrown to him by the hunter. Game taken alive must be slain by Zabah, provided it lives long enough to admit of performing Zabah in a legal manner. The game taken is lawful although it be not the same that was intended by the hunter.

(b) Bismillah is essential in rendering the game lawful. The name of Allah (in the name of Allah, the Most Merciful and Compassionate) must be pronounced at the time of letting loose the hound, dog or hawk for hunting and taking the game. All the games caught by these animals are lawful. It is not, however, lawful if they catch game independant of the act of the hunter. Game hunted down by a polytheist, Magian or an apostate is not lawful. Games are however lawful when hunted by the Christians, Jews, Sabians and other people of the Book in the name of God.

(c) Shooting game by gun or arrow. The name of Allah as above must be uttered at the time of shooting a gun or an arrow for a game. If the game is taken alive, it must be slain by Zabah. If no invocation is taken at the time of shooting the game is quite unlawful. Game wounded and afterwards found dead by the person who shot is lawful, unless he discovers another wound upon it not caused by him. Game shot by a gun aimed at another animal is lawful. Game which being shot falls into water or upon any building etc. before it reaches the ground is unlawful. Water animals are, however, exceptions to this rule. Game slain by a bruise without shot is not lawful. Hunting by disqualified persons by shooting cannot make game lawful. All animals may be hunted whether they are lawful or unlawful for eating.

(d) Hunting is unlawful at the time of Ihram or when a man is a pilgrim. The Holy Quran says: The cattle quadrupeds are allowed to you, not violating the provisions against game when you are a pilgrim. O you who believe! donot violate the signs appointed by Allah, nor the sacred month, nor the offerings .....and when you are free from the obligations of the pilgrimage, then hunt—5: 1—2 Q. Lawful to you is the game of the sea and its food—a provision for you and for the travellers, and the game of the land is forbidden to you as long as you are a pilgrim—5: 96 Q.

163. Adi-b Hatem reported: The Messenger of Allah said to me: When you send your (hunting) dog, remember the name of Allah If it then catches anything for you, take it alive and slaughter it; and if you take it after it is killed and it (dog) has not eaten anything of it, then eat it; and if it has eaten, don't eat, because it has caught hold of it for itself. If you find another dog with your dog and it has killed, don't eat, because you don't know which of the two killed (it); and when you throw your arrow then recite the name of Allah, if it then (prey) remains absent from you for a day and if you don't find therein but the sign of your arrow, then eat if you like, but don't eat if you find it immerged in water.

—Agreed.

795. Injurious Animals

The general law of Islam is that man has got a duty even towards animals inferior to himself. This has been discussed in note 265. He should respect their lives and should not give them unnecessary troubles. But there are exceptions to this rule. The first exception is that man can sacrifice any animal for food which is lawful, as everything has been created for man, the lord of creation. The second exception is that even without necessity of food, man can lawfully kill some classes of animals which are injurious to men and dreadful to the public peace. Just as a man is put to the gallows for the murder of his fellow man and by way of example to others for future peace, an animal which causes injury to the life of men is likewise to be killed. The murderer is put to the gallows after murder, because it will be an example to others, but an injurious animal is to be killed before the injury is done. This is because its fellow beings have got no intelligence and foresight like men to take precaution from the example of others. There is no lighter punishment for injurious animals short of death, as like men they can't amend their natural instincts. For these reasons, the Holy Prophet recommended the killing of injurious animals like serpents, snakes, scorpions, some kinds of dogs, and ferocious animals like tiger and lion. There is even rewards in killing them as their destruction lessens the chance of human killing.

Unlawful for killing. Ants, bees, hudhud birds and sparrows cannot lawfully be killed as they, instead of harm, do good to men. No animals other than the injurious ones shall be killed—11: 179. A woman was forgiven of her sins for giving water to a thirsty dog, and a woman was punished for troubling a cat. It is equally unlawful to set up one animal against another. This gives enjoyment to the people, but trouble to animals.

Voices of animals. When dogs bark and asses bray at night, refuge shall be sought from Allah as they see the devils and injurious things, and none should come out of his house at dead of night as it is the time of the beasts and snakes to come out. The crowing of cock should be welcome as it sees an angel at the time of crowing and thus rouses the the people from sleep for prayer.

Snakes. Snakes are poisonous and cause immediate death of men. Therefore they should be killed. The Holy Prophet, however, made exception in the case of snakes which haunt the inhabited houses. When there is fear of these snakes in houses, prayer as laid down 11 : 180 in should be recited. If they do not leave the houses after that, they may be killed. The Holy Prophet excepted the snakes which are white having silver lines on their backs from killing. There are three kinds of ginn—one kind having wings flies in the sky ; another kind is in form of serpents and dogs, and another kind is snakes living in inhabited houses.

Dogs. All the dogs should be killed. The following are the exceptions. (1) Those dogs which are used as companions in journey, or dogs trained for hunting, or dogs used as watch over sheep or cattle or other properties, or dogs which are useful in agriculture. (2) Those dogs which have got spots in their eyes other than of black colour (11 : 186).

Ferocious beasts. There is no exception in this class. They should be killed wherever they are found.

Rats. Big rats as do injury in houses in some way or other should be killed.

175. Ibn Omar reported that he heard the Messenger of Allah say : Kill snakes and kill also those having two lines on the back, and maimed tail, because they both make eyesight short and abortion of pregnancy. Abdullah said : While I was running after a snake to kill it, Abu Lubabah called out to me : Don't kill it. I said that the Messenger of Allah ordered to kill the snakes. He said that he afterwards prohibited from killing those snakes which live in houses, and these are those that haunt.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ اَنَّهٗ سَمِعَ النَّبِيَّ صلعم يَقُوْلُ اُقْتُلُوا الْحَيَّاتِ وَاقْتُلُوْا ذَا الطُّفْيَتَيْنِ وَالْاَبْتَرَ فَاِنَّهُمَا يَطْمِسَانِ الْبَصَرَ وَيَسْتَسْقِطَانِ الْحَبَلَ قَالَ عَبْدُ اللّٰهِ فَبَيْنَمَا اَنَا اُطَارِدُ حَيَّةً اَقْتُلُهَا نَادَانِيْ اَبُوْ لُبَابَةَ لَا تَقْتُلْهَا فَقُلْتُ اِنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَمَرَ بِقَتْلِ الْحَيَّاتِ فَقَالَ اِنَّهٗ نَهٰى بَعْدَ ذٰلِكَ عَنْ ذَوَاتِ الْبُيُوْتِ وَهُنَّ الْعَوَامِرُ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

176. Abu Sa'eb reported: We went to Abu Sayeed al-Khodri, and while we were sitting we heard a motion under his bed. We looked when lo! there was a snake therein. I was about to kill it while Abu Sayeed was praying. He gave hint to me: Sit. I sat down. When it went away, he pointed out a hut in the house. He asked: Do you see this hut? 'Yes', replied I. He said: There resided therein a son of mine who was newly married to a bride. He said: Then we went out with the Prophet of Allah to the Ditch. That boy was seeking permission of the Prophet for half a day to go to his (newly married) wife. So he granted him permission for a day. The Prophet said to him: Take your spear, because I fear Quraizah tribe for your sake. The man took his spear and then returned when lo! his wife was standing behind the two doors. He rushed towards her with lance in order to attack her therewith. Anger overtook him, and she said to him: Withhold your lance to you and enter the house, till you find what has driven me out. He then entered thereto when lo! a huge snake coiled upon the bed. He rushed towards it with the lance and attacked it therewith.

Then he went out and broke it at the door. Then it bit him. So it is not known which of them (serpent or boy)would die soon. He said· We came to the Messenger of Allah and mentioned it to him and said: Pray to Allah that He may restore his life for us. He said: Ask forgiveness for your companion. Afterwards he said: Verily there are haunters for these houses. So when you see anything out of them throw dust on it thrice. If it goes away, (it is well), or else kill it, because it is an infidel. He said to them: Go away and bury your companion. In another narration, he said: Verily there are ginn at Medina who accepted Islam. So when you see anything out of them, call it for three days, and if it is visible to you after that, kill it, because it is the devil. —Muslim.

CHAPTER XII

797. Poetry and Oratory

(a) Did Islam ban poetry? The Quran says: As to the poets, those who go astray follow them. Do you not see that verily they wander in every valley, and they say what they do not do (26: 225Q)? From this verse, it appears that the Quran prohibited poetry as unlawful, and condemned the poets in clear terms. This is far from truth. Those poetries which deal with immorality and frivolous love episodes and eulogy of polytheism were specially banned by this verse. This is clear from the fact that when the Holy Prophet was asked about illegality of poetry in the above verse, he replied: The believer fights with his sword and tongue. By Him in whose Hand there is my life, it is as if you (poet) are throwing at them the throwing of an arrow (12: 10). On another occasion he said: The good of it (poetry) is good and the bad of it is bad (12: 281w). From these as well as from other traditions in this section, it is perfectly clear that by the verse above quoted, only the poetries which have tendency to lead men to corrupt ways have been banned and deprecated. On the other hand good poetries were admitted by the Holy Prophet to contain great wisdom (12: 2). The Prophet himself had certain poets under him, namely Hasan-b-Sabet, Abdullah-b-Rawwahah and Ka'ab-b-Malek, to satirise the unbelievers in their very face. He even fixed a pulpit for Hasan-b-Sabet for openly satirising the enemies of Islam. He even prayed to Allah for helping Hasan with the Holy Spirit. Can there be any doubt from what has been given above that poetry was not banned by Islam?

(b) Did Islam ban oratary? Similar is the case with oratory. The good of it is good and the bad of it is bad. Oratory which helps the onward march of soul or helps in leading a man towards moral and religious life, is good and lawful, but that which leads a man towards immoral life or at least has got tendency towards such life has been banned by Islam. Oratory which captures the hearts of men towards Islam is perfectly good, but which ends in speech only without any pious intention in mind, is bad.

(c) Did Islam destroy Pre-Islamic poetries ? The answer must be in the strong negative. The accusation levelled against is only biassed from interested motives. The fact is that during the time of the Holy Prophet, all were engaged in propagation and defence of Islam. They had little time to engage their attention to poetical pursuits. Still the Holy Prophet and some of his companions encouraged satirical poets against the polytheists like Hassan-b-Sabet, Abdullah-b-Rawwahah and Ka'ab-b-Malek. Hazrat Ali did not even forget to compose some verses which have been collected in Diwane Ali. After the holy demise, the case with the Muslims remained the same. They were engaged in defence of the faith and internal management of the Government. Hence they had little time to study this branch of learning. Their first attention was directed towards collection of Quranic verses from various small fragments of manuscripts, and from parchments and stones and tablets of mind. After that they began to interpret the Quran and the meaning of its words. They found naturally difficulties in their task, till they turned to Pre-Islamic poetries for their true meaning. Ibn Abbas said : When you read anything in the book of Allah, and you don't know it, search it in the poetries of the Arabs because poetry is the register of the Arabs.* Thus the necessity of collecting Pre-Islamic poetries arose out of a desire of finding out true interpretation of the Quranic words. Islam, therefore, instead of keeping poetry in the back-ground, brought it to the fore-front. But for this collection, much of the Pre-Islamic poetries would have been lost to the world and we could not have found even the well-known seven suspended poems of Pre-Islamic poets.

(d) Seven suspended poems, (سبع المعلقات)

These are well-known to every student of Arabic literature. Their authors were Imrul-Qais, Juhair-b-Abi Salmah, Antarah-b-Shaddad, Labeed, Jiyad-b-Muwayiah, Amr-b-Kulsum and Tarafah b-Abd. They were the best among the Pre-Islamic poets and their poems called Sab'ul-Muallaqat were suspended in the walls of the Holy Ka'ba. These were therefore called suspended poems. These were also called golden verses as they were written in letters of gold and suspended in the Ka'ba.

(e) Influence of the Quran on Pre-Islamic poets.

The Quran contains so elegant a style, pure diction, high thoughts and great wisdom that it captured the imagination of Pre-Islamic poets, and none could compose even a verse like it, even though the challenge was put to them by the Holy Quran in the following verse: And if you are in doubt as to that which We have revealed to Our servant, then produce a chapter like it, and call on your helpers besides Allah if you are truthful—2 : 23 Q. Similar challenge is in verses 10 : 38 Q., 11 : 13 Q., 17 : 81Q. This challenge of the Quran remains unanswered up to this day. It is said that the following half-finished verse of the Quran was written and suspended in the Ka'ba: "And verily We gave you abundance of good." All the poets were asked to fill up the second line, but none could do it inspite of their joint efforts. Then the Prophet got revelation and joined the second verse: Therefore pray to your Lord and make sacrifice (108 : 2 Q). As a result of this failure, great poets like Labeed and Ka'ab-b-Malek and Abdullah-b-Rawwahah accepted Islam. It is said that Pre-Islamic poet Tofail-b-Amr Sadusi came to the Holy Prophet and recited some verses to him. The Holy Prophet as a challenge recited the Chapter Ikhlas (112 Q).

"Qul-Huallahu Ahad (Say, He is Allah, the One)
Allahus Samad (He is without need)
Lam Ya'lid (He begets not,) Walam Yu'lad (Nor is He begotteen)
Walam Yakul lahu, Kufuwan Ahad (And none is like Him)."*

The poet at once accepted Islam being charmed with pure diction of the Quran and its verses containing beauties of both prose and poetry * Such was the hold of the Quran on Arab minds. They therefore accepted the Quran as nothing but pure revelation, and Muhammad, (P. H.) being literally illiterate, could not himself have produced it. These poets not only accepted but helped Islam materially. Ka'ab-b Malek composed the famous Banate Su'ad in eulogy of the Holy-

Prophet. He was so pleased with it that he favoured him with his "burdah" (gown). The great poet Labeed who was one of the authors of the seven suspended poems, gave up Pre-Islamic ideas after Islam and devoted his life to the cause of Islam and its Prophet. The Holy Prophet liked his verse (everything besides Allah is void) better than any other poetry saying "The most true word ever uttered by a poet."

1. Ibn Omr reported that two men came from the east and delivered lectures. The people was astonished at their oratory. Then the Messenger of Allah said : Verily there is sorcery in some oratory.[799] —Bukhari.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَدِمَ رَجُلَانِ مِنَ الْمَشْرِقِ فَخَطَبَا فَعَجِبَ النَّاسُ لِبَيَانِهِمَا فَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اِنَّ مِنَ الْبَيَانِ لَسِحْرًا اَلْبُخَارِيُّ

2. Obai-b-Ka'ab reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Verily there is wisdom in poetry.[800] —Agreed.

799. During the time of the Holy Prophet, two men of Banu Tasmin tribe came from the eastern country to Arabia. One of them was Hussain-b-Udi surnamed Jaburqan, and another was Amr-b-Iktam. Jabarqan eulogised himself in eloquent and argumentative terms. Amr opposed it in vehement words and spoke ill of his adversary in bitter tongue. At this the Prophet remarked that there is sorcery in some oratory. The effect of sorcery is to make one forgetful of his affairs, and he is captivated by the charms of the sorcerer. Likewise oratory has got such powerful influence as to capture the imagination of the audience and carry them for the time being. There is difference of opinion whether, by this utterance, the Prophet made oratory unlawful as in the cases of sorcery. The general opinion is that if it is for truth and religion, it is lawful ; and if it is for other objects it is unlawful.

800. It means that there are some poetries and poems which contain wisdom about the truth of the Quran, Hadis and Allah, but there are others which lead men to evil ways as they contravene the Shariat. The former is lawful, while the latter is unlawful. The latter deals with frivolous talks, novels, love-episodes and false descriptions.

4. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The most true word (ever) utterd by a poet is the word of Labeed : Behold ! everything besides Allah is void.[801]

عن ابى هريرة قال قال رسول الله صلى الله عليه وسلم اصدق كلمة قالها الشاعر كلمة لبيد الا كل شئ ماخلا الله باطل (متفق عليه)

5. Amr-b-Sharid reported from his father who said : I rode behind the Messenger of Allah one day. He enquired : Have you got with you anything of the poetry of Omayyah-b-Abi Salt ?[802] 'Yes' said I. He said : Recite it. Afterwards I recited a verse to him. He said : Recite it. Then I recited a verse to him. He said : Recite it—till I recited to him one hundred verses.

6. Jundab reported that the Messenger of Allah was in some fight and his fingers were bleeding. He said : Have you got but fingers bled, And in the way of Allah, what you met ?[803]

801. Labeed was a great Pre-Islamic poet. He lived up to 157 years. He accepted Islam at the latter part of his life and gave up reciting frivolous poems after Islam. He composed this time after Islam a verse which the Prophet greatly liked.

802. Omayyah-b-Abi Salt was a Pre-Islamic poet belonging to the tribe of Saqif and was greatly versed in the Bible and other informations regarding religion. He dealt with many religious themes in his poetries such as resurrection, angels and accounts on the Judgment-day. He was a foreign poet and introduced many foreign words in his poetry. He died in 624 A. D.

803. The Holy Prophet cheered himself up with this piece of poetic composition, when he was afflicted and wounded at the battle of Uhud. He

7. Bara'a reported that the Messenger of Allah said to Hassan-b-Sabet at the battle of Quraizah : Satirize the polytheists, and verily Gabriel is with you. The Messenger of Allah was saying to Hassan : Respond on my behalf, O Allah ! help him with the Holy Spirit.[804] —Agreed.

عَنِ الْبَرَاءِ قَالَ قَالَ النَّبِيُّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَوْمَ قُرَيْظَةَ لِحَسَّانِ بْنِ ثَابِتٍ اهْجُ الْمُشْرِكِيْنَ فَإِنَّ جِبْرِيْلَ مَعَكَ وَكَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَقُوْلُ لِحَسَّانٍ اَجِبْ عَنِّيْ اَللّٰهُمَّ اَيِّدْهُ بِرُوْحِ الْقُدُسِ مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ

8. Ayesha reported that the Messenger of Allah kept a pulpit within the mosque for Hassan that he might take his stand thereon to take pride in the Messenger of Allah or to meet opposition. The Holy Prophet used to say : Verily Allah helps Hassan with the Holy Spirit as long as he meets opposition or takes pride in the Messenger of Allah. —Bukhari.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتْ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَضَعُ لِحَسَّانٍ مِنْبَرًا فِي الْمَسْجِدِ يَقُوْمُ عَلَيْهِ قَائِمًا يُفَاخِرُ عَنْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اَوْ يُنَافِحُ وَيَقُوْلُ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اِنَّ اللّٰهَ يُؤَيِّدُ حَسَّانَ بِرُوْحِ الْقُدُسِ مَا نَافَحَ اَوْ فَاخَرَ عَنْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

recalled that his fingers were wounded and bled not for any other cause but for Allah and His religion. This recollection gave a great consolation to him, so much so that he rushed forward with some of his beloved companions and routed the enemy. This is also by way of teaching his followers that in case of affliction and wound in the way of Allah, patience should be taken with the hope of reward. The Prophet uttered this sentence as a consolation but not with the purpose of reciting a poetry. He was not a poet (36 : 69 Q).

804. Hassan-b-Sabet accepted Islam at the age of 60 years and lived in Islam for a period of another 60 years. He was a great poet both before and after Islam. He was a great satirical poet and was held in great awe by Pre-Islamic Arabs for his satires and poetical duels. That was considered more severe than the throwing of an arrow or the cut of a sword. After Islam, he was a great helper to the cause of Islam as he fought against the unbelievers on behalf of his Prophet with his satirical poetries. Banu Quraiza was a Jewish tribe living by the side of Medina. They were a constant source of troubles to the Prophet, and at the battle of the Allies, they broke treaty and fought openly against the Prophet with the Quraish. Thereafter the Prophet laid seige to their fort for a number of days to which they succumbed and surrendered.

9. Abu Hurairah reported that the Apostle of Allah said: To fill up the belly of a man with pus which destroys him is better than to fill up with poetry.[805] —Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَأَنْ يَمْتَلِئَ جَوْفُ رَجُلٍ قَيْحًا يَرِيهِ خَيْرٌ مِنْ أَنْ يَمْتَلِئَ شِعْرًا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

11. Same reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say to Hassan: Verily the Holy Spirit will not cease to help you so long as you meet opposition for the sake of Allah and His Messenger. She said: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: Hassan satirised them and cured (Muslims) and also cured himself.[807] —Muslim.

806. This shows that to satirise the polytheists and enemies of Islam is lawful. This should not, however, be first resorted to, as in that case it will invite criticism of the religion of Islam in return. This was prohibited by the Holy Quran in this verse: And don't rebuke those who call besides Allah, lest they should rebuke Allah out of enmity without knowledge (6 : 109 Q).

812. The learnings that cause ignorance are those which keep a Muslim from the knowledge of Shariat of Islam and the ultimate goal, or those which are of no use to men. True learning which gives true light is the learning of the Quran and Hadis and other religious literatures which greatly help the progress of soul. Some interpret it by saying that the learning which does not correspond to actions of a man has been said to cause ignorance. 'There is return in some speech' means that the speech returns to the speaker or the words spoken can not make the illiterate understand or that they are of no use to the literate who know them or who are more learned than the speaker.

817. The Holy Prophet did not prohibit Ibn Omar to hear the voice of the flute as he was young.

816 MUSIC*

(a) Differences of opinion.

Music stands on the same footing with poetry. The good of it is good and the bad of it is bad (12 : 281w). There is however a great difference of opinion among principal jurists with regard to the legality or otherwise of music. Qazi Abu Tayyeb Tabari holds it as unlawful along with Imam Malek. Imam Shafeyi, Abu Hanifah, Sufyan Sauri and Hammad took the mean view and maintained that it is Makruh (abominable) bordering on illegality. Abu Taleb Makki, Imam Gazzali* and some modern jurists held it as lawful on the basis of the sayings and doings of some of the companions of the Prophet like Abdullah-b-Ja'far, Abdullah-b-Jubair, Mugirah-b-Shu'bah and Muwayiah. They were followed by Ata'a, Junaid and Abul Hasan-b-Salem. The right decision on this subject-matter regarding legality and illegality of music is that song is in itself lawful but it becomes unlawful (Haram), abominable (Makruh) and laudable (Mustahab) according to times, circumstances, places, motives and kinds of songs.

(b) Grounds of legality.

There are songs in nature, some with voice and some without voice. Birds sing, rivers sing, children are lulled into sleep by songs, labourers carrying big loads lift up strength by singing, washermen speed their work by singing, boatmen take courage in mid sea by songs, and active men give impetus to their works by songs So song lives in nature and has been created with nature. It can't be banished from nature. He who has got no music within himself is a man of hard heart, and the remotest of men from Allah is the hard heart (4 : 4)

Heart is the treasure-house of secrets. It can be opened by the key of songs. Heart is a mine of jewels. They are hidden in it as fire is hidden in stones, or as water is hidden underneath the ground. There's no way getting into these hidden jewels but by creation of commotion in heart. It is only music that can effectively create commotion in heart just as the throw of a stone in a tank creates commotion in water. Songs can therefore rouse up feelings of joy, sorrow and courage, and thus they give impetus to our actions and prayers. Sweet melodious songs take out what is in heart and expose its virtues and vices. Songs make the virtuous more virtuous and the sinners more sinful, as they rouse up virtues from a virtuous heart and sin from a sinful heart Hence they act differently in different minds though they are by themselves not unlawful as the same rain-water produces sweetness in mangoes and bitterness in aloes.

* Imam Gazzali devoted a chapter on songs in his Yahya-ul ulum, Vol. II., P. 238. The decisions have been taken mostly from this book.

Allah is beautiful and He loves beauty (Hadis). As we are to follow the attributes of Allah according to the instruction of the Holy Prophet, we should also love beauty in nature to realise the Great Beautiful. There is no harm therefore in appreciating and realising beauty in the various phenomena of nature with that great object in view. Beauty can be realised through sense organs—eye, ear, nose, hand, tongue, brain and heart. The fragrance of a flower can be appreciated by sight and smell, softness by touch, foods by tongue, wisdom by brain and love by heart. This realisation of natural beauty is certainly not unlawful. Similarly to hear by ear melodious songs and music is not also unlawful. We come therefore now to sweet voice.

Sweet voice is a precious thing and there was no Prophet who had not sweet voice (12 : 25). The Almighty likes sweet voice, and not to speak of men. He says : And lower your voice ; verily the most detestable of voices is certainly the braying of the asses (31 : 19 Q). He said about Prophet David : We gave David excellence from Us (34 : 10 Q). This excellence has been explained to be melodious voice. David could sing so well with his religious scripture 'Zabur' that four hundred men, it is said, breathed their last every day in his assembly of music. The Holy Prophet said : Allah heard nothing(sweeter) than what he heard from the Prophet—his singing with the Quran-37 : 59. Therfore sweet voice is liked by the Creator and also by the created. Sweet voice is of two kinds—rhythmical and rhythmless. Rhythmical sweet voice is more pleasing than the rhythmless sweet voice. The former includes songs and poetries and the latter general talks. The good of general talk and poetry is good and the bad of general talk and poetry is bad—12 : 281 w. Similarly, the good of music is good and the bad of music is bad. The same thing in the world has got good and bad effects. Food is lawful but the excessive quantity is unlawful. Even a moderate quantity of food becomes unlawful for a man of sudden high inflammation of bowel-intestines. The same is the case with music. It has been stated in the Hedayah that the word 'unlawful' can not be used if there is no express provision in the Quran.[1] Maulana Abdul Haq of Delhi discussed about song in his book.[2] and said that the good of it is generally lawful. Hence the good songs are allowed.

(c) Difference kinds of songs This takes us to deal with the different kinds of songs on different occasions.

(i) War-song. It is unanimously lawful in Zihad and other hard struggles in the way of Allah. It excites heroism and valour in the minds of the general public to take the sword for the cause of Allah. In this sense, heroic poems are also lawful. Hazrat Ali and Khalid and even the Holy Prophet used sometimes to have recourse to this method to rouse up dormant feelings of soldiers of Islam. He permitted poets Hassan-b-Sabit, Abdullah-b-Rawwahah and Ka'ab-b Juhair for this purpose. The Prophet once went to Rubai and saw some young girls beating 'daf' and singing the deeds of the martyrs of the Battle of Badar. At that time, one of them was singing "And in our midst there is a Prophet who knows what will occur to-morrow.' He said : Give it up and say what you were saying (27 : 45). At the time of actual fight and in the act of defence, such songs have been prescribed (12 : 23). Thin low voice and its instruments are not allowed in war as instead of rousing up courage, they bring grief and cowardice.

(ii) Song in religious acts. This is also allowed for a pilgrim in order to remove loneliness or acute feeling of absence from home. These songs may deal with the descriptions of the Holy Ka'ba and the rewards for pilgrimage. In prayers, songs with the Quran are allowed. In invocations and supplications, songs in any language are also allowed. The Holy Prophet said : He is not of us who does not sing with the Quran (37 : 61). Adorn the Quran with your voice (37 : 66). Allah is not attentive to anything what He is attentive to His Prophet—his excellent loud voice with the Quran-reading (37 : 60). Abu Musa was once praised by the Prophet for his excellent Quran reading saying : You have been given the melodious flute like the melodious flute of the family of David (Hadis). Read the Quran with your best voice, because good sound adds beauty to the Quran (37 : 598w).

(iii) Love-songs for Allah. To realise the beauty of Allah either by the songs dealing with the descriptions of His attributes or with His workmanship as revealed in nature is not only lawful as aforesaid but Mustahab (laudable) if such song increases love for Allah and purifies the heart. It is only the heart that is examined by Allah for salvation. The Prophet said : Verily Allah looks not to your figures, nor to your wealth, but He looks to your hearts and deeds (1 : 3). Song is the best means to stir up the heart and to set it in motion in the path of love of Allah. The followers of 'Ma'arfat' find extreme pleasure to rouse up their feelings of love towards the Almighty by songs.[1]

(iv) Mourning songs. Mourning is concerned with two things—with past things or dead friends and relatives, or by way of repentance for past sins. The former is unlawful while the latter is perfectly lawful. The Quran says : So that you may not greive for what missed you (57 : 23 Q). Mourning songs or Marsiyah for the dead have been prohibited (Haram) though weeping for three days is allowed. The Prophet David's psalms for past wrongs are well-known and the Bible deals elaborately with his psalms. This shows that songs by way of repentance for past wrongs and sins are lawful.

(v) Love-songs. Such songs are lawful if the object of love is lawful, and unlawful if the object of love is unlawful. Songs for increasing love for legally married wives comes under the former category while songs for strange women or such songs as excite love for strange women or as have tendency towards immorality are unlawful. Descriptions of beauties of women and beardless boys in general come within illegality. The reason of prohibition is that the harms brought by such songs are greater than their benefits. This was also the reason why wine was prohibited.

(vi) Songs out of joy. Songs arising out of joy and on occasions of festivals are generally lawful. These are the following occasions of joy on which songs are usually held.

(1) Marriage. In marriage and marriage feast, innocent songs attended with beating of 'daf' and some musical instruments are unanimously lawful. There are innumerable occasions on which the Holy Prophet allowed them. When a woman was married to an Ansar, Prophet said : Was there no amusement with you ? Verily the Ansars love amusement(27 : 46.). He said on another occasion : Proclaim this marriage, solemnise it in mosques, and beat 'daf' over it (27 : 47). Once the Prophet said to Ayesha when the latter gave her adopted daughter in marriage : O Ayesha ! why have you not sent girls to sing, because this tribe of the Ansars love songs ? Some companions said : (Singing) has been made lawful for us in amusement at the time of marriage (27 : 51). For further light, see note 1331.

(2) I'd festivals. There are only two great festivals in Islam, the festivals of Id-ul-Azha and Id-ul-Fitr. As there is no provision for any other festival, some amusements are allowed with songs and plays (12 : 22) in these two festivals like the festival of marriage. See note 1996 for further discussion.

(vii) Songs on other occasions. Songs are lawful by way of amusements on the arrival of a guest or a great man or a relative from a distant land, or on the birth of a son or daughter, or on the occasion of circumcision ceremony. The Prophet was sometimes greeted with songs and beatings of 'daf' on his arrival from Zihad. Once a woman made a vow that she would sing with daf on the occasion of the arrival of the Prophet. The Holy Prophet allowed her to fulfil her vow in this way (24 : 32). Hedayah says: Whoso is called to a marriage-feast or a simple feast and finds therein plays or songs, there's no harm for him to sit there and and to take food.[1] General innocent songs which have got no tinge of immorality therein or obscene descriptions are lawful. Once the Negroes were playing by beating 'dafs' within the mosque. The Holy Prophet saw the play with Ayesha (2 : 52). So also the case about singing for oneself or musing within oneself. Imam Abu Hanifa says : As for one who sings for himself to remove loneliness or to gain pleasure of soul, there's no harm in it. On the contrary if there is admonition therein, it is unanimously lawful.[2] Hedayah and Alamgiri corroborate it. It has been narrated[3] that some companions indulged in such innocent songs. Those were Abdur Rahman-b-Auf, Sa'ad-b-Abi Waqqas, Abu Mas'ud Ansari, Bilal, Abdullah-b-Ayham, Abdullah-b-Ja'far and others.

(d) Instruments of songs. The above decisions are also applicable in the instruments of songs. Instruments add beauty, rhythm and continuity to sweet voices. When the song is good and lawful, it can be lawfully sung with instrument and when the song is bad and unlawful, it is also unlawful to play musical instruments. There were many occasions on which the Prophet allowed the beating of 'Daf' which was then prevalent in Mecca and Medina. If 'Daf' was allowed, there is no reason why the other musical instruments are unlawful. There are, however, some exceptions. It is unanimously unlawful to play on such musical instruments as were connected with wine-drinking and prostitution such as اَوْتَار (such musical instruments as have got strings), and مَزَامِير (such musical instruments as have got chords like harmonium) and اَلْكُوبَة (drum)[1] They were made unlawful as they remind people of unlawful things, such as wine-drinking and commission of forntication.

1. Hedayah, 4th Vol., P. 439. 2. Durre Mukhtar Vol. 14, P, 59,
3. Umdatur Ruwaya and Quduri,

(e) Unlawful songs. Besides what has been narrated above, it may be noted that immoral songs or songs that have got tendency towards misguidance and immorality are unlawful. Innocent songs also become unlawful when sung by grown up girls in the midst of men because they have greater probability of rousing up passions. Similar is the case with young beardless boys who sing in the midst of women and girls or in the midst of immoral men.[2] In this sense, organised singing and band parties as in theatres and bioscopes or in thousand other performances are unlawful, because there are men and women present there whose passions are roused up by the shows and because they contain generally love-songs and love-pictures. The general public have got a very low hold on their passions and therefore utmost preventive measures have been taken by Islam by making such songs illegal. It must be noted that the Prophet did not himself indulge in frequent songs and amusements as these are after all the vain things of this world. We Muslims also should guard ourselves against any loophole of corruption. (Allah knows best)

21. Abu Omamah reported that the Apostle of Allah said : Sell not singing girls, nor buy them, nor train them, and their price is unlawful. And in accordance with it, it

22. Ayesha reported that Abu Bakr came to her while there were two girls near her in the days of Mina. They were playing on 'daf' and beating. (And in a narration: They were singing with what the Ansars sang on the Day of Buas) while the Prophet was covered with his cloth. Abu Bakr threatened them. Then the Prophet disclosed his face and said: Leave them, O Abu Bakr, because these are the days of festival. And in a narration: O Abu Bakr! verily there is festival for every people, and this is our festival.[819]

—Agreed.

23. Bara'a reported that the Apostle of Allah was digging earth on the Day of the Ditch till his belly was covered with earth. He was singing:[820]

وَفِي مِثْلِ هٰذَا أُنْزِلَتْ وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَنْ يَشْتَرِي لَهْوَ الْحَدِيثِ (أحمد وابن ماجة والترمذي - غريب).

818. This was revealed at a time when Nazar-b-Haris purchased some singing girls. The purchase of singing girls and selling them for such purpose are strictly unlawful. This verse is said to have prohibited songs. It is said, however, by Imam Gazzali that this applied to those who purchase songs in exchange of the religion of Islam and contrary to the teachings of the Quran.

819. So it appears that on I'd days, innocent songs and playing on musical instruments are allowed.

820. The battle of the Allies or the Ditch took place at 5 A. H. The Quraish were 24,000 in number aided by the Jews, Christians and the hypocrites, and the Holy Prophet had only 2000 untrained Muslims to combat them. At this juncture, the Holy Paophet with his companions dug a ditch at the instance of Salman the Persian in the southern side of Medina who was open to attack. The Prophet participated in digging earth like an ordinary labourer, and every Muslim being covered with earth and dust began to sing these verses in chorus composed by Abdullah-b Rawwahah, repeating the last line with a loud voice. The enemies were after all routed through the grace of the Almighty.

821. The camel drivers' songs in rhythmic foot-steps of camels as they go on in journey are quite lawful according to the unanimous opinion of the jurists. This shows that in order to enliven spirit and mind at the time of fatigue, some sort of pure innocent songs are allowed. The Holy Prophet himself practised it as this tradition shows. When camels hear sweet songs, they walk fast. The Prophet therefore instructed his driver Anjashah to drive the camel slowly as there were women-riders on the back who were not accustomed to great jerkings caused by the onward march of speedy camels. Some interpret it by saying that sweet songs might captivate the minds of the women-riders who were prone to easy love and passion.

25. Qatadah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Allah sent no prophet but had no sweet voice.[822] —Tirmizi.

عَنْ قَتَادَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَا بَعَثَ اللّٰهُ نَبِيًّا اِلَّا حُسْنَ الصَّوْتِ (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

283w. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Song generates hypocrisy in heart as water grows crops.[823] —Baihaqi.

284w. Abu Omamah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : None raised up his voice with a song but Allah sent for him two devils upon his shoulders who beat his chest with their heels till he stopped.[824] —Tibrani

CHAPTER XIII

824. Debt (دَيْنٌ)

(a) Siginificance of Debt. Debt implies want, and all creatures including men are in want of something or other. Only the Almighty Allah is without want. He is alone Self-sufficient (114 : 2 Q). Therefore all in want and helplessness should seek help from

822. There is a great significance in this statement. Prophets were sent for propagation of Islam which began from Adam. In order that the people might effectively hear their words, they were given musical voice. This shows that there is necessity of music to make the people hear. The Quran was revealed with the best sounds and with the best inner meanings.

823. Polytheism and hypocrisy are the greatest sins in Islam. See note 364 for full discussion. The causes which create these sins must be first eradicated. The Holy Prophet speaks of bad songs attended with musical instruments as the causes of hypocrisy. The truth of this assertion is to be found in the fact that the persons who love songs with musical instruments are morally bankrupt in majority of cases.

823a. This applies to bad and immoral songs. This tradition has been taken from Yahyaul Ulum of Immam Guzzali—Vol. II,, P. 251.

One who has got no want. But even without seeking, He is helping us at every moment. We are therefore greatly indebted to Him, indebted for our temporal and spiritual needs. Man also should imbue himself with divine attributes (Hadis). He should extend his helping hand to his brother who is in want, irrespective of his seeking it or not. This may be done in two ways : Loan with condition of repayment or gratuitous loan without any compensation, or gift. The case of gift has been dealt in note 966. Islam, however, does not recognise loan with interest It recognises only gratuitous loan (قرضة حسنة). How far it is successful as a wordly policy for wordly business, only time will judge. The recent legislations and legislative efforts for reducing interests are sufficient indications. The Quran and Hadis speak of great merits in Qarze Hasanah. Nobody likes the pound-of-flesh policy of Shylock the Jew in قرضة حسنة . It is a loan without compensation or interest for benefit of the debtor. The Holy Quran says : If you offer to Allah a gratuitous loan, He will double it for you and forgive you—64 : 17 Q. Surely (those who) extend a gratuitous loan to Allah, it shall be doubled for them, and they shall have a noble reward—57 : 18 Q. Who is there that will extend to Allah a good loan ; so He will double it for him, and he shall have an excellent reward—57 : 11 Q ? Who is it that will offer to Allah a good loan, so He will multiply it to him manifold ? And Allah straitens and amplifies, and to Him you will return—2 : 245 Q. There is another significance of 'Dain' in its wider sense. That comprises all rights of men such as dues of property, honour and backbiting. A man backbites another and destorys his honour. This is a debt due to the backbited person for his diminution of honour before the public.

(b) No intrinsic value of coins. The Holy Prophet left no stone unturned in teaching what will come to pass up to the Day of Resurrection. He solved the question of debtors and creditors, capital and labour, 14 hundred years ago, which remains still a puzzle to many civilized nations of the modern world. He thought that silver and gold are mere pieces of stones and have got no intrinsic value of their own. Their value lies only in their exchanging power which supplies us food, clothing and abode. Everyone requiring these things should be helped first with them, and in default with the exchanging factor which forms therefore the nucleus of trade and commerce.

(c) Warning against indebtedness. Islam lays special emphasis against indebtedness of men in general and Muslims in particular. The principle is applicable to nations and estates. What is true to individuals is true to nations and governments. Debt ruins a man. So also it ruins nations and estates. This can be easily guessed from the severe warnings that are given to debts left unsatisfied by the creditor nations. All the sins of a martyr may be forgiven except debt—23 : 19, 20 ; and the Prophet did not himself said funeral prayer over a deceased debtor who left nothing to satisfy his debt—13 : 8. Such being the great warning, greatest precaution should be taken in contracting debts. Payment of debt is a first charge upon the estate of the deceased, because the soul of a man remains confined until his debts are satisfied—13 : 13 ; 22 : 39. Such being the stress laid by Islam about unsatisfied debts, the Muslims should remain always free from debt, as there is no trust in breath. Curious it is that they are the major victims of creditors. Looking to another side, it is seen that there is absence of peace of mind in the mind of a debtor and therefore he knows no rest. Such mind cannot be a fountain of wisdom and knowledge. Therefore a debtor should try to remain free from debt and pray as follows : O Allah ! I seek refuge to Thee from overwhelming debt and oppression of men—38 : 186. Even when the deceased leaves no property, his heir should satisfy the debt—36 : 8. There is stress even on intention of taking a loan. The Prophet said : Whoever takes a loan with intention of not returning it is a thief—1 : 9. Debtors are even entitled to Zakat though they have got property.

(d) Generally neglected debts. The following are some of the neglected debts to which men attach little importance :—

(i) Dower-debt. It is a debt of the husband as consideration of marriage. It is just like other bonafide debts. Property given to a wife in lieu of dower cannot be taken by other creditors.

(ii) Dues of co-sharers. This specially happens in cases of females who are generally deprived of their due and legitimate shares in paternal property. No account among several co-owners of a property or business is regularly kept in majority of cases. This is suicidal from a secular and religious point of view.

(iii) Dues of servants and slaves. These dues should be paid as early as possible. The Holy Prophet said : Give the labourer his dues before his sweat dries up (19 : 6).

(iv) Debts of honour. These are presents of those who gave them at the time of marriage or other ceremonies in expectation of return on similar occasions.

(e) Formalities of loan. Loans may be contracted for necessities of life and up-keep of religious, missionary or zihad activities. The Holy Prophet is seen to have contracted debts at times to procure food and articles of war (13 : 16). The following formalities must be observed in a loan. (i) It must be put in black and white. (ii) The scribe is to write according to the dictates of the debtor himself, or if he is unsound or minor, of his guardian. (iii) There shall be at least two witnesses to the transaction. (iv) There should be clear mention of time when the loan will be repaid. The Quran says to this effect : O you who believe ! when you deal with each other in contracting a debt for a fixed time, write it down and let a scribe between you write down with fairness (2 : 282 Q).

(f) Duties of creditors. As Islam lays special stress towards satisfaction of debts and loans, it does not forget to regulate the duties of creditors towards debtors. As is the case with individuals, so is with nations. The creditor nations should extend lenient hand towards nations in debt. The very principle of the Quran is to encourage culture of virtues in this world. The debtors who are unable to pay should be shown absolute leniency; and in fit cases,the entire debt should be remitted. The Holy Quran says : And if the debtor is in straitness, then let there be postponement until he is in ease, and if you remit it as alms, it is better for you if you know (2 : 280 Q). Therefore lenient dealings, and postponement of demand and ultimately remission in case of inability of payment have been recommended by the Holy Quran and Hadis. The merits of such a treatment have been promised in Hadis 13 : 288w. Creditors cannot accept advantage over debtors. They cannot accept presents from the debtors unless there was such practice previous to the loan—13 : 20, 18.

(g) Debts of a poor man shall paid by the Estate. In case of poor debtors leaving nothing to satisfy their debts, the Estate should clear off their incumbrances by payment from the Public Treasury. The Holy Prophet undertook this burden upon his government—22 : 39, 48 ; 13 : 12.

(1) Abu Huraicah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : There was a man who used to give loan to the people. He used often to say to his son : When you come to a needy man, grant him remission, so that Allah may remit us (of sins). He said that he then met Allah and He granted him pardon. —Agreed.

عن ابى قتادة قال سمعت رسول الله صلعم يقول من انظر معسرا اووضع عنه انجاه الله من كرب يوم القيامة (مسلم)

4. Abu Rafe' reported that the Messenger of Allah took loan of a young camel. Afterwards, camels of zakat were brought to him. Abu Rafe' said :

عن ابى رافع قال استسلف رسول الله صلعم بكرا فجائته ابل من الصدقة قال

825. On the Resurrection Day, there will be intense heat and there will be no place to find shelter or shade to save oneself. Things will become such as "no eye hath seen, no ear hath heard, and no heart hath conceived." In that grave hour of crisis, the only solace will be to find shade under His shade. Those who remit loans to a distressed man may find such a shade.

He directed me to repay a youg camel to the man. I said : I don't find except a good camel of four years old. Then the Holy Prophet said : Give it to him, and verily the best of men is he who is best among them in payment.[826]

—Muslim.

5. Abu Hurairah reported that a man demanded of the Holy Prophet for repayment of a loan and was greatly harsh to him. His companions were about to attack him, but he said : Leave him, as the creditor has got a demand.[827] Buy a camel for him and give it to him. They said : We don't but find senior to it in years. He said : Then buy it and give it to him, and verily the best of you is he who is best of you in repayment of loan. —Agreed.

6. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Delay of a rich man is oppression ; but when someone of you is entrusted to a rich man, let him accept the trust.[828] —Agreed.

826. This important pronouncement bespeaks of a great policy for wordly business, and this is the real solution of quarrels and disputes between creditors and debtors. Extreme leniency to debtors and favour to creditors are both bad. Islam inculcates the middle path for smooth working of wordly business. It recognises rights of creditors and liabilities of debtors. Had there been no such recognition, there would have been dead-lock in monetary transactions.

827. The creditor is entitled to a demand for payment of a loan, and it is not sinful if the demand be rather harsh, but the best one is he who makes his demand good. It is therefore seen that in case of non-payment, demand can be made and it is a condition precedent to any litigation. It may be made before court or arbitrator in the form of complaint.

828. Delay of a solvent man in repaying debts, loans and prices of things is more heinous. It is nothing but committing the sin of oppression. The theologians hold that testimony of such a man cannot be accepted. If a debt is handed over by the debtor to a solvent man for payment of the loan to the creditor, the latter should accept it.

7. Ka'b-b-Malek reported that he made demand to Ibn Ali Hadrad within the mosque of a loan which he owed to him at the time of the Holy Prophet. Their voices were so loud that the Prophet heard it while he was within the mosque. The Holy Prophet came out to him till the screen of his room was exposed He called Ka'ab-b-Malek. He asked : O Ka'ab ! 'Present' replied he 'O Messenger of Allah ! Then he hinted with his finger : Remit half of your debt. Ka'ab said : O Prophet of Allah! I have just done." He said (to debtor): Get up, and pay it remaining half)[829]

عَنْ كَعْبِ بْنِ مَالِكٍ اَنَّهُ تَقَاضَى ابْنَ اَبِي حَدْرَدٍ دَيْنًا لَهُ عَلَيْهِ فِي عَهْدِ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم فِي الْمَسْجِدِ فَارْتَفَعَتْ اَصْوَاتُهُمَا حَتّٰى سَمِعَهَا رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم وَهُوَ فِي بَيْتِهِ فَخَرَجَ اِلَيْهِمَا رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم حَتّٰى كَشَفَ سِجْفَ حُجْرَتِهِ وَنَادٰى كَعْبَ بْنَ مَالِكٍ قَالَ يَا كَعْبُ قَالَ لَبَّيْكَ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ فَاَشَارَ بِيَدِهِ اَنْ ضَعِ الشَّطْرَ مِنْ دَيْنِكَ قَالَ كَعْبٌ قَدْ فَعَلْتُ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ قَالَ قُمْ فَاقْضِهِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

8. Salamah-b-al Akwa'a reported : We were seated near the Holy Prophet when a dead body was brought for prayer. They said : Say prayer for him. He said : Is there any debt due from him ? They replied "No". Then he led prayer for him. Then another dead body was brought. He enquired : Has he got any dues ? 'Yes' it was said. He asked : Has he left anything ? They replied : Three dinars. Then he led prayer for him. Afterwards a third one was brought. He asked : Has he got any debt ? They replied : Three dinars. He said : Has

عَنْ سَلَمَةَ بْنِ الْاَكْوَعِ قَالَ كُنَّا جُلُوْسًا عِنْدَ النَّبِيِّ صلعم اِذْ اُتِيَ بِجَنَازَةٍ فَقَالُوْا صَلِّ عَلَيْهَا فَقَالَ هَلْ عَلَيْهِ دَيْنٌ قَالُوْا لَا فَصَلّٰى عَلَيْهَا ثُمَّ اُتِيَ بِجَنَازَةٍ اُخْرٰى فَقَالَ هَلْ عَلَيْهِ دَيْنٌ قِيْلَ نَعَمْ قَالَ فَهَلْ تَرَكَ شَيْئًا قَالُوْا ثَلٰثَةَ دَنَانِيْرَ فَصَلّٰى عَلَيْهَا ثُمَّ اُتِيَ بِالثَّالِثَةِ فَقَالَ هَلْ عَلَيْهِ دَيْنٌ قَالُوْا ثَلَاثَةُ دَنَانِيْرَ قَالَ هَلْ تَرَكَ شَيْئًا

829. This shows that the teachings of the Holy Prophet were all directed to remove human sufferings and wants. For this he has been termed 'mercy of the worlds'—(21 : 107 Q). It appears that demand for repayment of a loan within the mosque is lawful and that there should be settlement between debtors and creditors in case of contest.

he left anything ? "No" replied they. He then said : Say prayer for your companion. Abu Qatadah requested : Say prayer for him, O Messenger of Allah ; his debt is upon me. Then he led prayer for him.[830]

—Bukhari.

قَالُوْا لَا قَالَ صَلُّوْا عَلٰى صَاحِبِكُمْ قَالَ اَبُوْ قَتَادَةَ صَلِّ عَلَيْهِ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ وَعَلَىَّ دَيْنُهٗ فَصَلّٰى عَلَيْهِ

(اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

9. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoso takes loan of the properties of men intending to pay it back, Allah gives him means to pay it, and whoso takes loan intending to destroy it, Allah will destroy him for it. —Bukhari.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ عَنِ النَّبِىِّ صلعم قَالَ مَنْ اَخَذَ اَمْوَالَ النَّاسِ يُرِيْدُ اَدَاءَهَا اَدّٰى اللّٰهُ عَنْهُ وَمَنْ اَخَذَ يُرِيْدُ اِتْلَافَهَا اَتْلَفَهُ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ

(اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

10. Abu Qatadah reported that a man enquired : O Messenger of Allah ! inform me that if I be killed in the way of Allah, patient, hopeful of reward, advancing forward without retreating, Allah will whether forgive my sins. "Yes" replied the Apostle of Allah. When he retraced his steps, he called him and said : Yes, except debt. Thus said Gabriel.[831] Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِىْ قَتَادَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَجُلٌ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ اَرَاَيْتَ اِنْ قُتِلْتُ فِىْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ صَابِرًا مُحْتَسِبًا مُقْبِلًا غَيْرَ مُدْبِرٍ يُكَفِّرُ اللّٰهُ عَنِّىْ خَطَايَايَ فَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم نَعَمْ فَلَمَّا اَدْبَرَ نَادَاهُ فَقَالَ نَعَمْ اِلَّا الدَّيْنَ كَذٰلِكَ قَالَ جِبْرَئِيْلُ

830. We can guess from this Hadis what a great stress was laid by the Holy Prophet for repayment of debts and loans. Yet inspite of this, we are forgetful or unmindful of what we have got as dues and even venture to deny the loan altogether when demanded. This does not mean that the Holy Prophet prohibited funeral service over a deceased debtor. Imam Shafeyi and others hold it lawful irrespective of the fact whether the debtor left any property or not. Imam Abu Hanifa holds funeral service on a debtor as unlawful. Imams Abu Yusuf and Muhammad differ from their master and say that security is sufficient for a deceased debtor who left no property.

831. Rights of men upon men are great, and the sin of infringement of a right is not forgiven till the man to whom the right is due forgives the defaulter. How many of us neglect this great pronouncement of the Holy Prophet and even deny loans taken on bonds, handnotes, receipts and documents.

11. Abdullah-b-Amr reported that the Apostle of Allah said: Every sin of a martyr shall be forgiven except debt.[832] —Muslim.

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ بْنِ عَمْرٍو اَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم قَالَ يُغْفَرُ لِلشَّهِيْدِ كُلُّ ذَنْبٍ اِلَّا الدَّيْنَ (مسلم)

12. Abu Hurairah reported that a dead man leaving debt due from him, being brought before the Messenger of Allah, was asked: Has he left any source of payment for his debt? If he was informed that he left means for payment, he said funeral prayer, but if not, he used to address the Muslims: Say prayer for your companions. When Allah granted him victories, he stood and said: I am an object of love of the Muslims more than themselves So whoso among the believers dies and leaves debt, then its payment is on me, and whoso leaves property, it is for his heirs.[833] —Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ كَانَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يُؤْتٰى بِالرَّجُلِ الْمُتَوَفّٰى عَلَيْهِ الدَّيْنُ فَيَسْاَلُ هَلْ تَرَكَ لِدَيْنِهٖ قَضَاءً فَاِنْ حُدِّثَ اَنَّهٗ تَرَكَ وَفَاءً صَلّٰى وَاِلَّا قَالَ لِلْمُسْلِمِيْنَ صَلُّوْا عَلٰى صَاحِبِكُمْ فَلَمَّا فَتَحَ اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ الْفُتُوْحَ قَامَ فَقَالَ اَنَا اَوْلٰى بِالْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ مِنْ اَنْفُسِهِمْ فَمَنْ تُوُفِّىَ مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِيْنَ فَتَرَكَ دَيْنًا فَعَلَىَّ قَضَاؤُهٗ وَمَنْ تَرَكَ مَالًا فَهُوَ لِوَرَثَتِهٖ (متفق عليه)

13. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: The soul of the believer remains hanging with his debt till it is paid. Shafeyi, Ahmad, Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ اَبِىْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم نَفْسُ الْمُؤْمِنِ مُعَلَّقَةٌ بِدَيْنِهٖ حَتّٰى يُقْضٰى عَنْهُ (اَلشَّافِعِىُّ وَاَحْمَدُ وَالتِّرْمِذِىُّ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

832. "Dain" signifies all rights of men and not simply debt such as dues of property, blood, honour, and backbiting. If a person is defamed, slandered, or backbited, his rights are considered to be infringed. The backbiter owes a debt to him for this. This tradition shows that Gabriel took revelation besides what is in the Quran to the Prophet, that is, Hadis Qudsi.

833. This shows that debts left by individuals without any property are the concerns of the Estate for payment from the Public Treasury of the ruling king In the Exchequer of Islam, there was compulsory provision for the poor, destitute and those involved in debts without means of repayment. This principle has been forgotten by modern estates. The Muslim estates should recognise these loans as national debts to be paid out of the booty gained in conquest.

14. Abu Musa reported from the Prophet who said : Verily the greatest of sins to Allah with which a man shall meet Him after the great sins which Allah prohibited is a man's dying with debt outstanding but leaving nothing for its payment.

—Ahmad, Abu Daud.

834. In absence of contract, payment of debt voluntarily with excess amount is lawful This will not be considered as interest which is a contract for excess of the principal lent and which is demanded by the creditor.

835. If the rich man does not hasten to pay his debt, harsh words can lawfully be used with him, and he may be imprisoned according to the order of the judge. Thus there is civil imprisonment in Islam for non-payment of debt by a solvent man.

18. Anas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : When someone of you gives a loan, and then he (debtor) sends present to him or carries him upon a beast—don't ride on it, nor accept it unless it existed between them previous to it.[836] —Ibn Majah, Baihaqi.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اِذَا اَقْرَضَ اَحَدُكُمْ قَرْضًا فَاَهْدٰى اِلَيْهِ اَوْ حَمَلَهٗ عَلَى الدَّابَّةِ فَلَا يَرْكَبْهُ وَلَا يَقْبَلْهَا اِلَّا اَنْ يَكُوْنَ جَرٰى بَيْنَهٗ وَبَيْنَهٗ قَبْلَ ذٰلِكَ

19. Same reported from the Holy Prophet who said : When a man advances loan to someone of you, let him not take present. —Bukhari.

عَنْهُ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ اِذَا اَقْرَضَ الرَّجُلُ اَحَدَكُمْ فَلَا يَاْخُذْ هَدِيَّةً (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

20. Abu Burdah-b-Musa reported : I came to Medina and met Abdullah-b-Salam. He said : Verily you are in a land wherein usury is prevalent. So when you have got dues from a man, and the latter gives you present of a load of figs or a load of wheat or a load of grass, don't accept it as it is usury.

—Bukhari.

285w. Bara'a-b-A'Jib reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The debtor will remain confined in his debt complaining to his One Lord on the Resurrection Day.

عَنِ الْبَرَاءِ بْنِ عَازِبٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم صَاحِبُ الدَّيْنِ مَاسُوْرٌ بِدَيْنِهٖ يَشْكُوْ اِلٰى رَبِّهِ الْوَحْدَةَ يَوْمَ الْقِيٰمَةِ (شرح السنة)

836. Whatever is acquired towards profit from the debtor is usury unless there was practice of sending presents to each other previous to the loan. It is stated in 'Malabudda-Minhu' that a creditor should not even accept invitation from a debtor except as aforesaid.

and his creditor came to the Holy Prophet. So the Prophet purchased all his properties in exchange of his debt till Mu'az stood penniless.[837]

286w. Abdur Rahman-b-Ka'ab-b-Malek reported that Mu'az-b-Jabal was a benevolent young man, and was not earning anything. Then he continued to be in debt, till all his properties were involved in debt. He came to the Prophet and talked with him that he might request his creditors that if they would remit for anybody, they should remit for Mu'az on account of the Holy Prophet. Then the Prophet purchased his property for them, till Mu'az stood penniless. —Sayeed (Defective).

287w. Abu Sayeed al-Khudri reported that a dead body was brought to the Messenger of Allah for funeral prayer over it. He enquired : Is there any debt due from your companion ? 'Yes' said they. He asked : Has he left anything for payment ? 'No' said he. He then said : Pray for your companion. Ali-b-Abi Taleb said : O Messenger of Allah ! his debt is upon me. Then he stepped forward and led prayer for him. In a narration of the same meaning he said : May Allah save your surety from fire as you saved

288w. Imran-b-Hussain reported that the Messenger of of Allah said : Whoso has got dues for him from a man and then gives time to him (for repayment), there is a charity for him every day. —Ahmad.

289w. Sa'ad-b-al-atwal reported : My brother died and left 300 dinars and left behind minor children. Then I wished to spend (it) for them. The Messenger of Allah said to me : Verily your brother is in prison for his debt, so pay him off. He said : Then I went, paid him, returned and said : O Messenger of Allah ! I have paid him, and there remains none except a woman who claims two dinars without any proof for her. He said : Pay her, as she is truthful.[838]

—Ahmad.

290w. Mohammad-b-Abdullah reported : We were seated on the terrace of the mosque where dead bodies were kept, and the Apostle of Allah was seated behind our backs.

رِهَانَ اَخِيكَ الْمُسْلِمِ لَيْسَ مِنْ عَبْدٍ مُسْلِمٍ يَقْضِي عَنْ اَخِيهِ دَيْنَهُ اِلَّا فَكَّ اللّٰهُ رِهَانَهُ يَوْمَ الْقِيٰمَةِ (شَرْحُ السُّنَّةِ)

838. This tradition proves that payment of dues and debts of the deceased stands against his assets. They must first be paid, and then what will remain will devolve upon his heirs.

The Apostle of Allah raised up his look towards heaven and recognised, and then cast his look down and placed his hand upon his forehead. He exclaimed : Glory to Allah ! Glory to Allah ! What a great warning has just come down ! He (narrator) said : Then we remained silent for our one day and our one night but we did find nothing but good, till dawn came over us. Muhammad said : I asked the Messenger of Allah : what is the great warning which has just come down ? He said : Regarding debt. And by One in whose Hand there is the life of Muhammad, if a man be killed in the way of Allah and then raised to life, and again be killed in the way of Allah and again raised to life, and again be killed in the way of Allah and again raised to life with debt due from him, he shall not enter paradise till his debt is satisfied.

CHAPTER XIII

839. Insolvency

The Islamic law of Insolvency is that the creditors can take possession of every thing of debtor except his person which is free from being molested or sent to prison. There is no civil prison in Islam for a debtor, as by imprisonment the loan can not be realised owing to the insolvent's possessing no property of any kind. This is signified by Prophet's word—"There is nothing for you except that" in 13 : 22. Among several creditors, he whose exact goods are found in possession of the debtor is entitled to them to the exclusion of other creditors. If part price has been given, the buyer is entitled to get the propottionate thing according to Imams Malek and Shafeyi but not according to Imam Abu Hanifa who holds that to take back anything already sold is unlawful. The debtor, however, cannot prefer only one among several creditors.

———):o:(———

21. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoso becomes insolvent and afterwards a man (creditor) takes hold of his exact property, he is more entitled to it than others.[840] —Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِی هُرَیْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَیُّمَا رَجُلٍ اَفْلَسَ فَاَدْرَكَ رَجُلٌ مَالَهٗ بِعَیْنِهٖ فَهُوَ اَحَقُّ بِهٖ مِنْ غَیْرِهٖ مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ

22. Abu Sayeed reported that a man suffered damage during the time of the Holy Prophet in respect of fruits which he had purchased. His debt became heavy. The Messenger of Allah addressed : Give alms to him. So the people paid him alms but that did not come up towards satisfaction of his (entire) debt. Then the Apostle of Allah said to his creditors : Take what you find, and there is nothing besides that for you. —Muslim

عَنْ اَبِی سَعِیْدٍ قَالَ اُصِیْبَ رَجُلٌ فِیْ عَهْدِ النَّبِیِّ صلعم فِیْ ثِمَارٍ اِبْتَاعَهَا فَكَثُرَ دَیْنُهٗ فَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم تَصَدَّقُوْا عَلَیْهِ فَتَصَدَّقَ النَّاسُ عَلَیْهِ فَلَمْ یَبْلُغْ ذٰلِكَ وَفَاءَ دَیْنِهٖ فَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لِغُرَمَائِهٖ خُذُوْا مَا وَجَدْتُمْ وَلَیْسَ لَكُمْ اِلَّا ذٰلِكَ (مُسْلِمٌ)

23 Abu Khaldah az-Zoraqi reported : We came to Abu Hurairah about a companion of ours who had become bankrupt. He said : This is about what the Apostle of of Allah gave decision : Whoso dies and becomes bankrupt—the owner of goods is more entitled to his goods when he exactly finds them.

عَنْ اَبِیْ خَلْدَةَ الزَّرْقِیِّ قَالَ جِئْنَا اَبَا هُرَیْرَةَ فِیْ صَاحِبٍ لَنَا قَدْ اَفْلَسَ فَقَالَ هٰذَا الَّذِیْ قَضٰی فِیْهِ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَیُّمَا رَجُلٍ مَاتَ اَوْ اَفْلَسَ فَصَاحِبُ الْمَتَاعِ اَحَقُّ بِمَتَاعِهٖ اِذَا وَجَدَهٗ بِعَیْنِهٖ الشَّافِعِیُّ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ

840. If a person sell a thing to a man on credit, and the purchaser becomes insolvent, the buyer can take hold of the exact property sold to him, if it was not consumed beforehand. If, however, no identical property is found, it will not be lawful for a creditor to take possession of his entire property to the exclusion of others.

(a) Distinction between Qarz and Areeat The distinction between these two kinds of loan is that Qarz signifies loan of money, while Areeat signifies loans of things other than money. In the former, the intention is to destroy the substance of what is borrowed i.e. to spend the identical money received from the creditor, and afterwards to return an equal number of similars. In the other, the intention is to enjoy the usufract without injuring the substance which is to be returned in its identical state. For example a person borrowed a book and read it and afterwards returned it. It is Areeat ; whereas a person borrowed Rs. 50 and returned the like amount in different coins, it is loan.

(b) Areeat is also a lease of property. Lands may be let out in the form of lease for plantations or for cultivations. The borrower is not responsible for accidental loss or damage. It is in the nature of a trust. If it is lost in the hand of a borrower without his fault, he is not answerable for it. It is not lawful for a borrower to let out a loan. If he lets it out, he becomes responsible for it immediately upon delivery of possession.

24. Qatadah reported : I heard a man say—There occured an uproar in Medina. Then the Holy Prophet sought loan of a horse from Abu Talha known as "Al-Mandub." He rode on. When he returned, he said : We have seen nothing, we have found it but a sea.[842]

—Agreed

متفق عليه

25. Omayyah-b-Safwan from his father reported that the Holy Prophet took loan of his coats of mail on the Day of Hunain. He enquired :

عَنْ اُمَيَّةَ بْنِ صَفْوَانَ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ اسْتَعَارَ مِنْهُ اَدْرَاعَهُ يَوْمَ

842. This horse was weak and slow-running, but when the Holy Prophet rode on it, it ran fast like a fast-going sea, and immediately came back after patrolling the city of Medina. This was occasioned by an alarm of attack raised by the people. This shows that the Apostle was so courageous that at dead of night he alone went round the city unguarded and careless of his life. He was a model for a general and a king. This also proves that loan of animals is lawful and that animals can lawfully be named.

O Muhamad ! is it by extortion? He said : Rather by way of secured loan[843]

—Abu Daud

حُنَيْنٍ فَقَالَ اَغَصْبًا يَا مُحَمَّدُ قَالَ بَلْ عَارِيَةً مَضْمُونَةً (ابو داؤد)

26. Abu-Omamah reported: I heard the Messenser of Allah say : Areeat loan must be paid back, and minha[844] present must be returned, and debt must be paid, and the surety is a debtor.

—Abu Daud, Tirmizi

عَنْ اَبِي اُمَامَةَ قَالَ سَمِعْتُ رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَقُولُ الْعَارِيَةُ مُؤَدَّاةٌ وَ الْمِنْحَةُ مَرْدُودَةٌ وَ الدَّيْنُ مَقْضِيٌّ وَ الزَّعِيمُ غَارِمٌ (اَلتِّرْمِذِي وَ اَبُوْدَاوُد)

SECTION 4

845 Usury and Interest

(a) What does Riba mean ?

Riba or usury signifies literally an excess or addition, but in theological terms, it means an addition over and above the principal thing lent In other words, it is an excess, according to legal standard of measurement and weight, in one of two homogeneous articles in which such excess is stipulated as an obligatory obligation on one of the contracting parties. Riba includes all kinds of interest whether the rate is high or low and whether the interest is or is not added to the principle sum after fixed periods. The following are therefore the ingredients of usurious transactions :—

1. The two things of exchange between the parties must be homogeneous or of same character, viz, gold for gold or corn for corn.

2. They must be unequal in measurement and weight. If gold is exchanged for gold of the same weight and quality in hand to hand transactions, it is not interest. If unequal, the excess must be interest.

3. They must not be in hand to hand transactions. If a guinea is given for 1½ guinea to be paid at a future date, the excess will be considered as interest.

843. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, such loan is trust. If object of trust is damaged or lost, it is not to be paid back, but its price shall be paid. The word "Mazmunatun" is used here in this sense.

844. Minha is present of the produce of property but not corpus of the property. An animal, for example, is given to a man for use of its milk or a garden for its fruits to be enjoyed. It is the duty of the person benefitted to return the corpus of the property in due time.

4. There must be stipulation or demand for the excess. If excess is paid by way of thanks and gratitude willingly and voluntarily, it will not be considered as interest (13 : 15).

5. The two contracting parties must be Muslims or one Muslim and another non-Muslim in Darul-Amanat (peaceful country) or a protected non-Muslim (zimme).

It appears from the above definitions and principal factors which constitute usury that two non-homogeneous things cannot constitute usury ; for example, two pounds of rice given in exchange of 2 pounds of wheat. It is not an usurious transaction because things are different. In hand to hand transactions of like amount of homogeneous things, there is no usury. There is usury in delivery of known things for unknown quantity or delivery of unknown quantity for known things ; for example, unknown quantity of nuts are sold for Rs. 1001 or so. Imam Shafeyi maintains that there is usury in things of esculent nature in addition to things of weight. Imams Abu Hanifa and others hold the contrary and reject the version of Imam Shafeyi. For example, ten yards of Calcutta cloth may be sold for 5 yds of Calcutta cloth because they are not things of weight. This has been overruled by Imam Abu Hanifa. It is however maintained that superiority or inferiority of articles has got no effect in usury, and hence it is lawful to sell a better quantity of any article in exchange of an equal quantity of an inferior sort. If, however, good and bad qualities are not equal, they will constitute usurious transactions.

(b) Exceptions. The above rules are not applicable to things other than the following enumerated by traditions—gold, silver, wheat, barley, salt and dates or things of similar nature. This is the view of Imam Abu Hanifa. Therefore sale of one egg for two eggs is lawful. Imam Shafeyi differs as noted above.

(c) Benefits derived from debtors. Creditors using anything of debtors will add interest to the loan advanced. The relation between creditor and debtor is sacred, and any advantage, however insignificant, gained over debtors by creditors in any shape or form will be tinged with the dust of usury. Any present, feast etc. given by a debtor to a creditor is usury (13 : 18). Islam thus lays down rules for guidance of creditors and debtors which, if followed by modern world in good spirit, would go a great way to solve economic questions down usury cannot arise except as one whom the devil has prostrated by his touch does arise ; that is because they say : Trading is only like usury and Allah has allowed trading and prohibited usury—2 : 275 Q. "O you who believe ! do not devour usury, doubling and redoubling, and be careful of your duty to Allah that you may be successful - 3 : 129 Q. The Quran hates Shylock the Jew and persons like him who follow "pound-of-flesh" policy. It recites : O you who believe ! be careful of your duty to Allah, and give up what remains due from usury if you are believers. But if you do it not, then be informed of war from Allah and His Apostle, and if you repent, then you shall have your capital, neither shall you make the debtor suffer loss, nor shall you be made to suffer loss—2 : 278, 279 Q. What a greater condemnation of usury can there be than that Allah and His Apostle will be called upon to fight against the usurer ? The Messenger of Allah cursed the devourer of usury, its payer, its scribe, its witness and any abettor to it (13 : 27, 46). One dirham of usury which a man devours with knowledge is greater than a son's fornications with his mother (13 : 43). He will suffer untold misery on the Resurrection Day (13 : 43). The Holy Prophet saw usurers in hell—13 : 45. The last verse about temporal laws was on usury—13 : 47.

(e) Reasons for prohibition. The great object of Islam is to foster genuine brotherly love, and encourage mutual co-operation for smooth sailing of wordly affairs. It has also got the object of mitigation of human sufferings of millions of down-trodden poor men living from hand to mouth. It foresaw the great economic upheaval in latter times and great difference in possession of wealth, and also clashes and strikes between capital and labour, the rich and the poor, the landlords and the tenants. It has therefore recognised a right of money and property and yet at the same time encouarged with high hopes of rewards, charities and loans without any interest for the benefit of the poor and the weak. The world can only go on economically and politically with co-operation of the labourers, cultivators and tillers of the soil. If they do not get their due share and co-operation from the capitalists and the landlords, there is the inevitable clash Labour will help the capital with their labour, and capital will help labour. The society that recognises and enforces this principle can thrive well. Hence oppression by usurious transactions is strictly unlawful in Islam, and its general practice is also condemned like its efforts in uprooting idolatry root and branch and even by proscribing life-pirctures. Another object of prohibition is to avoid miserly habits, selfish nature, mean mindedness, and absence of fellow feeling. This can be seen when we daily see around us the usurers who are generally misers, persimonious, selfish, idle and devoid of the milk of human kindness If usury and interest were prohibited by modern world, the great economic questions would have been greatly solved. The former Muslims were economically prosperous. This fact shows that there is a great economic policy in forsaking interest.

(f) Prosperity not in usury. Prosperity lies in charity and not in usury. The Holy Quran says : And whatever you lay out in usury, so that it may increase in the property of men, it shall not increase with Allah, and whatever you give in charity desiring Allah's pleasure, it is these that shall get manifold—30 : 39Q. Allah does not bless usury and He causes charitable deeds to prosper—2 : 276Q. Usury though increases, it turns towards little (13 : 44)

(g) Interest on Bank deposits Interest from hostile non-Muslims or from those non-Muslims whose avowed object is to destroy the Muslims whenever opportunity arises is quite legal. What is true of non-Muslim individuals is true of non Muslim banks and organizations.

27. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah cursed the devourer of usury, its payer, its scribe, and its two witnesses. And he said that they are equal (in sins). —Muslim.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ لَعَنَ رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صلعم اٰكِلَ الرِّبٰوا وَمُوْكِلَهٗ وَكَاتِبَهٗ وَشَاهِدَيْهِ وَقَالَ هُمْ سَوَاءٌ (مُسْلِمٌ)

28. Obadah-b-Swamet reported that the Apostle of Allah said : Gold for gold, silver for silver, barley for barley, wheat for wheat, date for date, and salt for salt and like for like, equally in hand to hand transactions. When these kinds differ, then sell them as you wish when it is in hand to hand (transaction)[846] —Muslim.

عَنْ عُبَادَةَ بْنِ الصَّامِتِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صلعم اَلذَّهَبُ بِالذَّهَبِ وَالْفِضَّةُ بِالْفِضَّةِ وَالْبُرُّ بِالْبُرِّ وَالشَّعِيْرُ بِالشَّعِيْرِ وَالتَّمْرُ بِالتَّمْرِ وَالْمِلْحُ بِالْمِلْحِ مِثْلًا بِمِثْلٍ سَوَاءً يَدًا بِيَدٍ فَاِذَا اخْتَلَفَتْ هٰذِهِ الْاَصْنَافُ فَبِيْعُوْا كَيْفَ شِئْتُمْ اِذَا كَانَ يَدًا بِيَدٍ (مُسْلِمٌ)

845 Gold and silver must be similar in weight in hand to hand transactions irrespective of their size. If size differs, there is no harm, but weight must be the same.

29. Abu Sayeed al-Khodri reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Gold for gold, silver for silver, barley for barley, wheat for wheat, date for date, salt for salt and like for like in hand to hand (transaction). Whoso gives more or takes more, then the taker and the giver are equal in taking interest therein. —Muslim.

عَنْ اَبِیْ سَعِیْدِ نِ الْخُدْرِیِّ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَلذَّهَبُ بِا لذَّهَبِ وَ الْفِضَّةُ بِالْفِضَّةِ وَ الْبُرُّ بِا لْبُرِّ وَا لشَّعِیْرُ بِالشَّعِیْرِ وَ التَّمْرُ بِا لتَّمْرِ وَالْمِلْحُ بِا لْمِلْحِ مِثْلًا بِمِثْلٍ یَدًا بِیَدٍ فَمَنْ زَادَ اَوِ اسْتَزَادَ فَقَدْ اَرْبَی اَلْاٰخِذُ وَ الْمُعْطِیْ فِیْهِ سَوَاءٌ (مُسْلِمٌ)

30. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Don't sell gold for gold unless like for like and don't increase something of it upon something, and don't sell silver for silver unless like for like and don't increase something of it upon something, and don't sell the absent therefrom for the present. Agreed upon it. In a narration : Sell not gold for gold, nor silver for silver unless measurement for measurement.[847]

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَا تَبِیْعُوا الذَّهَبَ بِا لذَّهَبِ اِلَّا مِثْلًا بِمِثْلٍ وَ لَا تُشِفُّوْا بَعْضَهَا عَلٰی بَعْضٍ وَلَا تَبِیْعُوا الْوَرِقَ بِالْوَرِقِ اِلَّا مِثْلًا بِمِثْلٍ وَلَا تُشِفُّوْا بَعْضَهَا عَلٰی بَعْضٍ وَلَا تَبِیْعُوْا مِنْهَا غَائِبًا بِنَاجِزٍ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ) وَفِیْ رِوَایَةٍ لَا تَبِیْعُوا الذَّهَبَ بِالذَّهَبِ وَ لَا الْوَرِقَ بِالْوَرِقِ اِلَّا وَزْنًا بِوَزْنٍ

31. Me'mar-b-Abdullah reported : I used to hear the Holy Prophet say : Food for food, like for like. —Muslim.

عَنْ مَعْمَرِ بْنِ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ قَالَ كُنْتُ اَسْمَعُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم یَقُوْلُ الطَّعَامُ بِا لطَّعَامِ مِثْلًا بِمِثْلٍ (مُسْلِمٌ) interest unless in hand to hand (transaction), and date for date is interest unless in hand to hand (transaction). —Agreed.

وَهَاءَ وَهَاءَ وَالتَّمْرُ بِالتَّمْرِ رِبًا إِلَّا هَاءَ وَهَاءَ - مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ

33. Abu sayeed and Abu Hurairh reported that the Holy Prophet engaged a man as a labourer at Khaiber He came to him with best dates. So he enquired: Is any date of Khaiber like this? 'No, by Allah' he said, 'O Prophet! verily we take one sa'a of this for two sa'as, and two sa'as for three. He said: Don't do (it), sell the whole for dirhams, and purchase the best dates for dirhams. He said: In weight also like that.[848] —Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي سَعِيدٍ وَأَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ صلعم اسْتَعْمَلَ رَجُلًا عَلَى خَيْبَرَ فَجَاءَهُ بِتَمْرٍ جَنِيبٍ فَقَالَ أَكُلُّ تَمْرِ خَيْبَرَ هٰكَذَا قَالَ لَا وَاللَّهِ يَا رَسُولَ اللَّهِ إِنَّا لَنَأْخُذُ الصَّاعَ مِنْ هٰذَا بِالصَّاعَيْنِ وَالصَّاعَيْنِ بِالثَّلَاثِ فَقَالَ لَا تَفْعَلْ بِعِ الْجَمْعَ بِالدَّرَاهِمِ ثُمَّ ابْتَعْ بِالدَّرَاهِمِ جَنِيبًا وَقَالَ فِي الْمِيزَانِ مِثْلَ ذٰلِكَ مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ

34. Abu sayeed reported that Bilal came to the Holy Prophet with Barni dates. The Prophet asked him: Whence is this? He replied. There were old dates with me and I sold out of them two sa'as for one. He said: Alas! veritable interest! Don't do (it), but when you intend to purchase, sell the dates for purchasing another kind, and then purchase therewith. —Agreed.

عَنْ أَبِي سَعِيدٍ قَالَ جَاءَ بِلَالٌ إِلَى النَّبِيِّ صلعم بِتَمْرٍ بَرْنِيٍّ فَقَالَ لَهُ النَّبِيُّ صلعم مِنْ أَيْنَ هٰذَا قَالَ كَانَ عِنْدَنَا تَمْرٌ رَدِيٌّ فَبِعْتُ مِنْهُ صَاعَيْنِ بِصَاعٍ فَقَالَ أَوَّهْ عَيْنُ الرِّبَا لَا تَفْعَلْ وَلٰكِنْ إِذَا أَرَدْتَ أَنْ تَشْتَرِيَ فَبِعِ التَّمْرَ بِبَيْعٍ آخَرَ ثُمَّ اشْتَرِ بِهِ مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ

35. Jaber reported that a slave came and took oath of allegiance to the Holy Prophet in hizrat, but he did not know that he was a slave. His master came to him intending (to take)

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ جَاءَ عَبْدٌ فَبَايَعَ النَّبِيَّ صلعم عَلَى الْهِجْرَةِ وَلَمْ يَشْعُرْ أَنَّهُ عَبْدٌ فَجَاءَ سَيِّدُهُ يُرِيدُهُ

848. The principle is that equal quantity must be sold and given. A superior quality of homogeneous elements cannot be sold or purchased for inferior quality of bigger quantity. But one thing may thus be bargained for a different thing. If this rule is broken, it will be an usurious transaction.

him. The Holy Prophet said to him : Sell him to me. So he purchased him with two black slaves, and he did not purchase any after him till he asked him whether he was a slave or a free man.[849] —Muslim.

فَقَالَ لَهُ النَّبِيُّ صلعم بِعْنِيهِ فَاشْتَرَاهُ بِعَبْدَيْنِ أَسْوَدَيْنِ وَلَمْ يَبْتَعْ أَحَدًا بَعْدَهُ حَتَّى يَسْأَلَهُ أَعَبْدٌ هُوَ أَمْ حُرٌّ (مُسْلِمٌ)

36. Same reported that the Holy Prophet prohibited selling of 'subrah' date of unknown measurement for a fixed measurement of dates. —Musilm

عَنْهُ قَالَ نَهَى رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ عَنْ بَيْعِ الصُّبْرَةِ مِنَ التَّمْرِ لَا يُعْلَمُ مَكِيلَتُهَا بِالْكَيْلِ الْمُسَمَّى مِنَ التَّمْرِ (مُسْلِمٌ)

37. Fuzala-b-Obaid reported : I purchased a necklace on the day of Khaiber for twelve dinars. There were gold and engravings therein. I made them separate and found therein twelve dinars. I mentioned (it) to the Prophet who said : It cannot be sold till it be separated. —Muslim.

عَنْ فُضَالَةَ بْنِ عُبَيْدٍ قَالَ اشْتَرَيْتُ يَوْمَ خَيْبَرَ قِلَادَةً بِاثْنَيْ عَشَرَ دِينَارٍ فِيهَا ذَهَبٌ وَخَرَزٌ فَفَصَّلْتُهُ فَوَجَدْتُ فِيهَا أَكْثَرَ مِنْ اثْنَيْ عَشَرَ دِينَارًا فَذَكَرْتُ لِلنَّبِيِّ صلعم فَقَالَ لَا تُبَاعُ حَتَّى تُفَصَّلَ (مُسْلِمٌ)

38. Abu Hurairah reported that the Holy Prophet said : A time will certainly come over people when none will remain who will not devour usury. If he does not devour it, its vapour will overtake him. (It is narrated- its dust).[850]

Ahmad, Abu Daud, Nisai, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ عَنْ رَسُولِ اللّٰهِ صلعم قَالَ لَيَأْتِيَنَّ عَلَى النَّاسِ زَمَانٌ لَا يَبْقَى أَحَدٌ إِلَّا أَكَلَ الرِّبَوا فَإِنْ لَمْ يَأْكُلْهُ أَصَابَهُ مِنْ بُخَارِهِ وَيُرْوَى مِنْ غُبَارِهِ

849. This tradition shows that except the six things enumerated above-gold, silver, wheat barely, date and salt, all other things may be sold in unequal quantity and quality without being guilty of usurious transaction. Thus one good slave for two black slaves may be sold irrespective of homogeneity or different character. Imam Abu Hanifa holds, however, that an animal may not be sold for a promise of payment of price

850. Such is the time in which we live now Until a new civilization is evolved which is based on morality and fellow feeling, some solution has to be sought for the great economic questions that confront the Muslim nation. This means that none will have any alternative but to be entangled in usury either by deposition as a witness, or by writing a bond with interest, or pleading, or giving judgment for it, or mingling one property with another which brings intererst. Thus the writer, witness, pleader, judge and depositors of money in banks —all will get vapour or dust of interest.

39. Sa'ad-b-Abi Waqqas reported: I heard that the Holy Prophet was questioned about purchase of dry pates for fresh ones. He asked: Shall fresh dates be diminished when they become dry? 'Yes" said he. So he prohibited him from that.[851] —Malek, Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ سَعْدِ بْنِ اَبِی وَقَّاصٍ قَالَ سَمِعْتُ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم سُئِلَ عَنْ شِرَی التَّمْرِ بِالرُّطَبِ فَقَالَ اَیَنْقُصُ الرُّطَبُ اِذَا یَبِسَ فَقَالَ نَعَمْ فَنَهَاهُ عَنْ ذٰلِكَ (مَالِكٌ وَ التِّرْمِذِیُّ وَ اَبُوْدَاوُدَ وَ النَّسَائِیُّ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

40. Samorah-b-jundub reported that the Holy Prophet prohibited from selling animal for animal by way of promise. —Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنْ سَمُرَةَ بْنِ جُنْدُبٍ اَنَّ النَّبِیَّ صلعم نَهٰی عَنْ بَیْعِ الْحَیَوَانِ بِالْحَیَوَانِ نَسِیْئَةً (اَلتِّرْمِذِیُّ وَ اَبُوْدَاوُدَ وَ النَّسَائِیُّ)

41. Abdullah-b-Amr reported that the Holy Prophet ordered him to prepare a cavalry. There was no camel. He ordered him to take the marked animals of zakat. So he took a camel for two camels up to the time of camel of zakat.[852] —Abu Daud.

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ ابْنِ عَمْرٍو اَنَّ النَّبِیَّ صلعم اَمَرَهٗ اَنْ یُّجَهِّزَ جَیْشًا فَنَفِدَتِ الْاِبِلُ فَاَمَرَهٗ اَنْ یَّاْخُذَ عَلٰی قَلَائِصِ الصَّدَقَةِ فَكَانَ یَاْخُذُ الْبَعِیْرَ بِالْبَعِیْرَیْنِ اِلٰی اِبِلِ الصَّدَقَةِ (اَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

42. Osamah-b-Zaid reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Usury is in promise. And in another narration he said: There is no usury in what is hand to hand. —Agreed.

عَنْ اُسَامَةَ بْنِ زَیْدٍ اَنَّ النَّبِیَّ صلعم قَالَ اِنَّمَا الرِّبٰوا فِی النَّسِیْئَةِ وَفِیْ رِوَایَةٍ قَالَ لَا رِبٰوا فِیْمَا كَانَ یَدًا بِیَدٍ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَیْهِ)

851. Imams Malek, Abu Yusuf, Muhammad, Shafeyi and Ahmad obey this tradition literally, while Imam Abu Hanifa differs and says that at the time of weight only, equality is sufficient irrespective of the changes that may come later on.

852. Camels were borrowed on condition that they would be given back when zakat-camels would be coming. This loan is unlawful according to Imam Abu Hanifa. He says that this tradition has been abrogated by Samora's tradition (13: 40)

43. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Usury has got seventy divisions. The easiest division of them is a man's marrying his mother.[853] —Ibn Majah.

عَنْ اَبِی هُرَیْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم الرِّبٰوا سَبْعُوْنَ جُزْءً اَیْسَرُهَا اَنْ یَّنْكِحَ الرَّجُلُ اُمَّهٗ (اِبْنُ مَاجَةَ)

44. Ibn Mas'ud reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Though usury increases, its effect indeed turns towards decrease. —Ibn Majah.

عَنِ ابْنِ مَسْعُوْدٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اِنَّ الرِّبٰوا وَاِنْ كَثُرَ فَاِنَّ عَاقِبَتَهٗ تَصِیْرُ اِلٰی قُلٍّ (اِبْنُ مَاجَةَ)

45. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: I came across a people in the night in which I was taken to heaven. Their bellies are like houses wherein there are serpents which can be seen from outside their bellies. I asked: O Gabriel! who are these? He said: These are those who devoured usury. —Ahmad, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ اَبِی هُرَیْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اُتِیْتُ لَیْلَةَ اُسْرِیَ بِیْ عَلٰی قَوْمٍ بُطُوْنُهُمْ كَالْبُیُوْتِ فِیْهَا الْحَیَّاتُ تُرٰی مِنْ خَارِجِ بُطُوْنِهِمْ فَقُلْتُ مَنْ هٰؤُلَاءِ یَا جِبْرَئِیْلُ قَالَ هٰؤُلَاءِ اٰكِلَةُ الرِّبٰوا (اَحْمَدُ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

46. Ali reported that he heard the Messenger of Allah cursing the devourer of usury, its giver, its scribe and one who refuses zakat; and he used to forbid mourning.[854] —Nisai.

عَنْ عَلِیٍّ (رض) اَنَّهٗ سَمِعَ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم لَعَنَ اٰكِلَ الرِّبٰوا وَمُوْكِلَهٗ وَكَاتِبَهٗ وَمَانِعَ الصَّدَقَةِ وَكَانَ یَنْهٰی عَنِ النَّوْحِ (اَلنَّسَائِیُّ)

47. Omar-b-al-Khattab reported that the last of what was revealed was the verse of usury, and that the Messenger

عَنْ عُمَرَ بْنِ الْخَطَّابِ اَنَّ اٰخِرَ مَا نَزَلَتْ اٰیَةُ الرِّبٰوا وَاَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صلعم قُبِضَ وَلَمْ

853. The severity of usury has been mentioned in the Quran. This hadis also sounds a note of too severe nature and finds corroboration from the following verse "Be careful of your duty to Allah, relinquish what remains of usury, if you are believers. But if you do it not, then be informed of war from Allah and His Apostle—2 : 278Q.

854. Mourning is to cry with loud voice for a deceased man with various descriptions of his virtues and recollections. This practice is now in vogue in many civilized countries. Hired mourners are sometimes engaged.

of Allah expired while he did not explain it to us. So give up usury and doubt.[855]

291w. Sayeed-b-Musayyeb reported a defective tradition: The Holy Prophet prohibited from selling meat for animal. Sayeed said that it is of the games of chance of the Days of Ignorance. —Sharhi Sunnat.

عن سعيد ابن المسيب مرسلا ان رسول الله صلعم نهى عن بيع اللحم بالحيوان قال سعيد كان من ميسر اهل الجاهلية (شرح السنة)

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللهِ بْنِ حَنْظَلَةَ غَسِيلِ الْمَلَئِكَةِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم دِرْهَمُ رِبًوا يَاكُلُهُ الرَّجُلُ وَهُوَ يَعْلَمُ اَشَدُّ مِنْ سِتَّةٍ وَثَلٰثِينَ زَنْيَةً (اَحمد والدار قطني) وَرَوَاهُ الْبَيْهَقِيُّ فِي شُعَبِ الْاِيمَانِ عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ وَزَادَ وَقَالَ مَنْ نَبَتَ لَحْمُهُ مِنَ السُّحْتِ فَالنَّارُ اَوْلٰى بِهِ

Baihaqi reported in Shuabul I'man from Ibn Abbas. He added and said: (As for) one whose flesh has grown out of unlawful food, the Fire is more suitable for him.

SECTION 5

856. Mortgage and Pawn

Rihan literally signifies detaining a thing on any account whatsoever. In the language of law, it means detention of a thing on account of a claim which may be satisfied by means of that thing in case of default. This is unanimously legal (2 : 238Q). The Holy Prophet

855. This is the last verse about affairs of the world and not about spiritual matters. The verse of the Holy Quran that was last revealed to Prophet was Chapter 103. The Prophet explained usury with regard to some defined things. With regard to other things, there was no explanation.

also gave his coat of mail in rihan. Rihan is established by declaration and acceptance and confirmed by receipt of the pledge. Upon the pawnee taking possession of the pledge, the contract becomes binding. The pawnee is responsible for the pledge. The pawnee is entitled to detain the pledge until he receives payment of debt. According to Imam Shafeyi, the pawnee may sell the pledge and recover his dues and return the excess. The pawner cannot reclaim the pledge on the plea of selling it for discharge of his debt. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, a pawnee is not authorised to sell the pledge unless with the desire of the pawner. The pawnee is not entitled to use the mortgaged property except in exchange of paying rents.

48. Ibn Abbas reported that the Messenger of Allah came to Medina while they used to pay in advance for fruits of one year, two years or three years. He said: Whoever pays in advance for any thing, let him pay in fixed weight and for a fixed period.[857]

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ قَدِمَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم الْمَدِيْنَةَ وَهُمْ يُسْلِفُوْنَ فِي الثِّمَارِ السَّنَةَ وَالسَّنَتَيْنِ وَالثَّلٰثَ فَقَالَ مَنْ اَسْلَفَ فِيْ شَيْءٍ فَلْيُسْلِفْ فِيْ كَيْلٍ مَّعْلُوْمٍ اِلٰى اَجَلٍ مَّعْلُوْمٍ - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

49. Ayesha reported that the Holy Prophet purchased food grains from a Jew up to a fixed term, and he kept his coat of mail of iron in pawn.[858]

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ قَالَتِ اشْتَرٰى رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم طَعَامًا مِنْ يَهُوْدِيٍّ اِلٰى اَجَلٍ وَرَهَنَهُ دِرْعًا لَهُ مِنْ حَدِيْدٍ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

50. Same reported that the Holy Prophet died while his coat of mail was in pawn to a Jew for thirty sa'as of wheat.

—Bukhari.

عَنْهَا قَالَتْ تُوُفِّيَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم وَدِرْعُهُ مَرْهُوْنَةٌ عِنْدَ يَهُوْدِيٍّ بِثَلٰثِيْنَ صَاعًا مِّنْ شَعِيْرٍ - (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

---

857. In a silm sale, Imam Abu Hanifa holds that the term for payment should be fixed, but Imams Malek, Ahmad and Shafeyi differ from the above view. If A pays to B Rs 100 in consideration of enjoying 50 mds. of corn either in existence or non existence to be paid by a certain fixed instalments or within a certain fixed time, it is lawful. If quantity, however, is uncertain, it is unlawful. This is called silm sale

558. It is clear from this that a thing can be sold for promise of payment provided something is kept in pawn or mortgage.

51. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : A back may be rode upon with his expense when it is a pledge, and the milk of the udder may be drunk with his expense when it is a pledge. And on one who rides on and drinks is the expense.[859]

—Bukhari.

عَنْ اَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صلعم الظَّهْرُ يُرْكَبُ بِنَفَقَتِهِ اِذَا كَانَ مَرْهُوْنًا وَلَبَنُ الدَّرِّ يُشْرَبُ بِنَفَقَتِهِ اِذَا كَانَ مَرْهُوْنًا وَعَلَى الَّذِي يَرْكَبُ وَيَشْرَبُ النَّفَقَةُ - (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

293w. Sayeed-b-al-Musayyeb reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Pawn does not shut up pawn by its owner whose pawn is for his use, and whose debt is upon him.[860]

—Shafeyi (Defective)

CHAPTER XIV

861—Usurpation

(a) Meaning of Gasb. Gasb in its literal sense means forcibly taking a thing from another. Technically, it signifies the taking of the property of another without the consent of the owner in such a manner as to destroy the owner's possession of it.

(b) Condemnation of usurpation. Usurpation is unlawful. Any person knowingly and wilfully usurping the property of another is held to be a criminal and a sinner, and therefore he becomes liable for compensation. The object of Islam is peace. By encroachment of the rights of another, peace is disturbed and therefore a sin is committed. Forcible possession is an oppression in an extreme form of which there is a strong condemnation both in the Holy Quran and Hadis.

859. It has been, it is said, abrogated by the next hadis.

860. This means that a pawner or a mortgagor can get benefit from the mortgaged property, and the mortgage itself cannot prevent the mortgagor from using or mortgaging the property for the second time. The mortgagor will get hire from the house mortgaged or ride upon the horse mortgaged. If, however, the mortgaged property is damaged for no fault of the mortgagee, the mortgagor is still liable for the debt.

An usurper will be hurled down unto seven earths on the Resurrection Day — 4 : 15, 14 : 12, and he shall be made to bear the burden of earth that he usurped—14 : 295w. A marauder is not a follower of the Prophet, and Islam enjoins no compulsion in any action—1 : 70. Riot and loot are strictly unlawful—14 : 3. Prophet even instructed not to take a staff of his brother out of joke.

(c) Civil liabilities. The usurper of an article of the class of similars is responsible for a similar if it be destroyed in his possession. If the article be of the class of non-similars, he is responsible only for the value, but the article usurped must first be tried to be restored to the owner. An usurper of land is liable for any damage occasioned by the cultivation of it, and a trespasser usurper acquires no right in a property—22 : 2 (Hadayah).

1. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Nobody shall milk the quadruped of another without his premission. The Holy Prophet then began to collect the pieces of the dish and place therein thefood which

867. If any damage is caused by quadruped animals, there is no responsibility on the owner provided the owner or his agent was not with the animals. Similarly if fire damages anything, there is sanction against one for whose involuntary and careless act, fire caused damage. Drivers are likewise responsible for careless driving.

CHAPTER XV

870—Pre-emption.

(a) What is pre-emption ? Pre-emption is a right which the owner of an immoveable property possesses to acquire by purchase another immoveable property which has been sold to another person. Shafa'a signifies conjunction, and the land sold is here conjoined to the land of the person claiming the right of pre-emption.

(b) Who may claim pre-emption ?

(1) A co-sharer in property (Shafi-i-Sharik).

(2) An enjoyer of immunities and appendages such as a right of way or a right to discharge water (Shafi-i-Khalit).

(3) Owners of adjoining immoveable property (Shafi-i-Jar-15 : 3) but not their tenants, nor persons in possession of such property without any lawful title.

The first clause excludes the second, and the second excludes the third. But if there are two or more electors belonging to the same class, they are entitled to equal shares of the property in respect of which the right is claimed. Imam Shafeyi maintains that they are entitled to shares in the property according to their respective shares.

(c) Principle of the law of pre-emption in Islam. Islam recognises absolute right of ownership in the lands. In other words, owners can deal and dispose of the property in any manner they like. But it did not forget the rules of justice, equity and good conscience. Therefore it allowed pre-emption for preventing inconvenience and annoyance which may occur in the introduction of a stranger as a co-sharer or a neighbour. The soundness of this principle has been recognised by almost all the civilized countries. It is why the Punjab Laws Act 1872 as amended by Act XII of 1878, and the Oudth Laws Act were passed by British Goverment. This law is customary among the Hindus of Bihar, Surat, Broach and some other places of India.

(d) Formalities observed in pre-emption. No person is entitled to the right of pre-emption unless (1) he has declared his intention to assert the right immediately (Talabi-Mowasibat) and (2) he is to make a formal demand either in presence of the buyer or seller or on the premises of the land or house and in presence of witnesses (Talabi ishhad).

(e) Pre-emption in sale only. Pre-emption arises only out of a valid, complete and bonafide sale. It does not arise out of gift, wakf, inheritance, bequest or lease. A transfer of property by a husband to a wife in lieu of dower is a sale.

(f) Articles of pre-emption. It takes place with respect to immoveable properties and houses capable of division or not. Shafeyi maintains that nothing is subject to Shafa'a but what is capable of being divided. Muslims and non-Muslims are all equal in the right of pre-emption as they are all effected by the sale and the principle is applicable irrespective of caste and creed. Imam Shafeyi maintains that the right of pre-emption does not reside in a neighbour but in a co-sharer in undivided property. If, however, any property is divided, the right of pre-emption ceases to exist (15 : 1)

OTHER CONTENTS. None should sell his house or land—15 : 6. Anybody cutting a tree on the pathway that gives shade will enter hell-fire—15 : 9.

1. Jaber reported that the Holy Prophet decreed pre-emption in everything which has not been partitioned, but when boundaries have been fixed and demarcations have been marked out, there is no pre-emption.[871] —Bukhari.

عن جابر قال قضى النبي صلعم بالشفعة

2. Same reported that the Holy Prophet decreed pre-emption in every undivided share whether in pasture ground or orchard. It is not lawful to sell till his co-sharer gives permission. If he then wishes, he may purchase and if he wishes he may give it up, but when he sells without taking possession from him, he is more entitled to it.[872] —Muslim

3. Abu Rafe' reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The neighbour has got the best right owing to his proximity.[873] —Bukhari.

4. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : A neighbour shall not prevent his neighbour from placing rafters against his wall.[874] —Agreed

عن ابي هريرة قال قال رسول الله صلعم لا يمنع جار جاره ان يغرز خشبة في جداره - (متفق عليه)

871. Pre-emption cannot arise in case of partitioned things. When boundaries are fixed and lines chalked out by partition, there is no pre-emption. This shows that the right exists among co-sharers and not neighbours. This is the mazhab of Imam Shafeyi. Imam Abu Hanifa holds, however, that among neighbours, there is pre-emption (15 : 3).

872. This hadis shows that there is pre-emption in immoveable properties such as lands and buildings.

873. Pre-emption is seen here to be the right of neighbourhood. Indeed pre-emption signifies both the rights—right of a neighbour or a right of a cosharer. The neighbouring cosharer is first preferred, and then a cosharer is preferred to a stranger who is not a cosharer.

874. This is out of love according to Imams Abu Hanifa, Malek, and Shafeyi, but it is not binding according to Imams Ahmad and Muhammad.

CHAPTER XVI

877—Lost things and troves

Lookta is a lost thing which a person finds on the way and takes away for handing it over to the rightful owner. It remains as a trust to the finder till the owner is found after proclamation and notice. If, however, the owner is not found though notice was given to all, after a lapse of one year the property becomes under the ownership of the finder. If any damage is caused to the property which is in custody, the finder is not responsible for it. The finder must have witnesses at the time when he takes the lost thing (16 : 6). If, however, he takes it without witnesses and not for the owner as in a trust, the finder is responsible for the trove. The trove is sufficiently witnessed by the finder's notification of it to the bystanders. A trove under 10 dirhams (or Rs. 2-8) must be advertised for some days, and above this sum for one year. This is the opinion of Imam Abu Hanifa. Things of perishable nature may be sold at once and money deposited. Troves of insignificant nature such as stick, whip or rope may be appropriated to one's own use if no owner is found on the spot for a considerable time (16 : 7). Stray animals ought to be secured and taken care of for the owners, but the finder is not responsible for their subsistence. The claimant of a trove must prove his right by evidence, but it may be delivered to him upon his describing the token of it.

1. Zaid-b khalid reported that a man came to the Holy Prophet and asked him about a lost thing. He said : Keep intact its cover and its knot and then notify it for one year. If then its owner comes, (good), and if not, you have got right to it. He asked : (About) flock that have strayed ? He said : Those are for you, or for your brother or for wolf. He enquired : (About) camels that have strayed ? He replied : (Take) what is for you, and what is with them is for them —their water and their bag. They will come to water and eat plants till their master finds them. Agreed upon it. In a narration of Muslim, he reported : Notify them for a year and then preserve their cover and knots and then spend for them If then their master comes, hand them over to him.

And whoever takes out anything therefrom, there is upon him compensation of its double and also punishment ; and whoever steals away anything therefrom after the picker has picked it up and it reaches the price of a shield, there is cutting (of hand) upon him. And he mentiond about strayed camels and sheep just as he mentioned about others. He narrated that he (Prophet) was asked about the trove. He said : (About) anything therefrom in a public road or a crowded village, proclaim it for one year. If then its owner comes, give it to him, but if he does not come, it is for you. And what is in an unfrequented ground—about it and about the hidden treasure, there is one-fifth. —Nisai, Abu Daud.

5. Abu Sayeed al-Khodri reported that Ali-b-Abi Taleb found a dinar and came to Fatimah therewith. The Holy Prophet asked him about it. The Prophet said : This is the provision of Allah. The Holy Prophet ate of it, and also Ali and Fatima ate. Afterwards a woman came crying for the dinar. The Holy Prophet said : O Ali ! pay the dinar.

CHAPTER XVII

879-Begging

(A) Islam solved begging problem. Begging is a nuisance for prevention of which the modern civilised societies are trying to promulgate enactments. Many puzzle their heads by devising ways and means as to how to prevent it without jeopardising the cause of the poor and shutting up the possible doors of earnings for the deserving beggars. The sound policy in this matter which has baffled the most fertile brains of the world was promulgated by the Holy Prophet of Islam. He did not leave the poor from scathing condemnation and threatening with eternal hell. He made it unlawful except in case of deserving persons. At the same time he left instructions to the rich not to return a beggar. The Quran says : And as for a beggar, don't drive him—(93 : 10Q). Thus there is recognition of rights and liabilities. The mutual duties and obligations of the beggars and those begged have been laid down for peaceful progress of the society. The Prophet not only delivered theoritical advices, but also framed definite rules, so that there might be no poverty in Islam and no poor man to beg from door to door. These are the rules of Charity, Zakat, Fitr at the time of I'd festivals, and the duties towards the neighbours and the needy relatives. The greatest merit, as the Holy Prophet said, is in alms towards near relatives who are in want and distress. This sound policy consists in the fact that if the poor relatives of a particular family and village are maintained by that family and village men as instructed by the Holy Prophet by Zakat and other charities, there will be no poor to beg from door to door in towns and villages. Thus the supposed nuisance may conveniently be abolished.

(B) Begging lawful and unlawful. As a general rule, begging is unlawful in Islam for the following reasons :—

(1) By begging, a man loses reliance upon Allah and complains indirectly against Allah's gifts which are so interwoven in his very person and all round the universe. Instead of turning to Allah for assistance and help, he turns towards men. Therefore the Quran says : And He will give him provision from whence he thinks not ; and whoever trusts in Allah, He is sufficient for him (65 : 3Q).

(2) By begging, the beggar lowers himself before his fellow creatures and brings himself in contemptible estimation of the people. A believer, however, should not lower himself except to Allah.

(3) By begging, the beggar gives uneasy trouble to one begged. The latter feels annoyance and is put between two horns of a dilemma —to pay or not to pay. If alms are paid, there is loss in property; and if not paid, there is loss in fame and fear of Allah. Thus unnecessary trouble is given to a Muslim to whom the beggar comes for alms.

(C) Cases of lawful begging. It is however lawful for one who is compelled by necessity to beg. In the following cases, begging is lawful. (1) A surety may beg for satisfaction of his principal's debt for which he stood surety, no matter whether he is rich or poor (17 : 11). The cause is that he was a peace-maker and in order to put an end to disputes and litigations between two contending parties, he stood surety for one of them. (2) A man whose everything has been accidentally destroyed by Vismajor or acts of God such as flood, earthquake, erosion of river, famine etc. can beg. (3) A man who is in dire necessity of food, abode and clothing can also beg. If a rich man falls in distress or hunger where nothing is available, it is lawful for him to beg. Similarly a poor man having no sufficient means can lawfully beg.

(D) Extent of means which makes begging lawful. No hard and fast rules have been laid down for this as necessities vary in different individuals. A man seriously ill and requiring immediate medical relief may lawfully beg for a motor-car to take him immediately to a hospital. Generally it varies from possession of nothing to that of 40 or 50 dinars (17 : 11). The Holy Prophet said that a man having one day's meal or one day and one night's meal cannot beg (17 : 10). At another time, he said that a man having 50 dinars cannot lawfully beg (17 : 9). Imam Abu Hanifa accepts the former as the correct version. At any rate, it is difficult to ascertain the exact boundary line of means which prevent a man from begging. It varies from one day and one night's food to possession of 50 dinars. Question arises here whether food or dinar is for one single self or for his whole family.

It is unlawful to beg with the intention of increasing wealth (17 : 2) and begging is also unlawful for a stout and strong man able to earn— (17 : 11). The Holy Prophet once sent a man to a forest with an axe to gather wood and sell it for livelihood rather than begging

(17 : 1). He thus raised the dignity of labour for a capable man and said: The upper hand is better than the lower (upper meaning charitable and lower begging) -(17 : 6). Some, however, hold the opinion that an able-bodied man with want can beg by observing the following three conditions—(a) without bringing humiliation upon himself, b) without excessive begging and (c) without inflicting trouble to one who is begged of. Begging in public places and mosques is Makruh. Men who come with songs by beating drums or by taking dress of females and men feigning to be pious cannot lawfully beg.

(E) Condemnation of begging. From the following verses and Hadis, it can be guessed how strongly was begging condemned :— Allah certainly loves a servant, believing, poor, abstaining from begging, and having a big family (3 : 29). Except Paradise, you should not beg anything for the sake of Allah—8 : 23. Whoso opens a gate of begging, Allah will open for him 70 gates of poverty (Ihya, P. 58, Vol.—2). These beggars beg nothing of men but burning coals of Hell-fire—17 : 2, 3. They will come on the Resurrection Day with permanent scratches upon their faces (17 : 8). Some people one adopted Islam and the Holy Prophet told them a secret word—Beg nothing of men. The Quran praises those who do not beg. It says : They don't beg from men importunately—2 : 273Q. As for the beggar, don't threaten him—93 : 10 Q. Regarding a proud beggar, it has been said that Allah will not talk with him on the Resurrection Day—26 : 40. Begging is unlawful except for three—17 : 1a ; upper hand is better than lower hand—17 : 5, 6; Prophet's charity is exemplary—17 : 7 ; patience is an excellent quality—17 : 7 ; Prophet disliked hoarding—17 : 7.

1. Zubair-b-Awam reported that the Messenger of Allah said : That one of you takes his rope and then comes with a load of wood upon his back and sells it is better than to beg of men whether they give or reject it. —Bukhari.

فَلْيَسْتَقِلَّ اَوْ لِيَسْتَكْثِرْ- (مُسْلِمٌ)

1a. Qabisah-b-Makhareq reported : I became surety for a debt and came to the Messenger of Allah to ask him about it. He said : Wait till charity tax comes to us, and then we shall order something therefrom for you. Then he said : O dear Qabisah ! surely begging is not lawful except for one of these three (reasons)—a man who becomes surety for a debt ; it then becomes lawful for him to beg till he gets it, and then he shall withhold ; a man having met with a misfortune which has ruined his property—it is lawful for him to beg till it enables him to support livelihood (or he said means of livelihood) ; and a man whom dire necessity attacked, till three men of understanding of his tribe shall stand up (and say) : Dire necessity afflicted such one—it is lawful for him to beg till he finds means for livelihood (or he said, means of livelihood) O Qabisah! what is besides these in begging is unlawful, its owner eats unlawful things. —Muslim

2. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoso begs of men their properties for bargain, begs certainly of life-coals. So tell him to beg little or more. —Muslim.

3. Abdullah-b-Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Man will continue to beg of men till he will come on the Resurrection Day without any piece of flesh in his face. —Agreed.

عن عبدالله بن عمر قال قال رسول الله صلعم مايزال الرجل يسئل الناس حتى يأتى يوم القيمة ليس فى وجهه مزعة لحم (متفق عليه)

4. Muwayiah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Commit no excess in begging. By Allah, none of you should beg anything of me while his begging should take out anything from me inspite of my unwillingness for it and then blesssing occurs to him about what I have given him. [880] —Muslim.

عن معاوية قال قال رسول الله صلعم لا تلحفوا فى المسئلة فوالله لا يسالنى احد منكم شيئا فتخرج له مسئلته منى شيئا وانا له كاره فيبارك له فيما اعطيته (مسلم)

5. Hakim-b-Hazam reported : I begged of the Messenger of Allah and he gave me. Again I begged of him and again he gave me. Afterwards he said to me : O Hakim ! this property is surely sweet, pleasant. So whoso takes it with generous mind finds for him blessing therein, and whoso takes it with stingy mind, there is no blessing for him therein, and he becomes like one who eats but is not satisfied ; and the upper hand is better than the lower hand. [881] Hakim said : I asked—O Messenger of Allah ! by One who sent you

عن حكيم بن حزام قال سالت رسول الله صلعم فاعطانى ثم سالته فاعطانى ثم قال لى يا حكيم ان هذا المال خضر حلو فمن اخذه بسخاوة نفس بورك له فيه ومن اخذه باشراف نفس لم يبارك له فيه وكان كالذى ياكل ولا يشبع واليد العليا خير من اليد السفلى قال حكيم فقلت يا رسول الله والذى بعثك

880. This means that charity with discrimination and unwillingness brings no blessing. Whatever is given should be cheerfully given in the name of Allah, and such hand of charity may bring much more rewards.

881. "The upper hand is better than the lower hand" means charity is with truth, I shall not extend my hand after you for anything towards anybody till I leave this world. —Agreed

6 Ibn Omar reported that the Holy Prophet said while he was on the pulpit speaking about charity and refraining from begging: The upper hand is better than the lower hand, and the upper hand is that which gives and the lower is that which begs. —Agreed

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ صلعم قَالَ وَهُوَ عَلَى الْمِنْبَرِ وَهُوَ يَذْكُرُ الصَّدَقَةَ وَالتَّعَفُّفَ عَنِ الْمَسْأَلَةِ الْيَدُ الْعُلْيَا خَيْرٌ مِنَ الْيَدِ السُّفْلَى وَالْيَدُ الْعُلْيَا هِيَ الْمُنْفِقَةُ وَالسُّفْلَى هِيَ السَّائِلَةُ - (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

7. Abu Sayeed al-khudri reported that some men of the Ansars begged of the Prophet and he gave them. Then they begged of him again, and again hegave them, till what was with him came to an end.[882] So he said : There comes to me nothing of wealth which I withhold from you, and whoso abstains (from begging), Allah will protect him, and whoso thinks himself free from want, Allah makes better than begging This tradition shows what a great magnetic force the Prophet had upon his followers; and how willingly they submitted to the Prophet and obeyed his sermons. Indeed a man can be judged only by his contemporaries, and the contemporaries judged the Holy Prophet as the greatest man and Prophet.

882. This shows what a great magnanimity of heart the Holy Prophet had. He never stored up anything in his life for future use. Had he been greedy for kingdom, he could have amassed wealth. He showed that self-help is the first step to invoke help from Allah. Whoso abstains from begging Allah will surely protect him from needs of men and unlawful things Whoso thinks himself independant of men and relies absolutely on Allah, Allah will make him free from wants of men and instil contentment in his mind. Whoever is patient, Allah will give him means to keep patience. These words of wisdom fell like precious jems from Prophet's lips.

8. Samorah-b-Jundub reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Beggings are scratches with which a man scratches his own face. So whoever likes may make them permanent upon his face, and whoever likes may avoid them-except a man's begging to a man of power or in an affair from which there is no escape.[883]

It was questioned: O Messenger of Allah! what is sufficient for him? He said: 50 dirhams or their price in gold. —Abu Daud, Tirmizi, Nisai, Ibn Majah.

narrators in another place asked : And who is a solvent man for whom begging is unlawful? He (Prophet) said: Such means which give him food morning and night. He said in another place: To have for him food for a day or for a night and a day.[884]

—Abu Daud.

11. Hubshi-b-junadah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Begging is not lawful for the solvent, nor for one who is stout and strong except for one who has got pressing poverty or destroying debt. And whoso begs of men to increase his wealth, he will have scratches on his face on the Resurrection Day, and hot stone of Hell which he will devour. So whoso likes, let him beg little; and whoso likes, let him beg much.[885] —Tirmizi.

12. Ata-b-Yasar from a man of Banu Asad reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoso begs of you while he has got 40 dirhams or their equivalent, he begs importunately.[886]

884 Nufali was a teacher of Abu Daud. This hadis shows that begging for a man who has got one day's food is unlawful, while other traditions (17 : 9, 11) show that a man having 40 or 50 dirhams cannot beg. The latter is supported by Ahmad, Ibn Mobarak and Ishaq, while the former by Imam Abu Hanifa. The latter says that this tradition abrogates the other traditions on the subject.

885. This is by way of explanation of the Quranic verse : They don't beg of men importunately (2 : 273Q). Begging importunately means begging for anything without any need for it. 40 dirhams is the limit which makes begging unlawful It is equivalent to Rs. 10 nearly.

886. This is by way of warning and threat. It sounds exactly with

13. Ibn Mas'ud reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Whoever is afflicted with hunger and comes down to men therefor, his hunger will not be appeased. Whoever comes up to Allah, it is near that He will make him free from want either with speedy death or speedy wealth.[887]

888. The beggar, however rich he may be, should not be turned away by any man without giving anything, however insignificant it might be. The Quran says: As for the beggar, don't drive him out (93 : 10Q).

CHAPTER XVII

SECTION 2

889. Earnings

(a) Provision in the hands of Allah.

The Almighty Allah sent provisions for men and animals as He sent them to this world. But for His infinite mercy, we would not have at all breathed for a single moment. Take away air from the world, our breath will at once extinguish, take away earth which yields trees, plants, and green vegetables which supply food for men, no animal can then live. Unless He sent down rain from above, there would have been permanent drought. Even in case of rains, crops can not luxuriously grow unless placed under suitable conditions. So it is seen that the Almighty Providence placed everything in this world which can supply food to animals for their upkeep. This is not only true in case of physical existence but also in case of spiritual nourishment as the Quran was supplied to us for the latter purpose. So the Quran says : He provides you from where you do not know (65 : 3Q).

(b) Efforts in earnings. Man is only to know the science of natural laws for growth of crops and fruits and cut them from the fields and places of actions and make them fit for human consumption. Without efforts, nothing can be earned. The Quran recites : There is nothing for men but what he strives for (53 : 59Q). So it is clear that our hands and brains should be engaged in finding out the best methods of earnings.

(c) Lawful sources of earnings. There are innumerable lawful sources of earnings. They are classed below in order of preference in Islam.

1. Zihad or fight for religion. This is the best method of earning both spiritual and temporal If victory is won, there is enormous booty and conquest of a country which cannot be equalled to any other source of earings. If there is defeat or death, there is ever-lasting Paradise and a great spiritual benefit. This sort of Zihad is conditional upon pure motive i e. for establishing the kingdom of Allah on earth.

2. Next comes in order of preference Trade and Commerce which will be discussed in the next chapter.

3. Industry such as manufacture of cloth, iron, steel, plate, soap, and oil-producing, bread-making, thread-preparing. etc.

4. Cultivation and agriculture.

5. Service or employment.

(d). Different kinds of earnings. Earnings are of different kinds—compulsory, commendable, lawful, unlawful and abominable. They are termed in Arabic Farz, Mustahab, Mubah, Haram, and Mukruh respectively. Earning is compulsory when a man having had no means for livelihood engages himself in any lawful professions for maintenance of himself and his family members. But for this earning, he and his family shall have to starve for want of food and clothing. This is Farz or compulsory earning. Earning is commendable (Mustahab) with regard to a man who has got means for livelihood for himself and his family but who still earns with intention of helping the poor, distressed and religious cause. Earning is simply lawful (Mubah) when a man earns without any intention of good or bad though he has got sufficient means. Earning is unlawful (Haram) if a rich man earns with intention of hoarding, committing unlawful things or showing pomp and grandeur in this world. Earning is abominable (Makruh) for one who is solvent and who is engaged in divine worship or religious affairs.

(e) Unlawful earnings. All unlawful means of acquiring wealth have been denounced. The Quran says : O you who believe ! do not devour your property among yourselves falsely except that it be trading by your mutual consent – 4 : 29Q. "And do not swallow down your property among yourselves by false means, neither seek to gain access thereby to the judges, so that you may swallow up a part of the property of men wrongfully which you know—2 : 188Q. Earnings from the following sources are unlawful. (1) Extortion of property from others (14 : 12). (2) Dacoity, theft and deceit (5 : 33, 38Q). (3) Games of chance, bridge-playing, lottery, races and wine-selling. The Quran says : They ask you about intoxicants and and games of chance. Say in both of them there is a great sin and some advantages for men, but their sin is greater than their advantages- 2 : 219Q (4) Price of blood and dogs (17 : 1). (5) Money-lending bussiness with interest (13 : 1). (6) Earnings of prostitutes, singing girls etc. (17 : 303w). (7) Earnings of makers of life pictures (17 : 21). (8) Price of dead animals and idols (17 : 22) (9) Bribery (note 434). (10) Earnings of a sooth sayer (17 : 30).

(f) Merits of lawful earnings. There is no better food than what is acquired from lawful earnings (4 : 109). Imam Gazzali said in his Yahya-ul-Ulum about a tradition which runs thus : Whoso eats lawful things for 40 days, Allah will fill up his heart with light and will raise springs of wisdom in his heart and tongue. Abadat (divine service) consists of ten parts, nine of which is in lawful earnings. Allah is pure and loves purity in earnings—17 : 18. Search for lawful earnings is a bounden duty—4 : 129w.

(g) Condemnation of unlawful earnings.

Allah does not accept supplication of one whose flesh has grown out of unlawful earnings (17 : 302w). He will not enter Paradise- 17 : 304w. Allah will not respond to a man who eats unlawful food- 17 : 18. In latter times, there will be no distinction between lawful and unlawful earnings—17 : 20.

(h) In Islam men and women have equal rights in earnings.

Islam makes no distinction in earnigns of men and women. It recognised everyone's efforts and gives him or her a due share in his or her earnings. It is thus opposed to extreme Bolshevism which recognises no individual rights in earnings. It is socialistic in its tendencies in as much as it tries to bring about a more or less distribution of wealth. The Holy Quran says : Men shall have the benefit of what they earn, and women shall have the benefit of what they earn —4 : 32Q. Men shall have a portion of what the parents and near relatives leave, and women shall have a portion of what the parents and near relatives leave—4 : 7Q.

(i) Dignity of manual labour. This has been dealt with in note 316. All the Prophets worked with their own hands for livelihood, because there is no better food than that acquired by one's manual labour (4 : 109). The sale of a load of wood is better than begging—4 : 108.

18. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Verliy Allah is pure. He does not accept but what is pure. And verily Allah ordered the believers with which He ordered the Prophets. He said: O prophets ! eat of the pure things and do good deeds. And He said . Eat of the pure things with which We provided you. Then he mentioned about a man dishevelled in hair and laden with dust, making his journey long and extending his hand towards heaven: O Lord! O Lord! while his food was unlawful, his drink unlawful, his dress unlawful and he was nourished with unlawful things. How can he be responded to for that?[890]—Muslim.

ثُمَّ ذَكَرَ الرَّجُلَ يُطِيلُ السَّفَرَ اَشْعَثَ اَغْبَرَ يَمُدُّ يَدَيْهِ اِلَى السَّمَاءِ يَا رَبِّ يَا رَبِّ وَ مَطْعَمُهُ حَرَامٌ وَ مَشْرَبُهُ حَرَامٌ وَ مَلْبَسُهُ حَرَامٌ وَ غُذِّيَ بِالْحَرَامِ فَاَنّٰى يُسْتَجَابُ لِذٰلِكَ - (مُسْلِمٌ)

19 Nu'man-b-Bashir reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Lawful things are manifest and unlawful things are also manifest, and between the two are the doubtful things which many people do not know. Whoso guards against the doubtful things, he makes his religion and honour pure; and whoso falls in the doubtful things, falls in unlawful things like a shepherd who grazes his flock round a reserved pasture ground and doubts grazing therein. Behold! there is a reserved meadow for everything. Behold the reserved meadow of Allah is His forbidden things. Behold! there is a piece of flesh in the body. When it is sound, the whole body is sound, and

عَنِ النُّعْمَانِ بْنِ بَشِيْرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَلْحَلَالُ بَيِّنٌ وَ الْحَرَامُ بَيِّنٌ وَ بَيْنَهُمَا مُشْتَبِهَاتٌ لَا يَعْلَمُهُنَّ كَثِيْرٌ مِّنَ النَّاسِ فَمَنِ اتَّقَى الشُّبُهَاتِ اِسْتَبْرَاَ لِدِيْنِهٖ وَ عِرْضِهٖ وَ مَنْ وَقَعَ فِي الشُّبُهَاتِ وَقَعَ فِي الْحَرَامِ كَالرَّاعِي يَرْعٰى حَوْلَ الْحِمٰى يُوْشِكُ اَنْ يَّرْتَعَ فِيْهِ اَلَا وَ اِنَّ لِكُلِّ مَلِكٍ حِمًى اَلَا وَ اِنَّ حِمَى اللّٰهِ مَحَارِمُهٗ اَلَا وَ اِنَّ فِي الْجَسَدِ مُضْغَةً اِذَا صَلَحَتْ صَلَحَ الْجَسَدُ كُلُّهٗ وَ اِذَا فَسَدَتْ

890. Prayer is accepted upon two conditions—if a man is truthful, and if he is fed, clothed and nourished by lawful and pure things. Earnest prayer of a man in journey such as in pilgrimage, acquisition in learning etc. is accepted provided he observes the former two conditions. As light and darkness cannot live together, so purity and impurity, cleanliness or uncleanliness cannot live together Allah is pure and He loves purity of men. If lawful and unlawful things are not observed, there is then no distinction between men and lower animals. Animals take grass from whichever field they get it. They can't have any sense of distinction. So also men who have got no sense of ownership. Such is the time in which we live. The only motto of the present world is to achieve object by any means, fair or foul.

when it is unsound, the whole body becomes unsound. Behold! it is the heart![891] —Agreed.

فَسَدَ الْجَسَدُ كُلُّهُ أَلَا وَهِيَ الْقَلْبُ

(مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

20. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah said: A time will come over men in which a man will not care from where he takes, whether from lawful things or from unlawful things. —Bukhari.

عَنْهُ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم يَأْتِي عَلَى النَّاسِ زَمَانٌ لَا يُبَالِي الْمَرْءُ مَا أَخَذَ مِنْهُ أَمِنَ الْحَلَالِ أَمْ مِنَ الْحَرَامِ (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

21. Abu Huzaifah reported that the Holy Prophet prohibited price of blood and price of dog and earnings of the prostitute. And he cursed the devourer of usury and its giver, the tatooer and the tatooed and the painter (of life-pictures).[892] —Bukhari.

عَنْ أَبِي جُحَيْفَةَ أَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ نَهَى عَنْ ثَمَنِ الدَّمِ وَثَمَنِ الْكَلْبِ وَكَسْبِ الْبَغِيِّ وَلَعَنَ آكِلَ الرِّبَا وَمُوكِلَهُ وَالْوَاشِمَةَ وَالْمُسْتَوْشِمَةَ وَالْمُصَوِّرَ (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

22. Jaber reported that he heard the Messenger of Allah say in the year of victory while he was at Mecca: Verily Allah and

عَنْ جَابِرٍ أَنَّهُ سَمِعَ رَسُولَ اللهِ صَلَّى اللهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ يَقُولُ عَامَ الْفَتْحِ وَهُوَ بِمَكَّةَ

891. This is one of the three traditions which are considered by the theologians to contain sources of Islamic law and great wisdom. The other two traditions are the following:—(a) Actions are judged by motives (1 : 1). (b) The beauty of Islam of a man is his giving up what is of no use to him (17 : 26). Lawful things are manifest means lawful things have been made clear and distinct by the Holy Quran, and unlawful things also have been made so such as wine drinking, stealing, fornication, murder for unjust cause etc. What is between these distinct lawful and unlawful things is a thing which is doubtful. About these things, the learned theologians differ and quarrel with one another. As a result, the indivisible Islam has been divided into sects and subjects and the whole Muslim solidarity has been shaken and rent asunder. The true principle to be followed in these doubtful things is to avoid them in order to remain on the safer side. If a man falls within the enclosure of the doubtful things, he is then nearest to Haram and is on its border line. Thus he has got the greatest chance of falling into it being led by temptations As cattle do not care to take a grass or two from the nearest field while grazing, man also may be an easy prey to unlawful things if he resides at their border line. The true and wise pious man keeps himself at the safest distance from the boundary line of unlawful things. In doubtful things, theologians created some classes. Makruhat (abominable things) and Mubah (lawful) are the chief classes among them. The former is nearest to Haram (unlawful thing) and the latter is nearest to clear lawful things (Halal). No pious Muslim should cross the boundaryline of Mubah to fall into Makruhat and ultimately to Haram things.

892. Price of dogs is unlawful according to Imam Shafeyi in obedience

His Messenger forbade the sale of wine, dead animals, pigs and idols. He was questioned: O Messenger of Allah! inform about fats of the dead, and verily boats are smeared therewith, skins are oiled therewith and people prepare light therewith. "No" he said, "it is unlawful." He said at that time: May Allah destroy the Jews! When Allah made their fats unlawful, they took fancy to them. Then they sold them and devoured their price. —Agreed.

إن الله و رسوله حرم بيع الخمر و الميتة و الخنزير و الأصنام فقيل يا رسول الله أرأيت شحوم الميتة فإنه تطلى بها السفن و يدهن بها الجلود و يستصبح بها الناس فقال لا و هو حرام ثم قال عند ذلك قاتل الله اليهود إن الله لما حرم شحومها أجملوه ثم باعوه فأكلوا ثمنه (متفق عليه)

23. Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said: May Allah destroy the Jews! fats were forbidden to them but they took fancy to them and sold them.[893] —Agreed.

عن عمر رض أن رسول الله صلعم قال قاتل الله اليهود حرمت عليهم الشحوم فجملوها فباعوها (متفق عليه)

24. Jaber reported that the Holy Prophet prohibited price of dog and cat.[894] —Muslim.

عن جابر أن رسول الله صلعم نهى عن ثمن الكلب و السنور (مسلم)

25. Anas reported that Abu Taibah cupped the Messenger of عن انس قال حجم ابو طيبة رسول

to this tradition, but Imams Abu Hanifa and Muhammad hold that it is lawful but abominable (Makruh) on the ground that the word "Khabis" signifies only impure and not unlawful things. Earnings of a prostitute are unanimously unlawful along with other remaining things of this tradition. Here blood means selling of blood. Painters of life-pictures are hereby meant and not painters of trees, houses, mountains and other natural things.

893. This shows that wine, pork and dead animals were made unlawful not before but after Mecca was conquered by the holy Prophet. Imam Shafeyi holds that selling of fat of dead animals is unlawful, but it is lawful for using it as combs or for making soaps Majority of the Muslim theologians are against this view saying that no benefit can lawfully be derived from dead animals. Imam Abu Hanifa held, however, that to sell oil of impure things is lawful.

894. Regarding price of cat, there is difference of opinion. Majority held its price as lawful.

Allah. So he passd order for him for one sa'a of date and enjoined his family to reduce his rent from him. —Agreed.

26. Atiyyah Sa'di reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Nobody can become one of the pious till he gives up what is unnecessary for him out of fear of what is necessary for him.[895]

—Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

27. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Allah has cursed wine, one who drinks it, one who serves it, one who sells it, one who purchases it, one who squeezes it, one who asks for squeezing it, one who carries it and one to whom it is carried.

—Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

28. Muhayyesah reported that he asked permission of the Messenger of Allah about wages of a cupper. He prohibited it. He still continued to seek his permission till he said: Feed your camel therewith and feed your slave therewith.

895. Who is Muttaqi ? He is one who guards himself from unlawful things as well as from things of doubtful nature. Some say that there are three degrees of taqwa (God-fear). (1) Firstly, a man abstains himself from every sort of polytheism as Allah says : The word of piety held them tight (Quran). (2) The second is that a pious man abstains himself from every sort of sin as Allah says : Had the dwellers of the desert believed and been dutiful ... .(Quran) (3) The third is that even some lawful things are avoided by a Muttaqi for fear of keeping at a safe distance from the boundary of unlawful things as Allah says: O you who believe! be dutiful to Allah. (59 : 18Q). Such were Hazrat Abu Bakr and Omar who denied themselves even some lawful things for fear of falling into unlawful things.

29. Nafe' reported : I used to send my merchandise for Syria and for Egypt. Afterwards I sent it to Iraq. I came to Ayesha, mother of the believers, and asked her—O mother of the believers ! I used to send merchandise to Syria but I send it (now) to Iraq. She said : Don't do, what is the matter with you and your merchandise? Verily I heard the Holy Prophet say : When Allah gives one of you a means of livelihood from a source, let him not give it up till it is exchanged for him or it is denied to him.

—Ahmad, Ibn Majah.

30. Ayesha reported that Abu Bakr had a slave who realised rent for him, and Abu Baker used to provide himself with his rent. One day he came with a thing, and Abu Bakr devoured therefrom. Then the slave said : Do you know what it is ? Abu Bakr enquired : What is it ? What it is ? He said : I used to foretell for a man in the Days of Ignorance, but I did not make good the foretelling, except that I only deceived him. He met me and paid me for that. So this is what you ate from. She said that Abu Bakr then thrust his hand (into his mouth) and vomitted everything in his belly.[896]

31. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoso gives alms of a moiety of dates from lawful earnings, (and Allah does not accept but what is pure) verily Allah accepts it with His right hand. Then He fosters it for its owner just as any of you fosters his chickens, till they become (huge) like mountains.

Therefore unlawful things being impure by themselves cannot remove vices.

900. Hoarding

The acquisition of wealth and its hoarding are not disallowed provided the Zakat of properties are duly paid and expense is incurred for necessaries of life. The Holy Quran says : Those who hoard up gold and silver and do not spend it in Allah's way, announce to them a painful punishment—9 : 34 Q. By this verse, hoarding without payment of Zakat and necessary expenses has been condemned. It is, however, abominable to hoard up wealth on the part of a true God-relying man, because hoarding implies a little want of faith in God as the Great Giver of sustenance. How many thousands and thousands of birds and beasts are being provided with daily sustenance by God even though they do not try to hoard up food.

The Quran says : Will you distribute the mercy of your Lord ? We distribute among them their livelihood in the life this world—43 : 32Q. The Holy Prophet did not hoard up anything—17 : 35, 309w. He also left nothing for inheritance—44 : 182, 183. The truly intelligent man does not hoard (17 : 310w) as wealh will be of no use on the Resurrection Day. The Israelites used to get food for sometime from heaven, but they began to hoard, so their provision was stopped. In short, hoarding, though lawful if Zakat is paid, is not good for a true God-relying man.

35 Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah used to store up nothing for the morrow. —Tirmizi.

عَنْ عَمَّارِ بْنِ يَاسِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اُنْزِلَتِ الْمَائِدَةُ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ خُبْزًا وَ لَحْمًا وَ اُمِرُوْا اَنْ لَا يَخُوْنُوْا وَ لَا يَدَّخِرُوْا لِغَدٍ فَخَانُوْا وَادَّخَرُوْا لِغَدٍ فَمُسِخُوْا قِرَدَةً وَ خَنَازِيْرَ

(اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

36. Ammar-b-Yasar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Food-bread and meat—were sent down from heaven, and they were ordered neither to waste, nor to store up for the morrow ; but they wasted and stored up for the morrow. So they were metamorphosed into apes and swines.

—Tirmizi.

(شَرْحُ السُّنَّةِ وَ اَبُوْ نُعَيْمٍ عَنْ اَبِيْ مُسْلِمٍ)

309w. Jubair-b-Nufair reported a defective tradition that the Apostle of Allah said : I have not been given revelation to hoard up wealth and to be one of the tradesmen, but I have received revelation—Glorify with the glory of your Lord and be one of those who fall in prostration, and serve your Lord till the inevitable thing comes to you.

—Sharhi Sunnat and Abu Naeem from Abu Muslim.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ اَنَّ رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ صَلَّى اللّٰهُ عَلَيْهِ وَ سَلَّمَ قَالَ اَلدُّنْيَا دَارُ مَنْ لَا دَارَ لَهٗ وَ مَالُ مَنْ لَا مَالَ لَهٗ وَ لَهَا يَجْمَعُ مَنْ لَا عَقْلَ لَهٗ

(اَحْمَدُ وَ الْبَيْهَقِيُّ)

310w. Ayesha reported that the Messenger of Allah said : This world is an abode for one who has got no abode, and a property for one who has got no property, and one who has got no wisdom hoards for it. —Ahmad, Baihaqi.

CHAPTER XVIII

903. Trade and Commerce

puted. It is next to Zihad, but superior to industry, agriculture and service. The history of the nations of the world shows how by trade and commerce individuals became great and how nations acquired vast territories in the globe. The history of ancient Fœnicians is in the forefront. The Muslims also spread far and wide through commercial enterprise and for propagating the religion of Islam. The Europeans to-day have acquired vast colonies only through unlimited commercial progress. The modern Japan and America are also good instances. Thus commerce is a harbinger of good news and prosperity and forms the backbone of acquisition of wealth.

(b) Quran & Hadis about trade. These scriptures pay a great deal of attention to Zihad and Commerce. The Quran says : We have made the day a means of earning livelihood (78 : 11Q). This indicates that we shall have to take some business or other for our daily bread. It again gives us encouragment to take up business by saying: There is no sin on you to seek wealth from your Lord (Q). Seeking wealth has been sanctioned and encouraged. There is therefore no sin in seeking addition of wealth after wealth. The following verse clearly indicates this : And others who walk upon earth seek the abundance of Allah (Q). Spread over the globe and seek the abundance of Allah (62 : 10 Q). Allah made trade lawful and usury unlawful (2 : 275 Q). Search for lawful earnings is a bouden duty—4 : 129w.

The Holy Prophet said : Take to trade, because there are nine portions in trade out of ten portions of provisions (Gazzali's Ihya). The trustworthy merchants will be with the prophets, martyrs and the truthful—18 : 4. About dishonest merchants, he said that they will be raised as transgressors on the Resurrection Day—18 : 60. The companions of the Holy Prophet carried on maritime and land trade throughout the then known world and thus Arab merchants carried the torch of new light to the darkest corners of the world. The Prophet himself carried on trade as agent of the famous Khadija. Hazrat Abu Bakr, the first Caliph of Islamic common-wealth, had cloth business, Hazrat Omar "whose very staff was a dread to empires" carried on corn trade. Hazrat Osman had cloth business. Hazrat Abu Hanifa, Imam of Hanifi sect, had cloth-business. The Great Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb of India took food out of the earnings of his hand-made caps. There are innumerable instances to prove that every pious and great religious reformer carried on some sort of business or other to meet his daily needs. Hence Islam has put a tremendous emphasis on trade and commerce for acquisition of wealth.

(c) Honesty in trade. Honesty is the secret of success in every thing. It plays no less a part in trade and commerce. It is as it were the principal thing which is required for a prosperous trade more than the sinews of war. The dishonest dealers are sure to fail in the long run and honest dealers to succeed. But for this secret thing, many business concerns, individual and collective, are wound up and many commercial enterprises are given up. 'Good will' is a valuable asset to tradesmen. It cannot be attained unless there is honest and kind dealings with customers. In addition to wordly prosperity, there is never-ending rewards for honest dealers on the Resurrection Day. The Quran and Hadis are replete with such promises. It says : Verily Allah enjoins the doing of justice and good (16 : 90Q). Verily Allah's mercy is near those who do good (Q). The good will may be acquired in the following six ways :— (a) The seller must not practice fraud or deceit in the article sold with the buyer. (b) Delay in payment of price may be granted to customers who are unable to pay in cash. In case of extreme inability for payment, remission may be made—18 : 2 (c) Excessive swearings must not be resorted to because they decrease in blessings (18 : 3). Allah will not speak or look to one who swears in buying and selling.

(d) The tradesmen should be strict and impartial with regard to weights and measures. The Quran says "Give a full measure, and be not of those who diminish, and weigh things with a right balance- 26 : 181Q The Holy Prophet classed an honest merchant with a Prophet on account of the merchant's following shariat-rules in trade, classed him with the truthful on account of his being steadfast to truth and honesty, and classed him with the martyrs on account of his fighting with heavy odds in treading the path of virtue and honesty in his profession. Owing to the absence of these elements in trade, the tide of trade has declined and men are hard-pressed with dire economic problems.

1. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah said : May

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللهِ صلعم

رَحِمَ اللّٰهُ رَجُلًا سَمْحًا إِذَا بَاعَ وَ إِذَا اشْتَرٰى وَ إِذَا اقْتَضٰى (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

Allah be kind to a man of gentle dealings when he sells and when he purchases and when he gives decision. —Bukhari.

عَنْ حُذَيْفَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَنَّ رَجُلًا كَانَ فِيْمَنْ كَانَ قَبْلَكُمْ اَتَاهُ الْمَلَكُ لِيَقْبِضَ رُوْحَهُ فَقِيْلَ لَهُ هَلْ عَلِمْتَ مِنْ خَيْرٍ قَالَ مَا اَعْلَمُ قِيْلَ لَهُ انْظُرْ قَالَ مَا اَعْلَمُ شَيْئًا غَيْرَ اَنِّيْ كُنْتُ اُبَايِعُ النَّاسَ فِي الدُّنْيَا وَ اُجَازِيْهِمْ وَ اُنْظِرُ الْمُوْسِرَ وَ اَتَجَاوَزُ عَنِ الْمُعْسِرِ فَاَدْخَلَهُ اللّٰهُ الْجَنَّةَ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ) وَ فِيْ رِوَايَةٍ لِّمُسْلِمٍ نَحْوُهُ عَنْ عُقْبَةَ بْنِ عَامِرٍ وَ اَبِيْ مَسْعُوْدٍ الْاَنْصَارِيِّ فَقَالَ اللّٰهُ اَنَا اَحَقُّ بِذَا مِنْكَ تَجَاوَزُوْا عَنْ عَبْدِيْ

2. Huzaifah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : There was a man amongst those who were before you. The angel came to him to take his breath.[904] He was questioned : Have you done any good deed ? "I don't know" replied he. "Look" it was directed to him. He said : I don't know anything except that I used to carry on business with the people in the world, show kindness to them, give time to the solvent and remit the needy. Then Allah admitted him in Paradise. —Agreed.

In a narration of Muslim like that from Oqbah-b-A'mer and Abu Mas'ud al Ansari : Allah said: I have got better right to it than you. Deal gently with My servant.

عَنْ اَبِيْ قَتَادَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اِيَّاكُمْ وَ كَثْرَةَ الْحَلْفِ فِي الْبَيْعِ فَاِنَّهُ يُنَفِّقُ ثُمَّ يَمْحَقُ (مُسْلِمٌ)

3. Abu Qatadah reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Be careful of excessive swearing in sale, because it finds market but then reduces (blessing).[905]

904 It shall not be inferced from this that Allah has got no hand in the matter of death. This is far from truth. Allah says : Allah takes away the souls of men at the time of their death (39 : 42 Q) This tradition proves also clearly that an honest merchant who deals with customers leniently will enter Paradise. Islam therefore encourages honest trade and honest dealings between men and men.

905. This is on account of the fact that too much swearings involve many falsehoods which once detected will divert customers from the shop, and the prosperity of the business will then continue to deteriorate.

4. Adu Sayeed reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The truthful trustworthy merchant will be with the prophets, truthful and martyrs :[906] —Tirmizi, Ibn Majah (Rare).

(اَلتِّرْمِذِیُّ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ - غَرِیْبٌ)

5. Qais-b-Abi-Garzata reported : We were called 'Samaserah' at the time of the Holy Prophet. The Prophet passed by us and named us with a name which is better than the former. He addressed : O chamber of merchants ! (As for) sale, futile word and false swearings are often used in it. So mix it with alms.[906] —Tirmizi, Nisai, Ibn Majah, Abu Daud.

(اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ وَ التِّرْمِذِیُّ وَ النَّسَائِیُّ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

6. Obaid-b-Rafa'a from his father reported that the Holy Prophet said : The merchants will be gathered on the Resurrection Day as transgressors except those who were fearful of Allah, pious and truthful. —Ibn Majah, Tirmizi (Approved, Correct)

عَنْ عُبَیْدِ بْنِ رِفَاعَةَ عَنْ اَبِیْهِ عَنِ النَّبِیِّ صلعم قَالَ اَلتُّجَّارُ یُحْشَرُوْنَ یَوْمَ الْقِیٰمَةِ فُجَّارًا اِلَّا مَنِ اتَّقٰی وَ بَرَّ وَ صَدَقَ

907. Buy and Sale

Sale is contracted by declaration and acceptance expressed unequivocally in words or in expressions conveying the same meaning. The acceptance may be deferred until the breaking up of the meeting whether the declaration be made personally or by letter or message. An offer made by purchaser cannot be restricted by the seller or to any particular parts of the goods. A little deviation from the offer or acceptance will not make the sale complete. If the acceptance be not expressed in due time, the declaration is null and void. This is before the parting of the parties or lapse of time if time is given. A sale may be entered into either for ready money or for payment within a fixed time. Grains may be sold for other grains of different species. Goods may be sold by weight and measurement. In case of a house-sale, the foundations and superstructures are included. In the sale of land, trees upon it are included unlike some tenancies in India. Corn is not included unless there is stipulation. There are four kinds of sale:—Muqaezah (مقائضه) i.e. sale of kind for kind, Sirf (صرف) i.e. sale of cash for cash as sale of gold for silver; Silm (سلم) i.e., sale of a credit for kind in cash as crops are taken for payment in future and Mutleq sale (بيع مطاق) i.e. free sale as sale of a thing in cash for price in cash.

908. Option in Trade

The power to withhold or accept in trade is called option. It occurs before the sale is complete and there are due proposal and acceptance. A purchaser has got the right of option and may reject an article upon inspection of the article if he has not seen it at the time of purchase. A seller has no option of inspection after sale. Option of inspection continues in force to any distance of time after the contract unless destroyed by circumstances. A condition of option may lawfully by stipulated by either party provided it does not exceed 3 days. Imam Muhammd and Abu Yusuf fixed no time limit. The possession of option may annul the sale with knowledge of the party or confirm it without his knowledge. A purchaser detecting any defect in the article may annul the sale.

12. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The buyer and the seller—each of them has got option on his partner so long as they have not separated themselves except the option of buying. Agreed. In a narration of Muslim—When the buyer and seller carry on transaction, each of them has got option with respect to his sale so long as they do not part away or their sale is held conditional on option. When their

13. Hakim-b-Hizam reported that the Messenger of Allah said : The buyer and seller have got option so long as they do not part away. If they speak the truth and disclose (defect), they are blessed in their sale transaction, and if they conceal and speak falsely, the blessing of their sale is decreased. —Agreed

14. Amr-b-Shuaib reported from his father from his grandfather that the Holy Prophet said : The seller and buyer are on option till they do not part away except when there is a stipulation for option. It is not lawful to part from his seller for fear that the other may demand bargain.

910—Unlawful Things in Trade

(a) Void and Invalid sales. There are two kinds of sales which are illegal. One kind is simply invalid (فاسد). It can be validated by subsequent removal of the condition which makes it invalid. Another kind is void (باطل). It is illegal abinitio and nothing can legalise it. In the former the purchaser can become owner, while in the latter, he can not.

(b) The following things have been declared unlawful in trade. (1) Muzabanah (مزابنة) i.e. Sale of a known quantity for unknown quantity or price. It is applicable to fruits, corns and lands. It is also a sale of fruits upon trees for $\frac{1}{3}$rd or $\frac{1}{4}$th of the produce.

(2) Sunnayah (ثنية) i. e. Sale of fruits upon trees after leaving some fruits from the subject-matter of sale.

(3) Mukhabarah (مخابرة) i.e. Transfer of a limited and not absolen interest in a land. It is a kind of lease or tenancy. Imam Abu Hanifa held such leases as unlawful, while his disciples held them lawful. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, adha-bhagi lease is, however, lawful.

(4) Muhaqalah (محاقلة) i. e. Sale of corn in exchange of a like quantity of wheat by conjecture.

(5) Mu'awamah (معاومة) i. e. Sale of fruits while upon trees for one year, two years or more whether the fruits appear or not.

(6) Mulamasah (ملامسة) i. e. Sale by touch. It was the custom of the pre-Islamic Arabs that a sale was held to be complete as soon as the purchaser touched a cloth or other commodity for purchase (18 ; 35). The Holy Prophet abolished it as unlawful.

(7) Munabazah (منابذة) i. e. Sale by stone-throwing. The pre-Islamic Arabs was to complete sale by another way besides 909. When the buyer and seller differ in respect of price, or the thing, or in any matter concerning the sale, there should be proof to establish the claim ; and if there is no proof, the seller shall take oath.

Mulamasah. That was by throwing stone at the commodity of sale. This was abolished (18 : 36).

(8) Hablul-Habalah (حبل الحبالة) i. e. Sale of foetus in womb.

(9) Sale of fruits and corns till they are ripe and fit for human consumption—(18 : 22).

(10) Sale of food-grains and stuffs when one takes his full quantity for his own consumption and that of his family—(18 : 27).

(11) Sale of commodities before they come in possession of the buyer—(18 : 28).

(12) Purchase of corns and food-stuffs on the way before merchandises actually reach their destined places.

(13) No sale is lawful over another sale to another for a higher price offered or for any other cause—(18 : 32).

(14) Sale or lease of water and grass.

(15) Sale of grapes till they are black, and corns till they become hard.

(16) Sale of goods without delivery and cash price i.e. sale with a promise of delivery of goods for a promise of price—(18 : 45).

(17) Bargaining with the needy persons and the poor—(18 : 47).

(18) A sale in exchange of carion, blood, person of free man, uncaught fish in water, a bird in air which will not return, milk in udder, and hair or wool upon an animal.

(19) Sale of wine, pork etc.

(20) Any article which cannot be separated from its situation without injury or of which the quality or existence cannot be ascertained or the quantity of which can be judged by conjecture.

(21) The sale of an absconded slave, woman's milk, bristles of hog, human hair and undressed hides. It is lawful to sell or apply in use bones, wools, sinews, horns or hairs of all animals which are dead excepting those of men and hogs.

Contents: None should seek a girl in marriage who has been already sought by another—18 : 32; Prophet prohibited two kinds of sale and two modes of dress—18 : 35. Sale of a thing before it comes in possession is unlawful—18 : 47 ; in emancipation of slave, no condition should be attached—18 : 58; story of buyer and seller relating to gold found underneath the land sold—18 : 60 ; a time will come when nothing will give profit except money—18 : 313w.

17. Ibn Omar reported that the Holy Prophet prohibited Mozabanat[911] bargain. It is to sell the fruit of his garden, if it be of dry dates with fresh measured dates; and if it be of grapes, to sell it for dry grapes for measurement or in like manner. And near Muslim—If it be of corn, to sell it with a measure of food. He forbade that entirely. Agreed upon it and in a narration: He forbade Mozabanat, and Muzabanat is to sell what is upon the heads of date-trees for fresh dates with a fixed measure—if it increases, then it will be for me; and if it decreases, it is against me.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ نَهَى رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم عَنِ الْمُزَابَنَةِ اَنْ يَبِيْعَ ثَمَرَ حَائِطِهٖ اِنْ كَانَ نَخْلًا بِتَمْرٍ كَيْلًا وَاِنْ كَانَ كَرْمًا اَنْ يَبِيْعَهٗ بِزَبِيْبٍ كَيْلًا اَوْ كَانَ زَرْعًا وَعِنْدَ مُسْلِمٍ وَاِنْ كَانَ زَرْعًا اَنْ يَبِيْعَهٗ بِكَيْلِ طَعَامٍ نَهٰى عَنْ ذٰلِكَ كُلِّهٖ-مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ وَفِيْ رِوَايَةٍ لَهُمَا نَهٰى عَنِ الْمُزَابَنَةِ قَالَ وَالْمُزَابَنَةُ اَنْ يُّبَاعَ مَا فِيْ رُؤُسِ النَّخْلِ بِتَمْرٍ بِكَيْلٍ مُّسَمًّى اِنْ زَادَ فَلِيْ وَاِنْ نَقَصَ فَعَلَيَّ

18. Jaber reported that the Messenger of Allah forbade Mukhabarah Muhaqalah and Muzabanah. Muhaqalah is a man's selling corn for one hundred farq[912] of wheat, and Muzabanat is to sell dry dates upon the heads of date trees for one hundred farq. And Mukhabarah is to let out land for $\frac{1}{3}$rd or $\frac{1}{4}$th (of produce).

911. Muzabanah comes from Zaban which means to throw. It therefore means rescission of a sale of an unknown quantity for known quantity or price.

912. Farq is a weight of 16 ratals or nearly eight seers. Muzabanah is a general term applicable both to fruits and lands, while Muhaqalah is applicable only to lands. Mukhabarah is a barga lease in our land. It is also called Muzarat.

Muhaqalah, Muzabanah, Mukhabarah, Mu'awa'mah and Sunnayyah, and gave permission of Ariyyat. —Muslim.

20. Sahl-b-Abi Hasmah reported that the Holy Prophet forbade selling of dry dates in exchange of dry dates except that he gave permission in Ariyyat. It is to sell dry dates for measurement which their owner will eat as fresh dates. —Agreed

21. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah allowed sale of Ariyyat for a fixed measure of dry dates for what is less than five wasaqs[913] (or in 5 wasaqs—Daud-b-Hussain doubted) —Agreed.

22. Abdullah-b-Omar reported that the Prophet forbade selling of fruits, till the good ones become ripe. He prohibited the seller and the buyer. Agreed upon it. And in a narration of Muslim : He forbade selling of dates till they are ripe, and of corns till they become white and safe from mishaps.

23. Anas reported that the Prophet prohibited sale of fruits till they are ripe. He was questioned : And what is ripe ? He said : Till they become red. He enquired : Inform me that

913. Ariyyat is that sale by which some trees in the garden are dedicated to the poor and the distressed for enjoyment of fruits. It must be 5 wasaqs in weight. One wasaq is equal to 60 sa'as, and one sa'a is equal to 4 seers nearly.

عنه قال قال رسول الله صلعم من يبتاع طعاما فلا يبيعه حتى يستوفيه وفى رواية ابن عباس حتى يكتاله (متفق عليه)

914. Here food means staple food-crops. The thing purchased must first come in possession of the vendee from the vendor in full measurement, and then it can be sold away. Before it comes into possession of the vendee, it is not lawful for sale according to Imam Shafeyi, Muhammad and others Imam Malek holds this view in case of food-crops only and not of other things. Imams Abu Hanifa and Abu Yusuf hold the sale of a land lawful before it comes into possession.

915. This means that one should wait till fruits are ripe and safe from mishap.

28. Ibn Abbas reported : As for that of which the Holy Prophet prohibited sale, it is food-crops till they come in possession. Ibn Abbas said : I don't consider anything but just like it.

—Agreed.

Don't interfere with one another in bargain, and no citizen shall sell to a villager, and don't keep back the milk of camels and goats. Whoso purchases them after that has got two options after milking them. If he likes, he may keep them and if he does not like, he may return them with one sa'a of dry dates.

Agreed upon it. And in narration of Muslim : Whoso purchases a goat full of milk in udder has got an option for three days. If he then returns it, he shall return one sa'a of food-grain with it and not wheat.

917. This means that after a man sets a value to anything and after agreement is reached for sale and purchase, another man comes forward and sets a higher price for the thing. The latter is prohibited both for Muslims and non-Muslims.

918. This is in case of scarcity in towns for food-crops. Crops come from villages and the villagers take crops one from another and thereby supply food to themselves as well as to townsfolk. In this circumstance, the Holy Prophet forbade selling only of principal food stuffs to village men because they have got no necessity of them. If however necessity is felt, it is lawful.

hand at day or at night, without turning it except in that way. And Munabazah is a man's throwing his cloth towards another man, and the latter throwing his cloth, and that is their bargain without seeing and without mutual consent. As for the two dresses: To put on sama'a. And Sama'a is to put a cloth over one of his shoulders uncovering one of his sides without cloth upon it. And as for the other dress, it is his drawing of his cloth while he is sitting without keeping anything therefrom over his hidden part.[919] —Agreed.

or oppression. No forcible selling is allowed. It is void abinitio.

924. If a man has been previously given a loan and then something is sold to him at increased price, it is unlawful as there is advantage of one party in consideration of the loan. This is the policy of those who devour usury. There are no two conditions in a sale means that there should not be two sales in the same transaction. It may mean also that there should not be two conditions in a sale.

927. T'bir (تابير) is a process of mixing one flower with another flower for union and by this process more fruits can be gathered. This is something like cohabitation of males with females. This was the practice of the Arabs.

928. This shows that the Holy Prophet was sent with a mission and divine favours. As soon he touched the camel, it gained strength and began to run faster than it did before. One waqiah is equivalent to 40 dirhams or nearly Rs. 10/-. It is seen from this hadis that before payment of price in a journey, the purchased animal can be utilised for riding so as to reach the destination. This is the view of Imam Ahmad. Imam Malek holds that this condition is lawful if made for a short distance. Imam Abu Hanifa and Shafeyi hold this as void on the basis of another tradition. They explain it awayby saying that this was meant for Jaber and for nobody else.

denied except that wala would remain for them. The Holy Prophet said: Take her and give her emancipation. The Messenger of Allah stood among men, praised Allah and glorified Him and then said: As for next, what will be the matter with the people who make stipulations which are not in the Book of Allah? A condition which is not in the Book of Allah is void; and if there be a hundred conditions, the injunction of Allah has got better right to be fulfilled, and the stipulation of Allah is more firm, and verily Walla is for him who emancipates.[929] —Agreed.

It was then said to him: Glory be to Allah ! do you sell milk and take its price ? 'Yes' said he, 'and there is no harm in it. 932. Measurement and weight.

Great importance has been attached to weight and measurement in commercial transactions. Every honest tradesman should observe the same weight and measurement both for purchasing and selling commodities. The Holy Quran lays sepcial stress : "Fulfil your weight and measure with equity—6 : 151 Q. Weigh in full when you measure, and measure with just balance ; this is good and better in interpretation —17 : 35 Q. There are therefore positive injunctions of the Holy Quran with regard to just weight and measurement. But this rule was relaxed by some ancient nations though they had these rules. The Holy Quran therefore warns us of the severe punishment that is incurred by violation of the principle. The people of Prophet Shuaib were destroyed for this very reason. The Quran says : Woe to the defaulters who, when they measure from people, take it with full measure, and when they measure out to them or weigh out for them, decrease. Do not these think that they shall be raised up for a great day ? 83 : 1—4Q. The Holy Prophet fixed up the standard measurement. The measurement was of the Medinites who were well-known to it as they were chiefly agriculturists, and the weight that of the Meccans as they were efficient in the weight on account of their commerce. He also said : Nor a people decrease weight and measure but provision is cut off from them—26 : 359w.

63. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Measurement is the measurement of the inhabitants of Medina and weight is the weight of the inhabitants of Mecca.—Abu Daud, Nisai.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صلعم قَالَ الْمِكْيَالُ مِكْيَالُ اَهْلِ الْمَدِيْنَةِ وَ الْمِيْزَانُ مِيْزَانُ اَهْلِ مَكَّةَ (اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ وَ النَّسَائِيُّ)

64. Ibn Abbas reported that the Messenger of Allah said to the owners of measurement and weight: You have been certainly entrusted with two affairs about which the former nations before you were destroyed. —Tirmizi.

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم لِاَصْحَابِ الْكَيْلِ وَ الْمِيْزَانِ اِنَّكُمْ قَدْ وُلِّيْتُمْ اَمْرَيْنِ هَلَكَتْ فِيْهِمَا الْاُمَمُ السَّابِقَةُ قَبْلَكُمْ (التِّرْمِذِيُّ)

65. Suwaid-b-Qais reported : I and the slave Makhrafah brought cloth from Hajr and came therewith to Mecca. Then the Messenger of Allah came to us walking. He bargained with us for clothes and we sold to him. A man there was measuring with weight up. The Holy Prophet said to him : Measure and weigh down. —Ahmad, Abu Daud, Tirmizi (Approved, Correct).

933. Payment in advance (السلم)

'Silm' literally signifies a contract involving a prompt delivery in return for a future delivery. Technically it means a contract of sale causing an immediate payment of the price and admitting a delay in the delivery of goods. It is an advance payment for future goods. Advance payment is lawful in all articles of weight and measurement. Money in coins is not included in the description of articles of weight. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, a 'silm' sale cannot therefore be made for goods in exchange of cash money. Goods may lawfully be advanced for goods and not for money. A silm sale with respect to articles of longitudinal measurement such as cloth or the like is lawful because it is possible to define them exactly by number of yards in respect of length and breadth. It is not lawful with respect to animals according to Imam Abu Hanifa but lawful according to Imam Shafeyi. It is also not lawful till the article be in continued existence until the time of delivery which must be fixed. The sale, in short, requires that the genus be specified and that the species, quality, quantity, period of delivery, rate and place of delivery be all determined. Silm sale can be lawfully effected for cash money according to majority of the theologians and it is now the prevailing law.

عَنْ اَبِیْ سَعِیْدِنِ الْخُدْرِیِّ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَنْ اَسْلَفَ فِیْ شَیْءٍ فَلَا یَصْرِفْهُ اِلٰی غَیْرِهٖ قَبْلَ اَنْ یَقْبِضَهٗ

(اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ وَ ابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

66. Abu Sayeed al Khodri reported that the Messenger of Allah said : Whoever advances a thing for something, let him not transfer it to others before he possesses it. —Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

SECTION 7

934. Monopoly (احتكار)

Monopoly means storing up of food-grains for getting higher price in times of need and scarcity. This is quite unlawful and at least abominable (Makruh) where such monopoly is likely to prove detrimental. Grains and food-stuffs are connected with the rights of everyone, whence the withholding of them from sale is an invasion of the general rights of mankind and an occasion of scarcity in their necessary food. It is however not any sin where such storing is not detrimental to the people as in a large city. If however the period of detention be long, it becomes an abominable monopoly, as it then induces detriment. The period of detention is 40 days according to some and 30 days or less according to others. The principle, however, is the injury likely to be caused to people if detained for longer time than is necessary. A person is, however, allowed to monopolize the product of his own grounds or what he brings from a very distant place. Prices of commodities must not be fixed. Except food-grains and necessaries of life, other commodities may lawfully be stored up.

67. Me'mar reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Whoever monopolises, he is a sinner.

—Muslim

عَنْ مَعْمَرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَنِ احْتَكَرَ فَهُوَ خَاطِئٌ (مُسْلِمٌ)

68. Omar reported from the Messenger of Allah who said: Bringer of food-grain (to a city) is given provision, and the monopoliser is cursed.[935]

—Ibn Majah, Darimi.

عَنْ عُمَرَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ الْجَالِبُ مَرْزُوْقٌ وَ الْمُحْتَكِرُ مَلْعُوْنٌ (اِبْنُ مَاجَةَ وَ الدَّارِمِيُّ)

69. Anas reported that the current price became dear at the time of the Messenger of Allah. They asked: O Messenger of Allah! fix a rate for us. The Holy Prophet replied: Verily Allah is One who fixes price, curtails, gives amply and provides sustenance; and certainly I hope that I should meet my Lord while there will be none amongst you who will hold me responsible either for blood or for property.[936]

Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ اَنَسٍ قَالَ غَلَا السِّعْرُ عَلٰى عَهْدِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم فَقَالُوْا يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ سَعِّرْ لَنَا فَقَالَ النَّبِيُّ صلعم اِنَّ اللّٰهَ هُوَ الْمُسَعِّرُ الْقَابِضُ الْبَاسِطُ الرَّازِقُ وَ اِنِّيْ لَاَرْجُوْ اَنْ اَلْقٰى رَبِّيْ وَ لَيْسَ اَحَدٌ مِنْكُمْ يَطْلُبُنِيْ بِمَظْلَمَةٍ بِدَمٍ وَ لَا مَالٍ (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ وَ اِبْنُ مَاجَةَ)

935. Trade is for the benefit of the people by exchange of commodities from one place to another. The man who fulfils this object and removes want of the people is doubly blessed.

936. It apears therefore that there is a pronouncement of great commercial value in not fixing the price of anything. If price be fixed, there will be no enterprise for commerce and trade, and business of the world will be at a stand still causing a great loss in the mercantile world.

70. Omar-b-al-Khattab reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: Whoever monopolises over the Muslims their food-grains, Allah will inflict them with epidemics and bankruptcy.

311w. Ibn Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Whoever stores up food-grains for 40 days, intending thereby a dear price, has indeed become free from Allah and Allah is free from him. —Razin.

315w. Mu'az reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: Bad is he who monopolises. If Allah makes commodities cheap, he becomes aggrieved, and if He makes them dear, he becomes pleased.

316w. Abu Omamah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Whoso stores up food-grain for 40 days, and then gives it in charity, it will not be an expiation for him (for his sins).

937. Industry (صنعة)

The Holy Prophet said: Never has any one eaten a better thing than what he has eaten of the labour of his own hands— 4 : 109. Verily the purest of what you eat is of your own earnings—4 : 110. This important pronouncement of the Holy Prophet made in an age quite remote from ours has brought a revolution in the industrial world. What order can be greater than this magnificent utterance that the purest of what we earn is of our own earnings. This led the emperors and saints to take up works and live upon their wages. This injunction led the Muslims to invent machineries of works and various ways of workmanship and manufacturing articles and commodities of common and extraordinary uses. There was therefore a great impetus given to homogenous and extraneous industry on the ruins of which the modern industrial enterprise is chiefly based. What we eat is corns, sugar, salt, oil, butter, etc.; what we use is cloth, soap, paper, utensil, shoe and thousand other things of daily use. According to the instruction of the Holy Prophet, we should ourselves manufacture these articles and supply our needs therewith. This also gives a great impetus to using the indigenous articles and establishment of mills and factories. Indeed the modern mills and machinaries have taken the place of individual labour of by-gone days. Hence the greater the use of these machineries, the greater the prosperity of individuals as well as of nations.

CHAPTER XIX

938. Cultivation (المزارعة) and Gardening (المساقة)

Mozara'at signifies primarily cultivation. It means a contract between two persons, one being an owner of land and the other cultivator, by which it is agreed that whatever is obtained from the land shall belong to both in such proportions as may be therein determined. It is just like bhag leases in our country. Mosaqat means watering and signifies a contract like the former on condition that the labourer shall take care of the fruitful trees or plants to be grown. The former applies to lands and the latter to trees and plants. Cultivation and gardening are most important for production of fruits and corns with which people and other animals sustain themselves. Stoppage of cultivation and gardening means famine and starvation for want of food. Hence it must be resorted to. Indeed the whole civilized world is greatly indebted to the tillers of the soil. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, such kind of leases as above described are invalid as wages are uncertain and lie buried in futurity, but according to his disciples and the three Imams, they are valid and the latter view has been accepted by juristsconsults. The people of Medina were mostly agriculturists and those of Macca tradesmen. The Holy Prophet himself entered once into a contract with the people of Khaiber that they should manage and cultivate the gardens and lands of Khaiber and enjoy in return half of the produce and give the other half to him. Besides, it is a case of partnership with stock and labour. The produce is participated according to agreement, and if nothing is produced, the cultivator or landlord has no claim. The following rules shall be observed in agricultural and horticultural leases:—

(1) The ground shall be capable of cultivation and gardening. (2) The contracting parties must be mature and duly qualified. (3) The terms of lease shall be express. (4) The party shall comply as to who is to supply seeds. (5) Shares of the parties to the produce shall be fixed. (6) The land shall be delivered to the possession of the cultivator.

1. Jaber reported that the Holy Prophet said: Whoso has got land, let him cultivate it or let it out to his brother. If he denies, let him keep his land to himself. —Agreed.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَنْ كَانَتْ لَهٗ اَرْضٌ فَلْيَزْرَعْهَا اَوْلِيَمْنَحْهَا اَخَاهُ فَاِنْ اَبٰى فَلْيُمْسِكْ اَرْضَهٗ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

2. Abu Omamah reported that he saw a plough and something of the implements of husbandry. He said: I heard the Messenger of Allah say: This does not enter the house of a people but Allah brings disgrace therein.[939] —Bukhari.

عَنْ اَبِىْ اُمَامَةَ اَنَّهٗ رَاٰى سِكَّةً وَشَيْئًا مِّنْ اٰلَةِ الْحَرْثِ فَقَالَ سَمِعْتُ النَّبِىَّ صلعم يَقُوْلُ لَا يَدْخُلُ هٰذَا بَيْتَ قَوْمٍ اِلَّا اَدْخَلَهُ اللّٰهُ الذُّلَّ (اَلْبُخَارِىُّ)

3. Rafe'-b-Khadiz reported from the Messenger of Allah who said: Whoso cultivates the land of a people without their permission, there is nothing of produce for him, and for him is its expense.

—Abu Daud, Tirmizi (Rare).

عَنْ رَافِعِ بْنِ خَدِيْجٍ عَنِ النَّبِىِّ صلعم قَالَ مَنْ زَرَعَ فِىْ اَرْضِ قَوْمٍ بِغَيْرِ اِذْنِهِمْ فَلَيْسَ لَهٗ مِنَ الزَّرْعِ شَيْءٌ وَلَهٗ نَفَقَتُهٗ (اَلتِّرْمِذِىُّ وَاَبُوْ دَاوٗدَ - غَرِيْبٌ)

4. Qais-b-Muslim reported from Abu Jafar: There were no inmates of any refuging house at Medina who did not cultivate (lands)

939. This was said at the time of battle in the following circumstances. The Holy Prophet saw a man engaged in cultivation without joining Zihad or holy war. So the Prophet discouraged it in the time of war. War is a principle source of wealth, then trade and next industry and cultivation. Therefore great importance was given to Zihad.

on condition of $\frac{1}{3}$rd or $\frac{1}{4}$th (of produce). Ali, Sa'ad-b-Malek, Abdullah-b-Mas'ud, Omar-b-Abdul Aziz, Qasim, Urwah, the family members of Abu Bakr, the family members of Omar, the family members of Ali and Ibn Sirin had cultivation. Abdur Rahman-b-Aswad said: I was a partner with Abdur Rahman Yezid in cultivation. And Omar engaged people in labour on condition that if Omar gave seeds from himself, there was half for him, and if they gave seeds, for them was the like. —Bukhari.

عَلَى الثُّلُثِ وَالرُّبُعِ وَزَارَعَ عَلِيٌّ وَسَعْدُ بْنُ مَالِكٍ وَعَبْدُ اللهِ بْنُ مَسْعُودٍ وَعُمَرُ بْنُ عَبْدِالْعَزِيزِ وَالْقَاسِمُ وَعُرْوَةُ وَآلُ أَبِي بَكْرٍ وَآلُ عُمَرَ وَآلُ عَلِيٍّ وَابْنُ سِيرِينَ وَقَالَ عَبْدُ الرَّحْمٰنِ ابْنُ الْأَسْوَدِ كُنْتُ أُشَارِكُ عَبْدَ الرَّحْمٰنِ بْنَ يَزِيدَ فِي الزَّرْعِ وَعَامَلَ عُمَرُ النَّاسَ عَلَى إِنْ جَاءَ عُمَرُ بِالْبَذْرِ مِنْ عِنْدِهِ فَلَهُ الشَّطْرُ وَإِنْ جَاءُوا بِالْبَذْرِ فَلَهُمْ كَذَا (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

5. Abdullah-b-Omar reported that the Messenger of Allah leased out the date trees of Khaiber and its lands to the Jews of Khaiber,[940] on condition that they would labour thereon with their wealth, of which there would be half of their fruits for the Prophet. Muslim narrated it. In a narration of Bukhari: the Prophet gave the Jews of Khaiber to labour on them and cultivate them, and for them there would be half of what would yield therefrom.

7. Hanzalah-b-Qais from Rafe'-b-Khadiz reported that he said: My two uncles informed me that they used to let out land at the time of the Holy Prophet for what the aqueducts produced or something which the owner of the land set apart. The Holy Prophet prohibited us from that. I asked Rafe': Then how is it in exchange of dirhams and dinars? He said: There is no harm in it? And that was what was prohibited as it were. If any man of understanding looks therein with (a sense of) legality and illegality, he will hold it as unlawful on account of what is therein of cheatings.[942] Agreed.

عَنْ حَنْظَلَةَ بْنِ قَيْسٍ عَنْ رَافِعِ بْنِ خَدِيجٍ قَالَ اَخْبَرَنِى عُمُومَتِى اَنَّهُمْ كَانُوا يُكْرُونَ الْاَرْضَ عَلٰى عَهْدِ النَّبِىِّ صلعم بِمَا يُنْبِتُ عَلَى الْاَرْبِعَاءِ اَوْشَىْءٍ يَسْتَثْنِيهِ صَاحِبُ الْاَرْضِ فَنَهَانَا النَّبِىُّ صلعم عَنْ ذٰلِكَ فَقُلْتُ لِرَافِعٍ فَكَيْفَ هِىَ بِالدَّرَاهِمِ وَالدَّنَانِيرِ فَقَالَ لَيْسَ بِهَا بَاْسٌ وَكَانَ الَّذِى نُهِىَ عَنْ ذٰلِكَ مَالَوْ نَظَرَ فِيهِ ذُوالْفَهْمِ بِالْحَلَالِ وَالْحَرَامِ اَمْ يَجُزْ لِمَا فِيهِ مِنَ الْمُخَاطَرَةِ (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

8. Rafe'-b-Khadiz reported: We were many men of Medina who had cultivation. Someone amongst us used to let out his land and say: This plot is for me, and this is for you. Often it yielded crops and another did not yield. The Holy Prophet prohibited it.[943] —Agreed.

عَنْ رَافِعِ بْنِ خَدِيجٍ قَالَ كُنَّا اَكْثَرَ اَهْلِ الْمَدِينَةِ حَقْلًا وَكَانَ اَحَدُنَا يُكْرِى اَرْضَهُ فَيَقُولُ هٰذِهِ الْقِطْعَةُ لِى وَهٰذِهِ لَكَ فَرُبَّمَا اَخْرَجَتْ ذٰهِ وَلَمْ تُخْرِجْ ذٰهِ فَنَهَاهُ النَّبِىُّ صلعم (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

942. The Holy Prophet prohibited here bhag-leases of some descriptions. The reason of the prohibition was unequal distribution of crops. The landlord reserved for himself the crops of some particular lands and gave other plots to the cultivator.

943. The reason is very clear, because one plot yielded something and another plot nothing, so one got nothing and another everything. For this it was disallowed to demarcate lands between a cultivator and an owner which the cultivator has been given to cultivate.

9. Amr reported: I said to Taus: Would that you had given up agricultural leases! Verily they think that the Holy Prophet forbade that. He said: O Amr! verily I give to them and help them, and verily the most learned of them meaning Ibn Abbas informed me that the Holy Prophet did not prohibit it but he said—"The gift of anyone of you to his brother is better than his realising a fixed rent from him. —Agreed.

CHAPTER XX

945 Wages & Hires

(a) Dignity. This falls mostly under dignity of labour which has been discussed in note 236. To add to it, it is necessary to say that even the Prophets who were the chosen ones of Allah engaged themselves in such manual labour as grazing of

944. Lease of such land has been prohibited as produces no crops but ends only in labour. Cultivation has not been prohibited of such lands but their leases. It is better to bring them under cultivation for wages or for share of produce.

sheep and cattle. Even the Holy Prophet of Arabia tended flocks of sheep and cattle of the inhabitants of Mecca for wages of nearly 2 pice per day. So when the greatest of men did such work as is now considerd as the lowest for a man of dignity, we should have no scruple to set our hands to ordinary labour. The Prophet said that the most enjoyble penny is one gained by one's own hard labour and the best food is that which is acquired by owne's hard labour.

(b) Payment of wages. The wages of a labourer and the hire of a thing rented should be paid up before the sweat of the labourer dries up or the term for the payment of the hire expires—19:6. Allah sets up an enemy against one who does not pay the wages of a labourer—19:3.

(c) Wages when lawful. (1) Wages are lawful when the work to be done is lawful ; viz, the wages of fornication are not lawful. (2) The work to be done must be defined and capable of being done within a fixed time. (3) The work must not be Farz upon the labourer by itself. If it is, wages therefor are not lawful, such as wages for Zihad or for helping a man in distress.

(d) Wages for medicines or for amulets and charms are certainly lawful. If anybody medically treats by reciting names of Allah or the verses of the Holy Quran, he is lawfully entitled to get wages. Thus in professional works, even recitations carry wages. The professional teachers of the Quran can therefore lawfully claim their wages.

(e) Wages for religious works. If religious works are done in the way of Allah, or for pleasing Allah, or by way of admonition and teaching to the people in general, the wages of such works are unlawful. If the Quran is only read not for the purpose of earning but for the sake of admonition, wages are unlawful. Similarly if prayers are offered for the dead, or the Quran is read for offering blessings to the souls of the dead, wages are unlawful, because it is a sort of Abadat (divine service) for which nothing can be claimed from men. There is difference of opinion whether wages for the Quran-teaching are lawful or not. Imam Abu Hanifa held it unlawful, while the other Imams held the contrary. The latter view seems to be reasonble as the teaching preevents the teachers from following other avocations of life. Imam Gazzali also supports this view. In short, the wages for the following are lawful if particular man is appointed for the works—pilgrimage, washing the dead, digging graves, burying the dead, carrying the dead for burial, leading Tarawih prayer in Ramdhan, proclaiming Azan, teaching the Quran, etc. (Ihya of Imam Gazzali).

1. Ibn Abbas reported that the Messenger of Allah took cupping and paid the cupper his wages and threw medicine unto his nose. —Agreed.

2. Abu Hurairah reported from the Holy Prophet who said: Allah did not raise up any Prophet but grazed goats. His companions asked: You too? 'Yes' said he, 'I used to tend goats for the inhabitants of Mecca for some Qirats.' 946 —Bukhari.

4. Ibn Abbas reported that a party of the Prophet's companions passed by a water. There was a man among them who was beaten by a scorpion or snake. A man from among the owners of the water came before them and said: Is there any charmer among you? Verily in water there is a man bitten by a scorpion or snake. A man from them advanced and read the Opening of the Book on condition of a goat and then he was cured. He came with the goat to his companions who disliked that and said: "You have taken wages for the Book of Allah!"— till they came to Medina and enquired: O Ms. of Allah, verily he has taken wages for the Book of Allah. The Apostle of Allah said: The book of Allah has got more right for wages than what you have taken for. 947 Bukhari narrated it. And in a narration: You have done well! Divide and set up a share for me with you.

947. The charmer was Abu Sayeed al-Khodri and there were 30 companions in the party. It is deduced from this that charms with Quranic verses are lawful and wages also are lawful therefor. The difference is that when there is 'Abadat' by Quran-reading, wages are not lawful; and when other things are meant, wages are lawful.

5. Kharejah-b-Salt reported from his uncle who said: We departed from the Ms. of Allah and came to a tribe of the Arabs. He said: Verily we were informed that you have just arrived from this man with a good thing. Is there any medicine or charm with you? Verily we have got a mad sheep in a tie. 'Yes' said we. He said: They came with the mad sheep in a tie. I read over it the 'Opening of the Book' for three days both morning and evening, gathering my spit and then throwing it. He said that it was as it were untied from the tie (recovered). They then gave me wages. 'No' said I, 'till I ask the Ms. of Allah.' He said: Enjoy, by my life, (it is bad) for him who eats with false charm. You have enjoyed with true charm.

948. Moses came to Madain and met there with Prophet Shuaib. He gave his daughter in marriage to Moses on condition of his ten years' service of grazing cattle and sheep under Shuaib. Imam Shafeyi holds it lawful while Imam Abu Hanifa unlawful as a dower for marriage.

949. According to this hadis, it appears that to take wages in exchange of the Quran-reading is unlawful. This was however not accepted by three Imams. Imam Abu Hanifa stands on this tradition.

CHAPTER XXI

Section I

950. Agency

A person may lawfully appoint another as his agent to act on his own behalf. For management of suits and cases, criminal or civil, payments and realisations of all rights and dues, an agent may lawfully be appointed. The Holy Prophet appointed Hakim-b-Khiram as an agent that he might buy for him a camel to sacrifice. Hazrat Ali appointed Aqil for management of his suits; and when Aqil became old, he was replaced by Abdullah-b Ja'far. An accused may employ an agent or a pleader to conduct his defence, but the agent is not allowed however to make confession or admission without permission of the principal. A woman also may employ an agent. Agency to be valid must proceed from the principal and must be vested in a person of understanding. An agent can not, however, be appointed to receive a loan.

1. Urwah-b-Abil Ja'ad Al-Bareqi reported that the Ms. of Allah gave him one dinar to purchase a goat for him. He purchsed two goats for him. He sold one of them for one dinar and brought one goat and one dinar to him. The Holy Prophet prayed for blessing on him in his bargain. It so occurred that if he purchased earth, he certainly got profit therefrom —Bukhari

951. Muq'arah means loan to one another or mutual co-operation in sale of a certain thing.

952. Partnership

Partnership signifies union of two or more persons in one business concern. It is like joint stock trade or business in an organised and corporate way. It is a limited business of a company. Islam does not prohibit partnership in which one person supplies the capital and the other labour; but Islam does not give concession to the capitalists, as both the capitalists and the labourers are to share the profit and loss equally. The principle in Islam is that neither side should have undue advantage and be made to suffer loss. This method is more advantageous—the method of charging interest on capital which promotes capitalism and is unjust to labour.

In all partnership businesses and joint stock companies, trust and co-operation are more important factors than the capital. With the co-operation of all cosharers, the business may thrive well, and with disintegration, it may go down. The Holy Prophet laid importance on these things more than on anything else (4:214, 215).

Partnership in property and partnership by contract are two different things. Partnership in property occurs when wo or more persons are cosharers in a property. It is not lawful in this case for a partner to perform any act with respect to another's share without his permission. The second kind is effected by proposal and consent. The profit to each partner must be in proportion to the stock.

5. Juhrah-b-Ma'bad reported that Abdullah b-Hisham, his grandfather used to take him out to the market and purchase grain. Ibn Omar and Ibn Zubair met him and said to him : Make us partners because the Holy Prophet prayed for blessing on you. So he

954. Waste lands (الموات)

Any piece of ground which from a long time remained waste without belonging to any person, or which has been formerly the property of a Muslim who is not then known and is likewise so far removed from the village that if a person call out from

953. When the companians of the Holy Prophet fled to Medina to save themselves from the severe persecutions of the Quraish, they left their hearth, home and property at Mecca and therefore fell in extreme difficulty at Medina. The Holy Prophet cemented firm brotherhood among them and the Medina inhabitants. The Ansars therefore requested the Prophet to give half of their date trees to the Muhazirs. The Holy Prophet refused it saying that the ownership would remain with the Ansars. Such was the practical brotherhood that Islam showed in its infancy.

there, his voice can not there be heard, is termed mawat or waste land. The main principle of ownership of such lands is that "nobody's land is the land of one who posseses it by labour". Such man cannot be evicted except by the rightful owner. Imam Abu Hanifa says that an order from a judge is necessary in order to validate his title to such lands, but Imams Shafeyi and Ahmad differ from him. Reclamation of such dead lands may be effected either by habitation, or plantation, or cultivation, or gardening. There is no distinction between a Zimme non-Muslim or a Muslim in the acquisition of title to these lands as the principle is only cultivation. If the land is not cultivated for some years after it was first marked or cultivated, it may be transferred to some other person. Only fencing is not sufficient to acquire title, but actual cultivation is necessary.

1. Ayesha reported from the Holy Prophet who said: Whoever reclaims a land owned by nobody, he has got better title to it. Urwah said that Omar gave a decision regading it during his rule. —Bukhari.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ مَنْ عَمَرَ اَرْضًا لَيْسَتْ لِاَحَدٍ فَهُوَ اَحَقُّ قَالَ عُرْوَةُ قَضَى بِهِ عُمَرُ فِي خِلَافَتِهِ * (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

2. Sayeed-b-Zaid reported from the Prophet who said: As for one who reclaims a dead-land, it is for him, and there is no right for the sweat of an oppressor. [955] —Ahmad, Abu Duad, Tirmizi (Approved, Rare).

عَنْ سَعِيْدِ بْنِ زَيْدٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ مَنْ اَحْيَا اَرْضًا مَيْتَةً فَهِيَ لَهُ وَلَيْسَ لِعِرْقِ ظَالِمٍ حَقٌّ * (اَحْمَدُ اَبُوْدَاوُدَ وَالتِّرْمِذِيُّ - حَسَنٌ غَرِيْبٌ)

955. If a man plants trees and does other acts of possesion in dead lands, that will not give title to him if he is not the first person to possess it. No oppression can evict the first comer out of possession.

3. Ibn Abbas reported that Sa'ab-b-Jassamah said: I heard the Ms. of Allah say: There is no reserved pasture-ground except for Allah and his Prophet. 956 —Bukhari.

4. Hasan reported from Samorah that the Holy Prophet said: He who encloses a land with a wall is entitled to it. 957 —Abu Daud.

عَنِ الْحَسَنِ عَنْ سَمُرَةَ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ مَنْ اَحَاطَ حَائِطًا عَلَى الْاَرْضِ فَهُوَ لَهٗ۔ (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ)

317w. Taus reported a defective tradition that the Ms. of Allah said: He who reclaimes a deadland is owner of it, and ancient lands are for Allah and His Prophet. Afterwards they are for you from me. Shafeyi narrated it. It is narrated in Sharhi Sunnat that the Holy Prophet gave some houses to Abdullah-b-Mas'ud at Medina, and those were by the back of the habitation of the Helpers in the midst of houses and date-trees. The children of Abd-b-Zohrah said: Keep the children of Omme-Abd away from us. The

956. Hima in Arabic is a ground consisting of grass and water which is reserved for forage of cattles and other animals. In pre-Islamic times, such places were reserved. It was abolished by the Holy Prophet as opposed to general welfare. This causes a great deal of hardship on the poor animals which have got no fault.

957. A dead land owned by nobody belongs to one who encloses it first with a wall or fencing of some kind or other. This is followed by Imam Ahmad, but the other three Imams hold that actual acts of possession such as cultivation are necessary for acquisition of good title to a dead land.

Prophet then said to them: Why then has Allah sent me? Verily Allah does not make a nation prosperous amongst whom no weak man has got his right restored. 958

عنّا ابن أمّ عبد فقال لهم رسول الله صلعم فلم ابتعثني الله إذا إنّ الله لا يقدّس أمّة لا يؤخذ للضعيف فيهم حقّه *

SECTION 2

959. Right to Water

All people and also cattle have a right to drink from a well, canal or reservoir. There are four kinds of waters :—(1) Waters of ocean which every person has got right to drink or carry away for irrigation purposes. It is just like right to enjoy the light of the sun and the moon and use of rain and air. (2) Waters of large rivers. The right to such rivers is as the former. (3) Waters in which several persons have a share. People also can use the water of tanks, wells and reservoirs as it is recorded in hadis that three things are common to all—water, grass and fire. None can however take water from them to irrigate his lands without permission. (4) Waters which are preserved or kept in vessels and pots. Water of this description is property, and right of others no longer extends to it. But if want of water is keenly felt, this may lawfully be taken if there be no water near by.

Easement right. A right to water may exist independent of the ground. This right may be reserved in case of sale of a land wherein there is water. No person can alter or obstruct the course of water running through his ground. A right to water cannot however be the subject-matter of sale, gift or other transfers.

958. This shows that ancient inhabited lands belong to the Estate, and the Estate may settle them with tenants for reclamation. The last sentence is like a precious gem which should be followed by modern civilized nations. From this, it can be imagined what a great politician the Holy Prophet was. With this principle in view, he welded together the unruly and heterogeneous elements of Arab societies and founded a religion and an empire which have withstood the calamities of ages. Zakat is a right of the poor, Fitr is a right of the poor, and thousand otherrights for the poor have been recognised in Islam.

5. Urwah reported that Zubair quarrelled with one of the Helpers about a running water from stony plains. The Holy Prophet said : O Zubair, enjoy water and then send water to your neighbours. The Ansari said : In case he is your cousin. His face became changed (in rage) and he said : O Zubair, give water (to your cultivation) and then stop water, till it returns to the enclosure and then send the water down to your neighbour. He gave Zubair his full right in clear order when the Ansari made him angry. And he had pointed out to them both an affair wherein there was advantage for both. —Agreed.

She said: I enquired: O Ms. of Allah, this is water and we have known it, then what is the matter with salt and fire? He said: O darling with reddish cheeks! whoso gives fire gives in charity as it were all that that fire cooks; and whoso gives salt, he gives as it were in charity all that that salt gives taste; and whoso gives a sip of water to a Muslim where water is available, he sets as it were a slave free; and whoso gives a sip of water to a Muslim where water is not available, he gives as it were his life.

962. The Holy Prophet declared that the land over or near which water will flow down has got the right of storing it until it reaches the height of a man's knee, and then it should be allowed to flow down to lower lands. Except this reservation, water can not be obstructed from having its own free course.

He saluted and the man returned while he was giving water in a garden. Then the Ms. of Allah said. If there is water with you stored in a skin last night, (it is good) or else we should cast lots. He said : There is with me no water stored in skin last night. Then he departed towards a shed and poured water in a cup and milked a goat for him. Then the Ms. of Allah took drink and then repeated. The man who came with him also took drink. —Bukhari.

963. Free Grant.

Free grant of lands either with or without revenue to one who deserves affection or recognition of service to the fellow-beings or to the State is recognised by Islam. The Holy Prophet himself and his subsequent successors used often to resort to such practice. Following their examples, some of the Muslim rulers were also open handed with regard to free grants of lands (Jaigirs) irrespective of cast and creed of the grantees.

13. Asma'a-bn-Abi Bakr reported that the Holy Prophet granted to Zubair some date trees free. —Abu Daud.

عَنْ اَسْمَاءَ بِنْتِ اَبِي بَكْرٍ اَنَّ رَسُولَ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَقْطَعَ لِلزُّبَيْرِ نَخِيلًا * (اَبُوْدَاوُد)

14. Ibn Omar reported that the Prophet gave to Zubair the free land of his horse's gallop. He allowed his horse to run till it stopped, and then he threw off his whip and said: Give him as far as the whip reaches. —Abu Daud.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صلعم اَقْطَعَ لِلزُّبَيْرِ حُضْرَ فَرَسِهِ فَاَجْرَى فَرَسَهُ حَتّٰى قَامَ

15. Alqamah-b-Wael reported that the Holy Prophet granted a land of Hazramat free to him. He said: Then he sent Muwayiah with me and said: Give it to him. —Tirmizi.

16. Abyaz-b-Hammal Ma'reb reported that he came as a deputation to the Ms. of Allah. He sought for the saltpit of Ma'reb to be granted free to him. Whereupon he gave it to him. When he went away, a man enquired of him: O Ms. of Allah, verily you have given him (nothing less than) a valuable water. Then he withdrew it from him. He asked him: When will it he enclosed with thorny plants? He said: So long as the hoofs of camels will not overtake it. 934

—Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ عَلْقَمَةَ بْنِ وَائِلٍ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صلعم اَقْطَعَهُ اَرْضًا بِحَضْرَمَوْتَ قَالَ فَاَرْسَلَ مَعِيْ مُعَاوِيَةَ وَقَالَ اَعْطِهَا اِيَّاهُ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

عَنِ اَبْيَضَ بْنِ حَمَّالِ نِ الْمَا رِبِيِّ اَنَّهُ وَفَدَ اِلٰى رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم فَاسْتَقْطَعَهُ الْمِلْحَ الَّذِيْ بِمَارِبَ فَاَقْطَعَهُ اِيَّاهُ فَلَمَّا وَلّٰى قَالَ رَجُلٌ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ اِنَّمَا اَقْطَعْتَ لَهُ الْمَاءَ الْعِدَّ فَرَجَعَهُ مِنْهُ وَسَاَلَهُ مَاذَا يُحْمٰى مِنَ الْاَرَاكِ قَالَ مَالَمْ تَنَلْهُ اَخْفَافُ الْاِبِلِ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

934. Ma'reb is a place in Yemen. The Holy Prophet thought that the land was waste and could be reclaimed only by enormous labour. When it was disclosed to him that it was a well-known mine of salt already reclaimed, the Holy Prophet recalled the grant and cancelled it. This shows that Judges and Magistrates may change their orders when real nature of the case is brought to their notice or new documents or evidence appear. This is provided in order 21, rule of the Indian Civil Procedure Code and section 157. It appears also that the adjoining lands to habited places cannot be considered as dead lands.

17. Samorah-b-Jundub reported that he had a great many date trees in a garden belonging to a man of the Ansars who had his family with him. Samorah used to enter it and give him trouble thereby. He came to the Prophet and mentioned it to him. The Holy Prophet summoned him to sell it to him. He declined. Then he demanded to exchange it but he declined. He said : Give them to him and there is such (reward) for you, an affair wherein he made him interested, but he declined. Then he said : You are a harmful man. He the Ansari : Go and cut down said to his date trees. 965

966. Gift (Heba)

(a) Gift. A heba is defined as a voluntary gift without consideration of property or substance of a thing by one person to another so as to constitute the donee the proprietor of the subject matter of the gift. Every Muslim of sound mind and not a minor may dispose of his property by gift. The merits of gift have been dealt with in note 644. Here we are confined only to the particulars of gift.

Heba is of 3 kinds :— (a) Simple heba, hiba-be-shartil-iwaz and hiba-bil-iwaz. The first is a simple gift without any exchange and consideration ; the second is a gift with a stipulation for a return, and the third is a gift in which some sort of consideration has already passed. Except the first kind, the second and the third resemble a sale. In a simple heba, delivery of possession is necessary, while in the other cases, it is not so. Gift may be made verbally or in writing by any man capable of making a contract. A gift by a man involved in debts is invalid, and gift in death-illness cannot take effect beyond 1/3rd. of the assets of the deceased after defraying all necessary expenses. Any person in existence may receive gift irrespective of sex, age and creed, but gift cannot be made to a person not still in existence. Contingent gifts are void, but gift with a condition is valid, the condition being void.

(b) Revocation of gift. Gift except in some cases can be revoked. It cannot be revoked after delivery of possession in cases of husband and wife, relations within prohibited degrees and when something in exchange has been received. In these cases, revocation cannot be done without a decree of competent court. This is the view of Imam Abu Hanifa and this is the present Hanifi law. Imam Shafeyi, Ahmad and Malek differ. Thy hold every gift irrevocable except gift of a father to a son (22:20). It appears from the tradition 22:19 that a gift to an issue to the exclusion of other issues cannot lawfully be made, but the present British Indian Law is otherwise. At present a gift can be made of the whole of the donor's property favour of an issue or a stranger,

18. Ibn Abbas reported that the Messenger of Allah said : He who takes his gift back is like a dog which takes back its vomitings. There is no other evil simile for us. 967

عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَلْعَائِدُ فِيْ هِبَتِهٖ كَالْكَلْبِ يَعُوْدُ فِيْ قَيْئِهٖ لَيْسَ لَنَا مَثَلُ السَّوْءِ * (اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

967. It appears from this that gift cannot at all be revoked. This is the version of the three Imams except Imam Abu Hanifa. Imam Abu Hanifa says that gift can generally be revoked even before and after delivery of possession except in eight cases after delivery of possesion. Imam Shafeyi says that a father can revoke the

19. Nu'man-b-Bashir reported that his father came with him to the Ms. of Allah. He said: I have gifted a slave to this son of mine. He enquired: Have you made gift to every son of yours like this? 'No' said he. He said 'Revoke it'. In another narration—he said: Should it not please you that they should be equal in obedience to you? 'Yes' said he. He said: Never (then) do it. In another narration—he said: My father gave me a gift. Amrah-bn-Rawahah said: I am not pleased till you bear witness before the Ms. of Allah. Then he came to the Prophet and said: Verily I have made a gift to my son by Amrah-bn-Rawahah. She directed me to keep you as witness, O Ms. of Allah. He said: Have you made gift to the remaining of your sons like this? 'No' said he. He said: Fear Allah, and gift of his son. Imam Ahmad also sponsors this view. Imam Abu Hanifa explains this hadis by saying that here the word signifies "to take and to return". This is however not corroborated by context and the next tradition. Imam Abu Hanifa says, however, that revocation is makruh (abominable) and that this sense prevails here.

968. Wakf

(a) Wakf. Wakf means permanent dedication by a Muslim of any property for any purpose recognised by Islam as religious, pious and charitable. The ownership of wakf property is dedicated to the Almighty Allah and the beneficiaries are entitled to receive an allowance only. The corpus of the property remains forever till the existence of the property as it cannot be sold, alienated, attached or in any way transferred or inherited. Thus the Muslims have been given the best weapon by the Great Economist to tie up their properties from generations to generations thereby ensuring the means of linvelihood and social economy. This process of disposal of the property is best from a worldly and religious points of view and cannot be found in any other system of law.

(b) Source. The wakf had its origin in tradition no. 23. There were also examples of wakf during the life-time of the Prophet. The Prophet himself made wakf of a piece of land which he had acquired in the cantonement of Khaiber for the support of travellers. Hazrat Omar made wakf of some lands in the same cantonement for his children, family and the poor. Zubair-b-Awam, a companion of the Prophet, made wakf for his daughter, and Sa'ad-b-Abi Waqqas of his lands in Medina and Egypt for his children.

(c) Other important matters. A Muslim may dedicate the whole or any part of his property by wakf, but a wakf in death-illness or by will can not take effect beyond one-third unless consent is given by the heirs. A wakf can lawfully be made in favour of the heirs with ultimate dedication to charity if there is no heir. In absence of a contract to the contrary, all heirs take equally the income of wakf.

23. Ibn Omar reported that Omar acquired a land at Khaiber and came to the Messenger of Allah and said : O Ms. of Allah, I acquired a land at Khaiber. I did never acquire before a land so valuable to me than this. What do you enjoin me about it ? He said : If you like, you may keep the corpus intact and make a gift of it. Omar made a gift of it on condition that its corpus shall neither be sold, nor be made a gift, nor be inherited. And he gave it in charity to the poor, and to the nearest of kin, and to those in bondage and in the way of Allah and guests. There is no sin for one who is a Mutawalli over it to eat therefrom with equity or feed without hoarding. (Ibn Sirin said : without hoarding wealth). —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ اَنَّ عُمَرَ اَصَابَ اَرْضًا بِخَيْبَرَ فَاَتَى النَّبِيَّ صلعم فَقَالَ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ اِنِّي اَصَبْتُ اَرْضًا بِخَيْبَرَ لَمْ اُصِبْ مَالًا قَطُّ اَنْفَسَ عِنْدِي مِنْهُ فَمَا تَاْمُرُنِي بِهٖ قَالَ اِنْ شِئْتَ حَبَسْتَ اَصْلَهَا وَتَصَدَّقْتَ بِهَا فَتَصَدَّقَ بِهَا عُمَرُ اَنَّهٗ لَا يُبَاعُ اَصْلُهَا وَلَا يُوْهَبُ وَلَا يُوْرَثُ وَتَصَدَّقَ بِهَا فِي الْفُقَرَاءِ وَفِي الْقُرْبٰى وَفِي الرِّقَابِ وَفِي سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ وَابْنِ السَّبِيْلِ وَالضَّيْفِ لَا جُنَاحَ عَلٰى مَنْ وَلِيَهَا اَنْ يَّاْكُلَ مِنْهَا بِالْمَعْرُوْفِ اَوْ يُطْعِمَ غَيْرَ مُتَمَوِّلٍ قَالَ ابْنُ سِيْرِيْنَ غَيْرَ مُتَاَثِّلٍ مَالًا (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

969. Life-grant

Life-grant is lawful for the grantee during his life-time and it descends to his heirs provided there is no condition to the contrary. According to Imam Abu Hanifa, when property is given to a person for life, and on his death to another person, the first donee is entitled to an absolute estate, and the second donee is not entitled to any interest in the property as life-grant is nothing but a gift and a condition, the condition being void. It does not apply to a transfer for consideration. This is the Hanafi law at present. Rukba is a generic name for all limited estates. It includes both-Umrah (life-grant) and Sukna (right of habitation). When the usufract of a property is given to another limited to the life of the grantee, it is called Umrah. When a house is given for residential purpose, it is called Sukna. Grant by Ruqbah is made in the following way. A says to B—I give you this house with this condition that if I die before you, the house will belong to you, and if you die before me, the house will belong to me. This was generally prohibited because one remains in expectation of the death of the other. If, however, it is once made, it becomes heritable. It is illegal according to Abu Hanifa and Muhammad but lawful according to Abu Usuf.

24. Abu Hurairah reported from the Prophet who said: Life-grant is lawful. —Agreed.

973. Wills

Will means an endowment of property to a person to take effect after the death of the testator. It cannot be made beyond ⅓rd of the surplus of the assets of the testator after payment of funeral expenses and debts unless the heirs give consent to it after the death of the testator. It cannot be made in favour of an heir to the exclusion of other heirs. It may be made either vervally or in writing. It may be made to the legal ⅓rd in favour of strangers, adults and all children irrespective of sex. It is not necessary that the executor should be a Muslim. A non-Muslim also may be an executor by law. The bequest to an heir may be validated by the consent of the other heirs. If there is no heir, the testator may bequeath the whole of his property to a stranger. Will is wajeb (binding) according to some jurists so far as debts, liabilities and trusts are concerned. According to others, it is only Mustahab (laudable) and not wajeb. The verse regarding wasiat runs as follows: Bequest is prescribed for you when death approaches one of you if he leaves behind wealth for his parents and near relatives according to usage, a duty incumbent upon the righteous—2:180Q. This verse is said to have been revealed before the verse of inheritance and hence the binding nature of wasiat is said to have been relaxed.

971. This is not the opinion of the majority of the learned theologians. They say that the tradition is not the wording of the Prophet but of Jaber. It is his individual opinion.

972. Ruqbah and Umrah mean the same thing i. e. life-grant.

31. Ibn Omar reported that the Ms. of Allah said: It is not proper for a Muslim who has got something to bequeath that he should pass two nights without his will having been written near him. —Agreed.

عَنِ ابْنِ عُمَرَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَا حَقُّ امْرِئٍ مُسْلِمٍ لَهُ شَيْءٌ يُوصِي فِيهِ يَبِيتُ لَيْلَتَيْنِ إِلَّا وَصِيَّتُهُ مَكْتُوبَةٌ عِنْدَهُ * (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

32. Sa'ad-b-Abi Waqqas reported: I fell ill in the Year of Victory and was at the point of death. The Holy Prophet came to visit me in illness. I said: O Ms. of Allah, I have got abundant property and thre is nobody to inherit me except my two daughters. Shall I dispose of my entire property? 'No' said he. I enquired: Then ⅓rd of my property? 'No' said he. I enquired: Then half? "No" said he. I asked: "Then ⅓rd?" He said "One-third, and ⅓rd is too much. 974 That you should leave your heirs free from want is certainly better than that you should leave them poor to beg of men, that you should never incur an expense seeking therewith pleasure of Allah but you will be rewarded therefor, even for a morsel of food which you lift up to the mouth of your wife. 975 —Agreed.

وَالثُّلُثُ كَثِيرٌ إِنَّكَ أَنْ تَذَرَ وَرَثَتَكَ أَغْنِيَاءَ خَيْرٌ مِنْ أَنْ تَذَرَهُمْ عَالَةً يَتَكَفَّفُونَ النَّاسَ وَإِنَّكَ لَنْ تُنْفِقَ نَفَقَةً تَبْتَغِي بِهَا وَجْهَ اللهِ إِلَّا أُجِرْتَ بِهَا حَتَّى اللُّقْمَةُ تَرْفَعُهَا إِلَى فِي امْرَأَتِكَ * (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

33. Sa'ad-b-Abi Waqqas reported: The Holy Prophet came to me while I was ill. He asked: Have you made a bequest? 'Yes' said he. He asked: To what extent? I replied: To the extent of the whole of my property in the way of Allah. He asked: What then have you left for your children? I replied: They are rich in wealth. He said: Bequeath one-tenth. Then I continued to think it little till he said: Bequeath ⅓rd and ⅓rd is too much. —Tirmizi.

عَنْ سَعْدِ بْنِ أَبِي وَقَّاصٍ قَالَ عَادَنِي رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم وَأَنَا مَرِيضٌ فَقَالَ أَوَصَيْتَ قُلْتُ نَعَمْ قَالَ بِكَمْ قُلْتُ بِمَالِي كُلِّهِ فِي سَبِيلِ اللهِ قَالَ فَمَا تَرَكْتَ لِوَلَدِكَ قُلْتُ هُمْ أَغْنِيَاءُ بِخَيْرٍ فَقَالَ أَوْصِ بِالْعُشْرِ فَمَا زِلْتُ أُنَاقِصُهُ حَتَّى قَالَ أَوْصِ بِالثُّلُثِ وَالثُّلُثُ كَثِيرٌ * (التِّرْمِذِيُّ)

34. Abu Omamah reported: I heard the Ms. of Allah say in his sermon in the year of the Farewell Pilgrimage:

974. It means that if by a bequest more than ⅓rd is given to strangers and if causes harm to issues and heirs, it is not good in the sight of Allah. The principle is that every man is responsible for his own family. Nations consist of families. If all the families observe this rule, there will be the inevitable prosperity of the nations.

975. According to Islam, every expenditure spent in family maintenance or for helping the poor and the distressed will be charitable if done with the intention of pleasing Allah or in obedience to His command. Niyyat or motive plays a prominent part in an action of a Muslim. This tradition shows that hoarding of wealth is not unlawful provided zakat is paid—9:34Q., and that hoarding to leave the heirs rich is not unlawful.

Verily Allah has given every man having right his right. So there shall be no bequest for an heir. Abu Daud and Ibn Majah narrated it and Tirmizi added: Issue is for the bed, 976 and for fornicator there is stoning to death, and their account is upon Allah. It is reported from Ibn Abbas who reported from the Prophet that he said: There is no bequest to an heir unless (other) heirs consent. (A broken tradition. This is the word of Masabih). In another narration of Darqutni, he said: Bequest is not lawful for an heir unless the (other) heirs consent.

إِنَّ اللّٰهَ قَدْ أَعْطَى كُلَّ ذِي حَقٍّ حَقَّهُ فَلَا وَصِيَّةَ لِوَارِثٍ رَوَاهُ أَبُوْدَاوٗدَ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ وَزَادَ التِّرْمِذِيُّ اَلْوَلَدُ لِلْفِرَاشِ وَلِلْعَاهِرِ الْحَجَرُ وَحِسَابُهُمْ عَلَى اللّٰهِ وَيُرْوٰى عَنِ ابْنِ عَبَّاسٍ عَنِ النَّبِيِّ صلعم قَالَ لَا وَصِيَّةَ لِوَارِثٍ إِلَّا أَنْ يَشَاءَ الْوَرَثَةُ مُنْقَطِعٌ هٰذَا لَفْظُ الْمَصَابِيْحِ وَفِيْ رِوَايَةِ الدَّارَقُطْنِيِّ قَالَ لَا تَجُوْزُ وَصِيَّةٌ لِوَارِثٍ إِلَّا أَنْ يَشَاءَ الْوَرَثَةُ *

35. Abu Hurairah reported that the Ms. of Allah said: Verily (if) a man and his wife act in obedience to Allah for sixty years and then death overtakes them both but they act unjustly regarding bequest, the fire becomes sure for them. 977

عَنْ أَبِيْ هُرَيْرَةَ عَنْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم قَالَ إِنَّ الرَّجُلَ لَيَعْمَلُ وَالْمَرْأَةُ بِطَاعَةِ اللّٰهِ سِتِّيْنَ سَنَةً ثُمَّ يَحْضُرُهُمَا الْمَوْتُ فَيَضَارَّانِ فِي الْوَصِيَّةِ فَتَجِبُ لَهُمَا النَّارُ ثُمَّ قَرَأَ

975. The issue is for the bed means that a child shall be ascribed to the man by whom that child was brought in the womb in the bed. It may be by the husband or by a stranger but always by the mother; so the child is ascribed to the mother who lies on bed at the time of cohabitation. The fornicator is no heir to the child, nor the child to the fornicator. The fornicator is to be stoned to death. If it is not done, his punishment is upon Allah. He may punish him or forgive him. Mr. Ameer Ali defined it—(Mohm. Law, p. 221 vol.2)—Paternity of a child born in lawful wed-lock is presumed to be in the husband of the mother without any acknowledgment or affirmation of parentage on his part and such child follows the status of the father.

977. Writing of will has been recommended as far as practicable with attesting witnessos, but it is not binding

Then Abu Hurairah read: "After bequest that may have been made or a debt without being harmful" up to His saying: And that is the great achievement. —Ahmad, Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

37. Amr-b-Shuaib from his father who from his grandfather reported that A's-b-Wail 978 made bequest for emancipation from him of 100 slaves. His son Hisham emancipated 50 slaves. His son Amr intended to set free the remaining 50 slaves. So he said: Till I ask the Prophet. So he asked the Prophet. He came to the Prophet and said: O Ms. of Allah, verily my father bequeathed that 100 of his slaves should be emancipated, and verily Hisham set free 50 slaves of him, and there remain 50 still for him. Shall I emancipate for him? Then the Prophet

978. A's-b-Wail saw this period but he did not accept Islam. He left two sons-Hisham and Amr-b-al-A's who accepted Islam. This shows that a good deed done on behalf of a dead Muslim reaches him but does not reach a non-Muslim.

980. Inheritance

(a) Pre-Islamic Law of Inheritance. Before Islam, succession to properties both among the Arabs and non-Arabs was quite unsatisfactory and not in well-defined lines. Succession among Pre-Islamic Arabs was confined only to able male relations—22:51. Daughters, widows, mothers, sisters, minors and incapable persons had no share in the heritage. Mother was regarded as among the chattels that came down for inheritance. The basic principle of inheritance among them was that one must be capable of defending honour of the family and the tribe. In Jewish law, daughters were excluded by the sons, and mothers inherited nothing from their children. Illegitimate children had the same right as legitimate children. Daughters had no interest in the property of their mothers. In India also, daughters are excluded by sons, and the widows and other females have got no absolute interest. There is also distinction between self-acquired and ancestral properties. In Europe, there is distinction between real and personal properties.

979. Allah ordained shares and residues for heirs. He who disinherits an heir will certainly lose inheritance of Paradise on the Resurrection Day. The Quran says : They will inherit Ferdous (Q). Allah will then deprive them of Ferdous. In other words, they will not be able to enter Paradise.

These inequalities, exclusion of women from inheritance thereby degrading them to the position of chattels or if more to the lowest status, have been removed by the magic touch of the Holy Prophet and a more equitable and just principle has been adopted in inheritance, thereby ensuring the absolute rights of women in different capacities, as mother, sister, daughter and wife. These shares have been guaranteed, their rights have been recog nised and thus their status has been greatly raised up. The Quran says: Men shall have a portion of what their parents and near relatives leave; and women shall have a portion of what their perents and near relations leave, whether there is little or much of it—4:70. Thus personal acquisition and labour have been recognised both for men and women. It has been confirmed in another verse: Man has got right in what they acquire and woman also has got right in what they acquire. An European writer had to admit "we find ample attention paid to the interests of all those whom nature places in the first rank of our affections, and indeed it is difficult to conceive any system containing rules more strictly just and equitable."

(b) Distribution of Property. The assets left by the deceased must be dealt with in Islam in the following way in order of preference: (1) Funeral expenses, (2) satisfaction of debts—22:53, (3) payment of bequest, if any, to the extent of $\frac{1}{3}$rd. of the total assets, (4) to divide the remainder among the heirs. The rules to be observed in the division are the following: (1) Firstly, the sharers (Ashabe—Farz) will get their shares as fixed by Allah. —22:40; (2) secondly, the residue shall be divided among such residuaries as are entitled to the residue. In default of the first, the second will get the whole; (3) the distant hundred. In default of the first and the second, the third shall inherit except in one case. (4) In default of the former three, succession will go to one held by wala i.e. one who undertakes to pay fine or ranson for the deceased —22:62. (5) If that does not occur in a case, it will go to the acknowledged kinsman i.e. a person of unknown descent in whose favour the deceased has made an acknowledgment of kinship, not through himself but through another. (6) In default, it will go to the universal legatee i.e. a person to whom the deceased has left the whole of his property by will. (7) In default of any of the former persons, it will escheat to the Baitul Mal or Public Treasury. (8) In default of Public Treasury, it will go to the leaders of the village of the deceased for distribution to the poor—22:51,52.

(c) Sharers with Shares: (1) Father $\frac{1}{6}$th, (2) grandfather $\frac{1}{6}$th, (3) husband $\frac{1}{4}$th with child and $\frac{1}{2}$ without child, (4) wife $\frac{1}{8}$th with child and $\frac{1}{4}$th without child, (5) mother $\frac{1}{6}$th with child and $\frac{1}{3}$rd without child, (6) grand-mother $\frac{1}{6}$th (paternal or in default maternal), (7) daughter $\frac{1}{2}$ when alone, and $\frac{2}{3}$ if more when no son, (8) son's daughter h.l.s. like above, (9) uterine brother or sister $\frac{1}{6}$th if one, $\frac{1}{3}$rd if more, (10) full sister $\frac{1}{2}$ when alone, and $\frac{2}{3}$rd if more, (11) consanguine sister $\frac{1}{2}$ if one and $\frac{2}{3}$rd if more. There are 12 sharers, of them there are six that inherit as residuaries when there are corresponding males of parallel grade—father, true grandfather, daughter, son's daughter, full sister and consanguine sister.

(d) Residuaries in order of succession:—(1) Son, (2) son's son, (3) father, (4) true grandfather, (5) full brother, (6) full sister, (7) full brother's son, (8) consanguine brother's son (9) full brother's son's son, (10) consanguine brother's son's son, (11) full paternal uncle, (12) consanguine paternal uncle i.e. descendants, ascendants, then descendants of father, then descendants of grandfather and then male descendants of more remote grandfathers. Shares are so arranged that son get always something as a residuary.

(e) Distant Kindred. (1) Descendant of the deceased, (2) ascendant of the deceased, (3) descendant of parents, (4) descendant of immediate grand-parents and (5) descendant of more remote ancestors.

(f) Principles of Inheritance. (1) The nearer in degree exclude the more remote as grandfather is excluded by father. (2) Whoso is related to the deceased through any person shall not inherit while that person is living.

(g) Four persons cannot get Inheritance. (1) a fugitive slave who has fled away from his master; (2) one who has murdered his predecessor willingly or unwillingly—22:45; (3) difference in religion—30:44; (4) difference in habitation i.e.

No child that does not take breath when born shall inherit or be inherited—30:80; Prophet took responsibility of paying debts from the Estate of one who left nothing—22:89; no Muslim inherits a polytheist, nor a polytheist inherits a Muslim—22,41 : 41; Prophet dearer to a believer than his own soul—22:48; illegitimate son does not inherit, nor is inherited—22:50; occasion of the revelation of the verse of inheritance—22:54; rules of inheritance, zakat and pilgrimage should be learnt—22:320 w.

39. Abu Hurairah reported from the Prophet who said: I am dearer to the believers than their ownselves. So whoso dies leaving debt due from him but without leaving means of payment, then its payment is on me. And whoso leaves a property, it is for his heirs. And in a narration: Whoso leaves a debt or poor means, let him come to me as I am his substitute. In another narration: Whoso leaves a property, it is for his heirs; and whoso leaves a debt, it is on us. 981 —Agreed.

عَنْ بُرَيْدَةَ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صلعم جَعَلَ لِلْجَدَّةِ السُّدُسَ اِذَا لَمْ تَكُنْ دُوْنَهَا اُمٌّ * (اَبُوْدَاوُدَ)

988. The theologians are unanimous that a polytheist can not inherit a Muslim, but there is difference of opinions regarding a Muslim inheriting a polytheist. The majority say that he does not inherit Imam Malek differs. A retrograde does not inherit a muslim, but a muslim can inherit the property of a retrograde acquired during his Islam according to Imam Abu Hanifa, and cannot inherit a retrograde according to others.

984. This means that the emancipator of a slave inherits the property of the slave if he has got no heir. The slave will not inherit his master.

985. Nephews inherit maternal uncles, but not according to Imams Abu Hanifa and Ahmad.

986. One who commits murder of his kindred whom he will inherit is disinherited on account of the foul deed.

987. This means that in absence of mother, the grand mother, either paternal or maternal, will get ⅙th share.

47. Jaber reported that the Ms. of Allah said: When a child takes breath, it shall be prayed over and it inherits.
—Ibn Majah, Darimi.

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم
إِذَا اسْتَهَلَّ الصَّبِيُّ صُلِّيَ عَلَيْهِ وَوَرِثَ *
(ابْنُ مَاجَةَ وَالدَّارِمِيُّ)

318w. Kasir-b-Abdullah reported that the Holy Prophet said: The emancipator of a people is from them, and the covenanted man of a people is from them, and the son of the sister of a people is from them. 988
—Darimi.

عَنْ كَثِيْرِ بْنِ عَبْدِ اللّٰهِ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ عَنْ
جَدِّهٖ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَوْلَى الْقَوْمِ
مِنْهُمْ وَحَلِيْفُ الْقَوْمِ مِنْهُمْ وَابْنُ اُخْتِ
الْقَوْمِ مِنْهُمْ * (الدَّارِمِيُّ)

48. Miqdam reported that the Ms. of Allah said: I am dearer to a believer than his own life. Whoso leaves a debt or scanty means, it is upon me; and whoso leaves property, it is for his heirs. I am guardian over one who has got no guardian. I shall inherit his property and make his liability free. Maternal uncle is heir to one who has got no heir. He will inherit his property and make his liability free. In another narration: I am an heir to one who has got no heir. I shall pay blood-feud for him and inherit him, and maternal uncle is heir to one who has got no heir. He will pay his blood-feud and inherit him. —Abu Daud.

عَنِ الْمِقْدَامِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم
اَنَا اَوْلٰى بِكُلِّ مُؤْمِنٍ مِنْ نَفْسِهٖ فَمَنْ
تَرَكَ دَيْنًا اَوْ ضَيْعَةً فَاِلَيَّ وَمَنْ
تَرَكَ مَالًا فَلِوَرَثَتِهٖ وَاَنَا مَوْلٰى مَنْ لَا مَوْلٰى
لَهٗ اَرِثُ مَالَهٗ وَاَفُكُّ عَانَهٗ وَالْخَالُ وَارِثُ
مَنْ لَا وَارِثَ لَهٗ يَرِثُ مَالَهٗ وَيَفُكُّ عَانَهٗ وَفِيْ
رِوَايَةٍ وَاَنَا وَارِثُ مَنْ لَا وَارِثَ لَهٗ اَعْقِلُ عَنْهُ
وَاَرِثُهٗ وَالْخَالُ وَارِثُ مَنْ لَا وَارِثَ لَهٗ
يَعْقِلُ عَنْهُ وَيَرِثُهٗ * (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ)

988. This condition existed before the verse of inheritance was revealed. The covenanted man of a people belongs to them means the man with whom another man has entered into a contract that his murder will be considered as his murder, his fight as his and so on. In other words, contract was made with him with full responsibility. In case of murder, his blood-feud shall be given by such people with whom contract was made. A freed man of a people is from them means that an emancipator inherits a freed man's property. The last sentence means that nephews shall inherit maternal uncle's property.

49. Waselah-b-Asqa'a reported that the Ms. of Allah said : A woman shall get three inheritances—(from) one whom she emancipated, one whom she picked up and her son for whom she imprecated. 989 —Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah.

عَنْ وَاثِلَةَ بْنِ الْاَسْقَعِ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم تَحُوْزُ الْمَرْءَةُ ثَلٰثَ مَوَارِيْثَ عَتِيْقَهَا وَ لَقِيْطَهَا وَ وَلَدَهَا الَّذِيْ لَاعَنَتْ عَنْهُ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ)

50. Amr-b-Shuaib reported from his father who from his grandfather that the Ms. of Allah said : Whoso fornicates with a free woman or a slave-girl, the issue is an illegitimate child. He shall neither inherit, nor be inherited. 990 —Tirmizi.

عَنْ عَمْرِو بْنِ شُعَيْبٍ عَنْ اَبِيْهِ عَنْ جَدِّهٖ اَنَّ النَّبِيَّ صلعم قَالَ اَيُّمَا رَجُلٍ عَاهَرَ بِحُرَّةٍ اَوْ اَمَةٍ فَالْوَلَدُ وَلَدُ زِنًا لَا يَرِثُ وَلَا يُوْرَثُ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

51. Ayesha reported that a freed slave of the Prophet died and left something without leaving an heir, or a son. The Holy Prophet said : Give his heritage to a man of the inmates of his own village. 991 —Abu Daud, Tirmizi.

عَنْ عَائِشَةَ اَنَّ مَوْلًى لِرَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَاتَ وَتَرَكَ شَيْئًا وَ لَمْ يَدَعْ حَمِيْمًا وَلَا وَلَدًا فَقَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اَعْطُوْا مِيْرَاثَهٗ رَجُلًا مِنْ اَهْلِ قَرْيَتِهٖ * (اَبُوْدَاوٗدَ وَالتِّرْمِذِيُّ)

52. Boraidah reported that a man of Khuja'a died. He came to the Prophet with his heritage. He said : Search for it an heir or a blood-relation. They did not find any heir or blood-

عَنْ بُرَيْدَةَ قَالَ مَاتَ رَجُلٌ مِنْ خُزَاعَةَ فَاُتِيَ النَّبِيُّ صلعم بِمِيْرَاثِهٖ فَقَالَ الْتَمِسُوْا لَهٗ وَارِثًا اَوْ ذَارِحِمٍ فَلَمْ يَجِدُوْا لَهٗ وَارِثًا وَلَا

989. A woman shall inherit an emancipated slave who died without leaving any heir, one whom she picked up and who was brought up by her, and a child who was denied by the husband of its mother on the ground of whoredom and about which imprecation took place.

990. The illegitimate son or girl does not inherit a fornicating father, but inherits such a mother. The mother also inherits him or her.

991. It means that the property of a man who has left no heir vests in the Estate. The Prophet was to have the heritage of the freed man, but he did not accept it as no Prophets inherited, nor were inherited.

relation. Then the Ms. of Allah said : Give it to the leaders of Khuja'a. 992 —Abu Daud.

53. Ali reported : Verily you read this verse—"After bequest which you have made or (satisfaction of) a debt (4:11Q)" and the Ms. of Allah gave decree about debt before bequest. And verily the uterines among the children of the mother shall inherit one another in preference to the children of foster mothers. A man shall inherit his brother by his father and mother in preference to his brother only by his father. Tirmizi and Ibn Majah narrated it. And in a narration of Darimi : He said : Brothers by the mother inherit one another in preference to the sons of foster mothers—up to its end.

54. Jaber reported that the wife of Sa'ad-b-Rabiy came with her two daughters by Sa'ad-b-Rabiy to the Ms. of Allah. He said : O Ms. of Allah, they are two daughters of Sa'ad-b-Rabiy. Their father was martyred with you on the day of Uhud, and their uncle has taken their property. He has not left any property for them, and they can't be married unless they have got property. He said :

ذَارَحِمٍ فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللّٰهِ صلعم اعطوا الكبـــر

عَنْ عَلِيٍّ قَالَ اِنَّكُمْ تَقْرَؤُنَ هٰذِهِ الْاٰيَةَ

عَنْ جَابِرٍ قَالَ جَاءَتِ امْرَاَةُ سَعْدِ بْنِ
الرَّبِيْعِ بِابْنَتَيْهَا مِنْ سَعْدِ بْنِ الرَّبِيْعِ اِلٰى
رَسُوْلِ اللّٰهِ صلعم فَقَالَتْ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللّٰهِ هَاتَانِ

992. The leaders of the tribe got the heritage as they were expected to spend it for the poor and the destitute. This means that such 'la-wares' property vests in the Estate and shall be deposited in the Public Treasury. In another narration of Abu Daud, he (Prophet) said : Look at the great men of Khuja'a.

Allah will act about that. Then the verse of inheritance (4:11Q) was revealed. So the Prophet sent for their uncle and said: Give the two daughters of Sa'ad ⅔rd and give their mother ⅛th, and what remains is for you. —Ahmad, Abu Daud, Ibn Majah, Tirmizi (Approved, Rare).

55. Huzail-b-Shurahbil reported that Abu Musa was asked about daughter and daughter of son and sister. He said: For the daughter, there is half, and for the sister half, and bring the son of Mas'ud. He will agree with me. Then the son of Mas'ud was asked and was informed of the question of Abu Musa. He said: Then I am in error; I am not among the rightly guided men. I gave decision therein according to what the Prophet decreed: half for the daughter and ⅙th for the son's daughter towards completion of ⅔rds, and what remains is for the sister. We them came to Abu Musa and intimated to him of the saying of Ibn Mas'ud. He said: Don't ask me so long as this learned man is amongst you. —Bukhari.

56. Imran-b-Hussain reported that a man came to the Prophet and said: Verily the son of my son died. What is for me out of his heritage ? He said : There is $\frac{1}{6}$th for you. When he went away, he called him and said : For you, there is another $\frac{1}{6}$th. When he went away, he called him, saying : The last $\frac{1}{6}$th is a provision for you.

—Ahmad, Tirmizi, Abu Daud (Approved, Rare).

57. Qabisah-b-Zuaib reported that the grand-mother came to Abu Bakr asking him about her heritage. He said to her : There is nothing for you in the Book of Allah, and there is nothing for you in 'Sunnat' of the Prophet. Return till I ask the people. He enquired. Mugirah, son of Shu'bah, said : I was present before the Apostle of Allah who gave her $\frac{1}{6}$th. Then Abu Bakr said : Have you got others besides you ? Muhammad-b-Maslamah said like what Mugirah had said. Abu Bakr then gave it to her. Then another grand-mother came to Omar asking him her heritage He said : That $\frac{1}{6}$th is for her also. If you both exist together, it is between you, and if any of you predeceases another, it is for her.

Malek, Ahmad, Tirmizi, Abu Daud, Darimi, Ibn Majah.

58. Ibn Mas'ud reported about a grand mother along with her son. She was the first grand-mother whom the P. ophet gave to enjoy $\frac{1}{6}$th with her son, while her son was alive.

عَنِ ابْنِ مَسْعُودٍ قَالَ فِي الْجَدَّةِ مَعَ ابْنِهَا أَنَّهَا أَوَّلُ جَدَّةٍ أَطْعَمَهَا رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم سُدُسًا مَعَ ابْنِهَا وَابْنُهَا حَيٌّ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَ الدَّارِمِيُّ ضَعِيفٌ)

60. Tamim ad-Dari reported: I asked the Prophet: What is the order regarding a man from among the polytheists turning a Muslim in the hands of one of the Muslims? He said: He is the best of men in his life and in his death. 995

عَنْ تَمِيمٍ الدَّارِيِّ قَالَ سَأَلْتُ رَسُولَ اللهِ صلعم مَا السُّنَّةُ فِي الرَّجُلِ مِنْ أَهْلِ الشِّرْكِ يُسْلِمُ عَلَى يَدَيْ رَجُلٍ مِنَ الْمُسْلِمِينَ فَقَالَ هُوَ أَوْلَى النَّاسِ بِمَحْيَاهُ وَ مَمَاتِهِ * (اَلتِّرْمِذِيُّ وَابْنُ مَاجَةَ وَ الدَّارِمِيُّ *

61. Ibn Abbas reported that a man died without any heir except a slave whom he had emancipated. The Holy Prophet said: Has he got anybody? They replied: No, except a slave of his whom he set free. Then the Prophet made him an heir to him. 996

—Abu Daud, Tirmizi, Ibn Majah.

994. Ashyam Zababi was killed by mistake at the time of the Prophet.
995. This was abrogated by the verse of the Quran about inheritance.
996. This shows that the emancipator and one emancipated both inherit to one another and are inherited in absence of heirs.

62. Amr-b-Shuaib reported that the Ms. of Allah said: He who inherits property inherits Wala. 996a —Tirmizi.

63. Abdullah-b-Omar reported that the Ms. of Allah said: What has been divided of heritage in the Days of Ignorance is upon the division of the Days of Ignorance, and whatever heritage Islam has overtaken is upon the division of Islam. 997 —Ibn Majah.

319w. Muhammad-b-Abi Bakr reported that his father heard many persons to say that Omar-b-al-Khattab used to say: It is wonderful for the aunt that she is inherited but does not inherit. —Malek.

عن عمرو بن شعيب عن ابيه عن جده ان النبي صلعم قال يرث الولاء من يرث المال * (الترمذي)

عن محمد ابن ابي بكر انه سمع اباه كثيرا يقول كان عمر بن الخطاب يقول عجبا للعمة تورث ولا ترث - (مالك)

عن عمر قال تعلموا الفرائض وزادبن مسعود والطلاق والحج قال فانه من دينكم - (الدارمي)

996a. Wala means the property of a freed man.

997. This means that property already inherited or acquired in the Days of Ignorance can not now be conveniently allowed in Islam. He who got less at that time than what Islam fixed can not claim more. If, however, property is partitioned after a man embraces Islam, he may follow the law of Islam.

CHAPTER XXIII

998. Jihad (holy war)

(a) Jihad. The word is derived from Jahadun meaning exertion or striving. Technically it means exerting of one's power in repelling enemy to the extent of one's ability whether by word or by deed. It also means a war undertaken for a just cause and for defence of Islam. The holy Quran used the word in various ways: Those who strive hard for Us, We will certainly guide them in Our ways, and Allah is surely with the doers of good—29:69Q. Whoever strives hard, he strives only for his own soul—29:6Q. Strive hard for Allah such a striving as is due to Him—22:78Q. It appears therefore that the word has been used in different senses but some European writers twisted it and applied it in all cases to Holy War.

(b) Object of Jihad. The Holy Quran says: Permission to fight is given to those upon whom war is made because they are oppressed, and Allah is well able to assist them, those who have been expelled from their homes without a just cause except that they say: Our Lord is Allah, and had there not been Allah's repelling some people by others, there would have been pulled down cloisters, churches, synagogues and mosques in which Allah's name is much remembered, but Allah will help him who helps His cause-22:39, 40Q. The object of Jihad is therefore self-defence which is also a natural law with regard to all animals, and the object is not propagation of the faith. The Holy Quran strictly prohibited conversion by force saying: There is no compulsion in religion (2:256Q). Jihad is holy war in the sense that had there been no war, no religious liberty, no justice and no house of God irrespective of cast and creed would have been saved. This magnanimous pronouncement of the object of war in protecting the holy places of all faiths is nowhere found in the world except in Islam. For absence of good motive in war, the world is now in utter chaos and imperialistic and bureaucratic tendencies have cropped up to an amazing extent. All the wars undertaken by the Prophet and his companions were of this type. The Quran says in unmistakable terms about the object of war in another verse : And fight in the way of Allah with those who fight with you, and be not aggressive—2:140Q. This verse also warns the Muslims not to be excessive in killing such as the killing of women, children and the old. The Holy Prophet used to pray in the field of Badr in the midst of actual fight : O Allah ! I beseech Thee to fulfil Thy covenant and Thy promise. "O Allah ! if Thou wilt, Thou wilt be worshipped no more."

(c) Aganist whom to fight ? Fight must be against aggressors who create disturbance in the world and destroy the houses of God of all faiths. Islam however prohibits to fight with those who do not take aggressive part or who are under any treaty with the Muslims on payment of Jizya tax which is a token of submission to muslim rule. The Quran recites : (Fight with the aggressors) except those of the idolaters with whom you made a treaty, they have not injured you in anything and have not backed up anyone against you, so fulfil their treaty to the end of their terms ; surely Allah loves those who are careful of their duty (9:4Q). Again it says : If one of the idolaters seek protection from Thee, give him protection till he hears the word of Allah, then make him reach his place of safety ; this is because they are a people who do not know—(9:6Q). Again the Quran says : Allah does not forbid you respecting those who have not made war against you on account of (your) religion, and have not driven you forth from your homes, that you show them kindness and deal with them justly. Surely Allah loves the doers of justice—60:8Q.

(d) Merits of Jihad. Jihad is one of the chief meritorious acts in the eye of Islam and it is the best source of earnings but it shall be undertaken with the intention of self-defence as said above. If it is purged of that motive, it is devoid of all merits. He who fights for chivalry, heroism, fame or worldly gain has got no merit, and the aggressor is doomed to enternal perdition (23:53,54). Jihad is the best action of a Muslim (23:19). A great reward has been promised for supplying even arms and ammunitions to the warriors—34:555w. There are innumerable traditions relating to the merits of Jihad or of a Gazi. Here are a few traditions. Merit acquired in Jihad is no less than what is earned in praying and fasting—23:1. Fire will not touch a foot which trod the path of Allah—23:8. All the sins of a martyr will be forgiven except debt—23:19,20. Doors of Paradise are under the shades of swords—23:60. Paradise is guaranteed for the martyrs—23:39,40. A coin spent in the way of Allah brings innumerable blessings—23:37. For these rewards, the Holy Prophet wished that he should die several times in holy war and be brought back to life several times for holy war.

(e) Spiritual Jihad. 'The Greatest Jihad' says the Prophet, 'is the fight against the evil passions of oneself'—4:193w, because these are the enemies of soul working secretly to undermine the most vital qualities of a man. The great tussle which ensues in mind between good and evil forces of a man is called the greatest fight. There are two propensities in a man-beastly and angelic. Man is an animal and therefore he has got like other animals the propensities of an animal. He has also got soul, a thing from Allah, and therefore he has also got propensities of good deeds. At the age of discretion one tries to prevail over another. The struggle of soul to gain upper hand over the animal nature in a man is called the greatest fight.

(f) Military organisation of the Holy Prophet was quite contrary to that of the present day. The Romans and the Persians had regular standing army like the present day with fixed salaries, and members of noble and respectable families were commanders and chiefs. In such an organization where conquests were the main objects, corruptions and debauchery were predominant and mercenary motives were great. The Holy Prophet had no such standing army. He trained every man and woman forming a nationl militia whose sole object was to establish the Kingdom of Allah on earth.

These ethics of warfare are a glorious chapter from which modern nations may learn valuable lessons. The reforms which he introduced in his military system are the following :—

(1) The whole army was divided into many units, each unit being under the direct supervision of a chief responsible to the general commander called Ameer.

(2) He had an organised and regular way of providing for the expenses of the army. Every Muslim, rich or poor, had to contribute proportionately to the Baitul-Mal (Public Treasury) for this purpose.

(3) He inculcated strict rules about morality and religious duties among soldiers. Drinking, debauchery, looting and plundering and thousands of other things were prohibited (4:12). Even in actual warfare, prayer had to be performed in the battle-field in the thick of fight.

(4) He created a taste for military life and he directly inspired his men with courage and bravery by himself taking an active part in all their military exercises and parades.

(5) He created in the soldiers a truly national republican spirit, making the humblest realise that they were the part and parcel of the Estate.

(6) He had proper arrangements for the nurse of the sick and the wounded in the battle field.

(7) He used to divide the booties among the soldiers who acquired them.

1. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Whoso believes in Allah and His Prophet, and keeps up prayer and fasts Ramadwan, it becomes the duty of Allah to admit him in Paradise whether he fought in the way of Allah or kept sitting in the land wherein he was born. They asked: Shall we not convey this good news to the people? He said: There are 100 steps in Paradise which Allah prepared for those who fight in the way of Allah. The distance between the two steps is what is between heaven and earth. So when you beg of Allah, beg Him of Ferdous; and verily it is the most extensive Paradise and the highest Paradise, and above it is the Throne of the Merciful wherefrom the rivers of Paradise flow. 999 —Bukhari.

999. Here there is mention of prayer, fasting and belief and not the two other pillars of Islam-pilgrimage and Zakat. The reason is that the latter two are the duties only upon the rich who can afford to pay while the former three are common to all. As all mankind have been addressed here, the two subjects have been omitted. This was uttered on the day of the Conquest of Mecca.

3. Same reported that the Holy Prophet said: Allah responds to one who comes out to fight in His way. Nothing takes him out but faith in Me and attestation to the truth of My Prophets, so that I may send him back with reward he gets or booty, or I may admit him in Paradise. —Agreed.

By Him in whose hand there is my life, how much do I like that I should be martyred in the way of Allah and then be brought back to life, and then be martyred and then be brought back to life, and then be martyred and then be brought back to life, and then be martyred. —Agreed.

They are given provision—the verse.[1002] He said : We enquired of that to the Ms. of Allah. He said : Their souls are in the bellys of green birds. They have lights suspended from the Throne. They stroll in Paradise wherever they like, and then they take shelter to those lights. Their Lord will come suddenly to them and ask : Do you desire anything ? They will say : What thing shall we wish for while we stroll in Paradise wherever we wish ? This He will do with them thrice. When they will see that they will not be let off without their reply. They will say : O Lord ! we wish that Thou shouldst return our souls to our body till we should be martyred in Thy way for another time. When He will see that

19. Abu Qatadah reported that the Ms. of Allah stood among them and narrated to them that Jihad in the way of Allah and belief in Allah are the best of actions. A man stood and asked: O Ms. of Allah! inform me that if I be killed in the way of Allah, my faults will whether be atoned for. The Holy Prophet replied to him: Yes, provided you are killed in the way of Allah, while you are patient, hopeful of reward, advancing forward without retracing back. Then the Prophet asked: How have you said? He enquired: Inform me that if I be killed in the way of Allah, will it atone for my sins? 'Yes', said the Prophet, 'provided you are patient, hopefnl of reward, advancing forward without retracing back except debt, because Gabriel told me that. 1004

1003. The preservation of souls in the bellys of birds is just like preservation of valuable ornaments in iron safe. They are kept out of great attachment in safe custody. So also the souls are preserved for special rewards on the Resurrection Day. These souls will be given provision of spiritual foods supplied by the sight of the Lord in Paradise.

21. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah said: Allah will rejoice with two persons, one of whom kills another, both entering Paradise, one fights in the way of Allah (with another) and is then killed. Then Allah forgives the killer and witnesses his martyrdom. 1005 —Agreed.

عَنْ اَبِيْ هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم يَضْحَكُ اللّٰهُ تَعَالٰى اِلٰى رَجُلَيْنِ يَقْتُلُ اَحَدُهُمَا الْاٰخَرَ يَدْخُلَانِ الْجَنَّةَ يُقَاتِلُ هٰذَا فِيْ سَبِيْلِ اللّٰهِ فَيُقْتَلُ ثُمَّ يَتُوْبُ اللّٰهُ عَلَى الْقَاتِلِ فَيُسْتَشْهَدُ * (مُتَّفَقٌ عَلَيْهِ)

22. Sahl-b-Hunaif reported that the Holy Prophet said: Whoever prays to Allah for martyrdom with sincerity, Allah will take him to the abodes of the martyrs, though he dies upon his bed. 1006 —Muslim.

عَنْ سَهْلِ بْنِ حُنَيْفٍ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُوْلُ اللّٰهِ صلعم مَنْ سَاَلَ اللّٰهَ الشَّهَادَةَ بِصِدْقٍ بَلَّغَهُ اللّٰهُ مَنَازِلَ الشُّهَدَاءِ وَاِنْ مَاتَ عَلٰى فِرَاشِهٖ * (مُسْلِمٌ)

23. Anas reported that Rubayyea-b-Bara'a (and she was the mother of Haresah-b-Solaqah) came to the Holy Prophet and asked: O Prophet of Allah! will you not inform me about Haresah who was killed in the battle of Badr? A strange shot wounded him. If he is in Paradise, I keep patience; and if he is otherwise, I shall exert hard in weeping for

عَنْ اَنَسٍ اَنَّ الرُّبَيِّعَ بِنْتَ الْبَرَاءِ وَهِيَ اُمُّ حَارِثَةَ بْنِ سُرَاقَةَ اَتَتِ النَّبِيَّ صلعم فَقَالَتْ يَا نَبِيَّ اللّٰهِ اَلَا تُحَدِّثُنِيْ عَنْ حَارِثَةَ وَكَانَ قُتِلَ يَوْمَ بَدْرٍ اَصَابَهُ سَهْمٌ غَرْبٌ فَاِنْ كَانَ فِي الْجَنَّةِ صَبَرْتُ وَاِنْ كَانَ غَيْرَ ذٰلِكَ اجْتَهَدْتُ عَلَيْهِ فِي الْبُكَاءِ فَقَالَ

1005. One of the two is a Muslim who fights with an unbeliever and is then martyred The unbeliever again accepts Islam and therefore his past sins are forgiven. He then joines the fight and is martyred. Both will enter Paradise.

1006. This shows that an iron will for martyrdom and seeking opportunitiss therefore carry rewards equal to martyrdom.

him. He said : O mother of Haresah ! there are some gardens in Paradise, and verily your son got the highest Ferdous. —Bukhari.

يَا أُمَّ حَارِثَةَ إِنَّهَا جِنَانٌ فِي الْجَنَّةِ وَإِنَّ ابْنَكِ أَصَابَ الْفِرْدَوْسَ الْأَعْلَى *

(اَلْبُخَارِيُّ)

24. Same reported that the Messenger of Allah and his companions marched on till they came to Badr ahead of the polytheists, and the polytheists also came forward. The Holy Prophet said : Stand towards Paradise whose area is what is between the heavens and earth. Omair-b-Humam exclaimed : Ha ! Ha ! Prophet asked : What has led you to your exclaiming : Ha ! Ha ! He said : Nothing, by Allah, O Messenger of Allah, except the hope that I should be one of its inmates. He said : You are certainly then one of its inmates. He said that he took out some dates from his bucket and began to eat therefrom and then said : If I be alive till I eat my dates, that will be a long life. Then he threw off the dates that remained with him, and then fought with them till he was martyred. 1007 —Muslim.

عَنْهُ قَالَ انْطَلَقَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم وَأَصْحَابُهُ حَتَّى سَبَقُوا الْمُشْرِكِينَ إِلَى بَدْرٍ وَجَاءَ الْمُشْرِكُونَ فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم قُومُوا إِلَى جَنَّةٍ عَرْضُهَا السَّمٰوٰتُ وَالْأَرْضُ قَالَ عُمَيْرُ بْنُ الْحُمَامِ بَخٍ بَخٍ فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم مَا يَحْمِلُكَ عَلَى قَوْلِكَ بَخٍ بَخٍ قَالَ لَا وَاللهِ يَا رَسُولَ اللهِ إِلَّا رَجَاءَ أَنْ أَكُونَ مِنْ أَهْلِهَا قَالَ فَإِنَّكَ مِنْ أَهْلِهَا قَالَ فَأَخْرَجَ تَمَرَاتٍ مِنْ قَرَنِهِ فَجَعَلَ يَأْكُلُ مِنْهُنَّ ثُمَّ قَالَ لَئِنْ أَنَا حَيِيتُ حَتَّى آكُلَ تَمَرَاتِي إِنَّهَا لَحَيٰوةٌ طَوِيلَةٌ قَالَ فَرَمَى بِمَا كَانَ مَعَهُ مِنَ التَّمْرِ ثُمَّ قَاتَلَهُمْ حَتَّى قُتِلَ - (مُسْلِمٌ)

25. Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ

1007. Such was the hold of the Holy Prophet as commander-in-chief of his faithful army, such a hold which none in the world in the past had shown and which none will be able to show in the future. The Muslims are cock-sure in either of the two alternatives : if they are killed, they will enter Paradise, and if they are victorious, they will gain vast wealth and rewards. This was the highest motive with the then Muslims.

asked : Whom do you count as a martyr among you ? They replied : O Messenger of Allah ! whoso is killed in the way of Allah is a martyr. He remarked: Verily the martyrs of my followers are then certainly few. Whoso is killed in the way of Allah is a martyr ; whoso dies in the way of Allah is a martyr, whoso dies of plague is a martyr, and whoso dies of bowel complaints is a martyr. —Muslim.

26. Abdullah-b-Amr reported that the Messenger of Allah said : There is no band or battalion of an army who fight, earn booty and then return safe except that they hasten to two-thirds of their rewards ; and there is no band or battalion of an army who are pierced and wounded except that their rewards become complete. [1008]

27. Abu Hurairah reported that the Massenger of Allah said : Whoso dies without fighting (holy war) and without consulting himself about it dies on a branch of hypocrisy. [1009]

عَنْ عَبْدِ اللهِ بْنِ عَمْرٍو قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم مَا مِنْ غَازِيَةٍ أَوْ سَرِيَّةٍ تَغْزُوا فَتَغْنَمُ وَتَسْلَمُ إِلَّا كَانُوا قَدْ تَعَجَّلُوا ثُلُثَيْ أُجُورِهِمْ وَمَا مِنْ غَازِيَةٍ أَوْ سَرِيَّةٍ تُخْفَقُ وَتُصَابُ إِلَّا تَمَّ أُجُورُهُمْ * (مُسْلِمٌ)

عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ قَالَ قَالَ رَسُولُ اللهِ صلعم مَنْ مَاتَ وَلَمْ يَغْزُ وَلَمْ يُحَدِّثْ بِهِ نَفْسَهُ مَاتَ عَلَى شُعْبَةٍ مِنْ نِفَاقٍ - (مُسْلِمٌ)

1008. This means that those who return with booty and safety without any injury have got already double rewards and will get the remaining 1/3rd reward on the Resurrection Day. On the other hand, these that are either killed or receive injurious wounds without any booty will get their full rewards on the Resurrection Day.

1009. Those who die without Jihad and at least with no intention of Jihad may have resemblance with the hypocrites. The next hadis also shows that merits in fights rest only on pure niyyat.

23. Abu Musa reported that a man came to the Messenger of Allah and enquired: A man fights for booty, a man fights for fame, and a man fights that his position may be known—who then (fights) in the way of Allah? He said: Whoso fights to raise highest thereby the word of Allah, is in the way of Allah. —Agreed.
